STATEMENT OF THE CASE

MACK C. MASON (hereinafter referred to as MASON) was charged by way of an Information with two counts of Burglary while in Possession of a Firearm, Grand Larceny of a Firearm, Murder With Use of a Deadly Weapon, Second Degree Kidnaping with Use of a Deadly Weapon, and Possession of a Firearm by an Ex-Felon (1 APP 2-8). The State filed a Notice of Intent to Seek Death Penalty alleging two aggravating circumstances: (1) the murder was committed while the person was engaged in the commission of or attempt to commit burglary; and (2) the murder was committed by a person who had been previously convicted of a felony involving the use or threat of violence to the person of another (1 APP 9-10). After preliminary hearing, MASON was bound over to trial and arraigned on an information setting forth the same charges on September 7, 1999 (1 APP 94).

The case proceeded to trial on February 14, 2001 and concluded with closing arguments on February 22, 2001 (1 APP 102-103). The jury deliberated for two full days and parts of two other days and returned verdicts on February 27, 2001 (1 APP 103-104). MASON was convicted of two counts of Burglary while in Possession of a Firearm, First Degree Murder and Second Degree Kidnapping with use of a Deadly Weapon. He was found not guilty of Grand Larceny of a Firearm (1 APP 104).

The Penalty hearing was conducted on March 5, 2001 and on the following day the jury returned a verdict of Life Without the Possibility of Parole (1 APP 105-106). Formal sentencing

1 was held on April 30, 2001, and the Court sentenced MASON to 2 concurrent sentences on the two burglary counts, however,
3 imposed consecutive forty (40) month to One hundred eighty
4 (180) month sentences to the life sentences on the murder count
5 (1 APP 107). The Judgement of Conviction was entered on May 9, 6 2001 (1 APP 90-91), and the Notice of Appeal timely filed on 7 May 25, 2001 (1 APP 92-93).

STATEMENT OF FACTS

TRIAL PHASE

In May, 1999 Flora Mason was living at 1916 West Lawry, North Las Vegas, Nevada (2 APP 127). Flora was the aunt of MASON (2 APP 128). MASON had lived with her for a period of a couple of months until March or April, 1999 and had a key to the home that was taken back from him about the same time. (2 APP 129-29) She kept a key outside of the house in a storage shed, but MASON did not know where the key was located (2 APP 130).

On May 10, 1999 Flora went to work at about 8:10 AM and her normal shift ended at 12:30 (2 APP 131). When she arrived home from work she noticed that the sliding glass door in the back was all the way opened (2 APP 131). The whole house was ramshackeled (2 APP 132). In the back bathroom one of the windows was off it's track and the curtains were knocked down from the windows in the bathtub (2 APP 139). Her deceased father's police .38 revolver and billy club were missing, along with a neighbor's shotgun (2 APP 132-33). She had last seen the items in March (2 APP 133). MASON had some of his clothes stored at her house and she could tell that some of them had been moved and were missing (2 APP 134-35).

Flora was acquainted with MASON'S girlfriend, Felicia Jackson (2 APP 149). Jackson had been over to Flora's house on at least three or four occasions (2 APP 150).

John Turner lived next door to Flora Mason (2 APP 152).

1 On the morning of May 10, 1999 was sitting outside of his house
2 in his Cadillac smoking a cigarette, listening to music and had
3 a beer or two (2 APP 154). He observed MASON going on the side
4 of Flora's house toward the back (2 APP 155). He was used to 5 MASON coming and going, so it really did not bother him (2 APP
6 156). MASON came out about 5 to 15 minutes later carrying
7 something real long wrapped up in his arms (2 APP 156). MASON
8 was talking to himself and seemed frustrated when he saw two 9 police officers down the street (2 APP 157). Turner estimated
10 the time to be around 8:45 to 9:00 a.m. (2 APP 163). MASON
11 walked down the street toward Comstock and Lake Mead (2 APP 12 159-60).

13 Angela Bramlett, the manager at Bargain Pawn, testified
14 that her records showed that on May 10, 1999 at 10:30 a.m. a
15 transaction occurred with a person showing the Nevada
16 identification card of Mack C. Mason for the pawn of a Mossberg
17 shotgun (2 APP 182-83). It was the habit and custom of Bargain
18 Pawn to be sure that the person who is pawning the item matches
19 the picture identification (2 APP 183).

21 Felicia Jackson first met MASON in 1995 (2 APP 187). They 22 developed a romantic relationship that, according to Jackson, 23 only lasted about two and a half months (2 APP 188). She 24 indicated that they remained friends through the early part of 25 1999 and that MASON wanted to renew the romantic relationship
26 (2 APP 189). About the middle of April, 1999 she started a
27 romantic relationship with Dudley Thomas known by the nickname
28

1 of Wolf (2 APP 190). Thomas was living at 903 D Street (2 APP
2 190). She had not known him for too long because he had just 3 gotten out of prison (3 APP 272).

4 On May 10, 1999 Jackson first saw MASON at the store at 5 the corner of F and Jackson while she was with Wolf (2 APP
6 191). She told MASON that she did not want to talk with him
7 and got into the car with Wolf and drove to another location.
8 She stayed in the car while Wolf got out and was talking to 9 some guys, and she observed MASON approaching the car on the 10 passenger side (2 APP 191). According to Jackson, MASON had a 11 knife in one hand and a 40 ounce beer bottle in the other and 12 lunged at her (2 APP 192; 3 APP 258). She got a little cut 13 mark on her leg from the knife (2 APP 192). She got out of the 14 car and ran past where Wolf was standing and talking and MASON
15 and Wolf confronted each other (2 APP 192). Wolf asked MASON
16 what was going on and MASON responded that he just wanted to 17 talk to Jackson, and when she saw that MASON was going to go
18 past Wolf, she took off running (2 APP 193). She ran down an 19 alley and got a ride from two guys in a Bronco to Wolf's
20 apartment (2 APP 194). About an hour and a half later she was 21 walking up the street to her Aunt's house and saw MASON again
22 and got a ride from Cynthia Coleman back to Wolf's apartment (2
23 APP 194).

24
25 Later on the evening of May 10, 1999 Felicia was at Wolf's
26 apartment with Wolf and a friend of his named Kevin, who she 27 thought lived there (2 APP 195; 3 APP 262). She was sitting on 28

1 the bed writing a letter and Wolf was standing at the dresser
2 on the telephone (2 APP 195). According to Felicia, the 3 bedroom door was pushed open and MASON walked in and asked Wolf
4 if he still thought it was funny and raised his arm with a gun
5 in his hand (2 APP 196). MASON shot Wolf who fell to the floor
6 and MASON grabbed her and said let's go shoving her out the 7 door (2 APP 197). When MASON got to the door she saw Kevin
8 standing to the right and took off running after him (2 APP
9 198). Jackson went back into the apartment and told Wolf that 10 she was going to call and get him some help, but MASON came 11 back in and shoved her out the door again (2 APP 198).

12 MASON took her by her arm and went up the street and got a
13 ride from Wilford (2 APP 200). MASON had Wilford drop them off
14 in the downtown area (2 APP 201). They walked to two motels
15 and ended up at the Vista Motel (2 APP 202). MASON had her 16 rent the room in her name and gave her a $100 bill to pay for 17 it (2 APP 202). When they got into the room she sat in the 18 corner of the room and asked him why he did it, to which MASON
19 replied that it was her fault, that she made him do it (2 APP 20 204).

22 After a couple of hours in the room, they got a cab and 23 went back to the westside, and made a couple of stops and they 24 went back to the motel (2 APP 206-207). Early the next day,
25 they left the motel again to go buy some clothes (2 APP 207).
26 MASON bought some clothes at little store on Fremont and they 27 got something to eat (2 APP 208). She went to the Payless Shoe
28

1 Store and MASON went with her and she bought some shoes (2 APP
2 209). They went back to the motel room and then to the 3 Greyhound bus station, but there was such a long line that they 4 just left (2 APP 210). MASON wanted to find out how much the 5 fare was to California for he and Jackson (2 APP 211).

6 On the way back to the motel, MASON stopped and used a pay
7 phone and then when they got back to the motel, he had her make
8 the deposit to turn the phone on (2 APP 211). She asked MASON
9 why he asked Wolf if he still thought it was funny, and MASON
10 told her that Wolf had tried to run him over with his car and 11 was laughing about it (2 APP 213).

12 While in the room the police called and Jackson looked out
13 the window and saw a lot of police gathering (2 APP 214).
14 MASON refused to answer the phone any further and would not 15 agree to exit the apartment and told her to get under a 16 mattress so she wouldn't get hurt (2 APP 215). While under the 17 mattress she heard something hit the wall real hard, and MASON
18 told her that he was trying to make a hole in the wall to get 19 next door (2 APP 216). He told her that the 2 by 4s where 20 stopping him from squeezing through (2 APP 217). MASON
21 eventually went out and was arrested and the police came into 22 the room and a police dog found Jackson under the mattress (2
23 APP 218).

24
25 On cross-examination, Felicia claimed that there was no
26 relationship other than friendship with MASON from 1995 until 27 May, 1999 (3 APP 233). She admitted that they had opened a 28

1 savings and checking account together in February, 1999, and 2 that they had done their taxes together (3 APP 234). Money was
3 also put down on an engagement ring in February, 1999 (3 APP 4 235).

5 Felicia had been to Flora Mason's house five or six times
6 with MASON (3 APP 238). At the preliminary hearing she 7 testified that the last time she was at Flora's house was in 8 April, 1999 and that she and MASON were in a relationship at 9 the time (3 APP 242).

10 Patrick Braxton, a cousin of MASON was living in 11 Sacramento, California on May 11, 1999 when he received a phone
12 call from his sister stating that MASON was trying to get in 13 touch with him (3 APP 301). MASON called Braxton after 14 midnight and told him that he was coming to Sacramento and 15 would be arriving at 9:30 the following day (3 APP 302-303).
16 Braxton then called his Aunt Flora Mason to see if he could get 17 a number to call MASON (3 APP 304). During a second phone call
18 from MASON, Braxton was told that he had got him a motherfucker
19 and that he would be coming to Sacramento (3 APP 305). After 20 the second phone call, Braxton called Flora and gave her the 21 number off of his caller ID for MASON (3 APP 306). The first 22 time that Braxton had told anyone about the conversation with 23 MASON about having "got" someone was the day before he 24 testified at trial, when he told the prosecutors (3 APP 316).

25
26 Crime scene analyst David Horn processed the scene at 903
27 D Street, Apartment 3 on May 10, 1999 (3 APP 358). There were 28

1 no signs of a struggle in the apartment (3 APP 369). No
2 firearms, casings or projectiles were recovered in the 3 apartment (3 APP 371).

4 John Etchebarren was working at the Vista Motel in May,
5 1999 as a desk clerk (3 APP 329). On May 10, 1999 a black man
6 and women came in to rent a room between 8:30 and 9:00 PM (3
7 APP 330-31). They rented a room, were given a key and about 15
8 to 20 minutes later the lady came back down to the office
9 inquiring about a phone (3 APP 333). Etchebarren did not see
10 anyone with the lady when she came back down, and she did not 11 appear to be stressed or afraid (3 APP 338).

12 Eric Kerns was assigned to a LVMPD canine unit in May, 13 1999 (3 APP 344). He was dispatched to the Vista Motel, and an 14 announcement was given over the PA system that a police dog was 15 going to be sent into room 205 (3 APP 346). As soon as the dog
16 started barking the occupant of the room called down and said
17 that he would be coming out (3 APP 346). MASON came out of the 18 room and was arrested and patted down and then the dog was sent 19 into the room (3 APP 347). The dog went in and searched the 20 room and started biting at the bed and patrol officers went in 21 and lifted up the bed and found Felicia (3 APP 348).

22 The autopsy of Dudley Thomas was performed by Dr. Gary
23 Telgenhoff on May 11, 1999 (4 APP 386). There was a gunshot 24 entry wound in the forehead (4 APP 388). A projectile was 25 recovered from the skull (4 APP 389). There was no stippling
26 associated with the gunshot wound (4 APP 395). Thomas was six 27
28

1 foot, two inches and weighed 255 pounds with a rather developed
2 physique (4 APP 399; 402).

3 Kevin Brown was basically homeless on May 10, 1999, but 4 was staying with his friend, Dudley Thomas, in his apartment on 5 D street (4 APP 408). He first arrived at the apartment in the 6 evening to watch a TV show and eat barbeque (4 APP 409).

7 Felicia was there when he arrived (4 APP 409). While Felicia

8 and Wolf were in the bedroom and Brown was in the front room,

9 MASON came to the door and asked if Wolf was home (4 APP 410).

10 When Brown responded, "Yes", MASON pulled a twelve inch chrome

11 revolver and told him to leave (4 APP 411; 432). Brown ran to 12 the corner of D and Washington and heard a gunshot (4 APP 412).

13 Brown then ran around the corner to a friend's house, and woke

14 up the friend and told him that he thought that Wolf had just

15 been shot (4 APP 413). Brown ran back down an alley toward the

16 apartment and saw MASON holding Felicia by the arm, pulling her

17 up the street (4 APP 413). Felicia appeared to be hysterical

18 and crying (4 APP 415). Brown hesitated, knocked on the window

19 and then went into the apartment and observed Wolf in the 20 bedroom with blood on his head (4 APP 415-17). Brown ran out

21 of the house and told a guy on a motorcycle to call the police

22 and then waited for the police to arrive (4 APP 417).

23 Brown had stayed at Wolf's apartment many times, both to

24 visit and spend the night over a two to three month period and

25 was familiar that Wolf had a machete that he normally kept

26 under his bed (4 APP 440; 441). Brown was familiar that Wolf's

28

1 previous girlfriend was Renay and that he had put her out, but
2 that her clothes were still in the apartment (4 APP 442-43).
3 When Brown was interviewed by the police on the night of the 4 shooting he had told them that MASON was wearing a baseball cap
5 and a short sleeve shirt, while at trial he testified that 6 MASON was not wearing a hat and that he was wearing a dark blue
7 jacket (4 APP 447-50).

8 General assignment detective Mel Jackson arrived at the D
9 and Washington scene and MASON was developed as a possible
10 suspect (4 APP 460). After talking to Flora Mason and Patrick
11 Braxton, Jackson went to the Vista Motel and commenced
12 surveillance (4 APP 462-64). Surveillance was established at 13 the El Cortez parking garage which was located across the 14 street from the Vista Motel (4 APP 466). MASON and Jackson
15 were first observed walking on Seventh street, holding hands,
16 and entering room 205 at the Vista Motel (4 APP 467; 475).
17 There was nothing that he observed that caused him to believe
18 that Felicia was being held captive by MASON (4 APP 475).

19 Jackson went to the office of the Vista and several phone
20 calls were made to the room to see if the individuals would 21 come out (4 APP 468). A public address system was also used
22 from the parking area to have them come out of the room (4 APP
23 4710). MASON came out after the K-9 unit arrived and the dog
24 was allowed to bark on the PA system (4 APP 470).

25 Crime scene analyst Kelly Neil processed room 205 of the 26 Vista Motel (4 APP 491). He located a wallet under the 27
28

1 mattress on the bed with identification in the name of MASON (4
2 APP 492). There was also a plastic bag with miscellaneous
3 jewelry items (4 APP 492). He also searched room 204 because 4 there was a hole in the wall between the rooms, but did not
5 find any items of evidence (4 APP 493). The hole was jagged
6 and rough in appearance and about two foot across (4 APP 493).
7 An air vent under the vanity in room 205 had a common air duct
8 with the room directly below and a Smith and Wesson .38 special
9 revolver was found in the common duct in the bottom floor room
10 (4 APP 494). There were five live rounds and one expended 11 casing in the revolver (4 APP 504). Due to the damage to the 12 projectile recovered at the autopsy attempts to compare the 13 projectile to test fired rounds from the .38 special recovered
14 were inconclusive (5 APP 537).

15 A Bargain Pawn receipt was found in the wallet in MASON'S
16 name for a Mossberg shotgun on May 10, 1999 (4 APP 501). There
17 was also a receipt from Marks Brothers Jewelers for the refund
18 of $50 on March 14, 1999 (4 APP 501).

19 Homicide detectives conducted interviews with both Felicia
20 and MASON after they were arrested (5 APP 551). MASON stated
21 that he had gone to 903 D Street to get his girlfriend (5 APP 22 555). He left with her, and to his knowledge Wolf was just 23 fine when they left (5 APP 557-58). They had checked into the 24 Vista Motel and had plans to go to Sacramento so he could get a
25 job (5 APP 558-61). MASON had tried to get out of the room
26 because he had warrants and did not want to be arrested (5 APP
27
28

1 561).

2 Theenda Newson had known MASON for six to eight years and 3 had seen Felicia around for a good five years (5 APP 598; 599).
4 She had been over to Wolf's house a couple of times (5 APP
5 601). The day before she heard that Wolf had been killed she 6 had seen Felicia walking down Jackson street carrying a black
7 pouch (5 APP 601-602). Felicia stopped and talked to some 8 other people on Jackson and asked if anybody wanted to buy a
9 gun (5 APP 602-603). About two days later she saw Felicia come
10 up to the Town Tavern in a cab, and get out of the cab and go
11 into to the bar (5 APP 604).

12 Records of the Marks Brothers Jewelers in the Boulevard
13 Mall showed that MASON put a solitaire ring, one-fourth carat,
14 with an enhancer, which is a wedding band on layaway on 15 February 14, 1999 with a $50 deposit (5 APP 609; 616-17).
16 Thirty days later he came back and got his deposit back (5 APP 17 609). Felicia had put down a $10 layaway on the same day and 18 never came back to pick up her deposit (5 APP 612).

19
20 Christopher Jones had known MASON since the mid-1980's and 21 had known Felicia for two and a half years (5 APP 619). In the 22 early part of May, 1999, Felicia came to him trying to sell him
23 a gun (5 APP 620-21). The gun was in a paper bag and Felicia
24 hinted around that she wanted drugs for the gun (5 APP 623).
25 The gun looked liked the .38 Smith and Wesson the police had 26 recovered at the Vista Motel (5 APP 624).

27 Renay Matthews had known MASON for about four years and 28

1 had met Felicia through him (5 APP 630). She saw them together
2 on a regular basis and to her knowledge continued to be in a
3 relationship and she had observed them hugging and kissing in 4 the couple of months prior to May 10, 1999 (5 APP 631).
5 Felicia was very jealous whenever MASON would talk to Renay (5
6 APP 632). Wolf had been Renay's boyfriend until about a week
7 prior to May 10th (5 APP 634). When she left him, he would not
8 let her take her clothes with her and she had to call and ask
9 when she needed more clothes (5 APP 637). She knew that Wolf
10 had a machete because she was there when he bought it (5
11 APP638). Within a day or two of Wolf being shot, she observed
12 Felicia come in a cab to the Town Tavern, go in by herself and 13 then go back to the cab, and she was able to observe that 14 someone was in the cab, that she assumed was MASON (5 APP 643; 15 645).

17 Robert James had owned his own janitorial service since
18 1976 and had known MASON for more than 15 years (5 APP 660-61)
19 MASON worked for him during the period between January, 1999
20 and May, 1999 and he saw MASON and Felicia together quite often
21 and believed them to be involved in a boyfriend-girlfriend
22 relationship (5 APP 662-63). Somewhere between February and 23 April, 1999 he had rented a U-Haul trailer so they could move
24 their belongings into an apartment (5 APP 664). James had 25 dropped off MASON'S last paycheck toward the end of April, 1999
26 at MASON'S Aunt Flora's house to MASON (5 APP 665).

27 MASON testified on his own behalf and related that he had 28

1 first met Felicia in 1997 (5 APP 677). The had bank accounts
2 together and had filed tax returns with Felicia and her
3 children listed as dependents, and as far as what she had led 4 him to believe they were still a couple in 1999 (5 APP 677).
5 They had lived together up to April 30, 1999 (5 APP 678).

6 He also had a key to his Aunt Flora's house and had gone
7 over there at the end of April so that Mr. James could drop off
8 his last pay (5 APP 680). He had a key because he helped her
9 to pay rent on the house (5 APP 680). MASON kept some of his 10 clothes in Flora's house along with several bags of clothing in 11 her storage shed (5 APP 681).

12 MASON had seen Felicia on May 9th and wanted to talk to 13 her about retrieving some of his belongings that were in 14 storage (5 APP 684-85). She at first told him that she would 15 talk to him later and then later he had tried to talk to her in 16 Wolf's car and she just jumped out of the car and started
17 running (5 APP 685-86). He had chased her to talk to her, but 18 she jumped into a passing car and left the area (5 APP 688).
19 He ran into her later and asked about his belongings and she 20 told him to get with her later (5 APP 689).

22 On May 10th, MASON first saw Felicia at about 8:00 am at F
23 and Jackson, as MASON was getting ready to go to his Aunt's
24 house (5 APP 682). Felicia accompanied MASON to Flora's house
25 and he unlocked the door, and when he came out the front door
26 later he observed the police up the street and thought they 27 were looking for him on some traffic warrants (5 APP 690).
28

1 MASON told Felicia and Willie Hardison, whom had given them a 2 ride, to just go around the corner and wait, and when the 3 police left about 30 minutes later, MASON went around the 4 corner. When he left he took a shotgun that he was intending 5 to pawn to pay for his trip to California and then redeem
6 later. He also took two bags of clothing, but did not take the 7 .38 revolver (5 APP 692). He later went to Bargain Pawn and 8 pawned the shotgun. Their plans were to meet up later to 9 arrange to go to California (5 APP 693). Felicia had told him
10 that she was working over at 903 D Street (5 APP 694).

11 MASON got to 903 D Street at about 8:30 p.m. and asked for 12 Wolf because it was his apartment and Felicia was supposed to 13 be there waiting for him (5 APP 696). MASON and Felicia
14 started to leave, but Felicia indicated that she had forgotten
15 something and went back into the apartment (5 APP 696-97).
16 MASON followed her back into the apartment and heard some 17 hollering and observed Wolf with a machete in his hand (5 APP
18 698). Wolf was moving into the bedroom and MASON heard a 19 gunshot (5 APP 699). MASON went into the bedroom and observed
20 Felicia in the corner holding a gun and Wolf laying in a box of 21 clothes at the foot of the bed. MASON grabbed Felicia by the 22 arm and told her, let's go (5 APP 700).

24 They proceeded to the apartment of a friend of MASON'S and 25 got a ride downtown and checked into a motel (5 APP 701-702).
26 Once they got the room, Felicia went and put the phone on and 27 started calling people to find out what had happened (5 APP
28

1 702). Felicia also took a cab by herself over to the area (5
2 APP 703). They spent the night in the motel room, and the 3 following day went back over to westside, saw some people and 4 then went back to the room (5 APP 703-704). When they saw the 5 police outside of the room, Felicia started to cry and asked
6 MASON not to say anything to the police (5 APP 705). When it
7 became apparent that they could not get out, Felicia asked
8 MASON to put her under the mattress because maybe the police
9 would not find her (5 APP 706).

10 Felicia was the one that had placed the gun into the duct
11 work because she had maintained possession of the gun since 12 they had left Wolf's apartment (5 APP 707).

13 PENALTY HEARING

14 Felicia Jackson testified that on December 13, 1996 she 15 was visiting her aunt Margaret Jo Duckett on Washington Avenue
16 in Las Vegas and that as she and her daughter left, MASON drove 17 up in his car and was standing and talking with two other men
18 (7 APP 899-900). According to Felicia, MASON fired a shot at 19 her that went through the window of her car, after telling the 20 others that she was a snitch (7 APP 901). She drove off and 21 MASON followed her and fired about five more shots at her (7 22 APP 902). She saw a police man and ran a stop sign so that he 23 would pull her over (7 APP 903). She told the police a day or 24 two later that she did not want to pursue charges because she 25 was afraid (7 APP 904).

26
27 On January 27, 1999 Felicia was living with Ronald Kie on 28

1 Jackson street (7 APP 904). As she was coming into the yard
2 she observed MASON and Kie involved in an argument (7 APP 905).
3 Felicia and her daughter left to catch a bus, and while waiting
4 for the bus she saw smoke coming from the area of Kie's house,
5 so she went back to see what was going on. When she got back
6 to the apartment, Kie told her that MASON had thrown a bottle
7 bomb against the wall (7 APP 906).

8 Ronald Kie lived in an apartment at C and Jackson on 9 January 27, 1999 and Felicia and her kids were living with him
10 (7 APP 921-22). On said date Kie told MASON to stay away from 11 his house because MASON was always harassing him and following
12 him (7 APP 923). Over defense objection, Kie also testified
13 that a shot had been fired at him by MASON on some previous 14 occasion (7 APP 923). Kie related that on the 27th of January
15 he had been cooking and heard a boom and ran out and saw MASON
16 turning the corner and leaving in his truck and that the back
17 wall of Kie's apartment was on fire (7 APP 925).

18
19 Fire investigator Dan Thomas determined that a molotov
20 cocktail had been thrown against the exterior of Kie's building
21 (7 APP 929). The case was never prosecuted (7 APP 931).

22 Detective Brent Becker was assigned to investigate a
23 shooting that occurred on March 13, 1995 (7 APP 941-42). A
24 verbal dispute had occurred between Larry Thomas and Treneshia
25 Gray, who was living with MASON (7 APP 942). MASON had 26 observed the altercation, walked out side and exchanged words
27 with Thomas and then gone into his room and gotten a gun (7 APP
28

1 943). Thomas walked up the street and Treneshia came up waving
2 a knife at him and then a car pulled up and MASON pointed a gun
3 out of the car and shot Thomas (7 APP 943). When MASON was 4 interviewed he denied having done the shooting (7 APP 944).
5 Gray told the police that Thomas had a gun (7 APP 946). The 6 case was negotiated to an Alford plea to a gross misdemeanor
7 manslaughter (7 APP 946-47).

8 In March, 1995 Flora Mason received a telephone call from 9 MASON saying that he had just killed someone and that the 10 police might come looking for him (7 APP 949). MASON had later
11 called her and told her not to worry that there were no
12 witnesses and that nothing was going to happen, and he was very 13 happy and laughing about it (7 APP 949-50).

14 MASON called Correctional Officer Kenyatta Wooten who had 15 known MASON for almost two years (7 APP 952). MASON was a 16 trustee in the detention center for the entire time that he had 17 known him at the jail (7 APP 951-52). To his knowledge MASON
18 had never had any disciplinary problems at the facility (7 APP
19 955). Likewise Correctional Officer Richard Williams had no
20 problems with MASON and was aware that he attended voluntary
21 religious programs (7 APP 959-60).

22 Deanna Mason, the daughter of MASON testified that she was 23 born on March 1, 1948 and had two daughters (7 APP 963). MASON
24 was in prison when she was born and was seven years old when he
25 got out of prison (7 APP 963). After MASON got out of prison
26 he moved to Las Vegas and she would come to see him during 27
28

1 summer vacations (7 APP 964). When she was 15 she moved to Las 2 Vegas and lived with him (7 APP 965). She stayed with him for
3 five or six years and he supported her and her child (7 APP
4 966). MASON while in jail, attended and received a diploma
5 from Crossroads Bible Institute and had a positive influence on 6 her life, even while he was incarcerated (7 APP 968-69).

7 Renay Matthews also testified at the penalty hearing and 8 related that Wolf had not only hit her with a machete, but had 9 poured alcohol on her and tried to start her on fire (7 APP
10 976-77). Whenever she would try to leave him, Wolf would pay
11 people to jump on her (7 APP 977). Wolf sold crack cocaine out
12 of his apartment and Kevin Brown's role was to serve as a 13 lookout and answer the door (7 APP 978).

14 At the conclusion of the penalty hearing the jury returned
15 a verdict of life in prison without the possibility of parole,
16 finding six mitigating circumstances and two aggravating
17 circumstances (1 APP 106).

ARGUMENT

THE MALICE INSTRUCTION GIVEN TO THE JURY WAS VAGUE AND AMBIGUOUS AND VIOLATED
MASON'S PRESUMPTION OF INNOCENCE

At the settling of jury instructions MASON objected to Instruction number 16 as being vague and archaic and not adequately describing the state of mind necessary to have acted with malice (6 APP 736-37). Instruction 16 stated as follows:

"Express malice is that deliberate intention to take away the life of a fellow creature, which is manifested by external circumstances capable of proof.

Malice may be implied when no considerable provocation appears, or when all the circumstances of the killing show an abandoned and malignant heart."
(1 APP 30)

The quoted instruction in no uncertain terms defines what express malice is without issuing a directive as to when express malice may be found. The distinction is obvious, express malice is merely defined whereas the jury is directed that it may find implied malice "when no considerable provocation appears".

This Court has recently approved the use of "may be implied" instead of "shall be implied" as required by NRS 200.020. See Cordova v. State, 116 Nev.Ad.Op. 78, ___ P.2d ___ (2000). Despite this correction of an improper mandatory presumption language the instruction remains unconstitutionally vague. The terms "abandoned or malignant heart" do not convey anything in modern language. See Victor v. Nebraska, 511 U.S.

1 1, 11, 13-14 (1994) (term "moral evidence" not "mainstay or the
2 modern lexicon"); id. at 23 (Kennedy, J., concurring) ("what
3 once might have made sense to jurors has long since become 4 archaic"). The words "abandoned or malignant heart" are devoid
5 of rational content and are merely pejorative, and they allow 6 the jurors to find malice simply on the ground that they
7 believe the defendant is a "bad man."

8 In People v. Phillips, 64 Cal.2d 574, 414 P.2d 353, 363-
9 364 (1966), the California Supreme Court analyzed the element
10 of implied malice, and concluded that an instruction would 11 adequately define implied malice if it made clear that "the 12 killing proximately resulted from an act, the natural 13 consequences of which are dangerous to life, which act was 14 deliberately performed by a person who knows that his conduct
15 endangers the life of another and who acts with conscious
16 disregard for life." 414 P.2d at 363: Nevada law is basically
17 consistent with this definition. See Collman v. State, 116
18 Nev. ___, 7 P.3d. 426 (2000):
19

20 "Nevada statutes and this court have apparently 21 never employed the phrase 'depraved heart,' but that 22 phrase and 'abandoned and malignant heart' both refer
23 to the same 'essential concept ... one of extreme
24 recklessness regarding homicidal risk.' Model Penal 25 Code § 210.2 cmt. 1 at 15; see also Thedford v.
26 Sheriff, 86 Nev. 741, 744, 476 P.2d 25, 27 (1970)
27 (malice as applied to murder includes 'general 28 malignant recklessness of others' lives and safety or disregard of social duty')."

The California Supreme Court disapproved the use of the language referring to an "abandoned or malignant heart" as superfluous and misleading:

Such an instruction renders unnecessary and undesirable an instruction in terms of 'abandoned and malignant heart.' The instruction phrased in the latter terms adds nothing to the jury's understanding of implied malice; its obscure metaphor invites confusion and unguided speculation.

The charge in the terms of the 'abandoned and malignant heart' could lead the jury to equate the malignant heart with an evil disposition or a despicable character; the jury, then, in a close case, may convict because it believes the defendant a 'bad man.' We should not turn the focus of the jury's task from close analysis of the facts to loose evaluation of defendant's character. The presence of the metaphysical language in the statute does not compel its incorporation in instructions if to do so would create superfluity and possible confusion.

The instruction in terms of 'abandoned and malignant heart' contains a further vice. It may encourage the jury to apply an objective rather than subjective standard in determining whether the defendant acted with conscious disregard of life, thereby entirely obliterating the line which separates murder from involuntary manslaughter.

414 at 363-364 (footnotes omitted). Although the court did not find the use of the language to be error (as it reversed the conviction on other grounds), the passage of time since Phillips has certainly not increased the likelihood that the term "abandoned or malignant heart" conveys anything rational to a juror. No reasonable juror today would understand that phrase as requiring that the defendant commit the homicidal act with conscious disregard of the likelihood that death would result.

Wherefore it is respectfully requested that this Court

David M. Schieck

Attorney At Law

1 find that the "abandoned and malignant heart" implied malice
2 instruction denied MASON of due process of law and based 3 thereon reverse his conviction.

II.

THE REASONABLE DOUBT INSTRUCTION VIOLATED
THE DUE PROCESS CLAUSE OF THE
UNITED STATES AND NEVADA CONSTITUTION

MASON objected to Instruction number 5 which followed the statutory definition of reasonable doubt, and stated in relevant part:

"A reasonable doubt is one based on reason. It is not mere possible doubt but is such a doubt as would govern or control a person in the more weighty affairs of life. If the minds of the jurors, after the entire comparison and consideration of the evidence, are in such a condition that they can say they feel an abiding conviction of the truth of the charge, there is not a reasonable doubt. Doubt to be reasonable must be actual, not mere possibility or speculation." (1 APP 19)

The specific objection of MASON was as follows:

"...Specifically the second paragraph of that instruction is defective in that the language, 'as would govern or control a person in the more weighty affairs of life,' is ambiguous and doesn't give any guidance to the jury on how to arrive at what reasonable doubt is.

Further in that same paragraph, 'and are in such a condition that they can say they feel an abiding conviction of the truth of the charge.' Again, it's ambiguous language that, in addition to being archaic, just doesn't have any meaning to the typical juror today. I've spoken with lawyer and layman alike and when you read that language and say, 'Now what does that mean?', nobody can give a definitive answer. Indeed, the Supreme Court has specifically rejected prosecutors and defense attorneys alike from arguing the more weighty affairs of life argument and I think that the fact they've rejected the ability of an attorney to argue what that means gives some credence to the fact that the language should be struck and they should -- there should be a better instruction" (6 APP 737-38).

The Court overruled the objection and gave the instruction

1 quoted above. This instruction is codified in NRS 175.211 and
2 has been upheld by this Court. Holmes v. State, 114 Nev. 1357,
3 972 P.2d 337 (1998). MASON respectfully submits that the 4 decision in Cage v. Louisiana, 498 U.S. 39, 111 S. Ct. 328
5 (1990) indicates that the instruction violates Constitutional
6 principles.

7 In Cage, supra, the United States Supreme Court found a
8 Louisiana trial court's reasonable doubt instruction
9 constitutionally defective. In making its determination, the 10 Court construed the instruction by considering how reasonable
11 jurors could have understood the charge as a whole. While the 12 Court recognized that the instruction did require a finding of 13 guilt "beyond a reasonable doubt" in accord with In re Winship, 14 397 U.S. 358 (1970), the Court expressed its belief that the 15 equating of reasonable doubt with "a grave uncertainty" and an 16 "actual substantial doubt" suggested a higher degree of doubt
17 than is required for acquittal under the reasonable doubt 18 standard. The Court further opined that, when relating those 19 statements with the reference to "moral certainty," rather than 20 an evidentiary certainty, clearly a reasonable jury could have 21 interpreted the burden of proof required for a finding of guilt
22 to be below that which is required by the Due Process Clause of 23 the United States Constitution.

24
25 The reasonable doubt instruction given in the instant case
26 is comparable to the Louisiana instruction rejected by the 27 Supreme Court in Cage. If anything, the instruction challenged
28

1 here is even more violative of a criminal Defendant's due
2 process rights than the Cage instruction.

3 The first sentence of the Cage instruction is very similar
4 to the last paragraph of the instruction in the instant case,
5 only the Cage sentence is more fair to the Defendant. Both 6 instruct the jury that, if it has a reasonable doubt as to the 7 Defendant's guilt, the Defendant is entitled to a verdict of 8 not guilty. Both statements are advantageous to a Defendant.
9 But the Cage instruction goes further than the Nevada
10 instruction. The Cage instruction speaks of "doubt as to any 11 fact or element" and of the jury's "duty to give him the 12 benefit of that doubt." The fact that the statement in the 13 Cage instruction is more particular makes it even more
14 benevolent to the Defendant than the Nevada instruction.

15 The second sentence of the Cage instruction, which is also 16 advantageous to the Defendant, has no analogous counterpart in 17 the Nevada instruction. This sentence informs the jury that a
18 "probability of guilt" does not achieve a standard of "beyond a
19 reasonable doubt," and again directs that the jury "must acquit
20 the accused" if the standard is not reached. This part of the 21 Cage instruction indicates that "beyond a reasonable doubt"
22 means more than merely a preponderance of the evidence.

23 The third sentence of the Cage instruction, which states
24 that a reasonable doubt is not found upon "mere caprice and 25 conjecture," is indistinguishable from the statement in 26 Nevada instruction that a reasonable doubt is not "merely 27
28

1 possibility or speculation."

2 The fourth sentence of the Cage instruction, which was
3 that a reasonable doubt is that which gives "rise to a grave
4 uncertainty," is interchangeable with the statement in the 5 the Nevada instruction that a reasonable doubt is "such a doubt
6 as would govern or control a person in the more weighty affairs
7 of life." The word "grave" which was troublesome to the Cage
8 court is analogous to the phrase "the more weighty affairs of 9 life."

10 A number of courts have criticized the definition of the 11 reasonable doubt standard expressed in terms of making
12 important or (weighty decisions) in the jurors' own lives. See 13 State v. Johnson, 774 P.2d 1141 (Utah 1989) and Dunn v. Perlin, 14 570 F.2d 21 (1st. Cir. 1978). In Scurry v. United States, 347
15 F.2d 468, 470 (D.C. Cir. 1965), the court stated:

16 "A prudent person called upon to act in an important
17 business or family matter would certainly gravely
18 weigh the often neatly balanced considerations and 19 risks tending, in both directions. But, in making and 20 acting on a judgment after so doing, such a person
21 would not necessarily be convinced beyond a
22 reasonable doubt that he had made the right
23 judgment."

24 Similarly, the Supreme Court of Massachusetts in Commonwealth
25 v. Ferreira, 364 N.E.2d 1264, 373 Mass. 116 (1977) in 26 criticizing the instruction on reasonable doubt stated:

27 "The degree of uncertainty required to convict is 28 unique to the criminal law. We do not think that people customarily make private decisions according to this standard nor may it even be possible to do so. Indeed, we suspect that were the standard mandatory in private affairs the result would be

1 massive inertia. Individuals may often have the 2 luxury of undoing private mistakes; a verdict of guilty is frequently irrevocable."

3 The fifth sentence of the Cage instruction is exactly
4 duplicated in the Nevada instruction. Both say that a
5 reasonable doubt is not "mere possible doubt."

6 The sixth sentence of the Cage instruction, that a
7 reasonable doubt "is an actual substantial doubt," is almost 8 identical to the statement in the Nevada instruction that 9 "doubt to be reasonable must be actual." Again, the phrase
10 "actual substantial doubt" is what troubled the United States
11 Supreme Court and caused the court to strike down the Cage
12 instruction.

13 The seventh sentence of the Cage instruction, the most 14 innocuous and meaningless part of the instruction, is 15 uncorrelated in the Nevada instruction.

16 The final sentence of the Cage instruction, which speaks
17 of a "moral certainly" of a Defendant's guilt, is 18 indistinguishable from the phrase "an abiding conviction of the 19 truth of the charge" found in the Nevada instruction. No
20 practical difference exists between the two phraseologies.
21 Again, "moral certainty" is one of the three phrases which 22 caused the Cage court to find the instruction unconstitutional.

23 Thus, with the phrases in the Nevada reasonable doubt 24 instruction either the same as, or indistinguishable from, the 25 instruction the court struck down as violative of the 26 Due Process Clause in Cage, the Nevada reasonable doubt

1 instruction is likewise unconstitutional. The Nevada
2 instruction, suggests a higher degree of doubt than is required
3 for acquittal under the reasonable doubt standard, and thus 4 violates the Due Process Clause of both the United States and 5 Nevada constitutions.

6 Since the jury was not properly instructed, MASON submits 7 that his conviction must be reversed and the case remanded for 8 a new trial.

THE UNANIMITY INSTRUCTION GIVEN TO THE JURY
VIOLATED MASON'S DUE PROCESS RIGHTS
AND RELIEVED THE STATE OF ITS BURDEN OF PROOF

Instruction number 27 given to the jury was the subject of contemporaneous objection by MASON and stated:

"Although your verdict must be unanimous as to the charge, you do not have to agree unanimously on the theory of guilt. Therefore, even if you cannot agree on whether the facts establish premeditated murder or felony murder, as long as all of you agree that the evidence establishes the Defendant's guilt of murder in the first degree, your verdict shall be Murder of the First Degree." (1 APP 41)

MASON respectfully submits that the quoted jury instruction violates a defendant's right to Due Process of Law in not requiring unanimity on each theory of criminality. See, In re Winship, 397 U.S. 358, 90 S.Ct. 1968 (1970); Schad v. Arizona, 501 U.S. 624, 111 S.Ct. 2491 (1995). MASON is aware of, and refers the Court to its decision in Evans v. State, 113 Nev. 885, 944 P.2d 253 (1997), however, respectfully urges the Court to reconsider the position.

In the case at bar, the State proceeded on several theories of liability for first degree murder, to wit: premeditation and deliberation, or felony murder in the course of a burglary or felony murder in the course of a kidnapping. Thus there could have been three sets of four jurors that each found that the State had proved something different. Such a scenario greatly lessened the required burden of proof on the State to prove its case and denied MASON of his due process

1 rights. It simply does not make sense that the State is
2 constitutionally required to prove every element of it's case
3 beyond a reasonable doubt by an unanimous verdict, and then
4 instruct the jury that it need not be in agreement on the 5 elements of the offense.

6 It is respectfully urged that the Court reject the 7 instruction at issue and grant MASON a new trial before a
8 constitutionally instructed jury.

IV.

THE COURT ERRED IN DECLINING
TO INSTRUCT THE JURY
REGARDING CONFLICTING EVIDENCE

At the settling of jury instructions MASON offered proposed alternative instructions B which was refused by the Court. (6 APP 739-40). Proposed Instruction B, was based on the decision in Crane v. State, 88 Nev. 684, 504 P.2d 12 (1972) wherein the Court approved an instruction that stated:

"If the evidence in this case is susceptible of two constructions or interpretations, each of which appears to you to be reasonable, and one of which points to the guilt of the defendants, and the other to their innocence, it is your duty, under the law, to adopt that interpretation which will admit of the defendants' innocence, and reject that which points to their guilt.

You will notice that this rule applies only when both of the two possible opposing conclusions appear to you to be reasonable. If, on the other hand, one of the possible conclusions should appear to you to be reasonable and the other to be unreasonable, it would be your duty to adhere to the reasonable deduction and to reject the unreasonable, bearing in mind, however, that even if the reasonable deduction points to defendants' guilt, the entire proof must carry the convincing force required by law to support a verdict of guilt."

Crane, 99 Nev. at 687.

This Court has held that it is not error to refuse to give the circumstantial evidence instruction stating:

"We have heretofore considered such an instruction in cases involving both direct and circumstantial evidence and have ruled that it is not error to refuse to give the instruction."

Bails v. State, 92 Nev. 95, 97, 545 P.2d 1155 (1976).

In a case that preceded Bails, supra, Vincze v. State, 86

1 Nev. 546, 472 P.2d 936 (1970) the Court adopted the reasoning
2 of the United States Supreme Court in Holland v. United States,
3 348 U.S. 121 (1954) that such an instruction was confusing and 4 incorrect if the jury was properly instructed on reasonable
5 doubt. The instruction at issue in Holland is different than 6 that offered by MASON and set forth in Crane above. The 7 Holland instruction is described by the Court as follows:

8 "The petitioner assail the refusal of the trial judge
9 to instruct that where the Government's evidence is 10 circumstantial it must be such as to exclude every reasonable hypothesis other than that of guilt."

11 Holland, 348 U.S. at 139. Clearly the instruction offered by 12 MASON is not the equivalent to that rejected in Holland.

13 Likewise, the Court in Vincze cited to Compton v. U.S., 14 305 F.2d 119 (9th Cir. 1962) in support of rejecting the 15 offered instruction, but the instruction was significantly 16 dissimilar. In Compton the instruction dealt with the 17 presumption of innocence and provided:

18 "The jury are instructed that when a man's conduct
19 may be consistently, and as reasonably from the 20 evidence, referred to two motives, one criminal and 21 the other innocent, it is your duty to presume that such conduct is actuated by the innocent motive, and not be the criminal."

22 Compton, 305 U.S. at 120.

23 It appears that a growing number of states are rejecting 24 the conflicting circumstantial evidence instruction which are 25 the equivalent of Proposed B herein. In State v. Humphreys, 8
26 P.3d 652 (Id. 2000) the Court examined the issue and reversed
27 existing precedent supporting the instruction, and partially 28

1 relying upon Holland, supra, stated:

2 "We agree with the conclusion of the courts from 3 the growing majority of states that in all criminal
4 cases there should be only one standard of proof,
5 which is beyond a reasonable doubt. Therefore, we 6 hold that once the jury has been properly instructed 7 on the reasonable doubt standard of proof, the 8 defendant is not entitled to an additional 9 instruction on circumstantial evidence even when all
10 the evidence is circumstantial."

11 Humphreys, 8 P.3d at 656-57.

12 Proposed Instruction B does not attempt to differentiate a 13 different burden in circumstantial cases. Devitt & Blackmar, 14 Federal Jury Practice and Instruction 11.14 at 310-311 (3rd ed.
15 1977) contains the following paragraph:

16 "So if the jury, after careful and impartial
17 consideration of all the evidence in the case, has a 18 reasonable doubt that a defendant is guilty of the 19 charge, it must acquit. If the jury views the 20 evidence in the case as reasonable permitting either
21 of two conclusions - one of innocence, the other of 22 guilt - the jury should of course adopt the 23 conclusion of the innocence."

24 This instruction has been found to be acceptable but not 25 necessary by federal courts. United States v. Larson, 581 F.2d
26 664, 669 (7th Cir. 1978). The instruction is most appropriate 27 in cases in which the evidence against the defendant in 28 primarily circumstantial. United States v. Cruz, 603 F.2d 673, 675 (7th Cir. 1979).

Wherefore MASON urges that this Court adopt the "two inferences" instruction contained in Proposed Instruction B and that it was error for the Court to refuse to so instruct the jury in the instant case.

V.

THERE WAS NOT SUFFICIENT EVIDENCE
TO CONVICT MASON OF FIRST DEGREE MURDER

It is respectfully urged upon this Court that the properly admissible evidence presented by the State at trial failed to establish the guilt of MASON beyond a reasonable doubt of First Degree Murder.

NRS 175.191 provides that:

"A defendant in a criminal action is presumed to be innocent until the contrary is proved; and in the case of a reasonable doubt whether his guilt is satisfactorily shown he is entitled to be acquitted."

This Court in Edwards v. State, 90 Nev. 255, 524 P.2d 388 (1974) stated that:

"...the test for sufficiency upon appellate review is not whether this court is convinced beyond a reasonable doubt, but whether the jury, acting reasonably, could be convinced to that certitude by evidence it had the right accept."

It is a well recognized rule that where there is substantial evidence in the record to support the verdict it will not be overturned by the appellate court. Nix v. State, 91 Nev. 613, 541 P.2d 1 (1975); Sanders v. State, 90 Nev. 433, 529 P.2d 206 (1979). It is also well accepted that a conviction must be reversed where the evidence is so weak that it constitutes no evidence at all. In re: Corey, 41 Cal.Rptr. 397 (1964); People v. Brown, 92 P.2d 492, 132 Cal.Rptr. 397 (1939). No guilty verdict should be upheld merely because some evidence supporting the conviction was offered. The appellate court must determine if there was evidence sufficient to

1 justify a rational trier of fact to find "guilt beyond a
2 reasonable doubt." See, Jackson v. Virginia, 443 U.S. 307, 61
3 L.Ed.2d 560, 99 S.Ct 2781 (1979); In re: Winship, 397 U.S. 358, 4 25 L.Ed.2d 368, 90 S.Ct 1068 (1970).

5 While it is possible for a conviction to be sustained
6 based solely on circumstantial evidence, the circumstances
7 proved must be unequivocal and inconsistent with innocence.
8 Woodall v. State, 97 Nev. 235, 627 P.2d 402 (1981); State v.
9 Weaver, 371 P.2d 1006 (Wash. 1962); State v. Jones, 373 P.2d
10 116 (Wash. 1961). This Court held in Woodall, supra, that a 11 jury is obligated to afford the defendant the benefit of all 12 reasonable doubt. The standard enunciated in Woodall, was 13 whether a rational trier of fact could reject a plausible
14 explanation consistent with the defendant's innocence.
15 Additionally, it must be determined whether the defendant was 16 inferred to be guilty based upon evidence from which only 17 uncertain inferences may be drawn. Conald v. Sheriff, 94 Nev.
18 289, 579 P.2d 768 (1968); Oxborrow v. Sheriff, 93 Nev. 321, 565
19 P.2d 652 (1977); Gilespey v. Sheriff, 89 Nev. 221, 510 P.2d 623
20 (1976); State v. Luchette, 87 Nev. 343, 486 P.2d 1189 (1979).

21
22 The evidence presented at trial was conflicting and there
23 was no eyewitness to the actual shooting except Felicia and 24 MASON and their testimony was inconclusive at best. Felicia
25 was shown to have consistently lied about her relationship with 26 MASON and the events leading up to the death of Wolf. It is 27 not inconsequential that the jury acquitted MASON of having 28

1 stolen the .38 revolver that was the alleged weapon used to
2 shoot Wolf. If the jury did not believe that MASON had taken
3 the revolver, it is a fair assumption that the jury believed 4 that Felicia had taken the gun at some previous time. This was 5 corroborated by the testimony of Theena and Christopher Jones
6 that Felicia had been observed just shortly before the incident
7 trying to sell a gun that looked just like the .38 revolver
8 found in the vent under room 205 at the Vista Motel.

9 The trial evidence corroborated MASON'S testimony of what 10 transpired. Both Kevin Brown and Renay Matthews knew that Wolf
11 kept a machete in his bedroom. MASON would not have known of 12 the machete had he not seen Wolf trying to use it on Felicia
13 when she shot him.

14 Similarly the actions of Felicia at the Vista Motel
15 establish that she was trying to avoid detection by hiding
16 under the bed. If as she claimed, she had nothing and had been 17 kidnapped, would not her just reaction have been to yell for 18 help rather than hiding quietly until the police dog located 19 her?
20

21 Based on all of the evidence presented by the parties it
22 is respectfully urged that there was insufficient evidence to 23 convict MASON of first degree murder and that his conviction
24 must therefore be set aside.
25

VI.

IT WAS IMPROPER TO ADMIT THE PHOTOGRAPH OF
THE DECEASED LAYING ON A GURNEY AT THE MORGUE
WITH A BLOODY FACE WHEN IDENTITY WAS NOT AN ISSUE

During the testimony of Felicia Jackson, during re-direct examination the prosecution over defense objection showed a photograph of the deceased laying on a gurney at the morgue with blood in his fact. (3 APP 294).

Felicia had finished lengthy direct examination on the previous day and had finished an equally lengthy cross-examination on the sequence of events. Not once did MASON question the identity of Dudley Thomas. Then on re-direct at the very end of the questioning, the prosecutor shows the gruesome photograph to Felicia and asks "Who is that?" (3 APP 294) There was absolutely no probative value to the photograph and it was a tactic to force a witness to become emotional and prejudice the jury against the Defendant.

At the next break MASON put his objection on the record. His position was that the photographs were more prejudicial than probative especially when considered that he had stipulated to the identity of Dudley Thomas and as cause and manner of death and identity were not issues in the case.

Photographs that depict the victims in such a manner as to be gruesome, gory and inflammatory serve no evidentiary purpose. Because this was a capital prosecution, exacting standards must be met to assure that the trial is fair.

Johnson v. Mississippi, 486 U.S. 578, 584 (1988); Gardner v.

1 Florida, 430 U.S. 349, 363-64 (1977); Woodson v. North
2 Carolina, 428 U.S. 280, 305 (1976) (White, Jr., concurring).
3 At a capital trial, the constitution mandates the avoidance of 4 inflammatory appeals to the passions and prejudices of juries.
5 The United States Supreme Court has repeatedly held that 6 "Because of the qualitative difference [between death and any 7 other form of punishment], there is a corresponding difference
8 in the need for reliability in the determination that death is 9 the appropriate punishment in a specific case." Woodson v.
10 North Carolina, 428 U.S. 280, 305 (1976); Gardner v. Florida,
11 430 U.S. 349, 363-64 (1977); Lockett v. Ohio, 438 U.S. 586, 604
12 (1978); Beck v. Alabama, 447 U.S. 625, 637-38 (1980).

13 It is well established that where the prejudicial effect
14 of photographs outweighs their probative value, they should not 15 be admitted. Caylor v. State, 353 So.2d 9 (Ala.Cr.App. 1977).
16 See also, Commonwealth v. Scaramuzzino, 317 A.2d 225, 226 (Pa.
17 1974) ("photograph of a wound of the back of the ear with the 18 hair pulled away" too prejudicial); State v. Clawson, 270
19 S.E.2d 659, 671 (W.Va. 1980) (citing cases); accord, McCullough
20 v. State, 341 S.E.2d 706 (Ga. 1986); People v. Coleman, 451
21 N.E.2d 973, 977 (Ill.App.Ct. 1983); Browne v. State, 302 S.E.2d
22 347 (Ga. 1983); Commonwealth v. Richmond, 358 N.E.2d 999, 1001
23 (Mass. 1976); State v. Childers, 536 P.2d 1349, 1354 (Kan.
24 1975); People v. Burns, 241 P.2d 308, 318 (Cal.App. 1952).

25 The Nevada Supreme Court has held, under NRS 48.035(1),
26 that the relevance of victim photographs may be "substantially
27
28

1 outweighed by the danger of unfair prejudice". Where the
2 proffered photographs are "gruesome or unduly prejudicial",
3 they should be excluded. Clem v. State, 104 Nev. 351, 356, 760
4 P.2d 103 (1988); Dearman v. State, 93 Nev. 364, 369, 566 P.2d
5 407 (1977).

6 This Court has held that color photographs of a victim
7 used by a doctor to explain the cause of death to a jury are 8 properly admissible because they aid in the ascertainment of 9 the truth. Allen v. State, 91 Nev. 78, 530 P.2d 1195 (1975).
10 Under such circumstances the probative value of the photographs
11 outweighs any prejudicial impact they might have on the jury.
12 The photographs were entered only for shock value and under 13 such circumstances the prejudicial effect of the photographs
14 outweighed any possible probative value. This evidence 15 deprived MASON of a fundamentally fair trial and due process of 16 law and his conviction should be set aside.

THE COURT ERRED IN ALLOWING THE STATE TO INTRODUCE
PENALTY HEARING EVIDENCE IN VIOLATION OF RULE 250

On February 27, 2001 MASON was convicted of First Degree Murder with Use of a Deadly Weapon, two counts of Burglary with Use of a Deadly Weapon and Second Degree kidnapping with Use of a Deadly Weapon. The State had filed on September 28, 1999 a Notice of Intent to Seek Death Penalty (1 APP 9-10) setting forth two aggravating circumstances:

1. The murder was committed while the person was engaged with another in the commission of or an attempt to commit any Burglary and the defendant killed the person murdered [NRS 200.033(4)(a)] and

2. The murder was committed by a person who had previously been convicted of a felony involving the use or threat of violence to the person of another [NRS 200.033(2)].

Thereafter on August 11, 2000 the State served on counsel for MASON a Notice of Evidence in Support of Aggravating Circumstances (1 APP 11-13). In said Notice the State listed nine (9) items of evidence or testimony that it intended to present "in support of aggravating circumstance and/or character evidence at a penalty hearing". Items 1 through 8 all pertained to the murder of Dudley Thomas on May 10, 1999. Item 9 was documents and supporting evidence showing that the Defendant had been convicted in 1969 in the State of Texas of robbery, a felony involving the use of force or violence.

1 MASON received no additional Notice of Evidence in 2 Aggravation, and after MASON was convicted of First Degree
3 Murder and before the penalty hearing, MASON filed a Motion in 4 Limine to limit the State's evidence at the penalty hearing to 5 those items designated in their Notice of Aggravation (1 APP
6 60-82). The Court heard argument on MASON'S motion and denied
7 same prior to the commencement of the penalty hearing (7 APP
8 874-86).

9 Supreme Court Rule 250(4)(f) states as follows:

10 "(f) Filing of notice of evidence in aggravation.
11 The state must file with the district court a notice
12 of evidence in aggravation no later than 15 days
13 before trial is to commence. The notice must 14 summarize the evidence which the state intends to 15 introduce at the penalty phase of trial, if a first-
16 degree murder conviction is returned, and identify 17 the witnesses, documents, or other means by which the 18 evidence will be introduced. Absent a showing of 19 good cause, the district court shall not admit
20 evidence not summarized in the notice. If the court
21 determines that good cause has been shown to admit
22 evidence not previously summarized in the notice, it
23 must permit the defense to have a reasonable
24 continuance to prepare to meet the evidence."

25 Most recently the Nevada Supreme Court considered the 26 interpretation and failure to comply with the Notice
27 requirements of Rule 250. In State v. District Court, 116 Nev.
28 Ad. Op. 103 (2000) the En Banc Court upheld an order of the Second District Court denying Motions to file untimely notices of intent to seek the death penalty. In State v. District Court, the prosecution was untimely in filing the Notice of Intent within 30 days of the filing of the Information under Supreme Court Rule 250(4)(c) and (d). SCR 250 (4)(d) allows a

1 late filing upon a showing of "good cause", the same language
2 used in 250(4)(f) to excuse the filing of the Notice of 3 evidence of aggravation. The Court found that "the workload of 4 the prosecutor and the complexity of the case did not 5 constitute good cause" and that "mere oversight on the part of 6 the prosecutor does not constitute good cause."

7 The State argued that MASON had knowledge of other bad
8 acts or character evidence that it intended to introduce and 9 that MASON would suffer no prejudice. The Nevada Supreme Court
10 in State v. District Court addressed the prejudice issue and 11 expressly found:

12 "However, nothing in the rule suggests that lack 13 of prejudice to the defendant can supplant the 14 express requirement of a showing of good cause before 15 the district court may grant a motion to file a late notice of intent to seek death."

16 Just as with (4)(d) there is nothing in (4)(f) that supplants
17 the express requirement of a showing of good cause to vary from 18 the required Notice of Evidence in Aggravation required by SCR
19 250.

20 The danger of allowing the State to proceed with 21 presenting bad character evidence against the defendant without 22 notice to the defense was well illustrated during the testimony
23 of Ronald Kie, who over defense objection was allowed to 24 testify that MASON had followed and harassed him and that the 25 police had been called to no avail and that MASON had fired a 26 bullet at him (7 APP 923). This was testimony that was not 27 contained in any notice provided by the State and not part of 28

1 any discovery provided by the State. The situation was thus
2 not significantly different than faced in Emmons v. State, 107
3 Nev. 53, 807 P.2d 718 (1991) wherein the State at the last
4 minute came up with additional character evidence against the 5 defendant at a penalty hearing in a capital case. In Emmons,
6 this Court found that

7 "Consistent with the constitutional requirements of 8 due process, defendant should be notified of any and 9 all evidence to be presented during the penalty hearing."

10 Emmons, 197 Nev. at 62.

11 Likewise the State had obtained information from Flora
12 Mason concerning alleged conversations with MASON about his 13 bragging and being happy about getting away with a killing
14 during 1995, yet had never revealed same to the defense or gave 15 notice until the penalty hearing was set to commence (7 APP
16 939). It is just these type of abuses that Rule 250 attempted
17 to prevent, and would do so if the requirements of the Rule
18 were to be enforced by the District Courts.

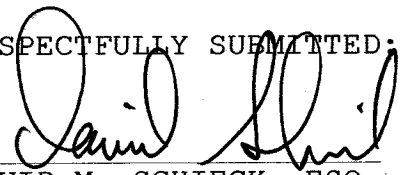

19 It is respectfully requested that this Court interpret
20 Rule 250(4)(f) to require that all evidence be listed in the 21 Notice of Aggravation that the State intends to introduce at a 22 penalty hearing. Such was not done in this case and Mason is 23 entitled to a new penalty hearing.
