STATEMENT OF THE CASE

A. Introduction

This case is a workers compensation case. Appellant is William Poremba, an injured worker and Respondent is S&C Claims Services, an insurer, on behalf of Southern Nevada Paving, an employer. In this case Poremba also received third-party compensation from a work related accident. Poremba's workers compensation claim is closed and his third-party funds have been exhausted. Poremba exhausted his funds on both medical and living expenses. Poremba's medical condition related to his work-accident has worsened and has been confirmed by his doctors. Poremba has lifetime reopening rights and is trying to reopen his workers compensation claim. However, Poremba's attempts to reopen his workers compensation claim pursuant to NRS 613C.390 have been denied based on what he believes to be incorrect reading and application of case law abrogating statutory provisions.

B. Course of Proceedings

Appellant Poremba suffered injuries at work from an accident caused by a third-party on July 22, 2005. (Appellant Appendix, hereinafter "APP" at p. 22). A workers compensation claim was accepted for these injuries. (APP p.

1 37). Additional to opening a workers compensation claim, a lawsuit was filed
2 against the third-party. (APP p. 62). Thereafter, Poremba's workers
3 compensation claim was closed. (APP p. 60) And Poremba subsequently settled
4 his claims with the third-party. (APP p. 152).

6 On November 3, 2010 Poremba sought to reopen his workers
7 compensation claim but reopening was ultimately denied by summary
8 judgment. (APP 124-132). More than a year later Poremba again sought to 9 reopen his workers compensation claim bypassing the hearing officer by 10 stipulation. (APP p. 1-3) Respondent then filed a motion for summary judgment
11 (APP p. 6) which was denied by the Appeals Officer, Shirley D. Lindsey, Esq.,
12 (APP p. 191). A motion for summary judgment was not re-raised at any point
13 after. Poremba further supported his request to reopen his workers
14 compensation with a new doctor's letter conforming to NRS 616C.390. (APP
15 227). A hearing on the matter was heard on January 29, 2014. (APP p. 300-
16 360). And then on February 25, 2014 Officer Lindsey retroactively granted
17 Respondent's motion for summary judgment. (APP p. 298). Officer Lindsey did 18 not provide any statements of fact or conclusions of law.

19
20 On March 25, 2014 Poremba petitioned the District Court for judicial 21 review. (APP p. 362-367). And after briefs were filed with the District Court,
22 Poremba requested a hearing. (426-427). However, the District Court's decision
23
25
26
27
28

1 was made in chambers, the attorneys for the parties were not present, no oral
2 arguments were made, and no transcript was made.(APP p. 430-433).

5 STATEMENT OF THE ISSUES

6 The nature of the action includes statutory interpretation<sup>1</sup> of Nevada workers
7 compensation laws to answer the following issues:

- 10 1. Whether a decision by an appeals officer to retroactively grant an already 11 dismissed motion for summary judgment without being re-raised fails to 12 meet the notice requirements of NRS 233B.121 making the decision
13 procedurally improper. And whether a final order by an appeals officer 14 granting summary judgment without any written findings of fact or 15 conclusions of law makes the order procedurally deficient.
  - 16 2. As a matter of law can a failure to exhaust third party settlement funds be 17 used to preclude reopening a workers compensation claim when the worker
18 has met the statutory requirements to reopen his claim pursuant to NRS
19 613C.390, or does it merely allow withholding or offsets?
    - 20 a. And if so, as a matter of law must a claimant exhaust third party 21 settlement funds solely on medical costs before he can reopen his 22 workers compensation claim, or may the funds be exhausted on 23 other needs?
24

26 _____
27 <sup>1</sup> Beyond interpreting NRS 613C.390, this appeal will involve interpretation of 28 case law, Employers Ins. Co. of Nevada v. Chandler, 23 P.3d 255 (Nev. 2001), and its relationship to NRS 613C.390.

III.

STATEMENT OF THE FACTS

This case stems from a motor vehicle accident that occurred on July 22, 2005. (APP p. 22). At the time of the accident, Appellant, William Poremba, was working for Southern Nevada Paving and driving a tractor trailer dump truck. Id. On the same day an employee of Pratte Development Company was driving a backhoe near the same jobsite. Id. As Poremba was driving his truck on a paved road in a neighborhood that was under development, the Pratte backhoe ran a stop sign hitting the driver's side of Poremba's truck. Id.

Originally, Poremba made a worker's compensation claim for injuries to his neck, back, and left knee. Id. The workers compensation claim was accepted for these body parts, but was closed in January 2006. (APP p. 37 and 60). However, before closure of the workers compensation claim, it was made known that Poremba would need knee surgery in the future. (APP p. 57).

Additional to opening a workers compensation claim, a lawsuit was filed against Pratte Development Company and Poremba also sustained costs for medical treatment outside the workers compensation network for the same injuries. (APP p. 152). The lawsuit settled on July 30, 2009 for $63,500 and the medical bills contemplated as part of the settlement totaled $77,064.30. Id. Poremba personally ended up netting $34,631.51 after final distributions were

1 made. (APP p. 183).

2 Since the settlement, Poremba has had continuous medical treatment for 3 his work related injuries in this case. (APP p. 351). Since receiving the 4 settlement, Poremba has spent approximately $14,000.00 for medical 5 insurance payments, prescriptions, and co-pays in medical expenses for 6 injuries relating to his accident (APP p. 183). The medical bills incurred have 7 exceeded the total net he received of $34,631.51 and Poremba currently has 8 approximately over $20,000 in unpaid medical bills. Id.

9 Since the accident, Poremba has not been able to work due to the 10 injuries he suffered in the subject accident. Id. He tried to go back to work but 11 had to quit due to pain in his cervical spine and was told by his doctor not to 12 go back to work. Id. And since his settlement, Poremba has averaged an 13 income of slightly more than $5,000. Id. However, Poremba's costs of living
14 have far exceeded his meager income and drained his finances, including 15 exhausting his settlement money in less than a year. Id.

16 On November 3, 2010 Poremba sought to reopen his workers
17 compensation claim supported by a letter from Sudir Khemka MD but 18 reopening was denied. (APP p. 64 and 124-132). Mr. Poremba then waited 19 over a year and again sought reopening his workers compensation claim but 20 the Respondent denied the request for reopening, so, Poremba appealed and

1 stipulated with Respondent to bypass the hearing officer. (APP p. 1-3).
2 Respondent then filed a motion for summary judgment which was denied by 3 the Appeals Officer, Shirley D. Lindsey, Esq., (APP p. 6). A motion for 4 summary judgment was not re-raised at any point after. After the Respondent's
5 motion for summary judgment was denied both the Respondent and Appellant
6 filed appeal memorandums. (APP p. 193-200 and 217-223). Appellant in his 7 appeal memorandum further supported his request to reopen his workers
8 compensation with a second doctor's, Dr. Jeremy Lipshutz, recommendation
9 that Poremba's workers compensation claim be reopened. (APP p. 217).
10
12

13 Dr. Lipshutz' letter (APP p. 217) stated the following about Poremba:
14

- 15 1. "His pain has worsened over the last two years;"
- 16 2. "He will need new cervical, thoracic and lumbar imaging to 17 determine the extent of his physical incapacity as well as...nerve
18 conduction study with electromyography;"
- 19 3. "Cervical and lumbar medial branch blocks are warranted at this time 20 as well as initiation of physical therapy 3x weekly for 12 weeks;"
- 21 4. "These new symptoms are directly attributable to his 2005 work 22 injury;"
- 23 5. "William Poremba who has been a patient for several years
24 following an accident which occurred at his workplace...resulting in 25 neck, left leg/knee and low back pain...[h]is pain has worsened...and 26 has not been addressed;" and
- 27 6. "Mr. Poremba is currently unable to work in any capacity."

STANDARD OF REVIEW

An administrative appeals officer's factual findings are reviewed for clear error or an arbitrary abuse of discretion and will only be overturned if those findings are not supported by substantial evidence. See Elizondo v. Hood Mach., Inc., 312 P.3d 479, 482, (Nev. 2013) (internal citations omitted). Substantial evidence exists where a reasonable person can find adequate evidence in the record to support the appeals officer's decision. Id. The reviewing court's examination is limited to the record that was before the appeals officer, meaning the weight of the evidence going to questions of fact will not be disturbed by the reviewing court's judgment. See Manwill v. Clark County, 123 Nev. 28, 162 P.3d 876, 879 (Nev. 207). However, the reviewing court does independently review purely legal determinations made by the appeals officer. Id. Statutory construction is a question of law which invites independent appellate review of an administrative decision, SITS v. Bokehnan, 113 Nev. 1116, 946 P.2d 179 (1997), and is reviewed de novo, Construction Indus. v. Chalue, 119 Nev. 348, 74 P.3d 595 (2003). When a statute is clear and unambiguous, the plain and ordinary meaning of the words is given effect. Cromer v. Wilson, 126 Nev. 225 P.3d 788, 790 (2010). And statutory provisions are read as a whole, with effect given to each word and phrase. Arguello v. Sunset Station, Inc., 127 Nev. 252 P.3d 206, 209 (2011).

1 Where there is no ambiguity, a resort to other sources, such as legislative history, in 2 ascertaining that statute's meaning is improper. See Cromer at 790. Although a
3 court's duty is to interpret statutory language it may not abrogate the legislatures
4 function by expand or modifying the statutory language. Washoe Med. Ctr., Inc. v.
5 Reliance Ins. Co., 112 Nev. 494, 498, 915 P.2d 288, 290 (1996); see also Williams v.
6 United Parcel Servs., 129 Nev., 302 P.3d 1144, 1147 (2013) (refusing to deviate
7 from the plain meaning of a statute and rejecting arguments that would require
8 reading additional language into a statute).

12 V.

13 ARGUMENT

14 Introduction

15 On-the-job injuries not only cost workers the need for medical treatment but 16 also the wages that they need for the costs of daily living. That is why Nevada's
17 workers compensation laws not only provide injured workers access to medical care 18 but also accommodates for lost wages—wages that are used for mortgages, food, and 19 bills. This lost wage compensation due to work injury is a benefit afforded under 20 Nevada's workers compensation statutes (injured employees unable to work for at 21 least five consecutive days or five cumulative days within a 20 day period may be 22 entitled to monthly compensation for lost wages). See, NRS 616C.400; NRS
23 616C.440(1)(a); and NRS 616C.490(7). If a medical provider's report indicates that 24
26
27
28

1 an employee cannot work because of a covered work injury then the employee may
2 receive disability payments, see, NRS 616C.490, and/or reopen a claim to receive 3 additional medical care and/or disability payments, see, NRS 616C.390. To 4 determine the extent of the disability for compensation purposes a rating physician
5 must evaluate the injured worker. See, NRS 616C.475(5); and NRS 616C.490(2).
7 The benefit of lost wage compensation shows that Nevada workers compensation
8 laws provide a benefit to pay for living expenses after being injured and not just 9 merely having access to medical care, both are important.
10

12 A. The Appeals Officer's Order granting the Respondent's summary
13 judgment was procedurally improper when no motion for summary
14 judgment was pending and fails to meet the requirements of NRS
15 233B.125 by not offering findings of fact and conclusions of law.

16 In response to the Respondent's motion for summary judgment submitted
17 March 26, 2013 the Appeals Officer issued an order on April 17, 2013 denying 18 summary judgment. A motion for summary judgment was never raised again.
19 However on February 25, 2014, after considering the briefing of both parties and 20 conducting a scheduled hearing regarding the Appellant's contested claim, the 21 Appeals Officer apparently took it upon herself to resurrect the Respondent's already 22 denied motion and retroactively granted summary judgment in favor of the 23 Respondent. The order granting Respondent's motion for summary judgment lacked 24 any findings of fact and conclusions of law. The order simply states, "[a]fter careful
25
26
27
28

1 review and consideration of the Insurer's Motion for the summary Judgment and 2 good cause appearing, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the Insurer's Motion for 3 Summary Judgment is Granted." (APP p. 298).

5 It was procedurally improper for the Appeals Officer to revive the 6 Respondent's judgment without any request to do so and particularly without notice
7 to the Appellant. Moreover, by failing to provide the bases for denying the Appellant
8 the right to reopen his workers compensation claim, the Appeals Officer committed 9 an error of law warranting the set aside of the issued order.
10

12 The Nevada Administrative Procedure Act establishes minimum procedural
13 requirements for adjudications with the Department of Administration's Hearing
14 Division. NRS 233B.020. Within the Act the legislature requires notice of the nature 15 of the hearing. NRS 233B.121 ("In a contested case, all parties must be afforded an 16 opportunity for hearing after reasonable notice...The notice must include: A 17 statement of the time, place and nature of the hearing") (emphasis added).
18

20 In this case, Appellant was not on notice that the attended hearing on January
21 29, 2014 was to decide a motion for summary judgment. The Respondent's motion
22 for summary judgment had already been denied. Had Appellant known the hearing 23 was supposed to be one to hear oral arguments regarding summary judgment he 24 might have fashioned his argument differently. Because Appellant was not on notice
25 of the nature of the hearing being one for summary judgment it was procedurally
26
27
28

1 improper and unfairly detrimental to the Appellant for the Appeals Officer to dispose
2 of the contested claim by granting an already dismissed motion for summary
3 judgment.

5         Furthermore, additional requirements concerning the procedural deficiencies
6 of the Appeals Officer's decision and order can be found in NRS 233B.125, which 7 states that a final decision must be in writing and include findings of fact and 8 conclusions of law, separately stated. And these findings must be accompanied by a 9 concise and explicit statement of the underlying facts supporting the findings. Id.
10 Importantly, not only do factual findings help ensure that the appeals officer engages 11 in reasoned decision making, but they also facilitate judicial review. Dickinson v. Am.
12 Med. Response, 124 Nev. 460, 469, 186 P.3d 878, 884 (2008).

16         Here, none of these requirements were met by the final decision by the 17 Appeals Officer when she dismissed the Appellant's appeal. As a consequence, 18 because the Appeals Officer's Order is deficient, it precludes this Court from 19 conducting an adequate review on appeal and prevents a determination of whether 20 Appellant's substantial rights were violated.
21

23         B. Appellant has exhausted his third party settlement funds as required by 24 statutory interpretation of NRS 616C.215(2)(a) and analyzed in 25 Employers Ins. Co. of Nevada v. Chandler.

26         Although the Appeals Officer did not provide reasoning via findings of facts
27 and conclusions of law to support her decision of granting the Respondent's motion 28

1 for summary judgment it must be assumed that the decision was based on the
2 Respondent's arguments outlined in its motion for summary judgment. In its motion
3 for summary judgment Respondent argued that the case of Employers Ins. Co. of 4 Nevada v. Chandler, 23 P.3d 255 (Nev. 2001) ("EICON") supports the proposition
5 that a claimant must exhaust third party settlement funds solely on medical care and 6 treatment before the insurer is responsible for reopening the case. (APP p. 9-10).
7 However, Appellant responded to this argument in his appeals memorandum (APP p.
8 219-222) and at the January 29, 2014 hearing (APP p. 300-360).

11
12 The interpretation of the holding in EICON raised by Respondent is a legal 13 question and Appellant does not accept the Respondents interpretation. Appellant
14 believes the Respondent is reading limitations into the term "compensation" that do
15 not exist. EICON is case law interpreting the term "compensation" in workers
16 compensation statutes—particularly NRS 616C.215(2)(a)—to include medical 17 benefits. EICON v. Chandler; see also Valdez v. Employers Ins. Co. of Nevada, 162
18 P.3d 148, 123 Nev. 21 (Nev. 2007). The definition provided to the term 19 "compensation" in 20

23 EICON broadened the term—not limited it—to include medical benefits, i.e., the 24 addition of medical benefits to the term "compensation" was not all inclusive. See 25 generally, EICON. Meaning the ten-n "compensation" can be achieved in a variety of 26 permissible ways that do not necessarily include medical benefits—but can.
27
28

1 Furthermore, EICON only indicates that claimant would have to exhaust any
2 third-party settlement proceeds, but it does not direct how or when. See, id at 258. So,
4 the argument that Poremba has to show that he spent all his third-party settlement
5 solely on medical treatment after he got it, reads solitary requirements into the statute
6 and case law that do not exist. Poremba need only show that his settlement funds
8 have indeed been exhausted—as they have been.

10 1. EICON is narrower than Respondent has argued it to be; did not
11 abrogate injured workers statutory rights to reopen their workers 12 compensation claim; is distinguishable from this case; and allows for 13 exhaustion of third party funds on items other than medical expenses.

14 Beyond Appellant’s argument regarding the interpretation of EICON,
15 Appellant believes a careful reading of EICON also shows that Respondents
16 interpretation of the case law is at odds with the mandatory language found in NRS
17 616C.390 by trying to add an element of exhaustion to the statutory reopening
18 requirements. EICON is not a case that abrogated the reopening statute or any 19 workers compensation statute but merely defined what the term “compensation” in 20 those statutes included. Simply, EICON did not remove the term “shall” from NRS
21 616C.390, which means Poremba, when he fulfilled the requirements of NRS
22 616C.390, was entitled to reopening his workers compensation claim and 23 Respondent was mandated to allow it.
24
26
27
28

1           Moreover, this case is distinguishable from EICON. In EICON, the injured
2 worker still had their third party funds available to them (not exhausted). While here
3 in this case Poremba no longer has third party funds available to him (exhausted). In 4 comparing the two cases there is a direct opposing distinction (not exhausted vs.
5 exhausted). Meaning the fact patterns are fundamentally different and alters how 6 EICON applies to the Appellant, so, how EICON is applied to Appellant's fact
7 pattern must be different than Respondent argues for. Related, EICON did not 8 provide analysis or dicta regarding situations when third party funds are exhausted or 9 how it affects other benefits like lost wages.
10
12

13           In connection to the argument in the previous sentence, NRS 616A.090
14 defines "compensation" to include "accident benefits," benefits which includes lost
15 wages by the injured employee. NRS 616C.400; 616C.440(1)(a); and NRS
16 616C.490(7). So it is entirely possible to interpret EICON as follows: "We conclude 17 that an insurer is entitled to withhold payment of [benefits] for a work-related injury 18 until an employee has exhausted any third-party settlement proceeds because the 19 plain meaning of the term "compensation" in NRS 616C.215 includes [lost wages]," 20
22 see generally EICON at 258; NRS 616C.400; 616C.440(1)(a); and NRS
23 616C.490(7). And because lost wages can be used for other items other than medical 24 costs, such as, mortgages or food, it would be entirely permissible to exhaust third
25
26
27
28

1 party funds on these other items; items that would have been paid for using lost wage
2 compensation paid out by Respondent to Appellant.

4 2. Arguments to deny statutory reopening, rather than for the 5 withholding of payment found in EICON or reimbursement found in 6 NRS 616C.215, based on these citations are erroneous.

7 Respondents argue for the denial of reopening Appellant's claim. And in 8 Respondent's argument it cites to EICON, NRS 616C.215, and non-authoritative
9 case law. (E.g. APP p. 402-408 (Respondents Answering Brief to Petition for 10 Review)). However, in EICON the holding only "entitled to withhold payment of 11 medical benefits for a work-related injury until an employee has exhausted any third-
12 party settlement proceeds, not denial of reopening. EICON at 258 (emphasis added)
13 (noting there is no phrase "solely on medical treatment" qualifying the word 14 "exhausted").
15
16
17

18 Next, in NRS 616C.215 we find the following (emphasis added):

19 (1)(a) The injured employee, or in case of death the dependents of the 20 employee, may take proceedings against that person to recover damages, but 21 the amount of the compensation the injured employee or the dependents of the 22 employee are entitled to receive pursuant to the provisions of chapters 616A to 23 616D, inclusive, or chapter 617 of NRS, including any future compensation,
24 must be reduced by the amount of the damages recovered, notwithstanding 25 any act or omission of the employer or a person in the same employ which was 26 a direct or proximate cause of the employee's injury.

27 This statutory provision does not exclude injured workers from reopening, it 28 merely requires any compensation provided to the injured worker through the

1 workers compensation statute to be reduced, not denied—or even withheld. It also
2 accounts for reductions to be applied to future compensation. For example, here,
4 Appellant received around $34,000 from third party settlement funds (this is not 5 considering the $14,000 spent on medical treatment by Appellant with these 6 proceeds). And if we applied these numbers to possible future compensation 7 (determined by statutory calculations based upon a physician’s rating when 8 reopened) that say for example totals $60,000, then Respondent would be allowed to 9 reduce the $60,000 “compensation” owed to Appellant by $34,000 and merely pays
10 out $26,000; leaving Appellant to ultimately receive his compensation of $60,000
11 while Respondent only pays $26,000 of it. Meaning, Appellant does not take a 12 double recovery and Respondent pays less than it would have. If anything, based on 13 future reduction, Appellants third party recovery saved Respondent from paying out a 14 larger compensation under the workers compensation statutes had Appellant not 15 opted to seek liability from a third party. In other words based on future reduction 16 provided for in NRS 616C.215, Respondent, no matter the outcome, will always have 17 a savings of at least $34,000 and Appellant will never take a double recovery.
18
20
21

23           Lastly, Respondent’s citations to non-authoritative case law from other states
24 throughout this matter show more the principal or idea of reduction similar to NRS
25 616.215 and generally not the argument of denying reopening a workers
26 compensation claim.
27
28

1           C. Appellant has met the elements of reopening his claim pursuant to NRS
2           613C390, which statutorily requires reopening.

3           Appellant has further argued in response to Respondent's reasoning of denying
4 reopening his workers compensation claim that he has the medical evidence required
5 to reopen his claim. However, Respondent has attempted to use the "exhaustion"
6 argument (supra) to preclude the Appellant from reopening his workers
7 compensation claim. (APP p. 353 ("he has to expend it on money that would 8 otherwise have been spent on his workers compensation case before he can ask for 9 re-opening"). However, the relevant statute governing reopening a workers
10 compensation claim is NRS 616C.390 which states if a work injury or industrial 11 disease condition changes, the worker may request that the workers' compensation
12 insurer reopen the claim for further medical treatment and benefits.
13
15
16

17           In this case, the Appellant has presented two letters from two different doctors
18 which together (and one individually) meet the reopening requirements of NRS
19 616C.390. (APP p. 225 and 227). Both of the doctor's letters together clearly meet the 20 elements (the Appellant having provided analysis of each element outlined in his 21 appeals memorandum (APP p. 219-220)) of NRS 616C.390 which states the insurer
22 shall reopen a claim if the elements are met.
23

25           What Appellant is arguing is that his statutory right under NRS 616C.390
26 cannot be defeated by the application of Respondent's "exhaustion" interpretation
27
28

1 from the EICON case. EICON is not the standard of reopening. It is the workers'
2 compensation statutes that control the awarding or denial of benefits. Elizondo v.
3 Hood Mach., Inc., 312 P.3d 479, 483. A similar preclusion argument by an insurer
4 was discussed in Elizondo v. Hood Mach., Inc. (attempting to use res judicata to 5 prevent the statutory right of reopening), however, this Court rejected this argument
6 because the proper analysis is whether there is a change of circumstances. Id at 484
7 citing to Jerry's Nugget v. Keith, 111 Nev. 49, 888 P.2d 921,(Nev. 1995).
10

11 Admittedly, this Court in EICON does provide a scenario in which an insurer 12 may withhold payment of medical benefits until an employee has exhausted any 13 third-party settlement proceeds. EICON at 258. But this is still under the assumption
14 of the facts of the EICON case where the claimant still tacitly had remaining
15 settlement funds. See generally, id at 257. In this case, Appellant has no third-party
16 settlement funds remaining. Moreover, in the scenario provided in EICON the insurer
17 is only entitled to withhold payment of medical benefits not deny claim reopening.
18
20 See generally id.
21

22 Simply the standard for reopening a claim is a statutory one generally found in 23 NRS 616C.390, which mandates reopening if its elements are met, as the Appellant
24 has done. And if Respondent believes that the statute must include more 25 requirements to limit an employee's ability to reopen a claim after receiving third-
26 party funds, this effort should be taken up with the Legislature. See Williams v.
27
28

1 United Parcel Servs., 129 Nev., 302 P.3d 1144, 1147 (2013) (refusing to deviate
2 from the plain meaning of a statute and rejecting arguments that would require
3 reading additional language into a statute).

5 1. Appellant does have new medical reporting which meets all the 6 elements of reopening outlined in the statute.

7 For Appellant to reopen his claim, he must show that there has been a change
8 of circumstances warranting an increase or rearrangement of compensation and that 9 the primary cause of the change in circumstances is the original industrial injury.
10 NRS 616C.390(1) (providing the requirements for claim reopening). Appellant must 11 show, by providing a physician's certificate, that there has been a change of 12 circumstances warranting an increase or rearrangement of compensation, and that the 13 primary cause of the change in circumstances is the original industrial injury. NRS
14 616C.390(1).
15
16
17

18 Here, Appellant has through two physicians shown a change of circumstances
19 warranting reopening his workers compensation claim. First, in this case, Respondent
20 was first notified of competent medical evidence showing a change in Mr. Poremba's
21 condition when first presented with Dr. Khanka's Letter. (APP p. 225). Dr. Khanka's 22 Letter asked the Insurer to reopen Mr. Poremba's claim ("we are asking on behalf of 23 Mr. Poremba that you review his case for reopening) based on a showing of 24 increased pain and a worsening condition of Mr. Poremba's work related injuries
25
26
27
28

1 found by comparing prior MRI's to new ("But new MRI's show that...the patient's
2 pain has progressed...has worsened since the last MRI"). Dr. Khanka's Letter also
3 identified specific changes to Mr. Poremba's injuries (e.g., "his MRI's then
4 stated...that his Thoracic spine had no bulging or herniation at any level...[b]ut new
5 MRI's show that...patient has disc dehydration and bulging with foraminal
6 stenosis"). It is naturally inferred that when a condition which requires treatment
7 worsens treatment is still needed, i.e., there is a need for treatment. It is also inferred
8 by a request from a claimant's medical provider to reopen his workers compensation 9 claim based on his condition changing and worsening, when comparing new medical 10 evidence to prior, that there is a direct relationship between the work injury and the 11 worsened condition and it is the primary cause for the need to reopen the claim.

12
14
15
16 However, there should be no mistaken belief that Appellant is relying solely 17 on Dr. Khanka's 2010 report/letter and that there is no new medical reporting to 18 support Appellant's request for reopening. Appellant clearly has additional medical 19 reporting to satisfy the statutory elements of reopening a workers compensation
20 claim. Appellant has pointed and cited and relied on a second doctor's report/letter
21 from Dr. Jeremy Lipshutz from Monos Health Institute. (APP p. 227). And Dr.
22 Lipshutz' doctor's report/letter dated January 21, 2014 by itself is enough to meet the 23 minimum statutory reopening requirements of NRS 616C.390, which outlines the 24 following elements (emphasis added):
25
26
27
28

1 1. If an application to reopen a claim to increase or rearrange compensation
2 is made in writing more than 1 year after the date on which the claim was 3 closed, the insurer shall reopen the claim if:

4 (a) A change of circumstances warrants an increase or rearrangement of 5 compensation during the life of the claimant;

6 (b) The primary cause of the change of circumstances is the injury for which 7 the claim was originally made; and

8 (c) The application is accompanied by the certificate of a physician or a 9 chiropractor showing a change of circumstances which would warrant an 10 increase or rearrangement of compensation.

11 Here, when we compare Dr. Lipshutz report/letter we can see that this year a 12 doctor did provide new medical reporting establishing all the elements for reopening
13 , outlined below (Dr. Lipshutz direct quotes followed in parentheses):
14

- 15 1. Appellant's condition has changed since claim closure ("His pain has 16 worsened over the last two years").
- 17 2. Appellant needs treatment ("He will need new cervical, thoracic and 18 lumbar imaging to determine the extent of his physical incapacity as 19 well as...nerve conduction study with electromyography").
- 20 3. A description of the treatment ("Cervical and lumbar medial branch 21 blocks are warranted at this time as well as initiation of physical 22 therapy 3x weekly for 12 weeks").
- 23 4. That there is a direct relationship Appellant's worsened condition at 24 the time he asked for reopening and his original injury ("These new 25 symptoms are directly attributable to his 2005 work injury").
- 26 5. Appellant's work injury is the primary cause for his need to reopen
27 his claim ("William Poremba who has been a patient for several years
28 following an accident which occurred at his workplace...resulting in neck, left leg/knee and low back pain...[h]is pain has worsened...and has not been addressed").

1 reopening his claim pursuant to NRS 613C390, which statutorily requires reopening
2 by presenting new medical reporting showing a worsening in his medical picture
3 related to his work-place accident. Therefore, Appellant should be allowed to reopen
4 his workers compensation claim.

7 Wherefore, Appellant prays this Court grant Appellant's appeal to the 8 Supreme Court and reverse the Appeals Officer's decision of February 25, 2014
9 which affirmed the Respondent's denial of reopening Appellant's workers
10 compensation claim.
