1 I. STATEMENT OF THE ISSUE ON APPEAL¹

2 A. WHETHER THE DISTRICT COURT ERRED IN 3 CONCLUDING, BASED UPON THE EVIDENCE 4 PRESENTED, THAT THE LOAN AGREEMENT AND THE 5 PROMISSORY NOTE CONTAIN LANGUAGE WHICH 6 CLEARLY EXPRESSES THE PARTIES' INTENT TO 7 SUBMIT LITIGATION RELATING TO THE AGREEMENT 8 AND THE NOTE TO THE JURISDICTION OF COURTS IN 9 THE STATE OF UTAH?

10 ¹ Approximately half of the Appellant's Opening Brief is dedicated to a 11 complex, fact-intensive statute of limitations/choice of law argument – an 12 issue that has not been raised, briefed, argued, nor decided upon in the 13 underlying action. See Key Bank of Ala. v. Donnels, 106 Nev. 49, 52, 787 14 P.2d 382, 384 (1990) (explaining “[w]e have held that ‘it is well settled that 15 the expressed intention of the parties as to the applicable law in the 16 construction of a contract is controlling if the parties acted in good faith 17 and not to evade the law of the real situs of the contract’”) (emphasis 18 added) (quoting Sievers v. Diversified Mtg. Investors, 95 Nev. 811, 815, 603 19 P.2d 270, 273 (1979)).

20 In this case, the district court expressly declined to rule on this issue, instead 21 leaving it for a Utah court to determine (explaining “[w]hether or not the 22 [Appellant] has a valid claim for a deficiency judgment in the State of Utah, 23 under the laws of the State of Utah, and pursuant to the Loan Agreement and 24 the Promissory Note, is for a Utah court to decide”). Joint Appendix 078 (emphasis added).

Given that this nuanced issue was never properly before the district court, it is not appropriate for Appellant to raise this new issue herein. See Walch v.
State, 112 Nev. 25, 30, 909 P.2d 1184, 1187 (1996) (explaining “if a party fails to raise an issue below, this court need not consider it on appeal”) (citing Montesano v. Donrey Media Group, 99 Nev. 644, 650 n. 5, 668 P.2d 1081, 1085 n. 5 (1983), cert. denied, 466 U.S. 959, 104 S.Ct. 2172 (1984)); see also Diamond Enter., Inc. v. Lau, 113 Nev. 1376, 1378, 951 P.2d 73, 74 (1997) (holding “[i]t is well established that arguments raised for the first time on appeal need not be considered by this court.”) (citing Montesano, 99 Nev. at 650 n. 5, 668 P.2d at 1085 n. 5).

However, in the unlikely event this Court determines it would like to consider this newly-raised issue in the instant appeal, Respondents respectfully request leave to file a supplementary brief of points and authorities on this matter.

1 II. STATEMENT OF THE FACTS AND PROCEDURE

2 A. RELEVANT FACTUAL BACKGROUND

3 1. The Loan And Loan Documents

4 On or about April 11, 2002, America First Federal Credit Union
5 (“America First”) and Respondents entered into a Business Loan Agreement 6 (“Loan Agreement”), whereby America First agreed to lend, and 7 Respondents agreed to borrow, approximately $2,900,000 for use in the 8 purchase of a liquor store/mini mart in Nevada. Joint Appendix (“JA”) 019.

9 On or about the same date, America First and Respondents executed a 10 Commercial Promissory Note (“Note”) and a Trust Deed with Assignment 11 of Rents (“Deed of Trust”) to secure the Note (the Loan Agreement, Note 12 and Deed of Trust are sometimes collectively referred to herein as the “Loan 13 Documents”). Id.

14 2. The Applicable Law And Jurisdiction Selection
15 Clauses Within The Loan Documents

16 The Loan Agreement contains an “Applicable Law” clause which 17 expressly provides:

18 Applicable Law. This Agreement (and all loan documents in 19 connection with this transaction) shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of the State of Utah.

20 JA 031. In addition, the Loan Agreement contains an “Acceptance” clause 21 which specifies that “This Agreement is accepted by Lender in the State of 22 Utah. Id. The Loan Agreement also contains a “Jurisdiction” selection 23 clause which expressly provides:
24

1 Jurisdiction. The parties agree and submit themselves to the 2 jurisdiction of the courts of the State of Utah with regard to the subject matter of this agreement.

3 Id.

4 Similarly, the Note contains a jurisdiction selection clause which 5 expressly provides:

6 If there is a lawsuit, [Respondents] agree[] to submit to the 7 jurisdiction of the court in the county in which Lender is located.”

8 JA 036.

9 America First is located at “4646 South 1500 West, Suite 130, 10 Riverdale, Utah.” JA 002 ¶ 1.

11 The Deed of Trust, however, provides in relevant part:

12 This Trust Deed shall be construed according to the laws of the 13 State of N[evada]. Notwithstanding any provision herein or in 14 said note, the total liability for payments in the nature of interest shall not exceed the limits now imposed by the applicable laws of the State of N[evada].

15 JA 050 ¶ 25.

16 3. The Non-Judicial Foreclosure

17 The Nevada property securing the Note was sold via a non-judicial 18 foreclosure sale on October 4, 2012. JA 004 ¶ 17.

19 B. RELEVANT PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

20 1. The Complaint

21 On April 4, 2013 - exactly six months after the non-judicial 22 foreclosure sale of the property securing the Note - America First filed the 23
24

1 underlying Complaint in Nevada, seeking a deficiency judgment against 2 Respondents under Nevada law. JA 002 – 005.

3 2. The Motion To Dismiss

4 In response to the Complaint filed by America First, Respondents 5 filed a Motion to Dismiss on July 29, 2013. JA 017 – 038. In the Motion to 6 Dismiss, Respondents argued essentially that pursuant to NRCPC 12(b)(1) 7 and 12(h)(3), the district court did not have subject matter jurisdiction over 8 the dispute based upon the forum and jurisdiction selection clauses 9 contained in the relevant Loan Documents. JA 019 – 032.

10 In its Opposition, America First argued that the applicable forum and 11 jurisdiction selection clauses contained in the Loan Documents were merely 12 permissive, not mandatory. JA 042 – 043. Based upon this erroneous 13 argument, America First suggested that the district court should simply 14 ignore the forum and jurisdiction selection clauses contained in the 15 underlying Loan Documents which they drafted, and allow this action to 16 proceed in Nevada. JA 041 – 043.

17 3. The District Court Grants Respondents' Motion To 18 Dismiss

19 Following a hearing on Respondents' Motion to Dismiss, the district 20 court issued an Order on September 6, 2013, granting Respondents' Motion 21 to Dismiss in its entirety. JA 075 – 080. In the September 6, 2013 Order, 22 the district court correctly found and concluded in relevant part:
23
24

1 Although the Trust Deed includes language indicating that 2 Nevada law applies, the Trust Deed is simply security for the Promissory Note.

3 Plaintiff's attempt to obtain a deficiency judgment is an action 4 based upon the Business Loan Agreement and the Commercial Promissory Note, not based on the Trust Deed.

5 ...

6 This Court concludes, based upon the evidence presented, that 7 the Loan Agreement and the Promissory Note contain language 8 which clearly expresses the parties' intent to submit litigation 9 relating to the Agreement and the Note, to the jurisdiction of 10 the State of Utah. This Court finds that while the language of 11 such documents could have more clearly made such forum 12 selection "exclusive," nonetheless, the language clearly enough 13 identifies Utah as the forum which they selected for purposes of 14 subject matter jurisdiction. Because the property which 15 provided security for the loan, was already foreclosed upon, the language contained in the Trust Deed is no longer relevant.
This Court will not attempt to second guess the intent of the parties, or the clear language of the contract, but will instead enforce the contract as written. Whether or not the Plaintiff has a valid claim for a deficiency judgment in the State of Utah, under the laws of the State of Utah, and pursuant to the Loan Agreement and the Promissory Note, is for a Utah court to decide.

16 JA 077 – 078.

17 III. SUMMARY OF THE ARGUMENT

18 The forum selection clauses at issue in this case state in relevant part: 19 "The parties agree and submit themselves to the jurisdiction of the courts of 20 the State of Utah with regard to the subject matter of this agreement," and 21 "If there is a lawsuit, [Respondents] agree[] to submit to the jurisdiction of 22 the court in [Utah]." JA 031, 036. After considering the plain language of 23 these clauses in addition to the arguments made by counsel for the respective 24

1 parties, the district court concluded that “based upon the evidence presented, 2 [] the Loan Agreement and the Promissory Note contain language which 3 clearly expresses the parties’ intent to submit litigation relating to the 4 Agreement and the Note, to the jurisdiction of the State of Utah.” JA 078.
5 The district court further concluded “that while the language of such 6 documents could have more clearly made such forum selection ‘exclusive,’ 7 nonetheless, the language clearly enough identifies Utah as the forum which 8 they selected for purposes of subject matter jurisdiction.” Id.

9 As Respondents will demonstrate herein, this conclusion was not 10 made in error. Rather, this conclusion was entirely appropriate given the 11 plain language of the forum selection clauses in question. On the other 12 hand, even if this forum selection language could be considered ambiguous, 13 the district court’s conclusion was still not in error, as it is universally held 14 that ambiguously-drafted forum selection clauses are to be construed against 15 the drafter - America First. Given the foregoing, in addition to the fact that 16 America First failed to make a showing, or even allege that the enforcement 17 of its forum selection clauses would be unreasonable under the 18 circumstances of this case, this Court must come to the same conclusion as 19 the district court and determine that America First must pursue Respondents 20 in Utah. Allowing America First to maintain this action would allow 21 America First to avoid its contractual obligations - something this Court has 22 repeatedly and expressly refused to allow.

1 IV. STANDARD OF REVIEW

2 “Contract interpretation is subject to a de novo standard of review.”
3 May v. Anderson, 121 Nev. 668, 672, 119 P.3d 1254, 1257 (2005).
4 Similarly, “[s]ubject matter jurisdiction is a question of law subject to de 5 novo review.” Ogawa v. Ogawa, 125 Nev. 660, 667, 221 P.3d 699, 704 6 (2009) (citations omitted). “The district court’s factual findings, however, 7 are given deference and will be upheld if not clearly erroneous and if 8 supported by substantial evidence.” Id. (emphasis added) (citing Int’l Fid.
9 Ins. v. State of Nev., 122 Nev. 39, 42, 126 P.3d 1133, 1134–35 (2006)).

10 V. LEGAL ARGUMENT

11 A. THE DISTRICT COURT CORRECTLY RULED THAT 12 AMERICA FIRST MUST LITIGATE IN UTAH
13 BECAUSE THE FORUM SELECTION CLAUSES
14 CLEARLY EXPRESS THE PARTIES’ INTENT TO 15 LITIGATE THIS DISPUTE IN UTAH OR, AT THE VERY LEAST, ARE AMBIGUOUS AND MUST BE CONSTRUED AGAINST AMERICA FIRST AS THE DRAFTER.

16 The forum selection clauses at issue in this matter are clear on their 17 face: the parties intended to litigate any dispute regarding the Agreement or 18 Note in Utah. As the clauses are subject to contract interpretation – which 19 requires a plain reading – they should be construed and enforced as they 20 were written. However, even if the clauses are deemed ambiguous, they 21 must still be construed against the drafter. Given that America First drafted 22 the underlying Loan Documents, the district court was correct in 23 determining that the parties are required to litigate this dispute in Utah.

1 1. Whether A Forum Selection Clause Is Mandatory Or 2 Permissive Is A Matter Of Contract Interpretation.

3 It is widely held that the issue of whether a forum selection clause is 4 mandatory or permissive is a matter of contract interpretation. Terra Int’l, 5 Inc. v. Mississippi Chem. Corp., 922 F. Supp. 1334, 1370 (N.D. Iowa 1996)
6 aff’d, 119 F.3d 688 (8th Cir. 1997) (citing No. Cal. Dist. Council of Laborers

9 Cir. 1987); Milk ‘N’ More, Inc. v. Beavert, 963 F.2d 1342, 1345 (10th Cir.
10 1992))).

11 In Nevada, the rules governing contract interpretation are well settled.
12 “It has long been the policy in Nevada that absent some countervailing 13 reason, contracts will be construed from the written language and enforced 14 as written.” Ellison v. Cal. State Auto. Ass’n, 106 Nev. 601, 603, 797 P.2d 16 Nev. 564, 568, 763 P.2d 353, 355 (1988) (explaining where a document is 17 clear on its face, the court will construe it according to its plain language));

20 effectuate the intent of the parties, which may be determined in light of the 21 surrounding circumstances if not clear from the contract itself.””)) (quoting

3 enforce their contracts if they are not unconscionable, illegal, or in violation 4 of public policy”) (citing NAD, Inc. v. Dist. Ct., 115 Nev. 71, 77, 976 P.2d 5 994, 997 (1999) (explaining that “parties are free to contract in any lawful 6 matter”). Moreover, this Court has held:

7 It is not a proper function of the court to re-write or distort a 8 contract under the guise of judicial construction. The law will 9 not make a better contract for parties than they themselves 10 have seen fit to enter into, or alter it for the benefit of one 11 party and to the detriment of the other. The judicial function 12 of a court of law is to enforce the contract as it is written.

11 Pioneer Title Ins. & Trust Co. v. Cantrell, 71 Nev. 243, 245-46, 286 P.2d 12 261, 263 (1955) (internal citations omitted) (emphasis added).

13 It is also well settled in Nevada that any ambiguity in the contract 14 will “be construed against the drafter.” Anvui, LLC, 123 Nev. at 215-16, 15 163 P.3d at 407 (emphasis added) (citing Mullis v. Nev. Nat’l Bank, 98 Nev.
16 510, 513, 654 P.2d 533, 535 (1982)). “A contract is ambiguous when it is 17 subject to more than one reasonable interpretation.” Anvui, LLC, 123 Nev.
18 at 215, 163 P.3d at 407 (citing Shelton v. Shelton, 119 Nev. 492, 497, 78 19 P.3d 507, 510 (2003)). An ambiguous contract is also ““an agreement 20 obscure in meaning, through indefiniteness of expression, or having a double 21 meaning.”” Galardi v. Naples Polaris, LLC, 129 Nev. Adv. Op. 33, 301 P.3d

3 Indeed, there can be no dispute that these well settled rules of 4 contractual interpretation hold true when courts interpret forum selection 5 clauses. Specifically with respect to forum selection clauses, it is widely 6 held that “[t]he plain language of the contract should be considered first, 7 with the understanding that the common or normal meaning of the language 8 will be given to the words of a contract unless circumstances show that in a 9 particular case a special meaning should be attached to it.” Gennock v.

23 WL 248916 at *1 (E.D. Pa. May 5, 1998).

1 The Keaty case is one of the seminal cases deciding whether a forum 2 selection clause is ambiguous and how an ambiguous forum selection clause 3 should be interpreted, and is therefore instructive to the instant analysis. In 4 Keaty, the court interpreted a forum selection clause similar to the ones at 5 issue in this case, which stated in pertinent part that “the parties submit to 6 the jurisdiction of the courts of New York.”² Keaty, 503 F.2d at 956. In 7 construing that particular forum selection clause, the court in Keaty 8 explained:

9 We note initially that this is not a situation where the contract, 10 on its face, clearly limits action thereunder to the courts of a 11 specified locale . . . (citations omitted). Neither is this a 12 situation involving an adhesion contract whereby contract 13 provisions are literally forced upon the weaker party . . .
(citations omitted). Instead we are confronted here with a 14 negotiated contract provision subject to opposing, yet 15 reasonable, interpretations.

16 . . . Freeport alleges that the questioned contract provision ‘was 17 intended to evidence the agreement of both parties thereto that 18 the law of the State of New York would govern all disputes 19 arising under the contract and that any such disputes would be 20 litigated only in the State or Federal Courts located within the 21 State of New York.’ On the other side, Keaty acknowledges his 22 intent to have the law of the State of New York govern all 23 contract disputes, but states that he merely intended to submit to 24 the jurisdiction of the New York courts if sued there; he did not intend to waive his right to sue or be sued elsewhere. We find both interpretations of the contract provision to be reasonable.

When previously confronted with two opposing, yet reasonable, interpretations of the same contract provision, this Court

² Similarly, the forum selection provisions in this matter provide in relevant part: “The parties agree and submit themselves to the jurisdiction of the courts of the State of Utah with regard to the subject matter of this agreement,” and “If there is a lawsuit, [Respondents] agree[] to submit to the jurisdiction of the court in [Utah].” JA 031, 036.

1 adopted the traditional rule whereby, ‘an interpretation is 2 preferred which operates more strongly against the party from 3 whom (the words) PROCEED.’ Tenneco, Inc. v. Greater LaFourche Port Comm’n, 5 Cir. 1970, 427 F.2d 1061, 1065, quoting from Restatement of Contracts Sec. 236(d) (1932).

4 Id. at 957 (emphasis added). Thereafter, the court in Keaty applied the 5 foregoing universal rule of contract interpretation - which requires that an 6 ambiguously drafted forum selection clause should be construed against the 7 drafter - and ultimately ruled against the drafter.³ Id.

8 Other courts have reached similar conclusions when interpreting 9 forum selection clauses like the ones at issue in this litigation. See Citro 10 Florida, Inc. v. Citrovale, S.A., 760 F.2d 1231, 1232 (11th Cir. 1985) 11 (holding where “the [forum selection] clause merely states “place of 12 jurisdiction is Sao Paulo/Brazil . . . the clause [is ambiguous and therefore] 13 must be construed against [the drafter] and in favor of [the non-drafter].”);
14 Brigman v. Great Am. Opportunities, Inc., No. CIV.A. 11-00470-KD-B, 15 2012 WL 262394 at *5 (holding that where “[t]he clause in this case 16 provides that the employee ‘consents to the venue and jurisdiction of the 17 courts of competent jurisdiction, state and federal, situated in Nashville, 18 Davidson County, Tennessee.’ [the clause was ambiguous and therefore this] 19 ambiguity in the clause is properly construed against [the drafter]”); First 20 Nat’l. City Bank v. Nanz, Inc., 437 F. Supp. 184, 187 (S.D.N.Y. 1975)

21 _____
22 ³ Unlike in this case, the party in Keaty who was seeking to have the forum 23 selection clause interpreted as permissive rather than mandatory did not 24 draft the contract, so the court in Keaty ultimately held the ambiguous clause to be permissive, rather than mandatory. Keaty, 503 F.2d at 957.

1 (holding that where the forum selection clause stated that “the Supreme 2 Court of the State of New York, within any county of the City of New York 3 shall have jurisdiction of any dispute” between plaintiff . . . and defendants,” 4 the forum selection clause was “susceptible to the interpretation that the 5 New York State Supreme Court could have jurisdiction of disputes under the 6 loan agreement, but that other forums may also be appropriate [. . . we 7 construe such an ambiguity against [the drafter, bank]” (emphasis added));
8 Global Satellite Commc’n Co. v. Starmill U.K. Ltd., 378 F.3d 1269, 1274
9 (11th Cir. 2004) (finding “the phrase ‘submit to the jurisdiction of Broward 10 County, Florida,’ to be vague and imprecise,” and therefore construing the 11 clause against the drafter); Caldas & Sons, Inc. v. Willingham, 17 F.3d 123, 12 127 (5th Cir. 1994) (where the forum selection clause stated “[t]he laws and 13 courts of Zurich are applicable,” the court found the clause ambiguous, and 14 therefore construed the language against the drafter); Garcia Granados 15 Quinones v. Swiss Bank Corp. (Overseas), S.A., 509 So. 2d 273, 275 (Fla.
16 1987) (holding that “when a contract [choice-of-forum] provision is subject 17 to opposing, yet reasonable interpretations, an interpretation is preferred 18 which operates more strongly against the party from whom the words 19 proceeded”).

20 In this case, the forum selection clauses state in relevant part: “The 21 parties agree and submit themselves to the jurisdiction of the courts of the 22 State of Utah with regard to the subject matter of this agreement,” and “If 23

1 there is a lawsuit, [Respondents] agree[] to submit to the jurisdiction of the 2 court in [Utah].” JA 031, 036.

3 Respondents agree with the district court in that the forum selection 4 clauses at issue herein “clearly express[] the parties’ intent to submit 5 litigation relating to the Agreement and the Note, to the jurisdiction of the 6 State of Utah.” JA 078. Furthermore, “while the language of such 7 documents could have more clearly made such forum selection “exclusive,”
8 nonetheless, the language clearly enough identifies Utah as the forum which 9 they selected for purposes of subject matter jurisdiction.” Id.

10 Even looking beyond the forum selection clauses, additional evidence 11 demonstrates that the parties in general, and America First in particular, 12 intended litigation to be within the sole jurisdiction of Utah, as the Loan 13 Agreement specifies that “[t]his Agreement is accepted by Lender in the 14 State of Utah.” JA 031. Accordingly, under a plain language contract 15 interpretation, the district court’s determination was correct, and this 16 analysis should end here. See Utah Pizza Serv., Inc., 784 F. Supp. at 837

5 However, even if the language is not found to be clear, at the very 6 least the forum selection clauses are ambiguous and therefore should be 7 construed against America First as the drafter. For example, in this case, 8 just as in Keaty, Respondents are arguing that the forum selection clauses 9 within the Loan Documents were intended to evidence the agreement of both 10 parties that any dispute between them would be litigated only in Utah. See 11 Keaty, 503 F.2d at 957. America First, on the other hand, is arguing that the 12 forum selection clauses were only included in the Loan Documents so that 13 Respondents would submit to the jurisdiction of Utah courts only if America 14 First decided to sue there.⁴ Id.; see October 13, 2014 Opening Brief at p. 26.
15 In these situations, courts have repeatedly found the forum selection clauses 16 to be “subject to opposing, yet reasonable interpretations,” which would 17 require the ambiguous clauses to be construed against America First as 18 the drafter. See Keaty, 503 F.2d at 956; Citro Florida, Inc., 760 F.2d at 21 ⁴ Note that this is the first time America First has made this argument.

22 Accordingly, this argument need not be considered by the Court on appeal.
23 See Diamond Enter., Inc., 113 Nev. at 1378, 951 P.2d at 74 (holding “[i]t is 8 No. CIV.A. 98-302, 1998 WL 248916 at *1.

9 It is also important to note that generally, it is the drafter who seeks to 10 enforce the forum selection clause as mandatory, while the non-drafting 11 party seeks to have the forum selection clause enforced as permissive. As a 12 result, although some of the authority cited herein, and virtually all of that 13 cited by America First in its Opening Brief finds the various forum selection 14 clauses they analyze to be permissive, rather than mandatory, this does not 15 change the fact that all of this authority uniformly holds in favor of the 16 non-drafting party when the forum selection clause is held to be 17 ambiguous - the same position held by Respondents in this case.

18 For example, in Zapata Marine Serv. v. O/Y Finnlines, Ltd., 571 F.2d 19 208, 209 (5th Cir. 1978), the drafter of a forum selection clause attempted to 20 misconstrue the Keaty court's ultimate decision to support the argument that 21 the wording of an ambiguous forum selection clause was permissive, rather 22 than mandatory, as America First has argued in its Opening Brief. Id. The 23 Zapata court refused to allow this tortured interpretation of Keaty, however, 24

1 noting that the drafter “argues that this case is controlled by Keaty v.
2 Freeport Indonesia, Inc., 503 F.2d 955 (5th Cir. 1974), which held that a 3 clause directing that the parties ‘must submit to the jurisdiction of the court 4 of New York’ was not a mandatory forum selection clause.” Id. Clarifying 5 the holding from Keaty, the Zapata court explained, “Keaty, however, 6 teaches another principle which is equally forceful as a rule of 7 interpretation that when a contract provision is subject to opposing, yet 8 reasonable interpretation, an interpretation is preferred which operates 9 more strongly against the party from whom the words proceeded.” Id.
10 (citing Keaty, 503 F.2d at 957) (emphasis added).

11 In sum, there is no dispute that America First drafted the Loan 12 Documents in question. As the drafter, America First could have left the 13 applicable jurisdiction selection clauses out of the Loan Documents 14 completely, or it could have identified and inserted Nevada, or any other 15 state[s] it wanted. However, when it drafted these Loan Documents, 16 America First deliberately and specifically chose to state that the agreement 17 was entered into in the state of Utah, to only identify Utah as the state which 18 would have subject matter over this dispute, and to identify Utah as the state 19 in which any lawsuit between the parties would be brought. JA 031, 036.
20 There is simply no legitimate dispute that this is what the parties bargained 21 for and agreed to. For all these reasons, Respondents respectfully request 22 this Court deny the underlying Appeal in its entirety.

1 B. AMERICA FIRST FAILED TO OPPOSE THE GENERAL
2 RULE THAT FORUM SELECTION CLAUSES ARE 3 PRIMA FACIE VALID AND SHOULD BE ENFORCED
 AS WRITTEN ABSENT A SHOWING OF UNREASONABLENESS.

4 Furthermore, the general rule according to both the United States
5 Supreme Court and this Court is that, with respect to forum selection 6 clauses, “such clauses are prima facie valid and should be enforced unless 7 enforcement is shown by the resisting party to be ‘unreasonable’ under the 8 circumstances.” M/S Bremen v. Zapata Off-Shore Co., 407 U.S. 1, 10, 92 S.

20 471 U.S. 462, 472 n. 14 (1985)). In other words, “[a] party is obligated to 21 abide by its contractual duties, and litigate in the agreed-upon forum.” Utah 22 Pizza Serv., Inc., 784 F. Supp. at 837. Moreover, in Tuxedo Int’l, this Court 23 specifically held that forum selection clauses should not be “rendered 24

1 meaningless by allowing parties to disingenuously back out of their 2 contractual obligations through attempts at artful pleading.” Tuxedo Int’l 3 Inc., 127 Nev. Adv. Op. 2, 251 P.3d at 693 (emphasis added).

4 In this case, America First has not shown or even alleged that the 5 Loan Documents were unconscionable, illegal or in violation of public 6 policy. Furthermore, America First has not shown or even alleged that the 7 Loan Documents were not freely negotiated, unreasonable or unjust. As a 8 result, the Court should not and cannot allow the express, deliberate forum 9 selection language contained within the Loan Documents to be ignored and 10 rendered meaningless by America. Indeed, America First’s 11 mischaracterization of the applicable jurisdiction selection clauses contained 12 in the Loan Documents (which it drafted) as merely permissive, represents 13 an impermissible and disingenuous attempt to avoid its contractual 14 obligations under the Loan Documents, something this Court has expressly 15 refused to allow. See Tuxedo Int’l Inc., 127 Nev. Adv. Op. 2, 251 P.3d at 16 693; see also M/S Bremen, 407 U.S. at 10, 92 S. Ct. at 1913. For these 17 additional reasons, Respondents respectfully request this Court deny the 18 underlying Appeal in its entirety.
