1 I. JURISDICTIONAL STATEMENT

2 The Court has jurisdiction pursuant to NRS 38.247(1)(e), “An appeal
3 may be taken from: An order vacating an award without directing a 4 rehearing;” and pursuant to NRS 38.247(2), “An appeal under this 5 section must be taken as from an order or a judgment in a civil action.” NRS
6 38.247(1)(e) and (2). As such, the Order of the District Court is an appealable 7 final order.

8 The Order of the District Court was filed on November 10, 2015. (JA 9 0832-0842) Respondent/Petitioners filed the Notice of Entry of Order on 10 November 12, 2015. (JA 0843-0857) The Notice of Appeal was filed on 11 December 11, 2015, within the 30 days from written notice of entry of 12 judgment as set forth in NRAP 4(a). (JA 0858-0860)

13 II. ROUTING STATEMENT

14 Appellant believes this matter is not presumptively retained by the 15 Supreme Court or assigned to the Court of Appeals under NRAP 17. The 16 Supreme Court does retain “[a]ppeals from orders denying motions to compel 17 arbitration” pursuant to NRAP 17(a)(1); however, NRAP 17 does not 18 specifically mention appeals from motions to vacate arbitration awards.

1 Appellant believes this matter should be retained by the Supreme Court to 2 uphold strong public policy.

3 The District Court Judge went beyond his very limited authority in 4 reviewing the arbitration award and reviewed the matter in a more plenary or 5 de novo manner and Respondents/Petitioners failed to meet their high burden 6 to prove their motion to vacate by clear and convincing evidence. These two 7 errors by the District Court, if allowed to go uncorrected, will erode the 8 strong public policy favoring arbitration in the State of Nevada. “Strong 9 public policy favors arbitration because arbitration generally avoids the 10 higher costs and longer time periods associated with traditional litigation.”
11 D.R. Horton, Inc. v. Green, 120 Nev. 549, 553, 96 P.3d 1159, 1162 (2004).

12 “The scope of judicial review of an arbitration award is limited and is 13 nothing like the scope of an appellate court’s review of a trial court’s 14 decision. The party seeking to attack the validity of an arbitration award has 15 the burden of proving, by clear and convincing evidence, the statutory or 16 common-law ground relied upon for challenging the award.” Health Plan of 17 Nevada, Inc. v. Rainbow Med., LLC., 120 Nev. 689, 695, 100 P.3d 172, 176 18 (2004).

1 If the order of the lower court order goes uncorrected, the losing parties
2 in future arbitrations will be encouraged to bring petitions to vacate 3 arbitration awards because the high thresholds of limited review and proof 4 by clear and convincing evidence will be eroded and the courts and litigants 5 will not be able to avoid higher costs and longer time periods associated with 6 traditional litigation.

7 III. STATEMENT OF THE ISSUES

- 8 1. Arbitrator Cohn did not exceed his powers pursuant to NRS 9 38.241(d) by finding that in the totality of the circumstances Ms.
10 White's dishonesty constituted 'just cause' for dismissal. Arbitrator 11 Cohn considered and interpreted the collective bargaining 12 agreement language regarding the general tenets of progressive 13 discipline.
- 14 2. The lower court exceeded its authority in reviewing the issue of 15 whether Arbitrator Cohn exceeded his powers pursuant to NRS 16 38.241(d) because the court substituted its own interpretation of the 17 collective bargaining agreement language rather than conducting a 18 very limited review of whether Arbitrator Cohn was is arguably 19 construing or applying the contract.

- 1 3. Arbitrator Cohn did not manifestly disregarded the law by 2 acknowledging the existence of NRS 391.3116 in his Opinion and 3 Award because, in spite of the fact that the Parties never presented 4 any argument that NRS 391.3116 was applicable in their 5 arbitrations, Arbitrator Cohn found the law and considered it.
- 6 4. The lower court exceeded its extremely limited reviewing authority
7 regarding the issue of whether Arbitrator Cohn manifestly 8 disregarded the law because the lower court looked at how 9 Arbitrator Cohn interpreted and applied the law, not whether he 10 consciously ignored or missed the law.
- 11 5. The Arbitration Opinion and Award is not arbitrary and capricious 12 because there is substantial evidence in the record to support 13 Arbitrator Cohn's finding of dishonesty.
- 14 6. The lower court exceeded its limited review of whether the 15 Arbitration Opinion and Award was arbitrary and capricious 16 because the lower court substituted its own judgment of the facts 17 for that of the arbitrator's, rather than reviewing whether there was 18 substantial evidence on the record for the arbitrator's findings.

1 IV. STATEMENT OF THE CASE

2 This appeal is from the Order Granting Motion to Vacate Arbitration
3 Award “Order” (JA 0832-0842) of the Second Judicial District Court, Judge
4 Scott N. Freeman, filed November 10, 2015, which granted
5 Respondents/Petitioners’ Motion to Vacate Arbitration Opinion and Award 6 of Arbitrator Alexander Cohn. The Motion to Vacate with its exhibits is 7 hereinafter referred to as the “MTV.” (JA 0001- 0591) On December 29, 8 2014, Arbitrator Cohn’s Opinion and Award, hereinafter referred to as the 9 “Cohn Award”(JA 0027-0087) upheld the Washoe County School District’s 10 (“District” or the “WCSD”) dismissal of former Principal Kara White (“Ms.
11 White, “Principal White”, “Kara White” or “Grievant”) .

12 The District Court had jurisdiction to review the ‘binding arbitration’ 13 Award in accordance with NRS 38.206 to 38.248, also known as the Uniform 14 Arbitration Act of 2000.

15 V. STATEMENT OF THE FACTS

16 All relevant times regarding this matter, the District and the Washoe
17 School Principals’ Associations (“WSPA”) were Parties to the 2011-2013
18 Collective Bargaining Agreement (“CBA”) entered into pursuant to Chapter 19 288 of Nevada Revised Statutes. (JA0616-0667) The WSPA is an employee

1 organization within the meaning of NRS 288.040 and is the recognized 2 bargaining agent for principals and assistant principals working for the 3 District. Upon information and belief, Ms. White was an administrator for 4 the District and a member of the WSPA at all relevant times.

5 Ms. White began her employment with the District in 1999 as a 6 teacher, later worked as student dean and Assistant Principal, and in 2008, 7 began working as Principal of Lemmon Valley Elementary School
8 (“Lemmon Valley” or “LVES”), until her termination in April 2013. (JA 9 0033, 0671, 0707) At the time of her termination, Ms. White’s supervisor 10 was Douglas Parry, who was Area Superintendent from July 2010-June 2013.
11 (JA 0033) Prior to February 2013, while she was Principal, Grievant had not 12 received any discipline. (JA 0034) By letter of May 8, 2011, Parry 13 congratulated her and her staff for being selected as a District pilot site for 14 alignment with the National Center of Response to Intervention, stating that 15 it was further testament to the outstanding job she and her staff had done. Id.
16 Lemon Valley won a 2010-2011 Excellence in Inclusion Award and did well 17 on the 2012 School Staff Climate and Safety Survey Report and on the 2011-18 2012 School Accountability Summary Report. Id. Ms. White received good 19 evaluations for her performance as Principal for the 2008-2009, 2009-2010, 2010-2011, and 2011-2012 school years, which noted that there had been outstanding progress since she had become principal. Id.

A. Ms. White's Discipline Covered in the Previous Arbitration.

On February 27, 2013, Grievant was given a Letter of Admonition and Notice of Intent to Suspend for ten days, both based on the same charges. Grievant's violations were covered by: NRS 391.312(1)(c) Unprofessional conduct; (d) Insubordination; (i) Inadequate performance; (k) Failure to comply with such reasonable requirements as a board may prescribe; (l) Failure to show normal improvement and evidence of professional training and growth; (p) Dishonesty; Administrative Regulations 4111.5 – Safe and Respectful Learning Environment, and 4111.3 – Harassment/Sexual Harassment and Intimidation; and violation of the Negotiated Agreement between the District and the Washoe Education Association, Article 27. (JA 0039, 0672, 0709) Grievant was informed that she was placed on administrative leave with pay, although she was already on administrative leave for the other issues for which she was terminated, described below. (JA 0039) She filed grievances on the Letter of Admonition and suspension which were denied and moved to arbitration. On January 28, 2014, Arbitrator Patrick Halter (“Halter”) issued an Opinion and Award (“Halter Award”)

1 sustaining 12 of the 13 allegations of misconduct. Id. (See, Halter Award at 2 JA 0426-0452) In the Cohn Award, Arbitrator Cohn incorporated the Halter 3 Award by reference. Id. The only issue stipulated to by the Parties and 4 considered in the Halter arbitration was: Did the District have just cause to 5 suspend grievant, Kara White, for ten (10) days? If not, what shall the remedy
6 be? (JA 0432) Halter found that Ms. White violated: NRS 391.312(1)(c) 7 Unprofessional conduct; (i) Inadequate performance and (k) Failure to 8 comply with such reasonable requirements as a board may prescribe; and 9 Administrative Regulations 4111.5 – Safe and Respectful Learning 10 Environment and 4111.3 – Harassment/Sexual Harassment and Intimidation.
11 Halter affirmed the letter of admonishment and rescinded the suspension. Id.

12 Halter found, “[t]he sustained allegations do not support a finding that 13 grievant was insubordinate or dishonest. Grievant was less than forthcoming 14 during the investigation but that does not equate, automatically, to dishonesty 15 and insubordination. Dishonesty and insubordination fall into the category of 16 the most serious offenses an employee can be charged with and subjected to 17 discipline including dismissal for first time offenders. . . . The totality of 18 circumstances in this grievance show grievant slipping off the precipice of 19 acceptable standards of supervisory practices at LVES and engaging in

1 conduct that harassed and intimidated Ms. Martin and other employees.” (JA
2 0451) (emphasis added)

3 There were no arguments presented by the Parties in the Halter 4 arbitration that, pursuant to Article 18 of the CBA, NRS 391.3116 was 5 applicable and therefore the Parties were not to process the discipline for Ms.
6 White in accordance with the progressive discipline provisions of NRS
7 391.311 to 391.3197. (JA 0426-0452)

8 B. Ms. White’s Dismissal Arbitration.

9 The Arbitration Hearing between the District and the WSPA on behalf 10 of Ms. White was held over a four day period - February 25-28, 2014. Due 11 to the post-hearing illness of the arbitrator who conducted the hearing, Anna 12 D. Smith, the Parties selected Alexander Cohn to serve as sole impartial 13 arbitrator to review the record produced and issue an Opinion and Award 14 which was to be final and binding upon the Parties. (JA 0027) At the 15 arbitration hearing, the Parties were afforded full opportunity for the 16 examination and cross-examination of witnesses, the introduction of relevant 17 exhibits, and for closing argument. Post-hearing briefs were filed. Arbitrator 18 Cohn received the post-hearing briefs and the entire record on or about 19 October 30, 2014, and the matter was submitted. Id.

1 The Parties were unable to stipulate to an Issue(s).
2 They agreed that the Arbitrator, after review of the 3 record as a whole, had the authority to frame the 4 Issue(s) in dispute. The District would frame the 5 Issue as:

6 Whether there was just cause for Grievant's
7 termination, but that, if the Arbitrator finds there
8 was not, he should determine the remedy.

9 The Association would frame the Issue as:

10 Whether there is just cause for the termination; and 11 if not, the Arbitrator is restricted to the statutory 12 remedy.

13 After review of the record as a whole, the Arbitrator
14 frames the Issue as:

15 Whether Grievant was discharged for just cause;
16 and if not, what shall be the appropriate 17 remedy?

18 (JA 0028) (emphasis added)

19 At no time throughout the entire grievance and arbitration process regarding Ms. White's dismissal did the District or the WSPA argue that the language contained in Article 18 of the CBA has the meaning or should be interpreted to mean that NRS 391.3116 was applicable, and therefore the Parties were not to process the discipline for Ms. White in accordance with the progressive discipline provisions of NRS 391.311 to 391.3197. See, Cohn

1 Award (JA 0027-0087), the District Closing Brief (JA 0669-0697) and the 2 WSPA Closing Brief (JA 0670-0762). The first time this strained
3 interpretation of the Article 18 language appears is in the MTV. (JA 0011)

4 The Cohn Award is 61 pages in length. (JA 0027-0087) In the Award, 5 Arbitrator Cohn recites the relevant provisions of: the CBA – Article 18; the 6 Nevada statutes – NRS 391.31297 (formerly NRS 391.312), NRS 391.313, 7 NRS 391.314, NRS 391.317 and NRS 391.3116; and the relevant provisions 8 of District’s Student Activity Funds Policies and Procedures manual. The 9 Parties discussed or pointed to all of these items during the arbitration process 10 except for NRS 391.3116, which was never mentioned by the Parties during 11 the grievance and arbitration process. (JA 0088-0591)

12 Arbitrator Cohn then uses over 10 pages to discuss the background 13 facts of the matter. (JA0033-0044) He includes Ms. White’s 14 accomplishments, the training on the use of Student Activity Funds 15 (“SAFs”), audits of SAFs, and audits of Lemmon Valley. (JA0034-0036) He 16 discusses the report regarding Ms. White’s inappropriate/excessive spending 17 of SAFs and the investigation. (JA0036-0038) He discusses Ms. White’s 18 requirement that teachers take Guided Language Acquisition Design 19 (“GLAD”) training. (JA0038) Ms. White’s previous discipline arbitration is

1 mentioned and the administrative leave and termination process for her
2 dismissal is discussed. (JA 0039-0044)

3 Arbitrator Cohn then carefully takes over 25 pages of his Award to 4 recount the witness testimony of 18 witnesses – 10 District witnesses and 8 5 WSPA witnesses including the Grievant, Ms. White. (JA 0045-0073)

6 Arbitrator Cohn then discussed the position of each Party. (JA 0073-7 0079) He summed up the District position as:

8 NRS 391.312 gives the District the authority to 9 issue a dismissal after a Letter of Admonition has 10 been issued. NRS 391.313 permits dismissal 11 without a Letter of Admonition for certain offenses, 12 including dishonesty. Grievant gave dishonest 13 responses throughout the investigation and 14 arbitration hearing and tried to deflect her actions to 15 everyone but herself. Her poor judgment in using 16 funds and the excessive amount of funds used for 17 non-student purposes is egregious and shows a lack 18 of leadership and poor performance. The final 19 egregious act was to mandate training and deducting teachers' sick leave. Grievant's denial that any teachers came to her and questioned this was contradicted by teacher testimony. The District must assure that principals conduct themselves in a manner that is above reproach and that public funds are for students, not Parties, dinners, gift cards, and alcohol. She blatantly and willingly misused almost $15,000 of public funds, including a $1,000 dinner for staff with a champagne toast. While the Association argues that Grievant had good evaluations, the issues causing her termination were

1 not known at the time of the evaluations. The 2 District could no longer risk the potential liability 3 Grievant was causing.

3 (JA 0075)

4 Arbitrator Cohn then described the WSPA position. The first line of 5 his recounting stating, “The grievance must be sustained and Grievant 6 reinstated and made whole, pursuant to applicable State law. Grievant is not 7 only covered by the Agreement, but also protected by Nevada law, 8 specifically NRS 391.313, 391.314, and 391.317.” (JA 0076) (See, WASP
9 Closing Brief at JA 0700)

10 Finally, Arbitrator Cohn found that “Without question, the record 11 demonstrates that the Association attacked each and every District allegation 12 in detail, leaving no stone unturned in Grievant’s defense. However, as noted 13 above, rather than assume responsibility for errors, Grievant chose to proffer 14 an “I can't recall” defense which was unavailing. Thus, she was her own 15 worst enemy. While all discharges are harsh, on the record presented, just 16 cause exists for her dismissal.” (JA 0087)

1 VI. SUMMARY OF THE ARGUMENT

2 A. Arbitrator Cohn Did Not Exceed his Authority and the Lower
3 Court Exceeded its Very Limited Scope of Review.

4 Arbitrator Cohn did not exceed his authority in this matter. The lower 5 court misapplied the very limited exception to an arbitrator's very wide 6 authority to decide matters discussed in Int'l Ass'n of Firefighters, Local 1285 7 v. City of Las Vegas, 107 Nev. 906, 910, 823 P.2d 877, 879 (1991) (citing,
8 Int'l Broth. of Firemen & Oilers, AFL-CIO, Local No. 935-B v. Nestle Co., 9 Inc., 630 F.2d 474 (6th Cir. 1980)).

10 Carefully considering the contract language discussed in the Int'l 11 Broth. Of Firemen & Oilers, AFL-CIO, Local No. 935-B case, it is clear the 12 Int'l Ass'n of Firefighters, Local 1285 court was referring to very narrow and 13 specific language. The contract language in the Int'l Broth. of Firemen & 14 Oilers, AFL-CIO, Local No. 935-B case is very specific to the type of 15 misconduct and the penalty for that misconduct. Specifically, the contract 16 stated, "Article XII (a) Intoxication, dishonesty, incompetency, 17 insubordination or failure to perform satisfactorily the usual, customary 18 duties of the employee, shall constitute cause for the dismissal of any

1 employee from the service of the Company.” Int'l Broth. of Firemen & Oilers, 2 AFL-CIO, Local No. 935-B, 630 F.2d at 475.

3 Completely distinguishable from the ‘specific misconduct gets 4 specific penalty’ type language in that case, the facts and language in Article
5 18 of the CBA in the case at bar refers generally that types of “discipline
6 action including “demotion, suspension, dismissal, and non-renewal actions
7 taken against post-probationary unit members (in accordance with NRS 391),
8 shall be progressive in nature and related to the nature of the infraction. Unit
9 members shall be given reasonable opportunity for improvement.” (JA 0028)
10 And, “The [District] shall not discharge, demote, suspend or take any other 11 disciplinary action against a post probationary bargaining unit member of this 12 unit without just cause.” Id. Article 18 does not state a specific action gets 13 what specific penalty. (JA 0635)

14 Moreover, the Parties agreed that Arbitrator Cohn have wide authority 15 in this matter. After review of the record as a whole, Arbitrator Cohn framed 16 the Issue as: Whether Grievant was discharged for just cause; and if not, what 17 shall be the appropriate remedy? His Award answered that Issue question 18 based on the CBA and the law, finding that the District had just cause to 19 dismiss Ms. White.

1 Also, the lower court substituted its own judgment and contract
2 interpretation for that of the arbitrator, rather than doing a very limited review
3 to see if the arbitrator was arguably construing or applying the contract in 4 accordance with this Court's holding in Health Plan of Nevada, Inc., 120
5 Nev. at 697-98, 100 P.3d at 178.

6 B. Arbitrator Cohn Did Not Manifestly Disregard NRS 391.3116
7 and the Lower Court Exceeded its Very Limited Scope of 8 Review.

8 Arbitrator Cohn did not manifestly disregard NRS 391.3116. In fact, 9 he is the only one who even mentions that statute. Before the MTV, WSPA 10 never before asserted at any time that the language of Article 18.1 usurps or 11 supersedes the provisions of NRS 391.311 to 391.3197. The argument 12 asserted by WSPA and accepted by the lower court is convoluted, confusing, 13 and flies in the face of the factual history of this matter and the relationship 14 between the WSPA and the District. As such, this claim by 15 Respondents/Petitioners is frivolous and should be denied by the Court. The 16 absurd argument is that because the CBA states discipline for unit members 17 will be "(in accordance with NRS 391)" then NRS 391.3116 applies, so then 18 NRS 391.311 to 391.3197 do not apply and the arbitrator must only use the 19 language of Article 18.1. Therefore, because Arbitrator Cohn applied the

1 provisions of NRS 391 and his interpretation of the CBA, he manifestly 2 disregarded NRS 391.3116. It is a nonsensical use of the phrase “in 3 accordance with NRS 391.” If the Parties meant to exclude NRS 391.111-4 391.3197 it would make sense to affirmatively state something to the effect 5 “according to NRS 391.3116, the provisions of NRS 391.111- 391.3197 are 6 superseded by this agreement.”

7 The lower court goes beyond its very limited scope of review when it 8 concluded that “while Arbitrator Cohn referenced NRS 391.3116, he did not 9 apply the law correctly.” Arbitrator Cohn did note NRS 391.3116 under the 10 relevant provisions of Nevada statutes and he references it in a footnote. The 11 rule for a court to find that an arbitrator has manifestly disregarded the law is 12 well articulated in Nevada. This Court holds: “. . . judicial inquiry under the 13 manifest-disregard-of-the-law standard is extremely limited.” “A party 14 seeking to vacate an arbitration award based on manifest disregard of the law 15 may not merely object to the results of the arbitration.” In such instance, “the 16 issue is not whether the arbitrator correctly interpreted the law, but whether 17 the arbitrator, knowing the law and recognizing that the law required a 18 particular result, simply disregarded the law.” Clark County Education

1 Association and Isabell Stuart v. Clark County School District, 122 Nev. 337, 2 341, 131 P.3d 5, 8 (2006).

3 “There must be concrete evidence of an intent to disregard known law 4 in the findings of the arbitrator or in the transcript of the proceedings.” Manor 5 Health Care Ctr., Inc. v. Monsour, 126 Nev. 735, 367 P.3d 796 (2010). There 6 is no concrete evidence in the record that Arbitrator Cohn had the intent to 7 disregard NRS 391.3116.

8 C. The Cohn Award is Not Arbitrary and Capricious because the 9 Dishonesty Charge is Supported by Substantial Evidence and 10 the Lower Court Exceeded its Very Limited Scope of Review.

11 The lower court again goes beyond its limited review by finding that 12 it disagrees with Arbitrator Cohn finding that Ms. White is dishonest. A 13 court’s review of the arbitrary-and-capricious standard is “limited to whether 14 the arbitrator’s findings are supported by substantial evidence in the record.”
15 Wichinsky v. Mosa, 109 Nev. 84, 89, 847 P.2d 727, 731 (1993) (citations 16 omitted).

17 In its Order, the lower court states that it “concurs with Petitioner’s 18 oral arguments in that dishonesty requires an element of intent. The evidence 19 does not support a finding of intentional dishonesty in Principal White’s case.” (JA 0839) (emphasis added) The lower court sees fit to add its own

1 definition and standard of what dishonesty is, in spite of the fact that
2 Arbitrator Cohn clearly articulates the standard he was using to find
3 dishonesty is that “[a]n “Untruthful” finding requires preponderant proof of 4 a willful misstatement or omission of material fact.” (JA 0086 fn 18)

5 “The arbitrary-and-capricious standard does not permit a reviewing 6 court to vacate an arbitrator’s award based on a misinterpretation of the law.
7 Rather, our review is limited to whether the arbitrator’s findings are 8 supported by substantial evidence in the record.” Clark County Educ. Ass’n, 9 122 Nev. at 344, 131 P.3d at 9-10, citing to, Wichinsky, 109 Nev. at 90, 847
10 P.2d at 731. In the present matter, the lower court goes beyond its limited 11 scope by finding that Arbitrator Cohn misinterpreted the CBA and NRS 12 391.31297 regarding dishonesty.

13 The case at bar is similar to the facts in the Clark County Educ. Ass’n 14 case where the Court found, “unlike our decision in Wichinsky, in which we 15 noted that the appellate record was scant as to the arbitration proceedings, 16 here the arbitrator’s seventeen-page opinion and award specifically recounts 17 the factual underpinning of the award in favor of the District. Thus, we 18 conclude that the arbitrator’s decision is supported by substantial evidence 19

1 and therefore is not arbitrary and capricious.” Clark County Educ. Ass'n, 122
2 Nev. at 344, 131 P.3d at 10.

3 Without an outright prohibition of using Arbitrator Cohn’s definition
4 of dishonesty in the CBA or NRS, the Arbitrator was free to interpret 5 dishonesty as he saw fit. “Thus, the Arbitrator’s findings are supported by 6 substantial evidence in the record.” Underwood v. Palms Place, LLC, 2:09-7 CV-00700-RLH, 2011 WL 1790463, at *4 (D. Nev. May 10, 2011).

8 VII. ARGUMENT

9 A. Standard of Review

10 The Court reviews a district court’s decision to vacate or confirm an 11 arbitration award de novo. Thomas v. City of N. Las Vegas, 122 Nev. 82, 97, 12 127 P.3d 1057, 1067 (2006). The scope of a district court’s review of an 13 arbitration award, however, is limited. Health Plan of Nevada, Inc., 120 Nev.
14 at 695, 100 P.3d at 176. “The party seeking to attack the validity of an 15 arbitration award has the burden of proving, by clear and convincing 16 evidence, the statutory or common-law ground relied upon for challenging 17 the award.” Id. “Strong public policy favors arbitration because arbitration 18 generally avoids the higher costs and longer time periods associated with 19 traditional litigation.” D.R. Horton, Inc., 120 Nev. at 553, 96 P.3d at 1162.

1 As discussed below, Respondents/Petitioners failed meet their high 2 burden to prove their motion to vacate by clear and convincing evidence and 3 the lower court judge reviewed the matter, not in a very limited manner, but 4 in a plenary or de novo type manner.

5 B. Arbitrator Cohn Did Not Exceed his Authority and the Lower 6 Court Exceeded its Very Limited Scope of Review.

7 Arbitrator Cohn did not exceed his authority because his Award
8 finding that the District had just cause to dismiss the Grievant for dishonesty 9 was within the scope of the CBA and the Issue that the Parties presented to 10 him for determination. The lower court substituted its own judgment for 11 Arbitrator Cohn's in finding the language of the CBA required a different 12 result. The lower court misapplied the law and the facts in its legal analysis 13 and erroneously found that there was an exception to Arbitrator Cohn's wide 14 authority.

15 The rule for finding that an arbitrator has exceeded his authority is well 16 articulated by the Court, which holds:

17 NRS 38.241(1)(d) dictates that a court shall vacate 18 an arbitration award if the arbitrator exceeded his 19 powers. Courts presume that arbitrators are acting within the scope of their authority. Parties moving to vacate an award on the ground that an arbitrator

1 exceeded his or her authority have the burden of 2 demonstrating by clear and convincing evidence 3 how the arbitrator exceeded that authority. Absent 4 such a showing, courts will assume that the 5 arbitrator acted within the scope of his or her 6 authority and confirm the award. Arbitrators exceed 7 their powers when they address issues or make 8 awards outside the scope of the governing contract.
9 The broader the arbitration clause in a contract, the 10 greater the scope of an arbitrator's powers.
11 However, allegations that an arbitrator 12 misinterpreted the agreement or made factual or 13 legal errors do not support vacating an award as 14 being in excess of the arbitrator's powers.
15 Arbitrators do not exceed their powers if their 16 interpretation of an agreement, even if erroneous, is 17 rationally grounded in the agreement. The question 18 is whether the arbitrator had the authority under the 19 agreement to decide an issue, not whether the issue was correctly decided. Review under excess-of-authority grounds is limited and only granted in very unusual circumstances. An award should be enforced so long as the arbitrator is arguably construing or applying the contract. If there is a colorable justification for the outcome, the award should be confirmed.

15 Health Plan of Nevada, Inc., 120 Nev. at 697-98, 100 P.3d at 178.

16 The lower court Order states that the Cohn Award contradicts the 17 express language of Article 18.1 of the CBA, citing to Int'l Ass'n of 18 Firefighters, Local 1285, 107 Nev. at 910, 823 P.2d at 879.

19 ///

1 The lower court found that “Arbitrator Cohn did not draw his award
2 from the essence of the CBA. Arbitrator Cohn contradicted the express 3 language of the CBA Article 18.1 which explicitly prescribes a particular 4 discipline for a specified offense. . .” The Order then cites the language from 5 Article 18.1 and concludes that “[b]ased on a plain language reading of CBA 6 Article 18.1, the Court finds there are three mandatory provisions regarding 7 dismissal and disciplinary procedures: an individual (1) shall be given 8 progressive discipline, (2) shall be given a reasonable opportunity to 9 improve, and (3) shall not be discharged without just cause. No ambiguity 10 exists in Article 18.1 and the requirements are clear-cut.” (JA 0837)
11 (emphasis contain in the Order)

12 However, the lower court misapplied the very limited exception to an 13 arbitrator’s very wide authority to decide matters discussed in Int’l Ass’n of 14 Firefighters, Local 1285, 107 Nev. at 910, 823 P.2d at 879 (citing, Int’l Broth.
15 of Firemen & Oilers, AFL-CIO, Local No. 935-B, 630 F.2d 474 (6th Cir.
16 1980)).

17 The lower court fails to correctly apply the cited language, “Where a 18 labor contract expressly prescribes particular discipline for specified 19 offenses, an arbitration award overturning or modifying that discipline does

1 not “draw its essence” from the contract and is in excess of the arbitrator’s 2 authority.” Id. (emphasis added) On this point, the lower court failed to 3 complete the legal analysis of the case law. The Int’l Ass’n of Firefighters, 4 Local 1285 Court cites to the Int’l Broth. of Firemen & Oilers, AFL-CIO, 5 Local No. 935-B case to support its finding on this point. When one carefully 6 considers the contract language discussed in the Int’l Broth. of Firemen & 7 Oilers, AFL-CIO, Local No. 935-B case, it is clear that this Court was 8 referring to very narrow and specific language. The contract language in the 9 Int’l Broth. of Firemen & Oilers, AFL-CIO, Local No. 935-B case was very 10 specific to the type of misconduct and the penalty for that misconduct.

11 Specifically, that contract stated:

12 Article II The management of the plant, the 13 direction of the working force, the right to hire and 14 discharge employees, is vested exclusively in Management, except as otherwise provided in this Agreement.

15 Article XII (a) Intoxication, dishonesty,
16 incompetency, insubordination or failure to perform 17 satisfactorily the usual, customary duties of the employee, shall constitute cause for the dismissal of any employee from the service of the Company.

18 Int’l Broth. of Firemen & Oilers, AFL-CIO, Local No. 935-B, 630 F.2d at 19 475.

1 Completely distinguishable from the ‘specific misconduct gets 2 specific penalty’ type language in that case, the facts and language in Article
3 18 of the CBA in the case at bar refers generally that types of “discipline
4 action including demotion, suspension, dismissal, and non-renewal actions
5 taken against post-probationary unit members (in accordance with NRS 391),
6 shall be progressive in nature and related to the nature of the infraction. Unit
7 members shall be given reasonable opportunity for improvement.” (JA 0028)
8 And, “The [District] shall not discharge, demote, suspend or take any other
9 disciplinary action against a post probationary bargaining unit member of this 10 unit without just cause.” Id.

11 Clearly, the language of Article 18.1 is not the type of specific ‘if this 12 misconduct then this result’ type language contemplated by the Court in the 13 Int'l Ass'n of Firefighters, Local 1285. The language of Article 18.1 is too 14 ambiguous and vague to fit the narrow exception, articulated in Int'l Ass'n of 15 Firefighters, Local 1285 to limit the broad discretion and authority of 16 arbitrators held by this Court in Health Plan of Nevada, Inc.

17 The lower court apparently did not see fit to analyze this Court’s 18 holding in Int'l Ass'n of Firefighters, Local 1285 and discussed the very 19 narrow exception articulated in the Int'l Broth. of Firemen & Oilers, AFL-

1 CIO, Local No. 935-B case. If it did, it would realize that Article 18.1 is not 2 a specific list of this action/this result like the Int'l Broth. of Firemen & 3 Oilers, AFL-CIO, Local No. 935-B case.

4 The language contained in Article 18 of the CBA is ambiguous and 5 vague as to what is expected regarding discipline. The language of Article 18 6 is not specific at all and begs the questions – What is progressive discipline?
7 What is a reasonable opportunity for improvement? What is just cause? What 8 is the meaning of the emboldened parenthetical inserted language “(in 9 accordance with NRS 391)”? These are questions that the Parties to the 10 CBA agreed to hire an arbitrator to answer. The lower court simply brushes 11 away the 61 page Cohn Award findings and makes the conclusory statement, 12 “No ambiguity exists in Article 18.1 and the requirements are clear-cut.” The 13 lower court does not and could not say that the language of Article 18 14 mandates a particular discipline for a particular offense to support its 15 conclusions. However, as discussed below, the Parties agreed that Arbitrator 16 Cohn should decide what the language of Article 18, in accordance with NRS 17 391, means and if there was just cause to dismiss Ms. White.

18 ///

19 ///

1 The Parties stipulated that Arbitrator Cohn should have wide authority 2 in deciding the dismissal. The Parties stipulated that Arbitrator Cohn have 3 wide authority in the arbitration. As delineated in the Award:

4 The Parties were unable to stipulate to an Issue(s).
5 They agreed that the Arbitrator, after review of 6 the record as a whole, had the authority to frame
7 the Issue(s) in dispute.

8 The District would frame the Issue as:

9 Whether there was just cause for Grievant's
10 termination, but that, if the Arbitrator finds there
11 was not, he should determine the remedy.

12 The Association would frame the Issue as:

13 Whether there is just cause for the termination; and 14 if not, the Arbitrator is restricted to the statutory 15 remedy.

16 After review of the record as a whole, the Arbitrator
17 frames the Issue as:

18 Whether Grievant was discharged for just cause;
19 and if not, what shall be the appropriate
20 remedy?

21 (JA 0028) (emphasis added)

22 Arbitrator Cohn properly and within his discretion gave the Parties the 23 answer to the Issue and the principles of just cause, progressive discipline 24 and reasonableness. Arbitrator Cohn states as preliminary matters:

1 The District bears the burden to demonstrate that 2 just cause exists for Grievant's discharge.
3 Generally, the just cause standard requires 4 persuasive proof that the rules and/or policies 5 alleged were violated and, if so, that under the 6 totality of circumstances, the penalty imposed was 7 not excessive; i.e., outside the zone of 8 reasonableness for the proven misconduct. Because 9 discipline is to be corrective, not punitive, the just 10 cause standard, generally, favors progressive 11 discipline which affords an employee the 12 opportunity to modify behavior before more severe 13 discipline up to and including termination is 14 imposed. Progressive discipline, however, does not 15 always have to follow the counseling, oral warning, 16 written warning, suspension and discharge path in 17 lockstep order. The facts and circumstances in 18 each case determine the appropriate level of 19 discipline. Moreover, progressive discipline concepts do not apply in the face of proven gross misconduct which warrants summary dismissal in the first instance.

(JA 0079) (emphasis added)

14 Arbitrator Cohn then describes the factual underpinnings of his 15 findings and opinion as supported by the arbitration record. (JA 0080-0087)
16 After discussing the issues regarding the inappropriate/excessive use of SAFs 17 by Ms. White and her mandating employees use sick leave for mandatory 18 training, the Arbitrator turns to the charge of Ms. White's dishonesty, clearly 19 articulates the factual underpinnings and finds: "Accordingly, as to these

1 particular issues, in the investigation and arbitration, Grievant was not 2 truthful – she was dishonest.” (JA 0086)

3 Finally, Arbitrator Cohn found that based “on the record presented, 4 any inclination to reverse Grievant’s discharge and substitute progressive 5 discipline such as a lengthy suspension, last chance return, demotion, an 6 opportunity to improve, etc., in light of her length of service and competency, 7 is washed away by the dishonesty finding.” The lower court took particular 8 issue with Arbitrator Cohn’s finding “that mandatory requirements of 9 progressive discipline and reasonable opportunity to improve were “washed 10 away” because of his finding of dishonesty.” (JA 0837) Then, the lower court 11 exceeds its own scope of review and substitutes his own judgement and finds 12 that, “Arbitrator Cohn exceeded his authority by not looking to the express 13 terms of the CBA and determining such provisions did not apply to Principal 14 White’s case. Arbitrator Cohn cannot merely “wash away” contractual 15 provisions agreed upon by WCSD and WSPA. ““Washing away’ two 16 mandatory collective bargaining terms does not rise to the level of dismissal 17 based on just cause.” Id. The lower court is deciding the arbitration issue 18 based on its own definitions of what is or what is not just cause and what is 19 progressive discipline or not progressive discipline.

1 . . . allegations that an arbitrator misinterpreted the 2 agreement or made factual or legal errors do not 3 support vacating an award as being in excess of the 4 arbitrator's powers. Arbitrators do not exceed their 5 powers if their interpretation of an agreement, even 6 if erroneous, is rationally grounded in the 7 agreement. The question is whether the arbitrator 8 had the authority under the agreement to decide an 9 issue, not whether the issue was correctly decided.
Review under excess-of-authority grounds is limited and only granted in very unusual circumstances. An award should be enforced so long as the arbitrator is arguably construing or applying the contract. If there is a colorable justification for the outcome, the award should be confirmed.

10 Health Plan of Nevada, Inc., 120 Nev. at 697-98, 100 P.3d at 178.

11 Arbitrator Cohn was granted wide authority to decide the Issue 12 presented by the Parties, the CBA and the provisions of NRS 391. He was in 13 his scope of authority and found "specifically, whether the "just cause" 14 standard is viewed under the NRS or the Agreement, given the totality of her 15 performance errors and misconduct, summary discharge is warranted." (JA 16 0087) The lower court, on the other hand, appears to be exacting its own 17 brand of industrial justice and substituted its judgment and contract 18 interpretation for that of the arbitrator, rather than do a very limited review 19

1 to see if the arbitrator was arguably construing or applying the contract in
2 accordance with this Courts holding in Health Plan of Nevada, Inc.

3 Therefore, the Court must find that Arbitrator Cohn did not exceed his 4 authority and the lower court exceeded its authority in reviewing the issue of 5 whether Arbitrator Cohn exceeded his powers pursuant to NRS 38.241(d).

6 C. Arbitrator Cohn Did Not Manifestly Disregard the Law, NRS
7 391.3116, and the Lower Court Exceeded its Very Limited 8 Scope of Review.

8 The lower court again goes beyond its very limited scope of review 9 when it concluded that “while Arbitrator Cohn referenced NRS 391.3116, he 10 did not apply the law correctly.” (JA 0838) Arbitrator Cohn did note NRS 11 391.3116 under the relevant provisions of Nevada statutes and he referenced 12 it in a footnote. (JA 0030 and 0061)

13 The rule for a court to find that an arbitrator has manifestly 14 disregarded the law is well articulated in Nevada. This Court holds:

15 “. . . judicial inquiry under the manifest-disregard-16 of-the-law standard is extremely limited.” “A party 17 seeking to vacate an arbitration award based on 18 manifest disregard of the law may not merely object 19 to the results of the arbitration.” In such instance, “the issue is not whether the arbitrator correctly interpreted the law, but whether the arbitrator, knowing the law and recognizing that the law

1 required a particular result, simply disregarded the 2 law.”

3 Clark County Educ. Ass'n, 122 Nev. at 341, 131 P.3d at 8, citing, Exber, Inc., 4 v. Sletten Constr. Co., 92 Nev. 721, 731, 558 P.2d 517, 523 (1976) and 5 Bohlmann v. Printz, 120 Nev. 543, 547, 96 P.3d 1155, 1158 (2004). [T]he 6 manifest-disregard-of-the-law standard limits the reviewing court’s concern 7 to whether the arbitrator consciously ignored or missed the law. As a result, 8 neither standard permits a reviewing court to consider the arbitrator's 9 interpretation of the law. Id. 131 P.3d at 8-9 (emphasis added), citing, 10 Wichinsky, 109 Nev. at 90, 847 P.2d at 731.

11 There is not clear and convincing evidence on the record below that 12 Arbitrator Cohn knew if or how NRS 391.3116 applied to this arbitration, 13 that it required a particular result and that he refused to apply it. At best it 14 appears Arbitrator Cohn found NRS 391.3116 while researching for this 15 arbitration and was not sure if or how it applied. He identified it and 16 considered it in his Award. He found whether one applies only the CBA 17 language or the provisions of NRS 391, there was just cause to dismiss the 18 Grievant.

19 ///

1 While the lower court interpreted NRS 391.3116 to be applicable and 2 mandatory to the Parties of the CBA, Arbitrator Cohn and the Parties 3 themselves do not interpret the law that way.

4 The MTV is the very first time that the WSPA has asserted at any time
5 that the language of Article 18.1 usurps or supersedes the provisions of NRS 6 391.311 to 391.3197. The argument presented by WSPA and adopted by the 7 lower court is convoluted, confusing, flies in the face of the factual history of 8 this matter and the relationship between the WSPA and the District. The 9 absurd argument that the lower court adopts goes like this:

- 10 - During the course of two arbitrations over the last 3 11 years, the Parties have utilized and argued over the 12 provisions of NRS 391.311 to 391.3197 regarding 13 Ms. White's discipline issues.
- 14 - The Cohn Award identifies and considers NRS
15 391.3116, among the relevant provisions of NRS 16 391.311 to 391.3197.
- 17 - Arbitrator Cohn identifies and considers Article 18 18.1 of the CBA, which states that discipline for 19 unit members "(in accordance with NRS 391), shall be progressive in nature and related to the nature of the infraction. Unit members shall be given reasonable opportunity for improvement. The School District shall not discharge, demote, suspend or take any other disciplinary action against a post probationary bargaining unit member of this unit without just cause."

- Respondents/Petitioners conclude from the above that because the language in the CBA says “in accordance with NRS 391,” NRS 391.3116 applies, so then NRS 391.311 to 391.3197 do not apply and the arbitrator must only use the language of Article 18.1!
- The Cohn Award states, “[m]ore specifically, whether the “just cause” standard is viewed under the NRS or the Agreement, given the totality of her performance errors and misconduct, summary discharge is warranted.”

And so, the arbitrator manifestly disregarded NRS 391.3116.

The Court’s interpretation is flawed, leads to an absurd result and is not the way the Parties themselves have interpreted the CBA as evidenced by their actions and past practice.

The custom or past practice of the Parties is the most widely used standard to interpret ambiguous and unclear contract language. It is easy to understand why, as the Parties’ intent is most often manifested in their actions. Accordingly, when faced with ambiguous language, most arbitrators rely exclusively on the Parties’ manifestation of intent as shown through past practice and custom. Indeed, use of past practice to give meaning to ambiguous contract language is so common that no citation of arbitral authority is necessary.

1 Elkouri, F. & Elkouri, E. A., HOW ARBITRATION WORKS ch 12.8 (6th ed.
2 1985) (footnote omitted).

3 There is no evidence in the record that the Parties ever applied NRS 4 391.3116 to the CBA language. The actions and practice of the parties over 5 three years and two arbitrations regarding Ms. White's misconduct and 6 discipline evidence the opposite.

7 It is abundantly clear that Arbitrator Cohn did not manifestly disregard 8 the law in this matter. In fact, WSPA and the lower court acknowledge that 9 Arbitrator Cohn did reference NRS 391.3116 in a footnote. Footnote 20 10 notes, "NRS 391.3116 provides that a collective bargaining agreement may 11 supercede [sic] the provisions of NRS 391.311 to 391.397," indicating that 12 he contemplated that law when he wrote his finding, "[m]ore specifically, 13 whether the "just cause" standard is viewed under the NRS or the Agreement, 14 given the totality of her performance errors and misconduct, summary
15 discharge is warranted." (JA 0087)

16 The reality is that the WSPA and Ms. White were unhappy with the 17 Cohn Award and asked the lower court to review how Arbitrator Cohn 18 interpreted NRS 391.3116. This Court made it clear in Clark County Educ.
19 Ass'n, 122 Nev. at 341, 131 P.3d at 8 that a reviewing district court cannot

1 consider the arbitrator's interpretation of the law, only whether the arbitrator 2 consciously ignored or missed the law all together. Moreover, WSPA did not 3 "provide evidence that not only did it communicate the correct law to the 4 arbitrator, but the arbitrator 'intentionally and knowingly chose to ignore that 5 law despite the fact that it was correct.' There must be concrete evidence of 6 an intent to disregard known law in the findings of the arbitrator or in the 7 transcript of the proceedings." Manor Health Care Ctr., Inc., 126 Nev. 735, 8 367 P.3d 796 (2010), citing to, ABCO Builders v. Progressive Plumbing, 282
9 Ga. 308, 647 S.E.2d 574, 575-576 (Ga. 2007). There is no concrete evidence 10 in the record that Arbitrator Cohn had the intent to disregard NRS 391.3116.

11 Therefore, the Court must find that the Arbitrator did not manifestly 12 disregard the law and that the lower court exceeded its authority in reviewing 13 the matter by substituting its judgment and interpretation of NRS 391.3116 14 for that of Arbitrator Cohn's.

15 D. The Cohn Award is Not Arbitrary and Capricious because the 16 Dishonesty Charge is Supported by Substantial Evidence and
the Lower Court Exceeded its Very Limited Scope of Review.

17 The lower court again goes beyond its limited review by finding that 18 it disagrees with Arbitrator Cohn finding that Ms. White is dishonest. A 19 court's review of the arbitrary-and-capricious standard is "limited to whether

1 the arbitrator's findings are supported by substantial evidence in the record."
2 Wichinsky, 109 Nev. at 89, 847 P.2d at 731 (citations omitted).

3 In its Order, the lower court states that it "concur[s] with Petitioner's
4 oral arguments in that dishonesty requires an element of intent. The evidence
5 does not support a finding of intentional dishonesty in Principal White's
6 case." (JA 0839) (emphasis added) The lower court sees fit to add its own
7 definition and standard of what dishonesty is, in spite of the fact that 8 Arbitrator Cohn clearly articulates the standard he was using to find 9 dishonesty is that "[a]n 'Untruthful' finding requires preponderant proof of 10 a willful misstatement or omission of material fact." (JA 0086 fn 18) "The 11 arbitrary-and-capricious standard does not permit a reviewing court to vacate 12 an arbitrator's award based on a misinterpretation of the law. Rather, our 13 review is limited to whether the arbitrator's findings are supported by 14 substantial evidence in the record." Clark County Educ. Ass'n, 122 Nev. at 15 343-44, 131 P.3d at 9-10, citing to, Wichinsky, 109 Nev. at 90, 847 P.2d at 16 731. In the present matter, the lower court goes beyond its limited scope by 17 finding that Arbitrator Cohn misinterpreted the CBA and NRS 391.31297
18 regarding dishonesty. NRS 391.31297 and NRS 391.313 give the District 19 authority to summarily dismiss an administrator for dishonesty. There is no

1 mandatory definition of dishonesty contained in the CBA or provisions of 2 NRS 391.31297 and NRS 391.313. It is the province of the arbitrator to 3 determine what defines dishonesty.

4 The Wichinsky court noted the record in that case was scant on the 5 arbitration proceedings and there was a lack of evidence in support of the 6 arbitrator's opinion when it concluded that "the arbitrator abused her 7 discretion." Id., 109 Nev. at 90. In complete opposition to the facts in 8 Wichinsky, the entire arbitration record was submitted to the lower court as 9 evidence. The record shows that Arbitrator Cohn reviewed and considered: 10 the verbatim transcripts of four days of arbitration testimony numerous 11 documents entered into evidence; Post Hearing Brief of WSPA and Closing 12 Brief of the District; the Harter Award as well as other transcripts and 13 exhibits. Furthermore, the lower court reviewed the 61 page Cohn Award, 14 which specifically recounts the factual underpinnings of his Award.
15 Regarding the dishonesty charge, Arbitrator Cohn delineated in his Award:

16 Yet, this is not the entire picture because dishonesty 17 is a separate and distinct charge. As Harter noted:

18 Dishonesty ... [falls] into the category of the most 19 serious [offense] an employee can be charged with and subjected to discipline including dismissal for first time offenders ...

1 Grievant is just too competent a person to forget 2 that, as a result of an audit, she, speaking for 3 management, agreed in writing that gift cards would 4 no longer be given to employees, checks would no
5 longer be signed to oneself, etc. The audit
6 referenced the Manual. Thus, on this record, a 7 finding that Grievant could not remember the audit, 8 discussing it with the auditor, filing the school's 9 management responses, or even seeing the Manual 10 before the March 7 meeting was merely the result 11 of faulty memory, negligence, etc. is simply too far 12 a stretch. Clearly, an audit where one goes over 13 details with an auditor is not a routine, ministerial 14 matter that leaves no lasting memory. Further, even 15 with an assistant like Porter, a conclusion that a 16 principal would not consult and/or review the 17 Manual over a number of academic years is wholly 18 incredible. The same is true concerning her 19 testimony of lack of knowledge relating to SAF and other restricted funds. Grievant knew, or should have known, that, as Principal, she was the responsible person – her signature on documents has meaning and substance. Accordingly, as to these particular issues, in the investigation and arbitration, Grievant was not truthful – she was dishonest.

(JA 0086)

The case at bar is similar to the facts in the Clark County Educ. Ass'n
v. Clark County Sch. Dist. case, where the Court found, “unlike our decision in Wichinsky, in which we noted that the appellate record was scant as to the arbitration proceedings, here the arbitrator’s seventeen-page opinion and

1 award specifically recounts the factual underpinning of the award in favor of 2 the District. Thus, we conclude that the arbitrator's decision is supported by 3 substantial evidence and therefore is not arbitrary and capricious. Clark 4 County Educ. Ass'n, 122 Nev. at 344, 131 P.3d at 10.

5 Further, there is no definition in the CBA or in NRS that mandates that 6 an arbitrator must define or interpret dishonesty as being "intentional 7 dishonesty" as defined by the lower court. Without an outright prohibition of 8 using Arbitrator Cohn's definition of dishonesty in the CBA or NRS, the 9 Arbitrator was free to interpret dishonesty as he saw fit. "Thus, the 10 Arbitrator's findings are supported by substantial evidence in the record."
11 Underwood v. Palms Place, LLC, 2:09-CV-00700-RLH, 2011 WL 1790463, 12 at *4 (D. Nev. May 10, 2011).

13 Therefore, the Court must find that the Cohn Award is not arbitrary or 14 capricious because it is based on substantial evidence and the lower court 15 exceeded its authority in reviewing the matter by substituting its judgment 16 and interpretation of the definition of dishonesty for that of the Arbitrator's.

17 VIII. CONCLUSION

18 The Court should find and order:

- 19 1. Arbitrator Cohn did not exceed his powers pursuant to NRS 38.241(d);

2. The lower court exceeded its authority in reviewing the issue of whether Arbitrator Cohn exceeded his powers pursuant to NRS 38.241(d);
3. Arbitrator Cohn did not manifestly disregarded the law by acknowledging the existence of NRS 391.3116 in his Opinion and Award;
4. The lower court exceeded its extremely limited reviewing authority regarding the issue of whether Arbitrator Cohn manifestly disregarded the law;
5. Arbitrator Cohn's Opinion and Award is not arbitrary and capricious;
6. The lower court exceeded its limited review of whether the Arbitration Opinion and Award was arbitrary and capricious;
7. Respondents/Petitioners' Motion to Vacate Arbitration Award is denied in its entirety and the Arbitrator's Opinion and Award is Confirmed pursuant to NRS 38.241(4); and
8. Appellant is entitled to attorney's fees, cost and expenses pursuant to NRS 38.243.
