1 Pursuant to NRAP 40, Plaintiff respectfully petitions this Court for a rehearing
2 of its December 29, 2016 Opinion (hereafter “Opinion”).

4 I. Basis for Petition for Rehearing

5 NRAP 40(c) provides:

6 (c) Scope of Application; When Rehearing Considered.

- 7 . . .
- 8 (2) The court may consider rehearings in the following circumstances:
9 (A) When the court has overlooked or misapprehended a material
10 fact in the record or a material question of law in the case, or 11 (B) When the court has overlooked, misapplied or failed to 12 consider a statute, procedural rule, regulation or decision directly controlling a dispositive issue in the case.

13 NRAP 40(c)(2).

14 A. This Court Overlooked and Misapprehended Material Facts in the 15 Record and Material Questions of Law in the Case

- 16
17 1. This Court misapprehended or overlooked the basis for the 18 default judgment

19 In the Opinion, this Court stated the following:

- 20 ● “But here, the Estate’s counsel seized on that abandonment as an 21 opportunity to create a false record and present that record to the district
22 court as the basis for judgment.” (Opinion, pp. 7-8.)
- 23 ● “[W]e hold that counsel may not rely on the deemed admission of a 24 known false fact to achieve a favorable ruling.” (Opinion, p. 8.)
- 25
26 ● “However, despite clear indication that the accident occurred on open 27 range, the Estate’s counsel propounded his request for admissions in 28 2007, sought partial summary judgment in 2008, and applied for default judgment in 2010, all based on the false premise that the accident did

1 not occur in open range. Thus, the district court did not abuse its 2 discretion in finding that the Estate’s counsel knew or should have 3 known that the accident occurred on open range when he used the 4 deemed admission to the contrary to secure a judgment for the Estate.”
(Opinion, pp. 9-10 (emphasis added).)

5 ● “[T]he Estate’s counsel’s duty of candor required him to refrain from 6 relying on opposing counsel’s default admission that the accident did 7 not occur on open range, when he knew or should have known that it
8 was false, and that the district court did not abuse its discretion in 9 finding the Estate’s counsel committed fraud upon the court when he 10 failed to fulfill his duties as an officer of the court with candor.”
(Opinion, p. 10.)

11 These conclusions are incorrect and demonstrate that the Court
12 misapprehended or overlooked the legal basis for the default judgment.
13

14 The default judgment was entered after the district court struck Defendant’s 15 Answer and Counterclaim as a discovery sanction for Defendant’s refusal to 16 participate in discovery and/or abide by orders of the district court. Plaintiff sent 17 various discovery to Defendant, which Defendant never answered. (AA I, 0043-60.)
18 Plaintiff’s counsel sought repeatedly to elicit responses to the discovery Plaintiff had 19 sent.¹ (AA I, 0077, 80-81.) As a result of Defendant’s failure to participate in the 20 litigation and failure to abide by court orders, Plaintiff sought to strike Defendant’s 21 Answer and Counterclaim. That Motion to Strike was denied initially, although 22 Defendant was ordered – pursuant to NRCP 16.1, 26, 33, 34, and 37 – to provide 23
25

26
27 ¹ Plaintiff set forth the extensive procedural history in detail in the Opening
28 Brief. (Appellant’s Opening Brief, pp. 6-22.)

1 certain documents and was sanctioned. (AA I, 0147-148.) Defendant was 2 specifically advised that additional sanctions would be granted if Defendant did not
3 comply with the district court's order. (AA I, 0148.)

5 Despite this admonishment, Defendant continued to fail and refuse to answer
6 discovery or abide by court orders. On November 4, 2009, the district court ordered 7 that Defendant's Answer and Counterclaim be stricken and default be entered against 8 Defendant.² (AA I, 0165-170.) That order makes it clear that default was being 9 entered as a discovery sanction, pursuant to NRC 26, 34, and 37, and because "the 10 normal adversary process has been halted" due to Defendant's refusal to answer
11 discovery – not because partial summary judgment based on Defendant's admissions
12 had already been entered. (AA I, 0169, ls. 8-21.) The district court said "Defendant
13 has been given ample opportunity to comply with the Court's Orders, and striking 14 Defendant's Answer and Counterclaim is appropriate under the circumstances." (AA
15 I, 0170, ls. 3-4.)
16
17
18

19 On February 4, 2010, the district court entered default against Defendant, 20 stating:
21

22 Defendant and her counsel have not participated in this matter in good 23 faith and both have been found in contempt of Court. Based on the 24 Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law, on November 4, 2009, it was 25 ordered that Defendant's Answer and Counterclaim be stricken and the 26 Court Clerk enter a Default against Defendant Susan Fallini. Default is

27 ² Defendant's counsel appeared at the hearing on September 28, 2009, 28 which was held in Chambers, and did not present any facts contrary to what had been presented to the district court. (AA I, 0165-166.)

1 so entered. (AA I, 0174-175.)

2 Notice of Entry of Default was served on February 8, 2010. (AA I, 0171-172.)

4 Several additional discovery/contempt motions followed. Eventually, on June 5 2, 2010, the district court set forth five pages of Findings of Fact related to 6 Defendant's discovery abuses and refusal to participate in the litigation.³ (AA I,
7 0195-199.) Among those Findings was the following:

9 Again in contravention of the Court's orders, Defendant and her counsel 10 have failed and refused to provide the information they have been 11 ordered to provide. Defendant's counsel's utter refusal to abide by the 12 Court's orders has stalled and frustrated the litigation process. (AA I, 0098, par. 17.)

13 The Conclusions of Law refer to NRCPC 26, 34, and 37. Those Conclusions provide, 14 in pertinent part:
15

16 5. The Nevada Supreme Court held that default judgments
17 will be upheld where "the normal adversary process has been halted due 18 to an unresponsive party, because diligent parties are entitled to be 19 protected against interminable delay and uncertainty as to their legal rights."

20 6. Defendant has provided no responses whatsoever, nor has 21 Defendant objected to any request. Defendant has failed on at least four 22 occasions to comply with this Court's Order. At no time has Defendant 23 or her counsel given any excuse or justification for their failure and refusal to abide by the Court's orders.

24 7. Defendant has been given ample opportunity to comply 25 with the Court's Orders. Defendant has halted the litigation process and

26
27 ³ Defendant's attorney appeared at the hearing on May 24, 2010, but did not 28 present facts contrary to what had been presented to the district court. (AA I, 0194-195.)

1 the additional sanctions of $5,000.00 immediately and $500.00 per day
2 beginning June 1, 2010, if Defendant does not comply with the Court's 3 prior orders, are appropriate under the circumstances.

4 (AA I, 0200 (case citations omitted).)

5 The district court imposed additional monetary sanctions. (AA I, 0201.)

7 Then, in June 2010, Plaintiff filed her Application for Default Judgment. The 8 entirety of the liability portion of that brief is as follows: "Pursuant to NRCP 55, the 9 Court should enter a default judgment against Defendant." (AA I, 0211.) The 10 remainder of the brief dealt with the calculation of damages. In its Order After 11 Hearing, the district court stated that it denied Defendant's Motion for 12 Reconsideration and proceeded with the prove up "[a]fter hearing arguments from 13 both sides regarding the Defendant's violation of procedural rules." (AA II, 0338 14 (emphasis added).) Thus, this Court has misapprehended the legal basis for the 15 default judgment. The record refutes the four conclusions listed above, and Plaintiff's
16 Petition for Rehearing should be granted.
17

- 19
20 2. This Court misapprehended or overlooked the facts of this case 21 and misapplied the law of the cases cited in the Opinion to the 22 facts of this case

23 The Court stated that counsel violates his duty of candor when he "(1) proffers
24 a material fact that he knew or should have known to be false. . . and (2) relies upon 25 the admitted false fact to achieve a favorable ruling." (Opinion, p. 9.) The Court
26 cites Sierra Glass & Mirror v. Viking Indus., Inc., 107 Nev. 119, 125-26, 808 P.2d 27 512, 516 (1991) and Seleme v. JP Morgan Chase Bank, 982 N.E.2d 299, 310-11 (Ind.
28

1 Ct. App. 2012) in support of the first prong of this test. (Opinion, p. 8.) But the facts
2 of Sierra Glass are easily distinguishable from the facts in this case. In Sierra Glass, 3 the attorney omitted from trial portions of a deposition that the attorney knew were 4 relevant to a key issue in the case and misstated the omitted testimony in the appellate 5 brief – and then failed to correct the record when opposing counsel pointed out the 6 misstatement. 107 Nev. at 126.

9 The Court cites Seleme v. JP Morgan Chase Bank, 982 N.E.2d 299, 310-11
10 (Ind. Ct. App. 2012) for the proposition that counsel cannot make an alleged 11 misrepresentation “with respect to a material fact which would change the trial court’s 12 judgment.” (Opinion, p. 9.) In both Sierra Glass and Seleme, the omission and/or 13 misrepresentation left the court unaware of the omitted facts. That is not what 14 happened here. To the contrary, as explained above, the default judgment was not 15 based on the unanswered admissions. But even if it was, the district court was made 16 aware that the admissions had gone unanswered (i.e., they were admissions by 17 default, not affirmative representations by Plaintiff) (AA I, 0015), and then Defendant 18 was permitted to testify to provide evidence contrary to the admissions, and even 19 convinced the district court to take judicial notice that the incident happened in open
20 range. (AA II, 0274-295, 0322.) The district court then took three weeks to ponder 21 the testimony and state of the record before entering default judgment against 22 Defendant. (AA II, 0338-340.) These cases cited by the Court actually support
23 Plaintiff’s position, not Defendant’s fraud assertions.
26
27
28

1 Regarding the second prong, this Court has also misapplied the law to the facts
2 of this case. This Court cites Kupferman v. Consol. Research & Mfg. Corp., 459 F2d
3 1072, 1078-79 (2nd Cir. 1972), for the proposition that “pursuing case with known 4 complete defense could be fraudulent, where defense was unknown to the court, or,
5 apparently, unknown to the defending parties.” (Opinion, p. 9 (emphasis added).)

7 That did not occur in this case. As set forth above, and in Appellant’s Opening
8 Brief, the alleged affirmative defense was set forth in its entirety in Defendant’s
9 Answer and Counterclaim (AA I, 0008-09)⁴, which was later stricken as a discovery
10 sanction. The allegedly false fact was fully litigated before the district court in 11 written pleadings and through live testimony – and the district court took judicial 12 notice that the incident occurred in open range, which was the opposite of the default
13 admissions. (AA I, 0332.) The alleged affirmative defense was well known to both 14 Defendant and the district court.
15
17

18 The Court also cited Conlon v. United States, 474 F.3d 616, 622 (9th Cir. 2007), 19 in support of the second prong. However, the facts related to the admissions in 20 Conlon are similar to the facts in this case and actually support Plaintiff’s position.
21 Conlon focuses on whether the district court properly denied Conlon’s motion to 22 withdraw his admissions – something that still has never happened in this case.
23 Nevertheless, in Conlon, approximately two months before the discovery cut off, the
25

26
27 ⁴In the Order granting Partial Summary Judgment as to duty and breach, the 28 district court affirmed it has “reviewed all the pleadings and papers on file herein,” and that no opposition had been filed. (AA I, 0026-28.)

1 government sent requests for admission to Conlon. 474 F.3d at 620. Those requests
2 included key admissions that were central to Conlon’s case. Id. at 619-20. Conlon
3 did not answer the requests. A few days after the deadline to respond passed, the 4 government attorneys contacted Conlon and then followed up with a letter advising
5 him that the matters in the requests were deemed admitted. Id. at 620. Then, three 6 days before the dispositive motion deadline, the government filed a motion for 7 summary judgment that the district court recognized “turn[ed] on admissions made
8 by plaintiff during discovery.” Id. at 621. Moreover, the admissions were contrary 9 to a prior finding of a different federal district court order that had determined the 10 government “did not have jurisdiction to issue the warrant” against Conlon (although 11 the order stopped short of concluding the government acted negligently.) Id. at 626.
12
14

15 The court reiterated the longstanding law that “[u]nanswered requests for 16 admissions may be properly relied on as the basis for granting summary judgment.”
17 Id. at 621. The Conlon court found that the district court’s denial of Conlon’s motion 18 to withdraw admissions, and the subsequent granting of summary judgment, was not 19 clearly erroneous. Id. at 624.
20

22 While this Court’s quotations from Conlon are accurate, when Conlon is 23 viewed in its entirety and in light of the facts of this case, Conlon actually supports 24 the findings of this Court on the first appeal (assuming this Court still believes the 25 default judgment was based on the admissions).
26

27 Even if the Court still believes the admissions were the basis for the default
28

1 judgment, the Court has misapplied the case law it cited to the facts of this case, and 2 the Opinion should be withdrawn.

4 3. The Court misapplied the law in Footnote 4

5 In Footnote 4 on page 10, the Court dismissed Plaintiff's argument that the 6 district court was not deceived because it took judicial notice of the fact that the 7 accident had occurred on open range because, four years after the district court took 8 judicial notice, "the district court later clarified that it did not know that 'open range'
9 had a significant legal consequence, much less that it gave Fallini a total defense to 10 liability." (Opinion, p. 10, Footnote 4.)

12
13 Despite her refusal to respond to discovery throughout the case, prior to entry 14 of default judgment, Defendant retained new counsel. In Defendant's Opposition to 15 Application for Default Judgment, Defendant provided several hearsay documents, 16 including a letter and unsigned affidavits, asserting that the incident took place on 17 "open range." (AA II, 0285-295.) Defendant's Opposition noted that "Plaintiff's
18 Counsel has accurately described the procedural history of this case beginning at page 19 3 of his motion, and continuing through page 7."⁵ (AA II, 0267.) Defendant then 20 asserted that the admissions were inaccurate, and that the incident occurred in open 21 range. (AA II, 0277.) After acknowledging that Defendant's prior counsel failed to 22
23
24

25
26 ⁵ On page 3 of Plaintiff's Application for Default Judgment, Plaintiff stated:
27 "Pursuant to Requests for Admission that Defendant never answered, Defendant 28 admitted the following. . ." and then Plaintiff listed the requests that were never answered. (AA II, 206.)

1 respond to requests for admission or the motion for partial summary judgment,
2 Defendant stated the following:

4 The Court had no choice but to grant the motion for summary judgment,
5 even though the factual premise therefore is patently untrue. Had 6 defendants been properly represented, the Court may well have taken
7 judicial notice that the area in question in this case was open range.
8 Instead, the Court was forced to accept a false factual premise due to 9 Kuehn's failures." (AA II, 0278 (bold emphasis in original, underlining 10 added).)

11 Defendant went on to argue the district court's granting partial summary
12 judgment was clearly erroneous and resulted in manifest injustice. (AA II, 278-279.)

13 At the hearing, Defendant raised a comparative fault defense. When Plaintiff's
14 counsel questioned how Defendant could raise an affirmative defense (as the Answer 15 had been stricken), the district court stated: "You should be aware that out here in the 16 rurals, cows run on highways." (AA II, 0298-299.) The district court then allowed 17 Defendant to testify that the stretch of highway where the incident occurred was open 18 range. (AA II, 0322.) Over Plaintiff counsel's objection, the district court took 19 judicial notice of the location of the incident, stating "I know that it is" in open range.
20 (AA II, 0322.)

22 The district court is permitted to take judicial notice of a fact not subject to 23 reasonable dispute:

24
25 NRS 47.130 Matters of fact.

- 26 1. The facts subject to judicial notice are facts in issue or facts from 27 which they may be inferred.
28 2. A judicially noticed fact must be:

1 (a) Generally known within the territorial jurisdiction of the trial
2 court; or

3 (b) Capable of accurate and ready determination by resort to sources
4 whose accuracy cannot reasonably be questioned,
5 ➔ so that the fact is not subject to reasonable dispute.

6 As the Nevada Supreme Court has noted previously:

7 The theory of taking judicial notice of a fact . . . is that it is a judicial 8 short cut, a doing away, in the case of evidence, with the formal 9 necessity for evidence because there is no real necessity for it. . . . What 10 is known need not be proved. . . . “Judicial notice takes the place of 11 proof, and is of equal force. As a means of establishing facts, it is 12 therefore superior to evidence. In its appropriate field, it displaces 13 evidence, since, as it stands for proof, it fulfills the object which 14 evidence is designed to fulfill, and makes evidence unnecessary.”
15 Judicial notice has been applied to a wide range of subjects from the 16 facts of ordinary life to the arts, sciences and professions, confined only 17 to those things which any well informed person would be presumed to 18 know.

19 Lemel v. Smith, 64 Nev. 545, 566, 187 P.2d 169, 179 (1947) (citations omitted and 20 emphasis added).

21 The record clearly indicates that the district court knew what it meant to take 22 judicial notice, and the district court knew the state of the evidence. The district court 23 clearly stated that it knew the incident occurred in “open range” – a proposition that 24 is exactly the opposite of the admissions. The district court then took approximately 25 three weeks to consider the matter, review the file, and make the decision on the 26 default judgment. (AA II, 0296, 0338.)

27 Respectfully, even if the district court did not understand what it was doing 28

1 when it took judicial notice of the apparently widely known fact, the district court had
2 a duty to know the law related to judicial notice.

4 Rule 2.5. Competence, Diligence, and Cooperation.

5 (A) A judge shall perform judicial and administrative duties
6 competently and diligently.

7 (B) A judge shall cooperate with other judges and court officials in 8 the administration of court business.

9 COMMENT

10 [1] Competence in the performance of judicial duties requires the 11 legal knowledge, skill, thoroughness, and preparation reasonably
12 necessary to perform a judge's responsibilities of judicial office.

13 [2] A judge should seek the necessary docket time, court staff, 14 expertise, and resources to discharge all adjudicative and administrative 15 responsibilities.

16

17 Nevada Code of Judicial Conduct 2.5.

18 The district court was required to review the Answer it struck and to know the 19 legal consequences of doing so, and it did. (AA I 0026-28, 0086-0148; II 0339.) A 20 judge who had been on the bench for more than a decade in Nye County had an 21 affirmative duty to know what open range is and how the law applied to this case. As 22 Defendant stated to this Court in the first appeal, ". . . the fact that the area where the 23 cow was struck was open range was and is common knowledge in Nye County. . . ."

24 (AA III, 0568.) In the first appeal, Defendant claimed that the district court violated
25 its obligations to Defendant in light of "what it knew to be the true facts in the case."
26 (AA IV, 0753.) Long before its claims of fraud against Plaintiff's counsel, Defendant

27
28

1 repeatedly acknowledged that the district court knew the facts about where the
2 incident occurred but claimed the district court should have ruled differently. (AA
3 II, 0346; III, 0511; IV 0784-785.)

5 Finally, the district court took judicial notice back in 2010. It was not until the 6 hearing in August 2014 – more than 4 years later – that the district court first asserted
7 it did not understand the law on open range.

9 B. The Court overlooked, misapplied, and failed to consider its prior 10 decision in this matter and the decision in a separately filed fraud
11 case

12 1. The Court has overlooked what it addressed in the first appeal

13 This Court acknowledged but overlooked its prior affirmation of the district
14 court’s entry of default judgment. On page 3 of the Opinion, the Court acknowledged 15 the prior proceedings: “The district court denied reconsideration and, after striking 16 Fallini’s answer, entered a default judgment for the Estate, which we affirmed in 17 substance but remanded with respect to the district court’s award of damages.”
18 (Opinion, p. 3 (emphasis added)). But later, on page 6 of the Opinion, this Court 19 stated: “Neither Fallini’s motion for reconsideration nor the district court’s denial of 20 that motion addressed fraud upon the court; therefore, we likewise did not consider 21 or resolve any fraud issues. As this issue was not previously litigated or decided, the 22 district court properly addressed the merits of Fallini’s NRCF 60(b) motion.”
23 (Opinion, p. 6.)
24
25
26
27
28

In the first appeal, Defendant raised – for the first time – the allegation that

1 Plaintiff's counsel had violated Nevada Rules of Professional Conduct 3.1, 3.3, and 2 8.4 by submitting requests for admission that he allegedly knew or should have 3 known were false (i.e., the same conduct Plaintiff now claims was fraud), and that the 4 district court had violated the Code of Judicial Conduct. (AA IV, 0654-0676.) While 5 not called fraud at that point, this is the same alleged misconduct that Defendant later
6 called fraud. Although the district court specifically took judicial notice of the 7 location of the incident, Defendant argued that Plaintiff's counsel had "allow[ed]
8 misrepresentations to stand perpetrating misconduct of his own." (AA IV, 0667.)
9 Defendant also asserted that the district court had "failed to uphold the 'integrity of 10 the tribunal.'" (AA IV, 0668.)
11
12
13

14 Nothing has changed since the first appeal. The factual allegations of alleged 15 misconduct by Plaintiff's counsel are identical allegations of alleged misconduct.
16 This Court exercised its discretion to address the issues raised by Defendant for the 17 first time on appeal, and did so in the first appeal. See Nichols v. Western Union Tel.

23 This Court cited Dictor v. Creative Mgmt. Servs., LLC, 126 Nev. 41, 44, 223
24 P.3d 332, 334 (2010) in support of the proposition that for issue preclusion to apply, 25 "the appellate court [must] actually address and decide the issue [raised] explicitly or 26 by necessary implication." (Opinion, p. 6.) This Court cited Five Star Capital Corp.
27
28

1 v. Ruby, 124 Nev. 1048, 1055, 194 P.3d 709, 713 (2008) to point out that among the 2 four factors required for issue preclusion to apply, “the issue decided in the prior
3 litigation must be identical to the issue presented in the current action.” (Opinion, p.
4 6.) In seeking to clarify this factor, Plaintiff directs the Court to this quote in Five 5 Star: “[I]ssue preclusion may apply ‘even though the causes of action are 6 substantially different, if the same fact issue is presented.” Five Star, 124 Nev. at 7 1053 (quoting FaForge v. State, University System, 116 Nev. 415, 997 P.2d 130
8 (2000) (emphasis added)).

11 Although this Court appears to have mistakenly concluded that the liability
12 basis of the default judgment was based on Defendant’s failure to respond to requests 13 for admission, this Court addressed the propriety of sending the requests for 14 admission, the effect of Defendant not answering them, and whether the admissions
15 were even relevant. This Court noted that “[Defendant] was deemed to have admitted
16 that the accident did not occur on open range, which rendered her affirmative defense
17 under NRS 568.360(1) inapplicable.” (AA IV, 0732.) This Court found two grounds
18 upon which to uphold the judgment in the first appeal: (1) NRCP 36 and related case
19 law, due to Defendant’s failure to respond to the requests for admission, and (2) DCR
20 13 and related case law, due to Defendant’s failure to oppose the motion for partial 21 summary judgment. (AA IV, 733-734.) More specifically, this Court stated:

26 Fallini argues that the district court erred in denying her motion 27 for reconsideration because the partial summary judgment was based on 28 false factual premises regarding whether the accident occurred on open range. We disagree. (AA IV, 0733-0735 (emphasis added).)

1 After setting forth the law regarding the use of requests for admission, the 2 Court continued:

4 Here, Fallini's argument is unpersuasive because she has not
5 raised a new issue of fact or law. The question of whether the accident
6 occurred on open range was expressly disputed in Fallini's answer, but 7 she subsequently failed to challenge this issue through Adams' requests
8 for admissions. . . . Moreover, the fact that these admissions may 9 ultimately be untrue is irrelevant. Smith, 109 Nev. at 742, 856 P.2d
10 at 1390. Finally, the district court had discretion to treat Fallini's failure 11 to file an opposition to partial summary judgment as "an admission that 12 the motion [was] meritorious and a consent to granting the motion."
13 King v. Cartlidge, 121 Nev. 926, 927, 124 P.3d 1161, 1162 (2005)
14 (citing D.C.R. 13(3)).

15 Thus, the district court did not err in refusing to reconsider its 16 prior orders.

17 (AA IV, 0733-0735 (emphasis added).)

18 Plaintiff respectfully submits that this Court has misapprehended or overlooked
19 that Defendant has already raised these factual allegations in this case, and this Court 20 has already decided them in Plaintiff's favor – including the factual basis for the 21 alleged fraud.⁶ Consequently, this Petition for Rehearing should be granted and the

22 ⁶ Defendant has never sought relief pursuant to an exception to the law of 23 the case doctrine. Although a court may revisit a prior ruling when (1) subsequent 24 proceedings produce substantially new or different evidence, (2) there has been an 25 intervening change in controlling law, or (3) the prior decision was clearly 26 erroneous and would result in manifest injustice if enforced, see Tien Fu Hsu v.
27 County of Clark, 123 Nev. 625, 630, 173 P.3d 724, 729 (2007), Defendant did not 28 seek relief and has not asserted facts to support this Court setting aside its prior order on this basis. Defendant has submitted no new facts, there has been no intervening change in controlling law (although the Court has sought to change

1 December 29, 2016 Opinion should be withdrawn.

2 2. The Court overlooked or misapprehended that the parties litigated
3 the issue of fraud in a collateral proceeding

4 In the Opinion, this Court stated: “Neither Fallini’s motion for reconsideration
5 nor the district court’s denial of that motion addressed fraud upon the court; therefore 6 we likewise did not consider or resolve any fraud issues. As this issue was not 7 previously litigated or decided, the district court properly addressed the merits of 8 Fallini’s NRCPP 60(b) motion.” (Opinion, p. 6.) Plaintiff incorporates Section B(1)
9 above, but this Court also appears to have misapprehended or overlooked the fact that 10 Defendant has already asserted fraud based on the same facts in a separate collateral 11 proceeding against Plaintiff’s counsel (and the district court). That Complaint was 12 dismissed. (AA II, 0346-0355; VI, 1119-1122.) Because Defendant brought a 13 separate suit and lost, she cannot later allege fraud in this case. Murphy v. Murphy, 14 103 Nev. 185, 734 P.2d 738 (1987) (NRCPP 60(b) allows but does not require that a 15 party file a separate action to assert fraud) (citing Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. V.
16 H.K. Porter Co., 521 F.2d 699 (6th Cir. 1975) (party may not pursue relief based on 17 alleged fraud under FRCP 60(b) simultaneously with filing a separate action for the 18 same relief based on the same allegations of fraud). This was raised in Plaintiff’s controlling Nevada law with the December 29, 2016 Opinion), and Defendant has not asserted facts or law regarding manifest injustice in this appeal (although Defendant has raised that issue previously) (AA III, 0568).
19 Opening Brief at pp. 11, 27-29.

1 II. CONCLUSION

2 Plaintiff respectfully requests rehearing of this matter and withdrawal of the 3 Opinion, that this Court overturn the August 6, 2014 Order granting Defendant's
4 Motion for Relief from Judgment and all subsequent orders of the district court, 5 including the dismissal entered on April 17, 2015, and that this Court reinstate the 6 judgment entered on April 28, 2014, which came after the Order Affirming in Part
7 and Remanding. (AA IV, 0732-738.)
