1 NRAP 28 (4): Jurisdictional Statement.

2 NRS 177.015(3) grants the Supreme Court or Court of Appeals jurisdiction
3 for review in that it is an appeal from a final judgment or verdict in a criminal
4 case. The Judgment of Conviction was entered on April 19, 2017. Record on 5 Appeal (ROA), Vol. I, p. 37-39. The Notice of Appeal was filed on May 15, 2017.
6 ROA, Vol. I, p. 40. The appeal was filed within the thirty day time frame required
7 pursuant to NRAP 4(b)(1)(a).
8
10
11

12 NRAP 28 (5): Routing Statement.

13 This case is presumptively assigned to the Nevada Supreme Court in that it
14 is a direct appeal from a judgment of conviction based on a jury verdict on a 15 category B felony. NRAP 17(a)(1) and (b)(1).
16
18

19 NRAP 28 (6): Statement of Issues Presented for Review.

20 The issues presented on appeal are:
21

- 22 1. Whether the court abused its discretion in failing to give the jury instruction
23 proffered by the defendant defining the term “reside” as it is used in NRS
24 205.067, the statute which defines home invasion.
25
- 26 2. Whether the court erred in imposing a prison sentence of a maximum term
27 of 96 months in prison with a minimum parole eligibility date of 38 months.
28

1 NRAP 28(7): Statement of the Case.

2 On November 18, 2016, an Information was filed charging John
3 Dunham with Invasion of the Home, a violation of NRS 205.067, a
4 category B felony for entry into a residence on October 25, 2016. Record
5 on Appeal (ROA), Vol. I, p. 1-4. On December 16, 2016, a separate
6 Information was filed charging Burglary, a violation of NRS 205.060, a
7 category B felony arising out of the same facts. ROA, Vol I, p. 5-7. The 8 charges were later joined in a single Information alleging both counts.
9 ROA, Vol I, p. 8-9. Mr. Dunham pled "not guilty" to both charges and trial
10 was scheduled for February 13, 2017. ROA, Vol I, p. 43, 45, 58.
11

12 The matter proceeded to jury trial on the scheduled date. ROA, Vol
13 I, p. 64-168, Vol II, p. 1-233, Vol. III, p. 1-67. On February 15, 2017, the 14 jury returned a verdict of Guilty on the charge of Home Invasion and Not 15 Guilty on the charge of Burglary. ROA, Vol I, p. 15-18. On April 14, 2017,
16 Mr. Dunham appeared with counsel for sentencing. ROA, Vol III, p. 68-
17 130. He was sentenced to a term of imprisonment in the Nevada
18 Department of Corrections for a maximum term of 96 (ninety six) months
19 with a parole eligibility of 38 (thirty eight) months. ROA, Vol I, p. 37-39.
20 The Judgment of Conviction was entered April 19, 2017. ROA, Vol I, p.

5 NRAP 28(8): Statement of Facts.

6 Patricia Scripko and John Dunham were married in Boston in 7 November, 2012 while Ms. Scripko was completing her residency program.
8 ROA, Vol. II, p. 64-65. The couple moved to Salinas, California in July,
9 2014 where Ms. Scripko became employed as a neurologist at Salinas Valley
10 Memorial Hospital. ROA, Vol. II, p. 62, 67. They leased an apartment at 1
11 Surf Way in Monterey, California, about 20 miles from the hospital. ROA,
12 Vol. II, p. 67, 74.

13 Patricia Scripko purchased a condominium at 311 Olympic Court in 14 Stateline, Nevada in October, 2015. The condominium was purchased in her
15 name alone. ROA, Vol. II, p. 76. She had planned to make the condominium
16 her primary residence and to secure employment in Nevada. ROA, Vol. II, p.
17 160-161. Those plans fell through, however, and in July 2016, she signed a 18 two year contract at Salinas Valley Memorial Hospital. ROA, Vol. II, p. 140.

19 During November, 2015, a month after the condominium was 20 purchased, the pipes froze causing considerable damage. ROA, Vol II, p.
21 140. The couple hired Gary LaChasse to do repairs and some other
22

1 remodeling. ROA, Vol. II, p. 165-167. The construction lasted from
2 January through May, 2016. ROA, Vol. II, p. 166. During the construction,
3 Mr. Dunham visited the condominium frequently and would stay a week or 4 more at a time. ROA, Vol. II, p. 181. Ms. Scripko occasionally visited on 5 the weekends. ROA, Vol. II, p. 142, 182.
6

8 In June, 2016, Mr. Dunham and Ms. Scripko separated. ROA, Vol. II, 9 p. 64. Ms. Scripko remained in Monterey and Mr. Dunham spent the 10 summer at the condominium with two of his children from a previous 11 marriage. ROA, Vol. II, p. 143.
12

13 On August 23, 2017, Mr. Dunham was served in open court with a 14 protective order. Ms. Scripko was also present in the courtroom when the 15 order was served. ROA, Vol. II, p.78, 80, ROA, Vol. III, p.130. The order
16 restrained Mr. Dunham from contacting Ms. Scripko and excluded him from 17 the condominium in Stateline and the apartment in Monterey. Id.
18

20 At trial, Ms. Scripko testified that she did not go to the condominium
21 in Stateline from August 23, 2016 through October 21, 2016 because she 22 believed Mr. Dunham was staying at the condominium and she did not want
23 a confrontation. ROA, Vol. II, p. 159. Prior to her visit on October 21st, Ms.
24 Skripko had decided to rent out the condominium and had contacted Gary 25 LaChasse to arrange for repairs recommended by the realtor. ROA, Vol. II, 26
27
28

1 p. 143. Between October 23, 2016 and the trial in February 2017, Ms.
2 Scripko had not stayed in the condominium, although she had visited it on a
3 few occasions. ROA, Vol. II, p.136.
4

5 Before his arrest on October 26, 2016 for the charged incident, Mr.
6 Dunham was contacted twice by law enforcement at the condominium. On 7 August 31, 2016, Deputy Sandoval responded to a call concerning a possible
8 violation of a restraining order at 311 Olympic Court. ROA, Vol. II, p. 20.
9 As he approached the condominium, he saw Mr. Dunham standing in the 10 kitchen. Mr. Dunham came to the door and identified himself to the deputy.
11 ROA, Vol. II, p. 21. The deputy confirmed, through dispatch, that the 12 protection order was still valid. Id. Mr. Dunham was advised he could not be 13 at that address and Mr. Dunham acknowledged he understood. ROA, Vol. II, 14 p. 21-22.
16
17
18

19 In October, 2016, Ms. Scripko made arrangements with Mr. LaChasse
20 to meet him at the condominium and go over the work that needed to be 21 done to prepare the unit to be rented. She let him know she would be
22 arriving on October 21st. ROA, Vol. II, p. 123-124. Mr. LaChasse had a
23 chance meeting with Mr. Dunham a few days before Ms. Skripko's
24 scheduled arrival date and advised Mr. Dunham that Ms. Scripko was 25
26
27
28

1 coming to Stateline for the weekend. ROA, Vol. II, p. 168-170. Mr. Dunham
2 said he was aware of the visit and was leaving town. ROA, Vol. II, p. 170.

3 When she was about an hour away from Stateline, Ms. Scripko called
4 Douglas County Dispatch and asked if a deputy could check the residence
5 before her arrival. ROA, Vol. II, p.123. Deputy Karosich and Deputy Flagg
6 responded to the call at around 3:30 p.m. ROA, Vol. I, p. 83-85. After 7 confirming through dispatch that they had permission to enter the residence,
8 the deputies entered the condominium. ROA, Vol. I, p. 88. In a bedroom on 9 the lowest level of the condominium, they located Mr. Dunham partially 10 under a bed. ROA, Vol. I, p. 92, 99-101. Mr. Dunham had a shotgun beneath
11 him, although only the stock was visible. ROA, Vol. I, p. 101. The shotgun
12 was unloaded. ROA, Vol. I, p. 119. There was also a box of ammunition
13 near Mr. Dunham's shoulder. ROA, Vol. I, p. 123. Near the head of the bed
14 was an open panel to a crawl space. ROA, Vol. I, p. 113.

15 Mr. Dunham was taken into custody. ROA, Vol. I, p. 158. Deputy 16 Flagg testified that Mr. Dunham was intoxicated at the time of his arrest. Id.
17 A later breath test revealed he had a blood alcohol content of .264. ROA,
18 Vol. I, p.159.

19 Mr. LaChasse arrived at the condominium at around 4:00 p.m. ROA,
20 Vol. II, p. 171. When he arrived, the officers were still inside the residence.
21
23
24
25
26
27
28

1 Id. After Mr. Dunham was escorted out, Mr. LaChasse changed the lock on
2 the door as Ms. Scripko had requested. ROA, Vol. II, p.171, 180. Ms.
3 Scripko arrived ten to fifteen minutes after the deputies had left. ROA, Vol.
4 II, p. 172. Mr. Lachasse gave her a key to the new lock and kept one for 5 himself. ROA, Vol. II, p. 174. Prior to leaving, Mr. LaChasse closed and 6 locked the sliding window in the kitchen near the front door. ROA, Vol. II, p.
7 172-174.

10 Ms. Scripko stayed at the condominium from Friday, October 21st
11 until Sunday, October 23rd. When she left the condominium, the door was 12 locked and the window was undamaged and secured. ROA, Vol. II, p. 159.
13

15 On October 25, 2016, Mr. Dunham appeared in court and was released
16 from custody. He was served with a copy of the release conditions that 17 prohibited him from going to Summit Village or Tahoe Village where the 18 condominium was located. ROA, Vol. III, p. 132, ROA, Vol. II, p. 136-137.
19 After his release, he met with Chief Doug Albertson of the Department of 20 Alternative Sentencing. ROA, Vol. II, p.190-193. Mr. Dunham signed the 21 rules of alternative sentencing that included the prohibition against going on 22 the premises of Summit Village or Tahoe Village. ROA, Vol. III, p. 131,
23 ROA, Vol. II, p. 191-193.
24
25
26
27
28

1 On the morning of October 26, 2016, Mr. LaChasse went to the 2 condominium to install some doors. ROA, Vol. II, p. 175. When he arrived,
3 he saw the screen was off the kitchen window and the window itself was 4 broken. ROA, Vol. II, p. 175-176. He also found the door was unlocked.
5 ROA, Vol. II, p. 176-177. Once inside, he and his helper, Ernie Levario,
6 heard music coming from the loft. Id. At Mr. LaChasse request, Mr. Lavario
7 went up the steps far enough to see that there was a man asleep in the loft.
8 ROA, Vol. II, p. 176-178. Mr. LaChasse and Mr. Lavario left the 9 condominium and called the sheriff's office and Ms. Scripko. ROA, Vol. II,
10 p. 178.

11 Deputy Eissinger and Deputy Kumagai responded to the 12 condominium. ROA, Vol. II, p. 200. Deputy Eissinger entered the residence
13 and called out for "John" several times. Soon, he saw Mr. Dunham coming 14 down the stairs from the loft. ROA, Vol. II, p. 204. Mr. Dunham appeared to 15 be stumbling and was not coherent. ROA, Vol. II, p. 205. He placed Mr.
16 Dunham in handcuffs. Id. Deputy Eissinger asked Mr. Dunham if he had 17 taken any narcotics or prescription medication. Mr. Dunham responded that 18 he had. ROA, Vol. II, p. 210-211. Deputy Kumagai found an empty
19 prescription bottle in the loft. ROA, Vol. II, p. 211, 217. Prior to driving Mr.
20 Dunham to the jail, Deputy Eissinger drove Mr. Dunham to the hospital and 21

1 waited several hours until he was medically cleared. ROA, Vol. II, p.211,
2 218. Based on this arrest, Mr. Dunham was charged with Burglary and
3 Home Invasion. ROA, Vol. I, p. 8-9.

5
6 NRAP 28(9): Summary of the Arguments.
7

8 I. The court abused its discretion in declining to give an instruction
9 defining the term “reside” as it is used in NRS 205.067. Since the defense theory
10 of the case was that the victim of the crime did not reside at the residence, the 11 court had an affirmative duty to give an instruction defining the word. Even if the 12 defense proposed instruction was poorly drafted, but nonetheless proposed a 13 defense theory of the case instruction that should be given; the State could have 14 requested additional, clarifying language more fully explicating the principles of 15 law applicable to the jury's deliberations. The district court was responsible for 16 not only assuring that the substance of the defendant's requested instruction was 17 provided to the jury, but that the jury was otherwise fully and correctly instructed.
18
20
21

22 II. The sentence of ninety six months incarceration with a minimum
23 parole eligibility of thirty six months violated the constitutional prohibition
24 against cruel and unusual punishment in that it was grossly disproportionate
25 to the severity of the crime. Based on Mr. Dunham’s lack of criminal history,
26 his family support, his desire and amenability to treatment and the unique
27
28

1 facts of the case, Mr. Dunham would have been a good candidate for
2 probation as was recommended by the Division of Parole and Probation. The 3 sentence imposed was grossly out of proportion to the severity of the crime
4 and even exceeded the sentence recommended by the state.
5

8 NRAP 28(10): Argument.

9 I. The court abused its discretion in declining to give an 11 205.067. Since the defense theory of the case was that the 12 victim of the crime did not reside at the residence, the court

13 had an affirmative duty to give an instruction defining the 14 word.

15 Mr. Dunham was charged in Count One of the Second Amended
16 Information with the crime of Home Invasion, a violation of NRS 205.067, a 17 category B felony. The Home Invasion statute provides:
18

19 “A person who, by day or night, forcibly enters an 20 inhabited dwelling without permission of the owner,
21 resident or lawful occupant, whether or not a person is 22 present at the time of the entry, is guilty of invasion of the home.”

23 NRS 205.067(1).
24

25 The statute goes on to define an “inhabited dwelling” as follows:
26

27 “ ‘Inhabited dwelling’ means any structure, building, house,
28 room, apartment, tenement, tent, conveyance, vessel, boat,

1 vehicle, house trailer, travel trailer, motor home or railroad car
2 in which the owner or other lawful occupant resides.”

3 NRS 205.067 (5)(b).

4 At trial, the defense offered a jury instruction concerning the term
5 “resides”. ROA, Vol. I, p. 14. The instruction sought to define, clarify and 6 emphasize the term for the jury. The instruction read as follows:
7

9 “Reside means to dwell permanently or continuously. It
10 expresses an idea that a person keeps or returns to a particular
11 dwelling place as his fixed, settled or legal abode. The plain
12 meaning of reside implies a continuous arrangement.”

13 Id.

14 The court rejected the instruction over defense counsel’s objection. In 15 doing so, the court stated:
16

17 “Instruction 35 is a definition of reside, and the court
18 concludes the jury can use the plain meaning of that term. It is 19 not a word that needs to be defined for them. Ms. Brown may 20 argue definition of reside at the time that she argues her
21 closing argument, but I’m not going to give a definition of 22 reside. There’s not a Nevada case which defines reside. It is 23 not defined by a statute and, therefore, the jury will use their 24 common sense and determine the plain meaning of that word
25 without the court defining it for them.”

26 ROA, Vol. III, p. 3.

27 A judge has broad discretion to settle jury instructions, and the district 28 court’s decision will be reviewed for an abuse of that discretion or judicial error. Olivera v. State, 2016 Nev. App. LEXIS 238 (2016) (citing Crawford v.

1 State, 121 Nev. 746, 748, 121 P.3d 582, 585 (2005)). An abuse of discretion
2 is found if the district court's decision is arbitrary or capricious or if it
3 exceeds the bounds of law or reason. Crawford, 121 Nev. at 748, 121 P.3d at 4 585. Even if the court errs by refusing to give an instruction, the error will be 5 harmless if the reviewing court is convinced beyond reasonable doubt that 6 the jury's verdict was not attributable to that error. Crawford, 121 Nev. at 7 756, 121 P.3d at 590.
8
10

11 Although the court is not required to define every word in a statute in 12 the instructions, the court must instruct the jury on the necessary elements of 13 the charge crime and failure to do so is reversible error. Olivera, supra;
14 Rossana v. State, 113 Nev. 37, 934 p.2d 1045 (1997); Dawes v. State, 110
15 Nev. 1141, 881 P.2d 670 (1994). Furthermore, the Nevada Supreme Court
16 has consistently held that the defense has the right to have the jury instructed 17 on its theory of the case as disclosed by the evidence, no matter how weak or 18 incredible that evidence may be. Crawford, 121 Nev. at 751, 121 P.3d at 19 586. (citing Vallery v. State, 118 Nev. 357, 372 46 P.3d 66, 76-77(2002)).
20
21 The jury is entitled to receive a jury instruction that gives a full explanation
22 of the defense theory of the case. Crawford, 121 Nev. at 753, 121 P.3d at 23 588. Jurors should not be expected to be legal experts nor make legal 24 inferences with respect to the law. They should, instead, be provided with 25
26
27
28

1 applicable legal principals by accurate, clear and complete instructions.

2 Crawford, 121 Nev. at 754, 121 P.3d at 588.

4 Even if the instruction requested by the defense is poorly drafted or 5 might be considered misleading or incomplete, the court has a duty to 6 include an instruction that incorporates the defense theory of the case. As 7 stated in Crawford:
8

10 “Rather, where a defendant's proposed instruction is poorly
11 drafted, but nonetheless proposes a defense theory of the case
12 instruction that should be given; the State may request
13 additional, clarifying language more fully explicating the 14 principles of law applicable to the jury's deliberations. And in 15 the final analysis, the district court is ultimately responsible for 16 not only assuring that the substance of the defendant's requested
17 instruction is provided to the jury, but that the jury is otherwise
18 fully and correctly instructed. In this, the district court may 19 either assist the parties in crafting the required instructions or 20 may complete the instructions sua sponte.”

21 Crawford, 121 Nev. at 755, 121 P.3d at 589.

22 In this case, it was obvious that the defense theory of the case was that 23 Ms. Scripko was not residing at, and had never resided at the condominium
24 in Stateline. Therefore, it was not an “inhabited dwelling” within the 25 meaning of the statute. Although she had purchased the condominium with 26 the intent to move to Nevada and live there, those plans had been 27 abandoned. As is set out in the statement of facts, a substantial amount of 28

1 her testimony centered around her physical presence, or lack thereof, at the
2 condominium and her intent to treat the property as a rental and not her
3 home or dwelling place.
4

5 In settling the instructions, the judge had concluded the term “reside”
6 did not need to be defined, although it is an interregal part of the definition
7 of the crime. He stated defense counsel could argue the meaning to the jury.
8 This was done. ROA, Vol. III, p. 46-47. But without an instruction on the 9 law, there was no instruction to anchor on. Defense counsel was left with 10 what could viewed as her own opinion:
11

14 “What does the term reside mean? We don’t have a legal definition of 15 it, but you can use a general—the general definition of it. It means to live 16 there.”
17
18

19 ROA, Vol. III, p. 46.
20

21 There is no Nevada case defining the word “reside” in the context of 22 the Home Invasion statute. The language of the defense instruction was 23 taken from the case Petrowsky v. Krause, 223 Wis. 2d 32, 588 N.W. 2d 318
24 (1998). In that case, the court found that the term “reside” as used in the 25 domestic violence statute required a continuous living arrangement.
26
27
28 Petrowsky at 223 Wis. 2d 37, 588 N.W. 2d 320. In other contexts, courts have

1 also concluded that the word “reside” by its plain definition requires some
2 ongoing presence. Collins v. Auto Owners Ins. Co. 2017 Ohio App. LEXIS
3 866 (2017) (The plain and ordinary meaning of reside is to dwell
4 permanently or continuously); State v. Cloyd, 238 S.W.3d 183 (Mo. App.
5 2007). In Cloyd the court found that the term “reside” generally means:

8 “To settle oneself or a thing in a place, to be stationed, to remain or 9 stay, to dwell permanently or continuously, to have a settled abode for 10 a time, to have one’s residence or domicile; specifically, to be in the 11 residence, to have an abiding place, to be present as an element, to 12 inhere as a quality, to be vested as a right.”

13 Id at 186.

14 The state felt the instruction on the term “reside” was significant
15 enough to address in a written objection to the defense instruction. ROA,
16 Vol. I, p. 10-12. In opposing the instruction, the state noted the term
17 “reside” can have different meanings in different contexts, but offered no
18 constructive suggestion of what it meant in the context of the Home Invasion
19 statute. The legislature obviously used it to distinguish an inhabited structure
20 from one that is uninhabited. In fact, in the NRS 205.0813, which defines a 21 lesser crime of Housebreaking, the terms “uninhabited or vacant dwelling”
22 are used. Obviously the term “resides” has significance in determining if in 23 fact a crime had been committed. It is an element of the offense, and yet the 24
26
27
28

1 court by not defining the word left the jury to establish the meaning of the
2 element themselves. As was noted in Crawford, where a defenses proposes
3 a defense theory of the case instruction that should be given, the State may 4 request additional, clarifying language more fully explaining the principles
5 of law applicable to the jury's deliberations. The district court may either 6 assist the parties in crafting the required instruction or may complete the 7 instruction sua sponte. In the end the district court is ultimately responsible
8 for not only assuring that the substance of the defendant's requested 9 instruction is provided to the jury, but that the jury is otherwise fully and 10 correctly instructed.
11
13
14

15 In the present case, the district court abused its discretion by 16 abandoning that obligation. The jury was left to determine the meaning of 17 the word without proper guidance from the court. At this point, it is 18 unknown what meaning, if any the jury gave to the word. Therefore the error
19 was not harmless.

23 II. The sentence of ninety six months incarceration with a minimum
24 parole eligibility of thirty six months violated the constitutional 25 prohibition against cruel and unusual punishment in that it was 26 grossly disproportionate to the severity of the crime.

27 The Eighth Amendment to the United States Constitution prohibits the 28 infliction of cruel and unusual punishment, and therefore, "forbids . . .

1 extreme sentences that are 'grossly disproportionate' to the crime." Harmelin
2 v. Michigan, 501 U.S. 957, 1001, 111 S. Ct. 2680, 115 L. Ed. 2d 836 (1991)
3 (quoting Solem v. Helm, 463 U.S. 277, 288, 303, 103 S. Ct. 3001, 77 L. Ed.
4 2d 637 (1983)); U.S Const. amend. VIII. The Nevada constitution contains a
5 similar prohibition. Article 1, Section 6 of the Nevada Constitution. The 6 Nevada Supreme Court has held that sentence within the statutory limits is 7 cruel and unusual punishment if the sentence is so unreasonably
8 disproportionate to the offense as to shock the conscience. Blume v. State,
9 112 Nev. 472, 475, 915 P.2d 282, 284 (1996) (quoting Culverson v. State, 95
10 Nev. 433, 435, 596 P.2d 220, 222 (1979)). A punishment is unconstitutionally 11 excessive "if it (1) makes no measurable contribution to goals of punishment 12 and hence is nothing more than the purposeless and needless imposition of 13 pain and suffering; or (2) is grossly out of proportion to the severity of the 14 crime." Pickard v. State, 94 Nev. 681, 684, 585 P.2d 1342, 1344 (1978).

16 The court reviews constitutional issues de novo. Jackson v. State 128
17 Nev. 598, 603, 291 P.3d 1274, 1277 (2012).

19 Mr. Dunham was convicted of a single count of home invasion and 20 was sentenced to a maximum term of ninety six (96) months with the 21 Nevada Department of Corrections with a minimum parole eligibility of 22 thirty eight (38) month. ROA, Vol. I, p. 37-39. This sentence constitutes

1 cruel and unusual punishment in that it is grossly out of proportion to the 2 severity of the crime. Although the sentence was not the maximum that
3 could be imposed, it was in the upper range of the sentence. The Department
4 of Parole and Probation had recommended a sentence of a maximum of forty
5 eight (48) months imprisonment and a minimum parole eligibility of twelve
6 (12) months, that the sentence be suspended and that Mr. Dunham be placed
7 on supervised probation. ROA, Vol. I, p. 26. The State recommended a
8 sentence of a maximum of forty eight (72) months imprisonment and a
9 minimum parole eligibility of twelve (14) months. ROA, Vol. III, p 37. The 10 sentence Mr. Dunham received greatly exceeded those recommendations.
11
13
14

15 Prior to his conviction in the present case, Mr. Dunham had one
16 misdemeanor conviction in 2011. ROA, Vol. I, p. 22. Mr. Dunham admitted 17 that alcohol had controlled his life and advised the court that he had been 18 attending Alcoholics Anonymous while in jail. ROA, Vol. I, p. 30. At the 19 time of his arrest, Mr. Dunham was determined to have been under the 20 influence of prescription medication. ROA, Vol. II, p. 205, 211, 218. Letters
21 were submitted showing he had family support. ROA, Vol. I, p. 34-35. Even 22 his former wife described him as an excellent father. She also spoke of his 23 alcohol problem and the need for treatment. ROA, Vol. I, p. 33. Based on his 24
26
27
28

1 social history it was shown that Mr. Dunham could have benefitted from a
2 term of probation.

3 The facts of the case were also not so aggravated as to justify a
4 sentence of ninety six months. The condominium where the crime occurred
5 was purchased during the course of the marriage. ROA, Vol. II, p. 76. Mr.
6 Dunham had been the primary resident at the condominium. ROA, Vol. II, p.
7 143, 181. Though excluded from the residence by court order, he was still 8 married to Ms. Scripko and his ownership interest in the property had not 9 been determined or extinguished. ROA, Vol. II p. 63, 78, 80.
10

11 Ms. Scripko was not living at or present at the condominium when 12 Mr. Dunham entered. ROA, Vol. II, p. 159. A few days before Ms. Scripko's
13 visit to the condominium on October 21st, Mr. Dunham had been advised by 14 Mr. LaChance that Ms. Scripko was coming for "the weekend". Therefore,
15 Mr. Dunham had no expectation that she would be there the following
16 Wednesday.
17

18 Mr. Dunham, broke the window to gain entry to the condominium, but
19 there was no other damage. There was no evidence he committed another 20 crime while in the condominium. The jury found him "Not Guilty" of the 21 burglary charge, finding insufficient evidence that he intended to commit a 22 crime. ROA, Vol. I, p. 17. He was discovered asleep in the condominium the 23
25
26
27
28

1 next morning and was arrested without incident. ROA, Vol. II, p. 176-178,
2 205.

3 Based on Mr. Dunham's lack of criminal history, his family support,
4 his desire and amenability to treatment and the unique facts of the case, Mr.
5 Dunham would have been a good candidate for probation as was
6 recommended by the Division of Parole and Probation. The sentence
7 imposed was grossly out of proportion to the severity of the crime and even
8 exceeded that recommended by the state. As such, Mr. Dunham's sentence
9 violates the constitutional prohibition against cruel and unusual punishment.
