2010 conviction. In that Criminal Complaint, the prior conviction is notably crossed out in both the title and body of the document. The court record sufficiently provides enough evidence suggesting the parties were fully aware of the prior May 19, 2010 conviction prior to allowing Mr. Kephart to plead to a First Domestic Battery on July 29, 2010.

As previously noted, Mr. Kephart was not represented by counsel on July 29, 2010, and there was no written plea agreement prepared. Had there been a written plea agreement, this decision would have been an easy call, but there wasn't one. This Court observes that proper person Defendants do not typically prepare plea agreements. What tends to happen is that the Defendant shows up, the State negotiates with him and says something to the effect of, "Look, we'll let you plead to a first. You'll get the first punishment, not the second punishment." Then, the Clerk puts something in front of the Defendant to sign, he signs it. However, the Defendant is not represented by counsel, so nobody's really telling him what any of it means. This is where this Court has a hard time with using the July 29, 2010 conviction for felony enhancement purposes.

Based upon the foregoing reasons, the Court hereby GRANTS Defendant's motion to exclude the prior First Domestic Battery convictions for felony enhancement purposes.

IT IS SO ORDERED

Dated this 274 day of February, 2017.

ORDER DISMISSING APPEAL

This is an appeal from a district court order purporting to grant a motion to suppress. Second Judicial District Court, Washoe County; William A. Maddox, Senior Judge.

On March 24, 2017, this court entered an order directing appellant to show cause why this appeal should not be dismissed for lack of jurisdiction. Specifically, it appeared that the notice of appeal was untimely filed. See NRS 177.015(2); State v. Braidy, 104 Nev. 669, 765 P.2d 187 (1988). Appellant has filed a response to the order and respondent has filed a reply.

Respondent was charged by way of information superseding indictment with one felony count of domestic battery. This charge was prosecuted as a felony based on respondent's two prior convictions for domestic battery.

In its response, appellant argues that the order appealed from did not grant a motion to suppress but, rather, was "more akin to an order granting a motion to dismiss." Specifically, appellant states that the order appealed from was not an order granting a motion to suppress because it did not exclude evidence on the grounds that the evidence was unlawfully obtained. Appellant argues that the order appealed from ruled that the prior convictions could not be used to enhance the domestic battery charge to a felony. Therefore, the order operates as an order granting a motion to dismiss because the charge in the information will not be considered by the court or a jury and, thus, the order is appealable pursuant to NRS 177.015(1)(b).

SUPREME COURT OF NEVADA

(O) 1947A 🐠

17-18777

Although counsel for appellant stated that he was filing a notice of appeal from an "order granting motion to suppress," and he attempted to comply with the filing deadlines related to such an appeal, see NRS 177.015(2), we agree with appellant that this is not an appeal from an order granting a motion to suppress, and the timelines related to the filing of notices of appeal in this regard do not apply. See State v. Shade, 110 Nev. 57, 867 P.2d 393 (1994) (defining "motion to suppress"). However, neither is this an appeal from an order granting a motion to dismiss. The order appealed from does not dismiss any charges against respondent. See State v. Koseck, 112 Nev. 244, 911 P.2d 1196 (1996). The order appealed from grants respondent's motion to exclude two prior convictions for felony enhancement purposes, but does not dismiss the charge pending against respondent.

The right to appeal is statutory; where no statute or court rule provides for an appeal, no right to appeal exists. Castillo v. State, 106 Nev. 349, 352, 729 P.2d 1133, 1135 (1990). No statute or court rule provides for an appeal from a district court order excluding the use of prior convictions for felony enhancement purposes. Such an order is an intermediate order that can and should be reviewed on appeal from a final judgment. See NRS 177.045. We lack jurisdiction to consider this appeal, and we Honor? The D.A. didn't -- may I approach?

1
             MR. BOLENBAKER: It's from the waiver.

3
            MS. BRADY: May I approach?
             THE COURT: It's the first line.
4
   BY MR. BOLENBAKER:
6
             If you could read Number 1.
             It says: "I understand the State will use this enhance the penalty for any subsequent offense."

10
             Do you understand that?
11
             No. I mean, kind of.
12
             Do you understand that you had another domestic 15

        A
             Yes.
            And this actual paragraph here is actually 16

17
    bolded. Would you agree with me on that?
18
19
             MS. BRADY: Objection. Let me see. I don't see anything bolded here. What's bolded? Are you talking

             MR. BOLENBAKER: The waiver: it's bolded.

MS. BRADY: I don't see where that's bolded. 1 THE COURT: What number? 3 MR. BOLENBAKER: Number 1, where it specifically says that this conviction or any other conviction could be 4 5 used for enhancement purposes. THE COURT: I can't tell from that one whether 6 it's bolded or not. 7 8 BY MR. BOLENBAKER: But you see it, you read it, and these are your 9 initials on the bottom; correct? 10 Those are my initials. 11 All right. You'd also agree with me -- did you 12 have a chance to look at the Court minutes from 2010? 14 A No. You did not review them? 15 No. 16 A MS. BRADY: I did not give him the Court minutes, 17 Your Honor. There would be no reason why a defendant 18 would have copies of the Court minutes. 19 THE COURT: Well, show them to him now. 20 MR. BOLENBAKER: I have them somewhere. 21 BY MR. BOLENBAKER: 22 I'd like to show you the Court minutes. 23 0 MS. BRADY: And I would object to trying to 24

BOLENBAKER: I think the Clerk of the Court 5 6 might take offense to that, but --THE COURT: I understand that, but you can ask 7 8 him questions, and you can object to some of the questions, but he can answer. 9 MS. BRADY: I think the Clerk of the Court would 10 11 know exactly what I'm talking about. BY MR. BOLENBAKER: 12 On the bottom of that page, tell me where it says 13 14 that this conviction specifically limits the State's ability to use that conviction as an enhancement. 15 16 MS. BRADY: Objection. These aren't transcripts. 17 THE COURT: Let him read it. He's asking him if 18 there's anything in the minutes that say that; that's all 19 he's asking. MS. BRADY: What is the relevance of asking the 20 21 client what's in the minutes, when he's not responsible for the minutes, never saw the minutes? What does Mr. 22 23 Kephart have to do with the minutes?

MR. BOLENBAKER: Your Honor, I believe he's happened, and I'm just simply --

             MS. BRADY: Objection.
3
             THE COURT: Let's move forward. I can sort this 4 out. We don't have a jury here. I'm pretty sure the 5
    Court Reporter doesn't care what you guys are saying,
6
    unless you say it fast. So let's move forward. Answer the question. Do you see anything in there?
7
8
             THE WITNESS: I really don't understand this 9 document at all.
10
             MR. BOLENBAKER: Okay. No further questions.
11
             THE COURT: Mr. Kephart, were you arrested on 12
13
    this charge?
             THE WITNESS: Yeah.
14
             THE COURT: So you were arrested, you're in jail, 15 and you get bailed out, I assume?
16
17
             THE WITNESS: Yes.
18
             THE COURT: And then what happened after that?
   What happened after you were arrested and bailed out? You 19 went back to Court?
20
21
             THE WITNESS: Yeah, we each went back to Court, 22
    and -- 23
             THE COURT: Did you have an attorney?
24
             THE WITNESS: No.

THE COURT: Now, you had one the first time. 1 2 didn't you get one the second time? THE WITNESS: I didn't have enough funds. 3 THE COURT: Did anybody advise you you had a 4 5 right to an appointed counsel? 6 THE WITNESS: No. I mean, like they advised me that I had counsel; but, at the same time, they're like, 7 8 "Well, we just want to give you a first on this." So I was like, "Okay." You know what I mean? Me and my girlfriend just got in argument for me going fishing, and 10 11 that was it, you know. 12 THE COURT: The same girlfriend we had here? 13 THE WITNESS: Yes -- no, no, a different 14 girlfriend. It was my daughter's mother. 15 THE COURT: So you only appeared in Court twice? 16 Well, how many times did you appear in Court? 17 THE WITNESS: Once. 18 THE COURT: And you had discussions with the Deputy DA in this case prior to entering a plea? 19 20 THE WITNESS: Yes. 21 THE COURT: What did he say? 22 THE WITNESS: He just told me that they wanted to 23 drop it down to a first, because they didn't want to take it to trial, because they felt there wasn't enough evidence to convict me in a trial. So they're like, 1 "Well, we'll give you a first on this." And I'm like, 2 "All right. I'll will take a first." You know? 3 THE COURT: And where did this discussion take 4 5 place? THE WITNESS: It was in a room just right down 6 the hallway from the courtroom. 7 8 THE COURT: And then you said, "Okay." What happened after that? I want step-by-step. 9 10 THE WITNESS: We just went into the courtroom and the D.A. told the Judge that they wanted to give me a 11 12 first, because of the lack of evidence of anything going 13 on. 14 So I was like -- they told the Judge, and the 15 Judge usually agrees with the D.A. you know? So it's like whatever sentencing the D.A. suggests, usually the Judge 16 17 agrees with. So they're like, "Well give you a first." So it was pretty much a fine, and I signed a bunch of 18 19 paperwork. THE COURT: Did you have to get counseling? 20 21 THE WITNESS: Yes. 22 THE COURT: So you have done it once before?

THE WITNESS: I have only done counseling once for this.

1 THE COURT: Well, you had one prior to this, 2 though. THE WITNESS: Yeah. That's the only thing I did 3 counseling for. I didn't have extended counseling because 4 5 of this. THE COURT: Does anybody have any more questions? 6 MS. BRADY: I do. 7 8 9 REDIRECT EXAMINATION BY MS. BRADY: 10 So the two happened within a similar period of 11 12 time; correct --Yes. 13 Α -- with the same person? 14 15 Yes. A And almost an ongoing situation with you and her 16 17 having arguments? Yeah, for sure. 18 Α 19 Is it fair to say that because they happened so closely, they just combined the counseling and all of that 20 into one? 21 I mean, I don't think so, because like in the 22 23 second one, nobody could find me doing anything wrong.

But, I mean, I was arrested anyway on it, you know what I mean? So I don't feel that they combined anything on it, 1 you know? They just gave me a plea bargain instead of 3 going to trial over it for a first. MS. BRADY: No further questions. 4 THE COURT: Anything more, Mr. Bolenbaker? 5 MR. BOLENBAKER: Briefly. 6 7 RE-CROSS EXAMINATION 8 BY MR. BOLENBAKER: 9 When were you arrested on this case? 10 11 Over a year-and-a-half ago, probably. It seems like a year-and-a-half ago. 12 13 And you would agree with me that at no point between you being arrested, until approximately a week 14 before this trial, did any issue ever come up about you 15 being charged with domestic battery, third offense? 16 When I was first arrested, that's what they told me: That I was charged with a third. 18 19 And it's not until a week before trial. So you 0 had been charged with domestic battery, third offense, for 20 21 a year-and-a-half; correct? Yeah. 22 A 23 MR. BOLENBAKER: No further questions.

MS. BRADY: Just to respond.

1 FURTHER REDIRECT 2 BY MS. BRADY: 3 Your Count 1 was domestic battery by strangulation; correct? 4 5 Α Yes. Most of the conversations, and the defense, was 6 geared around the domestic battery by strangulation; 7 correct? 8 Α Yes. 9 10 And it wasn't until the week before trial that you were arraigned on the Information Superseding 11 Indictment charging only the third domestic battery; 12 13 correct? 14 Yes. Α 15 THE COURT: You can step down. 16 (The witness was excused.) 17 THE COURT: Mr. Bolenbaker, did you have anything else? 18 19 MR. BOLENBAKER: No. Your Honor. 20 THE COURT: Anything more? 21 MR. BOLENBAKER: Just to clarify, he was charged with domestic battery, third offense, the entire time, as 22 well, and strangulation. We just made a strategic 23 24 decision to just go with domestic battery, third.

THE COURT: I've read the plea in this case. Anything more?

 $\label{eq:MS.BRADY: No, Your Honor. I'd submit the} \\ \text{matter to you.}$

THE COURT: You know, this is really difficult.

I came here today with the intent of suppressing. When I say "suppressing," that's why I asked that question, because I think there's different rules in terms of the State's right to appeal, depending whether it's an exclusion or suppression.

I will treat it as a suppression hearing. The reason I'm doing that is because I'm going to grant the suppression. And I'll tell you why. I have read these cases.

I think you're right, Mr. Bolenbaker, that once you present evidence rebutting the initial Motion to Suppress, the burden shifts back to the defendant to prove that it was some kind of agreement that it would only be treated as a first, and so then the State is going to have to comply with its agreement.

But in this case, I sit here -- if everybody has tried to get a copy of the actual record -- and I can't ignore my own experience, both as a prosecutor and as a defense attorney in small counties, which is primarily where I have practiced most of my career.

1 |

Keep in mind that I was a prosecutor for 16 years, and I suppose half my time was spent defending criminal defendants for 10 years. I have been a Judge for about 11 now. But I know how these go.

And I can tell you how they went in Virginia

City, when I was District Attorney up there, just not too long ago.

You get in there, you're not sure -- and I'm talking from the state of mind of the prosecutor -- if you have that much, or enough evidence to go forward on the domestic battery, and you've got it charged as a second; and so you threaten to proceed on the second, in hopes of getting a plea to the first.

And no one really thinks about whether or not the first can be enhanced, or not enhanced, or anything else.

But you're basically saying, "Look, we'll give you a second first."

And once there's an agreement, then the Court slaps down a bunch of forms that it has, to be signed, and the defendant signs them. And you have a non-lawyer judge telling a non-lawyer, who's not represented by counsel, what rights he's giving up.

First of all, the fact that we don't have a record of this is not the defendant's fault, it's the State's fault. If they didn't preserve one, then if what he's saying is true and there is some evidence of that somewhere in the record, it's not his fault that he can't get it. It's the State's fault that he can't get it. And whether you want to or not, you represent the State, Mr. Bolenbaker.

The second problem I have with this, and the decisions I'm reading by the Nevada Supreme Court, is, I have always understood and was very comfortable with it while I was a prosecutor, and availed myself of it a number of times when I was a defense attorney, with the idea that the State bears the burden, and that seldom, if ever, should it be shifted. And in this case, I don't know what the intent of the parties were.

In situations like this, a written plea agreement is not going to be prepared. And, as a matter of fact, up until not too many years ago, most jurisdictions didn't do plea agreements, and I think there's still some that don't do them in Justice Court and Municipal Court.

So I just can't agree with the idea that when there's a lack of evidence, that that somehow or another inures against the defendant.

And so I'm going to exclude -- or suppress the prior convictions, treat this as a misdemeanor.

You have, I believe, Mr. Bolenbaker, two days, when I suppress something, to file a notice of intent to appeal.

This would be, in my opinion, an excellent case for the State to appeal. And I don't know if they make you write your own opinions or not.

MR. BOLENBAKER: We'll see.

THE COURT: But it would be an excellent case to appeal. And maybe we'll get a published opinion where the Supreme Court gives us some guidance on this issue, because I don't feel guided, and I'm applying the principle that the State bears the burden. And in this case, in more than one instance, it hasn't met that burden. One, there's no record in this case.

And had he been represented by an attorney, and the attorney had failed to prepare a plea agreement, I would be more comfortable in dealing with your arguments, Mr. Bolenbaker.

Would you let me know if you don't argue an appeal, and we need to set the sentencing on this?

MS. BRADY: Your Honor, I believe we have a sentencing date set already.

THE COURT: Do we? Well, it will be vacated if he appeals.

Another thing I would like the parties to find out is: I'm sure down in Justice Court they put them on probation, which if I sentence him to a misdemeanor, he's going to get some jail time, but he's also -- I'm going to have a probation tail. And given that, I need to know who I would order to supervise him. Do you have a probation department here in Reno?

MR. BOLENBAKER: Well, a few things. I'm not a hundred percent sure I'm going to appeal. I'll probably go to my superiors and see what they want to do. That's the first thing I've got to figure out.

Secondly, I think, as it stands right now, that it is a misdemeanor, the appropriate thing would be to remand it back to Justice Court for sentencing.

But if you can do it here, you obviously have jurisdiction. They do have a Department of Alternative Sentencing down in Justice Court, and that would be the one that would supervise him.

THE COURT: Are they the ones that supervise a Justice Court sentencing?

MR. BOLENBAKER: Correct. So that's who you would give that power to, to supervise him, not the Division of Parole and Probation, but the Department of Alternative Sentencing.

What I want to make clear, though, it is your ruling that the prior conviction specifically limited the State's ability for enhancement purposes. I think that's the language they're looking for.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. BOLENBAKER: So that's what I think that we would need.

And then I don't remember what day we had for sentencing.

THE COURT: I think you have to -- if I'm treating this as a suppression, that might not be a bad issue for the Supreme Court, if this is an exclusion or suppression. Because I think if I'm excluding it, you would not be able to appeal until I sentence. If I suppress it, I think you have two days to file a notice of appeal and --

MS. BRADY: Or a jurisdictional issue, even.

THE COURT: Could be, yes.

MS. BRADY: Can I clarify? I interpreted your ruling a little bit differently than what Mr. Bolenbaker just characterized: As you not making a finding in terms of specific language, but in terms of the language -- really, the specific language being absent, and there being enough evidence to support that there is a negotiation.

THE COURT: The parties treated the July 29th, 2010 conviction as a first. And if I understand what the Supreme Court is starting to say now is that unless there's some evidence that specifically shows that they intended for that not to be used for the purposes of enhancement, then it can be enhanced.

However, in this case, we have a lack of evidence as to anything, because we don't have a transcript, which is not the defendant's fault.

Because of the circumstances, and the way this plea was entered, he wasn't represented by counsel, and so there was no written plea agreement prepared. Had there been, it would have been an easy call. But in this case, there wasn't.

And it looks like, from reading these two cases, the Supreme Court is saying: Well, once you show -- at some point the burden shifts to the defendant to show that it wasn't going to be used for the purposes of enhancement.

It looks like the two cases that were cited, that are reported, in one instance they say, "We're going to make the State comply with an agreement that it's made, not to use it for enhancement."

But then the next case says that we want specific proof, which the defendant has to bring forward, if you don't have a plea agreement, that that was the case.

We don't have that here, but I'm finding that it's not the defendant's fault that we don't have a better record than what we do, because we can't get a transcript of the entry of plea in this case.

Plus, he wasn't represented by counsel. So I don't know very many defendants that prepare plea agreements.

And I know exactly how this happened. He shows up, the State goes to him and says, "Look, we'll let you plead to a first. You'll get the first punishment, not the second punishment. And in return, if you do that --" that's the guid pro quo.

I don't know whether there was any discussion of it being used to enhance. The forms that we have -- I know how those forms get -- the Clerk puts something in front of the defendant it wants signed, and the defendant signs it, and it advises him of it. But he's not represented by counsel, so nobody's really telling him what any of it means. So that's where I have a hard time with this.

But what I'm finding is that there wasn't a record to indicate one way or the other. And it's not the defendant's fault that record doesn't exist.

You prepare an order. You prepare a written order --

MS. BRADY: Okay.

THE COURT: -- and give it to Mr. Bolenbaker.

And I suppose that will give you more time to decide whether you plan on appealing this or not.

MR. BOLENBAKER: Okay. Once the order comes in, I have two days from then?

THE COURT: Yes. I'm pretty sure, if you look at that, I think there's a section -- you know, there used to be a section. Well, probably three or four years ago there was a section there that allows the State to appeal from a suppression to the Supreme Court.

I'm not sure what the consequences are if I go ahead and sentence him and then you appeal from that. I don't know if that fixes the amount of punishment he'd get or not.

MR. BOLENBAKER: It seems cleaner and makes more sense to do it before he gets sentenced, because that's really what the issue is, is a sentencing issue. So to me, it makes sense to do it beforehand. And he's out of custody, so it's not like he's really being prejudiced or 1

   anything in any way.
             THE COURT: No. So prepare an order, lodge it with the Court, and e-mail me a copy and e-mail Mr.
3
4 Bolenbaker.
5
             If I don't get any objections from you within 6 five days of that time -- so basically, once you've gotten 7
   it, you've got five days to make any objections you have 8
   to what she's saying the order should be.
9
             MR. BOLENBAKER: Okay.
10
             THE COURT: Anything more?
11
             MR. BOLENBAKER: No. Thank you, Your Honor.
12
             MS. BRADY: No. Thank you, Your Honor.
13
             THE COURT: That will be the order of the Court.
14
             The two cases that you lodged with the Court, 15
    those will be marked as an exhibit.

v.

Defendant.

[PROPOSED] ORDER GRANTING MOTION TO SUPPRESS

This matter came before the Court on February 13, 2017. The Court has considered the record, the Defendant's Objection to Admission of Prior Convictions as a Felony Enhancement and Motion to Dismiss, filed January 12, 2017, the State's written response thereto, and all subsequent replies, responses, and oral arguments from both parties at the hearing.

Background

Mr. Kephart was convicted of a misdemeanor First Domestic Battery on May 19, 2010 for an offense that occurred on or about November 28, 2009 in Humboldt County, Nevada, pursuant to negotiations. Mr. Kephart was represented by counsel and signed an Admonishment of Rights.

Mr. Kephart was convicted of another misdemeanor First Domestic Battery on July 29, 2010 also in Humboldt County, Nevada, pursuant to negotiations for an offense that occurred on or about June 3, 2010. During the proceedings in this case, Mr. Kephart represented himself in proper person, negotiated directly with the State and entered his plea and was sentenced as a proper person without counsel. The available record relating to the July 29, 2017 conviction includes the Complaint, a Judgment of Conviction and minutes which are not a verbatim account of what was said, but instead briefly summarize the various proceedings and actions held throughout the case.

The instant case was first brought against Mr. Kephart in Sparks Justice Court by way of a Complaint filed on September 30, 2015 alleging one count of Domestic Battery by Strangulation. Mr. Kephart was represented by private counsel. An Amended Criminal Complaint was filed in Sparks Justice Court on December 2, 2015, adding a second count of Domestic Battery, a felony, for having been previously convicted of two other Domestic Battery offenses within seven (7) years. A Preliminary Hearing was set for February 3, 2016 and was dismissed by the State without prejudice on February 3, 2016 due to the absence of witnesses.

The State then sought prosecution via a Grand Jury Indictment. The Grand Jury indicted Mr. Kephart on Count I: Domestic Battery by Strangulation and Count II: Third Domestic Battery. On May 11, 2016, the Court appointed the Washoe County Public Defender's Office to represent Mr. Kephart, after he previously appeared in court without counsel. Negotiations in the case were unsuccessful and a jury trial was set for January 17, 2017.

On January 11, 2017, the State filed an Information Superseding Indictment, charging Mr. Kephart with the one count of Domestic Battery, a violation of NRS 33.018, NRS 200.485, and NRS 200.481, dropping the element of strangulation and now prosecuting as a felony solely due to the two prior Humboldt County Domestic Battery convictions mentioned above.

On January 12, 2017, Mr. Kephart, by and through counsel, filed an Objection to Admission of Prior Convictions as a Felony Enhancement and Motion to Dismiss. Mr. Kephart requested the Court deny the admission of the prior domestic battery convictions from Union Justice Court, Humboldt County, Nevada, for felony enhancement purposes.

On January 17, 2017, before the jury was seated, the Court orally addressed the Defendant's objection to the prior Humboldt County convictions. The Court found it had jurisdiction to preside over the case regardless of whether a guilty verdict would ultimately result in a misdemeanor or a felony conviction. This Court did not dismiss the case and further held the issue of enhancement based on prior convictions is a sentencing issue and may be most if Mr. Kephart is acquitted. As such, this Court gave the State leave to respond to the Defendant's motion in the event of a guilty verdict.

The trial concluded on or about January 19, 2017, wherein a jury found Mr. Kephart guilty of Domestic Battery.

On January 25, 2017, the State filed its Response to Objection to Admission of Prior Convictions as a Felony Enhancement and Motion to Dismiss. The Mr. Kephart filed his Reply and the matter was submitted for consideration on February 8, 2017. A hearing on the matter was held on February 13, 2017.

Discussion

It is the finding of this Court that to admit Mr. Kephart's prior 2010

Domestic Battery convictions from Humboldt County, Nevada to enhance his instant conviction to felony would offend the spirit of constitutional principles of Due Process and Notice in accordance with Nevada Supreme Court precedence in the line of cases relating to State v. Smith, 105 Nev. 293, 298, 774 P.2d 1037, 1040 (1989) and Speer v. State, 116 Nev. 677, 5 P.3d 1063 (2000).

The records demonstrate Mr. Kephart was convicted for two prior Domestic Battery offenses in 2010. Both Judgments clearly show that each of those convictions is within three months of each other and both are entered as "First Domestic Battery" convictions. The record also establishes both 2010 Domestic Battery convictions were for offenses that occurred within seven years of the instant offense. The question in dispute is whether the second Domestic Battery conviction in 2010 was specifically negotiated by the parties as a misdemeanor

 "First Domestic Battery" for enhancement purposes; meaning there was an agreement that a subsequent Domestic Battery within seven years would only be enhanced to a misdemeanor Second Domestic Battery rather than a felony.

In his motion, Mr. Kephart argued that, under Smith v. State, a conviction is not admissible as an enhancement if the conviction was the result of negotiations. Mr. Kephart asserted that his prior Domestic Batter convictions may not be used to enhance a the current conviction "to a felony where the second conviction was obtained pursuant to a guilty plea agreement specifically permitting the defendant to enter a plea of guilty to first offense... and limiting the use of the conviction for enhancement purposes." Speer v. State, 116 Nev. 677, 680, 5 P.3d 1063, 1065 (2000).

Moreover, at the hearing on February 13, 2017, Mr. Kephart testified under oath that he was not on notice that the next Domestic Battery conviction would result in a felony, with mandatory prison time. In this way, he further asserts, that a felony enhancement contradicts his understanding of the prior plea negotiations.

The State responded in opposition that the above rule does not apply where there is no plea agreement explicitly limiting the use of the prior conviction for enhancement purposes. Id. at 679-80. State argues Mr. Kephart signed an Admonishment of Rights as part of his July 29, 2010 plea, which put him on notice that his July 29, 2010 conviction would be used for enhancement purposes. For the reasons stated below and because Mr. Kephart was representing himself in proper person when he signed the Admonishment of Rights for his July 29, 2010 plea, this Court rejects the State's argument that Mr. Kephart was sufficiently put on notice that his July 29, 2010 conviction would be used for felony enhancement purposes.

This Court recognizes the rule created by the Smith and Speer line of cases is not applicable in the absence of a plea agreement limiting the use of the prior as an enhancement. The Nevada Supreme Court opined, "Our decisions in Crist, Perry and Smith were based solely on the necessity of upholding the integrity of plea bargains and the reasonable expectations of the parties relating thereto." Speer v. State, 116 Nev. 677, 680, 5 P.3d 1063, 1065 (2000). Also, this Court's understanding of the Nevada Supreme Court's decisions are that, once the State demonstrates evidence regarding the parties' specific negotiations for future enhancements, the burden shifts to the defendant to show it wasn't going to be used for the purposes of a felony enhancement. The purpose behind this is to ensure the State complies with negotiated agreements not to use a specific prior for a felony enhancement.

In Kephart's case, there is not a record to indicate one way or the other. We don't have a transcript, which is not the defendant's fault. Both the Deputy District Attorney for Washoe County and the Deputy Public Defender for Washoe County in the instant case contacted the court in Humboldt County, Nevada in an attempt to obtain a transcript and/or a recording of the hearing related to the July 29, 2010 Domestic Battery conviction. Humboldt County informed both parties that there were neither transcripts nor recordings.

What we have are two prior 2010 misdemeanor judgments within a few months of each other that clearly indicate "First Domestic Battery." We also have the June 4, 2010 Criminal Complaint, which serves as the basis for the July 29,

OBJECTION TO ADMISSION OF PRIOR CONVICTIONS AS	A FELONY
ENHANCEMENT AND MOTION TO DISMISS	_

COMES NOW JOHN THOMAS KEPHART, by and through counsel, Washoe County Public Defender, JEREMY T. BOSLER, and Deputy Public Defender CHRISTINE BRADY, and hereby submits its OBJECTION TO ADMISSION OF PRIOR CONVICTIONS AS A FELONY ENHANCEMENT and hereby requests that the Court deny the admission of the prior domestic battery convictions from Union Justice Court, Humboldt, Nevada, dated July 29, 2010 and May 19, 2010, as a felony enhancement.

This Objection is made and based upon the Constitutional rights to Due Process, the record of the proceedings to date, the following points and authorities, and any oral arguments and/or documentary evidence as may be presented at a hearing on this matter.

POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

I. STATEMENT OF THE CASE

JOHN THOMAS KEPHART (hereinafter "Mr. Kephart") has been charged via Indictment with the offense of domestic battery. The case is charged as a felony, based upon alleged prior convictions within the seven-year period preceding the Defendant's current case

II. STATEMENT OF THE FACTS

Mr. Kephart was convicted of a first offense misdemeanor domestic battery on May 19, 2010. The Judgment of Conviction and Order of the Court, entered on May 19, 2010, indicates the May 19, 2010 conviction was Mr. Kephart's First Domestic Battery Offense for an incident occurring on or about November 28, 2009. Exhibit 1, p. 3, 1. 28. Five months prior to entering his plea in May 2010, Mr. Kephart signed an Admonishment of Rights wherein he appears to have been represented by Jack Bullock, II. Exhibit 1, p 16.

Mr. Kephart was convicted of another domestic battery on July 29, 2010. The Judgment of Conviction and Order of the Court, which was signed by Mr. Kephart, indicates Mr. Kephart represented himself as a proper person. Exhibit 2, p.1. both the Judgment of Conviction and Criminal Complaint indicate Mr. Kephart was pleading to a Fist Domestic Battery. Exhibit 2. Nowhere in the second conviction is it clear that Mr. Kephart is knowingly pleading to a Second Domestic Battery for enhancement purposes.

Mr. Kephart was convicted of two first offense domestic battery offenses. In fact, it appears that Mr. Kephart was specifically told the second conviction would count as a first conviction. Additionally, there is no indication in the written record that the City Attorney objected to the conviction as a first offense domestic battery, or retaining the right to use the conviction as a second offense enhancement.

III. ARGUMENT

A. The prior Domestic Battery convictions should not be admissible as an enhancement to increase the severity of the current charge to a felony.

The felony allegation in this case relies upon the prior "convictions." However, the Court paperwork discloses deficiencies that disqualify them from consideration in this case.

In Smith v. State, 105 Nev. 293 (1989), the defendant's prior DUI conviction could not be used to enhance her current DUI to a felony because she had pled to a first offense DUI pursuant to negotiations. The Smith court's rationale for this decision was that the spirit of constitutional principles do not support the subsequent use of the conviction. Id. at 298. Speer v. State, 116 Nev. 677, 680 (2000), clarifies this reasoning by stating that Smith and other like cases were based "solely on the necessity of upholding the integrity of plea bargains and the reasonable expectations of the parties relating thereto." In the current case, it is unknown whether Mr. Kephart's plea was a result of negotiations or whether the Court took it upon itself to convict him of a first offense domestic battery. However, the record shows evidence that the prosecutor in both cases intended the convictions to be first offenses for enhancement purposes, even though they had knowledge of the prior conviction. This is tantamount to a negotiation because the prosecutor was made aware of the prior conviction, and allowed the plea to go forward as a first offense, thus waiving the State's ability to use these convictions as felony enhancements in the continuing seven years.

Additionally, the Speer case clearly states that one of the reasons a prior conviction should not be used as an enhancement is because of the "reasonable expectations of the parties relating thereto." Id. at 680. Mr. Kephart pled to a first offense and was sentenced for a first offense domestic battery. Mr. Kephart had also been informed that he was being convicted of a first offense domestic battery. Mr. Kephart has a reasonable belief that the prior convictions would not be used for felony enhancement purposes, in light of the Court's knowledge of his prior domestic battery. Furthermore, there is nothing in the written record to suggest that the prosecutor preserved the right to use the conviction as an enhancement.

B. Lack of Notice and Lack of Due Process

At the time Mr. Kephart entered his respective pleas in Humboldt County, he was not on notice that together the two convictions could be used to enhance the next domestic battery to a felony. In the second proceeding he was not represented by counsel. The vagueness and confusion surrounding the prior convictions make the instant felony prosecution unconstitutional according to both the United States and Nevada Constitutions.

CONCLUSION

All evidence suggests that the prior convictions resulted from plea negotiations. Mr. Kephart should not be charged with a felony domestic battery when both convictions were specifically treated as, and pled to as a first offense domestic battery.

JOHN THOMAS KEPHART Defendant.	Delido CLERIC

Battery/Domestic Violence: ADMONISHMENT OF RIGHTS
(For offenses committed on or after October 1, 2007)

I am the Defendant in this case. I am charged with battery constituting domestic violence in having willfully and unlawfully committed an act of force or violence upon my spouse, former spouse, a person to whom I am related by blood or marriage, a person with whom I am or was actually residing, a person with whom I have had or am having a dating relationship, a person with whom I have a child in common, my minor child, or the minor child of one of those persons (in violation of NRS 33.018/NRS 200.485).

I AM AWARE THAT I HAVE EACH OF THE FOLLOWING RIGHTS AND THAT I WILL BE WAIVING THESE RIGHTS IF I PLEAD GUILTY OR NOLO CONTENDERE:

- l. The right to a speedy trial;
- 2. The right to require the State to prove the charge(s) against me beyond a reasonable doubt;
- 3. The right to confront and question all witnesses against me;
- 4. The right to subpoens witnesses on my behalf and compel their attendance;
- 5. The right to remain silent and not be compelled to testify if there were a trial; and
- 6. The right to appeal my conviction except on constitutional or jurisdictional grounds.

I AM ALSO AWARE THAT BY PLEADING GUILTY OR NOLO CONTENDERE I AM ADMITTING THE STATE COULD FACTUALLY PROVE THE CHARGE(S) AGAINST ME. I AM ALSO AWARE THAT MY PLEA OF GUILTY OR NOLO CONTENDERE MAY HAVE THE FOLLOWING CONSEQUENCES:

- I understand the State will use this conviction, and any other prior conviction from this or any other state which prohibits the same or similar conduct, to enhance the penalty for any subsequent offense.
- I understand that as a consequence of my plea of guilty or nolo contendere, if I am not a citizen of the United States, I may, in addition to other consequences provided for by federal law, be removed, deported, excluded from entry into the United States, or denied naturalization.
- 3. I understand that if I am convicted of a misdemeanor or felony that constitutes domestic violence pursuant to NRS 33,018, my possession, shipment, transportation, or receipt of a firearm or ammunition may constitute a felony pursuant to NRS 202,360 or federal law.
- I understand that sentencing is entirely up to the court and the following range of penalties for committing the offense described above will apply (unless a greater penalty is provided pursuant to NRS 200.481):

BATTERY/DOMESTIC VIOLENCE ADMONISHMENT OF RIGHTS (PAGE 2 of 2) CASE NO.: 09-CR-01144

FIRST OFFENSE WITHIN 7 YEARS (MISDEMEANOR):

At least 2 days in jail but not more than 6 months, at least 48 hours but not more than 120 hours, of community service, a fine of not less than $200, but not more than $1,000, in addition to certain fees and assessments that are required by statute; mandatory participation in weekly counseling sessions for an equivalent number of hours if I reside more than 70 miles from the nearest location at which counseling services are available) for not less than 6 months, but not more than 12 months, at my expense; in the Court's discretion, the Court may order me to participate in an alcohol or drug treatment program at my expense; and, in the Court's discretion, if it appears from information presented to the Court that a child under the age of 18 years may need counseling as a result of the commission of a battery which constitutes domestic violence, the Court may refer the child to an agency which provides protective services, and, if that occurs, the Court will require me to reimburse the agency for the costs of any services provided, to the extent of my ability to pay.

SECOND OFFENSE WITHIN 7 YEARS (MISDEMEANOR):

At least 10 days in jail but not more than 6 months; at least 100 hours, but not more than 200 hours, of community service, a fine of not less than $500, but not more than $1,000, in addition to certain fees and assessments that are required by statute; mandatory participation in weekly counseling sessions of not less than 1 1/2 hours per week (or bi-weekly counseling sessions for an equivalent number of hours if I reside more than 70 miles from the nearest location at which counseling services are available) for 12 months, at my expense; in the Court's discretion, the Court may order me to participate in an alcohol or drug treatment program at my expense; and, in the Court's discretion, if it appears from information presented to the Court that a child under the age of 18 years may need counseling as a result of the commission of a battery which constitutes domestic violence, the Court may refer the child to an agency which provides protective services, and, if that occurs, the Court will require me to reimburse the agency for the costs of any services provided, to the extent of my ability to pay.

THIRD OFFENSE OR ANY SUBSEQUENT OFFENSE WITHIN 7 YEARS (CATEGORY C FELONY):

A category C felony punishable by a sentence of imprisonment in the Nevada State Prison for at least 1 year but not more than 5 years, a possible fine of not more than $10,000, in addition to certain fees and assessments that are required by statute; in the Court's discretion, the Court may require me to participate in an alcohol or drug treatment program at my expense; and, in the Court's discretion, if it appears from information prescuted to the Court that a child under the age of 18 years may need counseling as a result of the commission of a battery which constitutes domestic violence, the Court may refer the child to an agency which provides protective services, and, if that occurs, the Court will require me to reimburse the agency for the costs of any services provided, to the extent of my ability to pay. A third or subsequent offense is not probationable.

ALL DEFENDANTS MUST INITIAL EITHER #1 or #2 BELOW-DO NOT INITIAL BOTH:

I am represented by an attorney in this case. My attorney has fully discussed these matters with me and advised me about my legal rights. My attorney is Jack Bullock I

I have declined to have an attorney represent me and I have chosen to represent myself. I have made this decision even though there are dangers and disadvantages in self-representation in a criminal case, including but not limited to, the following:

(a) Self-representation is often unwise, and a defendant may conduct a defense to his or her own detriment;

(b) a defendant who represents himself is responsible for knowing and complying with the same procedural rules as lawyers, and cannot expect help from the judge in complying with those procedural rules;

(c) a defendant representing himself will not be allowed to complain on appeal about the competency or effectiveness of his or her representation;

(d) the state is represented by experienced professional attorneys who have the advantage of skill, training and

(e) a defendant unfamiliar with legal procedures may allow the prosecutor an advantage, may not make effective use of legal rights, and may make tactical decisions that produce unintended consequences; and

(f) the effectiveness of the defense may well be diminished by defendant's dual role as attorney and accused.

DEFENDANT'S SIGNATURE DATE OF BIRTH DATE

I HAVE REVIEWED THIS ADMONISHMENT WITH MY CLIENT AND WE HAVE DISCUSSED THE RIGHTS HE/SHE IS WAIVING AND THE CONSEQUENCES OF HIS/HER PLEA OF GUILTY/NOLO CONTENDERE TO THE BATTERY/DOMESTIC VIOLENCE/CHÂRGE.

Battery/Domestic Violence: ADMONISHMENT OF RIGHTS

(For offenses committed on or after October 1, 2007)

I am the Defendant in this case. I am charged with battery constituting domestic violence in having willfully and unlawfully committed an act of force or violence upon my spouse, former spouse, a person to whom I am related by blood or marriage, a person with whom I am or was actually residing, a person with whom I have had or am having a dating relationship, a person with whom I have a child in common, my minor child, or the minor child of one of those persons (in violation of NRS 33.018/NRS 200.485).

I AM AWARE THAT I HAVE EACH OF THE FOLLOWING RIGHTS AND THAT I WILL BE WAIVING THESE RIGHTS IF I PLEAD GUILITY OR NOLO CONTENDERE:

- 1. The night to a speedy trial;
- 2. The right to require the State to prove the charge(s) against me beyond a reasonable doubt,
- 3. The right to confront and question all witnesses against me;
- 4. The right to subpoens witnesses on my behalf and compel their attendance;
- 5. The right to remain silent and not be compelled to testify if there were a trial; and
- 6. The right to appeal my conviction except on constitutional or jurisdictional grounds.

I AM ALSO AWARE THAT BY PLEADING GUILTY OR NOLO CONTENDERE I AM ADMITTING THE STATE COULD FACTUALLY PROVE THE CHARGE(S) AGAINST ME. I AM ALSO AWARE THAT MY PLEA OF GUILTY OR NOLO CONTENDERE MAY HAVE THE FOLLOWING CONSEQUENCES:

- I understand the State will use this conviction, and any other prior conviction from this or any other state which prohibits the same or similar conduct, to enhance the penalty for any subsequent offense.
- I understand that as a consequence of my plea of guilty or note contendere, if I am not a citizen of the United States, I may, in addition to other consequences provided for by federal law, be removed, deported, excluded from entry into the United States, or denied naturalization.
- I understand that if I am convicted of a misdemeanor or felony that constitutes domestic violence pursuant to NRS 33.018, my possession, shipment, transportation, or receipt of a firearm or amunition may constitute a felony pursuant to NRS 202.360 or federal law.
- 4. I understand that sentencing is entirely up to the court and the following range of penalties for committing the offense described above will apply (unless a greater penalty is provided pursuant to NRS 200.481):

FIRST OFFENSE WITHIN 7 YEARS (MISDEMEANOR):

At least 2 days in jail but not more than 6 months, at least 48 hours but not more than 120 hours, of community service; a fine of not less than $200, but not more than $1,000, in addition to certain fees and assessments that are required by statute; mandatory participation in weekly counseling sessions of not less than 1 1/2 hours per week (or bi-weekly counseling sessions for an equivalent number of hours if I reside more than 70 miles from the nearest location at which counseling services are available) for not less than 6 months, but not more than 12 months, at my expense; in the Court's discretion, the Court may order me to participate in an alcohol or drug treatment program at my expense; and, in the Court's discretion, if it appears from information presented to the Court that a child under the age of 18 years may need counseling as a result of the commission of a battery which constitutes domestic violence, the Court may refer the child to an agency which provides protective services, and, if that occurs, the Court will require me to reimburse the agency for the costs of any services provided, to the extent of my ability to pay.

SECOND OFFENSE WITHIN 7 YEARS (MISDEMEANOR):

At least 10 days in jail but not more than 6 months; at least 100 hours, but not more than 200 hours, of community service; a fine of not less than $500, but not more than $1,000, in addition to certain fees and assessments that are required by statute; mandatory participation in weekly counseling sessions of not less than 1 1/2 hours per week (or bi-weekly counseling sessions for an equivalent number of hours if I reside more than 70 miles from the nearest location at which counseling services are available) for 12 months, at my expense; in the Court's discretion, the Court may order me to participate in an alcohol or drug treatment program at my expense; and, in the Court's discretion, if it appears from information presented to the Court that a child under the age of 18 years may need counseling as a result of the commission of a battery which constitutes domestic violence, the Court may refer the child to an agency which provides protective services, and, if that occurs, the Court will require me to reimburse the agency for the costs of any services provided, to the extent of my ability to pay.

THIRD OFFENSE OR ANY SUBSEQUENT OFFENSE WITHIN 7 YEARS (CATEGORY C FELONY):

A category C felony punishable by a sentence of imprisonment in the Nevada State Prison for at least 1 year but not more than 5 years, a possible fine of not more than $10,000, in addition to certain fees and assessments that are required by statute; in the Court's discretion, the Court may require me to participate in an alcohol or drug treatment program at my expense; and, in the Court's discretion, if it appears from information presented to the Court that a child under the age of 18 years may need counseling as a result of the commission of a battery which constitutes domestic violence, the Court may refer the child to an agency which provides protective services, and, if that occurs, the Court will require me to reimburse the agency for the costs of any services provided, to the extent of my ability to pay. A third or subsequent offense is not probationable.

I have declined to have an attorney represent me and I have chosen to represent myself. I have made this decision even though there are dangers and disadvantages in self-representation in a criminal case, including but not limited to, the following:

(a) Self-representation is often unwise, and a defendant may conduct a defense to his or her own detriment;

 (b) a defendant who represents himself is responsible for knowing and complying with the same procedural rules as lawyers, and cannot expect help from the judge in complying with those procedural rules;

(c) a defendent representing himself will not be allowed to complain on appeal about the competency or effectiveness of his or her representation;

(d) the state is represented by experienced professional attorneys who have the advantage of skill, training and ability:

(e) a defendant unfamiliar with legal procedures may allow the prosecutor an advantage, may not make effective use of legal rights, and may make tactical decisions that produce unintended consequences; and of legal rights, and may make the defense may well be diminished by defendant's dual role as attorney and accused.

CASE PROCEDURE

Deputy District Attorney, and hereby files its Response to Objection to

Admission of Prior Convictions as a Felony Enhancement and Motion to Dismiss, which is made and based upon the attached Points and

On February 24, 2016, an Indictment was filed charging John Kephart (hereinafter "Defendant") with one count of Battery Domestic

HICKS, District Attorney of Washoe County, and MICHAEL BOLENBAKER,

Violence by Strangulation and one count of felony Battery Constituting Domestic Violence. On January 11, 2017, the State filed an Information Superseding Indictment removing the Battery Domestic Violence by Strangulation count with the felony Battery Domestic Violence charge remaining.

The State alleged two prior offenses in the Information Superseding Indictment; one from May 19, 2010 and one from July 29, 2010, both in Humboldt County, Nevada. On January 12, 2017, Defendant filed the instant objection. The State would note this filing is almost 11 months after the filing of the original indictment. Defendant does not contest the May 19, 2010 prior.

FACTS

On June 4, 2010, Defendant was charged by way of Criminal Complaint with one count of Domestic Battery with One Prior Conviction within the last Seven Years in Humboldt County Nevada. The complaint alleged a prior conviction from May 19, 2010, which is the same prior offense the State has alleged in the instant case.

On July 29, 2010, Defendant entered a plea of guilty to Domestic Battery, 1st Offense. Defendant signed and initialed a Battery/Domestic Violence: Admonishment of Rights and was sentenced to 2 days in jail, 48 hours community service, a total of $322 in fines and administrative assessment fees and a 26 session Anger Management course.

On January 18, 2017, Defendant was convicted of Domestic Battery after a two day jury trial.

26 | //

ARGUMENT

In State v. Smith, Smith was charged with a DUI third offense felony. Smith challenged one of the prior convictions that had been reduced from a second offense to a first offense. 105 Nev. 293 (1989). The Court noted that nothing in the record from the previous conviction indicated that the State advised Smith that the reduced conviction would revert to a second offense in the event of further drunk-driving convictions. Id. The Court held that because it was reasonable for the parties to expect that Smith's reduced second conviction would be treated as a first offense for all respects, including penalty enhancements for future drunk-driving convictions, enforcement of the plea agreement was appropriate. Id.

In Speer v. State, Speer pled guilty to a DUI third offense with the State using a prior felony DUI conviction as a prior. 116 Nev. 677 (2000). Speer argued that because the prior used was not a "first" or "second" offense that it could not be used as an enhancement. Id. The Court disagreed with Speer holding that any two prior offenses may be used to enhance a subsequent DUI so long as they occurred with seven years of the principal offense. Id. at 679-680. The Court noted that in previous cases including Smith, it has held that a second DUI conviction may not be used to enhance a conviction for a third DUI arrest where the second conviction was obtained pursuant to a guilty plea agreement specifically permitting the defendant to enter a plea of guilty to a first offense DUI and limiting the use of the conviction for enhancement purposes. Id. at 680. That rule is not applicable when there is no plea agreement limiting the use of the prior conviction for enhancement purposes. Id.

Here, we have two considerations clearly showing that Defendant falls under the Speer analysis and not the Smith analysis. First, Defendant signed an Admonishment of Rights form that in bold language states "I understand the State will use this conviction, and any other prior conviction from this or any other state which prohibits the same or similar conduct, to enhance the penalty for any subsequent offense." Therefore, Defendant was put on notice that his July 29, 2010 conviction would be used for enhancement purposes.

Additionally, nowhere in the court minutes does it state that the plea agreement limited the use of the conviction for enhancement purposes. The court minutes state that the assigned prosecutor simply did not have the certified copy of the first offense from May 19, 2010 despite the court minutes reflecting that the court had given the prosecutor a copy of it. Therefore, it is clear from the minutes that the charge was reduced simply because at the time of the sentencing, the State could not prove the May 19, 2010 prior offense to enhance it to a second offense resulting in the reduction to a first offense. Nothing suggests that this was done with the specific idea of limiting the use of the conviction for future allegations of domestic violence.

CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, the State asks the Court admit both prior convictions and sentence Defendant on a felony charge.

This Reply is made and based upon the Constitutional rights to Due Process, Fair Trial and Effective Assistance of Counsel, the record of proceedings to date, the Objection on file herein and the following. U.S. Const. Fifth and Sixth Amendments, Nev. Const. Art. 1, Section 8.

ARGUMENT

The United States Supreme Court has made clear every element of a charged offense must be proven beyond a reasonable doubt. In re Winship, 397 U.S. 358, 90 S.Ct. 1068, 25L.Ed.2d 368 (1970). Therefore, the State has the burden to prove beyond a reasonable doubt all of the elements of the alleged offense, including the validity of any prior offenses being used for enhancement purposes. To allow less would permit the State to avoid its constitutionally imposed burden of proof to convict Mr. Kephart of a felony offense. This would clearly contravene Mr. Kephart's rights under the Nevada and United States Constitutions to due process of law and proper notice. U.S. Const. Fifth, Sixth and Fourteenth Amendments; Nevada Const., Art 1, Sec 8.

Once the State has provided proof of two prior domestic battery convictions, the burden then is on the defendant to rebut the validity of a prior conviction. Dressler v. State, 107 Nev. 686, 693, 819 P.2d 1288 (1991). Mr. Kephart has demonstrated that there is sufficient evidence to rebut the validity of the prior conviction as an enhancement simply by reviewing the written court record.

A prior conviction is admissible as long as the court records reflect that the spirit of constitutional principals were respected. Davenport v. State, 112 Nev. 475, 477, 915 P.2d 878 (1996). However, the conviction is not admissible as an enhancement under certain circumstances, such as if the conviction was the result of negotiations or if it would offend the spirit of constitutional principals. Smith v. State, 105 Nev. 293, 774 P.2d 1037 (1989). The court record sufficiently provides enough evidence to suggest that the nolo contendre plea and conviction were a result of negotiations or that the parties were fully aware of the prior conviction and allowed Mr. Kephart to plead to a first offense anyway. In light of all of the facts in this matter, allowing the State to use the previous conviction to enhance the current offense would offend the spirit of Constitutional principals and judicial integrity.

In State v. Grover, 109 Nev. 1019, 862 P.2d 421 (1993), the State was allowed to use the second "first offense" conviction as an enhancement because the record failed to show that the prosecuting authority had any knowledge of the prior conviction. The case at bar is distinguished from Grover because the prosecuting attorney had knowledge of the prior conviction, as evidenced by the court record. However, the Grover analysis can be applied to the case at bar to support a finding opposite that of Grover using the distinguishing fact of requisite prior knowledge. CONCLUSION Mr. Kephart has constitutional rights to due process and fair trial. The record clearly supports Mr. Kephart's contention that he was convicted of a first offense with the parties' full knowledge of the prior conviction. Since the oral record has not been preserved by the courts, Mr. Kephart is now subject to a felony prosecution. The State should not be allowed to benefit from the lack of an oral record. Based upon the foregoing, it is respectfully requested that the Court deny the admission of the prior domestic battery convictions as a felony enhancement. AFFIRMATION PURSUANT TO NRS 239B.030 The undersigned does hereby affirm that the preceding document does not contain the social security number of any person. RENO, NEVADA, MONDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 2017, 8:25 A.M.

THE COURT: This is Case Number CR16-0298, State of Nevada versus John Thomas Kephart.

This is time and place set for a hearing in regards to prior convictions. I suppose it could make a difference how it's characterized: as a ruling on evidence, or as a suppression motion. I say that, because I think the State has a right to appeal from a suppression motion immediately. I don't know that you have a right to appeal from a ruling on evidence until after sentencing. So maybe you need to address that when you get up.

It's your motion. Why don't the parties identify themselves.

MS. BRADY: Christine Brady, on behalf of Mr. John Kephart, who is present and out of custody.

MR. BOLENBAKER: Mike Bolenbaker, for the State.

 $\,$  MS. BRADY: Thank you, Your Honor. Initially when I filed it, I'm thinking of this as a jurisdictional issue.

Just to give you some procedures, a little bit of background about how this case sort of made its way to trial. I was not initially on this case. It was maybe back in 2015, initially, in Justice Court. It was initially in Justice Court, late-2015. Mr. Kephart had a private attorney. I don't have the details of what happened in that case, so Mr. Bolenbaker can illuminate the Court on that. But that case -- I believe it was set for a preliminary hearing and was ultimately dismissed in Justice Court. And then an Indictment was filed, I believe, in January of 2016.

THE COURT: February 24th, 2016.

MS. BRADY: January 24th, 2016.

THE COURT: February.

MS. BRADY: February, 2016. And the Indictment that was issued was Count I, domestic battery by strangulation; and Count II, domestic battery, third.

Mr. Kephart, I don't know if he had private counsel or -- there was some confusion about whether his private counsel was still going to represent him.

But on June 5th, 2017, Judge Flanagan ordered for the Public Defender's Office to represent Mr. Kephart.

Mr. Kephart appeared without counsel, it looks like, on a hearing on May 11th, 2016.

And then I made my first appearance in the case on June 22nd, 2016, at which time I was really working with Mr. Kephart to defend against the domestic battery by strangulation. That was one of the main charges we were -- that was Count I -- litigating.

On January 11th, a week or so before trial, the State filed an Information Superseding Indictment alleging just the third domestic battery.

So the issue, from my analysis, is whether or not, really, there's even -- A, whether there's jurisdiction. And I think you addressed the jurisdictional issue right before trial, but that's why I was -- one of the reasons why I wanted to address this before trial is, that I don't know what was presented to the Grand Jury in terms of the priors. I don't know -- you know, the burden of proof is lower there. But there's a jurisdictional issue as to whether or not this is really a third domestic battery.

I'm looking at when I received the Information Superseding Indictment. Of course now that I'm not faced with a domestic battery by strangulation, I'm looking through the priors and speaking with my client, I did notice that in the prior he was represented by counsel in his first -- now I'm going to talk a little bit about sort of the procedure of him entering his plea.

His first plea that he entered, he had counsel, he was represented by counsel, and reviewed everything together. Then another complaint was filed against him in union, and it was for an incident that actually preceded the one he had just pled to. And he did not have an attorney for the second one.

And in speaking with Mr. Kephart, he indicated to me that he was pretty much negotiating directly with the D.A., and the D.A. was allowing him, in their negotiations, for him to enter: A, a no-contest plea and; B, that this would count as another first.

And in support of that, it does show on the judgment of conviction for both of them, and for the subsequent one where he negotiated a first, it shows domestic battery, first offense.

And in his mind, he believed that the next one would be a second. And so on that basis, Your Honor, I'm asking for -- it is my argument that the second domestic battery to which he pled, that actually occurred prior to the first one to which he pled, does not constitute a valid second domestic battery for enhancement purposes, pursuant to the negotiations, and my client's understanding at the time.

And I will reserve any rebuttal, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Mr. Bolenbaker.

MR. BOLENBAKER: Thank you, Your Honor. I'm not sure how to approach the evidentiary-versus-suppression issue, so I guess I'll leave that to Your Honor.

What I will say, though, is that I don't understand how the defendant could not be on notice, when he signed a waiver that specifically says that this conviction and any other conviction can be used against you to enhance. And it gives him a clear description of what would happen if he was to get another conviction for domestic battery.

In the misdemeanor level, the only difference between a domestic battery first, and domestic battery second, is the maximum penalties. The domestic battery second carries, obviously, a one-year counseling, higher jail time, higher fines, things of that nature.

And I think what's very clear from the minutes from the second offense back, I think, in 2010, is that, for whatever reason, the State at that time did not have the prior offense. It's clear from the Court minutes, it says he amends the charge to domestic battery first, as he couldn't prove the prior domestic.

The Court, in its wisdom, wanted to make sure that everybody knew that they had given a copy to the District Attorney's Office. It says there right in the minutes. That clearly shows that there was no proof issue, necessarily, on the charge; it was simply a matter of an inability to actually prove up the prior offense, to make it a second. So that's why it's reduced down to a first. Not for enhancement purposes, but merely for penalty purposes.

And I can tell you, I have a good feeling on where the Nevada Supreme Court lies on this, because there's two unpublished decisions, that I didn't put in my motion, or response, because I don't think it's appropriate to put unpublished opinions. But if you look at these two decisions, they clearly make a distinction between those that are specifically reduced for not only penalty, but enhancement. And that's the Smith line of cases, versus those that are simply reduced and are not specifically reduced for penalty and enhancement.

I have copies up here. It's Kapetan versus

State, 126 Nev. 729, from 2010; and Tosh versus State, 385

P.3d 607, from 2016. I have copies, if you would like to review them. And I have highlighted the relevant portions. If I can approach.

MS. BRADY: I would like to see them. Can we get another copy?

THE COURT: We will mark them as exhibits. If you could make three copies.

MR. BOLENBAKER: I think the way the Nevada Supreme Court is handling these is changing. I think at first they were not supposed to be used as precedent.

I believe that the Supreme Court rules have changed now, and the decisions that are coming out now, that are unpublished, are actually allowed to be cited.

But I think it's a good direction on where they believe -- the Nevada Supreme Court believes the distinction lies, and that is that for a reduced charge from a second to a first to be considered for a first for an enhancement, it has to be specifically mentioned. And that's clearly not in the minutes.

What is clear from the minutes is that they simply just could not prove the prior, which all that really does is just reduce the penalties.

That, combined with the idea that he signed a waiver -- the whole purpose of the waiver is to put him on notice. That's the whole idea of why we have in DUIs and domestics: "Look at this waiver that shows you your rights and what's going to happen to you in the future." That's the whole point of waivers.

We don't have waivers on other misdemeanors. The only reason we have the waiver is for this exact reason: so that an individual can't come in now and say, "Wait a minute. I wasn't sure. I didn't know." And we can come back and say, "Wrong. You had a waiver. You had a waiver that clearly explained to you what the rights were, and what the future was going to hold for you."

So I wish that we had the transcript. I tried, and tried to get it. There was no transcript. I tried to contact to find out who the D.A. was at the time. He's no longer there. So, I mean, I did make efforts to try and dig deeper into exactly what happened.

But I think it's clear from the minutes that this was not expressly reduced for enhancement purposes, which is, I think, what is required under the Speer line of cases, and what I have here in the Tosh and the Kapetan decisions.

THE COURT: The problem I have on that argument is that they consistently go through, if you look at -- and I'm looking at Exhibit 2. And at first, after I read the cases that you cited, I thought: "Well." But if you look at the criminal complaint, they specifically go through and scratch out -- it was originally charged domestic battery, with one prior conviction within the last seven years, and they scratch it out and put "first" offense." And it's initialed by Smith -- I think was his name -- the Deputy DA. And that's on page 1 of the complaint.

And then if you look on the second page of that, he goes through and scratches out -- I guess the second page -- scratches out the section that says, "Further, the said defendant has committed a like offense," blah, blah, blah, blah, blah. And they put a square box around it and scratch that out, and then write out. And then the Deputy DA initials that. And they have got the prior conviction, they set it forth there, but he scratches it out.

And then you get down to the -- when he gets sentenced -- no, the plea, and they scratch out "second" and put "first" again, next to his initials.

And then if you go back up to page -- if you look at the judgment of conviction, the Judge says he's guilty of the first offense. Domestic battery, first offense, on the very first page, and sentences him to a first-offense punishment.

So it's pretty clear that everybody in that courtroom considered this to be a first offense, and --

MR. BOLENBAKER: The way I respond to that is: What else would they call it? If you don't have the prior conviction, that's the normal nomenclature then for it to be considered a first offense.

I think what sometimes happens is, is the State has the burden in a lot of things in criminal law; right? Burden of proof, to prove beyond a reasonable doubt.

THE COURT: They did not have the burden.

MR. BOLENBAKER: But this is actually one thing where it says it has to specifically state that it was limited for enhancement.

And, actually, I'll change my opinion on this.

But this Tosh, this actually does refer to it as a suppression issue, if you read this.

But that's the one thing that it says, is that it has to specifically say it's limited, which is the opposite of what we would normally think in these kind of situations.

Normally we would think: Well, if there was ambiguity, we side with the defendant. Which is actually not what they say here. They actually say it has to specifically be limited for enhancement purposes.

And they actually make the distinction here:

"Entering a plea in this Tosh case, specifically permitting the defendant to enter a plea of guilty - however a plea agreement is reached, does not include an understanding the underlying conviction cannot thereafter be used for enhancement purposes, the conviction may be used for such purpose without violating the plea agreement, regardless of the official designation of the prior offense."

And that's exactly what you're concerned about.

The exact thing that you're talking about is -- you're concerned because it says "first offense."

This case tells you what the Nevada Supreme Court -- the Appellate Court says that the actual designation of "first offense" is not what they're looking at.

What they're looking at is: Was that agreement specifically limiting the State's ability to enhance it? And that's not in the record.

I think we can all agree that there's nothing in there that says -- from the minutes -- that this conviction is hereafter specifically limiting the State from using another conviction for a third offense. I don't think anybody could argue that. That's not in the minutes.

What this case says is that actual designation and what you're concerned about is not what they are looking at.

What they're looking at is: Is there any language that says that the State was specifically 1 2 limited, as part of the plea bargain, from going back in and charging the next one as a third? And that's not in 3 there. And that's what these line of cases say, because 4 it falls under that Speer line, not the Smith line. 5 So I think we can see where the higher courts are 6 looking at it. And I think it's the appropriate way to 7 look at it, because this is -- what we have to do is find 8 out: Was it specifically limited? And we don't have that 9 information here. And, thereafter, that, combined with 10 11 the idea that he signed a waiver, that clearly puts him on notice. And that's what we're really concerned about is: 12 Was he on notice? -- and he was -- then this is a third 13 offense. 14 THE COURT: Let me read your cases here. 15 MS. BRADY: And may I respond? 16 THE COURT: Yes. Let me read these cases. 17 MS. BRADY: I will read them, too. 18 19 THE COURT: Have you read it? MS. BRADY: I'm almost done. Thank you, Your 20 Honor. 21 May I have a couple more minutes? 22 23 THE COURT: Yes. MS. BRADY: Yes, I have, Your Honor. 24

THE COURT: Go ahead.

MS. BRADY: Thank you.

THE COURT: They remanded this one case back, to allow the defendant to create a record.

MS. BRADY: Correct.

THE COURT: I don't know if you planned on calling the defendant as a witness this morning or not.

MS. BRADY: Yes, Your Honor. But if I could respond also to the State. So the State, Mr. Bolenbaker, says he personally could not see how Mr. Kephart failed to be on notice, because of the written waiver that he signed.

However, as you will notice on the written waiver, it indicates the penalties also for a second DUI. It indicates the penalties for a first DUI, a second DUI, and a third DUI.

So the waiver itself does not put him on notice specifically that this instance is that the next one will be a third DUI. It does not put him on notice.

If it was a waiver only saying that the next one is a felony, then the State could say, "I see no way that he's not on notice."

But in this case, he's on notice for first, second, and third. And it was his understanding that the next one would be a second.

Secondly, in terms of this case that Mr.

Bolenbaker provided, the unpublished decision, Sheldon

Tosh versus the State of Nevada, it states that -- and I'm reading on page 1, and I'm trying to look where the specific cite is -- in the second column, about a third of the way down, or an eighth of the way down, on the first paragraph -- this Court has concluded that a second DUI conviction obtained pursuant to a guilty plea entered under an agreement specifically permitting the defendant to enter a plea of guilty to a first DUI offense, cannot be used to enhance a third DUI offense to a felony, because doing so would violate the agreement under which the guilty plea was entered, and would frustrate the reasonable expectation of the parties.

And here, Mr. Kephart's reasonable expectation and his negotiation was that he was entering another to a first, and that the next one would be a second.

On page 2 of this unpublished opinion, at the section at Star 2, going down again about two sentences: In Tosh, there was no written plea agreement on the record regarding Faulkner's conviction. However, in this case, the amended complaint, with crossing out the second and putting "first" on the actual judgment of conviction that Mr. Kephart and the Judge signed, those two things together, combined, constitute written proof that this was negotiated to a first, and that the next one would be a second.

The other statement is that Mr. Bolenbaker indicated that the minutes don't reflect that this was specifically negotiated to another first for enhancement purposes; however, I want to note that I also made efforts to try to get any transcripts or any recordings -- my office also made those efforts -- and we had the same experience that Mr. Bolenbaker came across.

I will note that the minutes are not transcripts. So to the extent that we cannot definitively say, without actually hearing the transcripts, what was said. The minutes are a summary, and maybe they would incorporate everything, but minutes don't always incorporate every detail of conversations. Transcripts do that.

And we don't have access to the transcripts, so it's going too far to say that, Your Honor. To rely on the minutes alone is saying that this was not negotiated to a first for enhancement purposes is not constitutionally valid, because we don't have official transcripts that are in the Court record and that are official and reliable, for enhancement purposes.

1 And then again on page 2, it does say it was 2 remanded back for Tosh to have the right to testify. So I would like to call Mr. Kephart to the stand. 3 THE COURT: If you could come up and be sworn. 4 5 JOHN KEPHART, 6 called as a witness by the Defense, 7 8 who, having been first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows: 9 10 DIRECT EXAMINATION 11 BY MS. BRADY: 12 Could you please state your name and spell it for 13 the record. 14 John Kephart: J-o-h-n K-e-p-h-a-r-t. 15 Who did you negotiate with for the domestic 16 battery from 2010? 17 It was the D.A. 18 And what was your understanding of the 19 negotiations? 20 My understanding of the negotiations is they 21 didn't want to take it to trial, so they offered me a 22 first domestic battery instead of taking it to trial. 23 So like I -- they just offered me a fine, and 24 pretty much just a first domestic battery. That's it. 1 And what was your understanding -- if you were to 2 3 get another one, another domestic battery, what was your understanding as to what level domestic battery that would be? 5 I was under the understanding that it would be a 6 second. 7 MS. BRADY: No further questions. 8 THE COURT: Mr. Bolenbaker. 9 MR. BOLENBAKER: If I may approach. 10 THE COURT: Yes. 11 12 CROSS EXAMINATION 13 BY MR. BOLENBAKER: 14 Do you recognize this document right here? 15 I recognize my signature, my initials on the 16 document. I don't -- I mean, this has been almost 17 10 years ago, so I don't recognize this document. 18 So it's been a while, so your memory might be a 19 little hazy? 20 Well, I mean, do you remember 10 years ago like 21 every sort of papers you signed? 22 Well --0 23 THE COURT: He gets to ask the questions, Mr. 24

Kephart. 1 BY MR. BOLENBAKER: First of all, it's not 10 years ago; right? It's 3 from 2010? 4 Seven years ago. 5 But you just said yourself your memory is a 6 little about what happened --7 MS. BRADY: Objection. That's overstating. He 8 did not say his memory was hazy about what happened; he 9 said he didn't recognize all the specifics of that 10 particular document. 11 THE COURT: The objection is overruled. 12 BY MR. BOLENBAKER: 13 O So you agree with me that your memory was a 14 little hazv? 15 MS. BRADY: Objection. Again, 16 Mischaracterization. 17 THE COURT: Ask him what his memory is, then. 18 "What is your memory?" 19 BY MR. BOLENBAKER: 20 What is your memory? 21 I remember going to Court that day, and they 22 didn't want to take it to trial because like me and my 23 girlfriend got in an argument that day, and like that was 24

it. So they're just like if you just plea out to a first, we'll just let this go a fine. And I'm like, "All right.
2
   That's fine."
3
            You wanted the lesser penalty; correct?
             For sure. I mean, like, at the same time I didn't want to go to trial over this, you know.
5
6
             Sure. So they offered you what would have been a

9
            Well, yeah, but --
            The answer is yes or no.
10
             Somewhat, I guess. Like I would have went to 11 trial over it, but -- 12
             Let me ask a question -- yes or no. You wanted a 13
14
   lesser penalty; correct? Yes or no?
             I don't feel like I can answer it with a 15
   yes-or-no answer.

             In fact, during the actual jury trial in this recognize this document? Yes or no? 1 2 MS. BRADY: Objection, Your Honor. Asked and answered. He's now harassing the witness. 3 THE COURT: Overruled. He's not even close to 4 harassing. 5 THE WITNESS: I don't remember that document. 6 BY MR. BOLENBAKER: 7 8 So you don't remember. But you do recognize your initials on it; correct? 9 Yes, sir. A 10 11 And you recognize, then, that you would have read the document if you put your initials on it; correct? 12 Maybe. I don't know. 13 Α You don't remember, either, do you? 14 I mean, sometimes I sign stuff because -- oh, 15 just sign this, and I'll sign it to get it out of the way, 16 you know. It's like I pled to a first domestic, so I 17 just --18 Do you remember signing this document? Yes or 19 no, Mr. Kephart? 20 I don't remember signing the document, but --21 It's your testimony that the one thing you do 22 remember is, after all this has happened, that you were 23

             Yes. Yes, I represented myself on that case.
             But your memory about everything else regarding was the question?

             THE WITNESS: I don't understand that.
10
             THE COURT: Mr. Kephart, wait a second now.
11
            MS. BRADY:
                         What was the question?
12
             THE COURT: When he asks you a question, if you can, answer it yes or no. If you can't, then say you can't answer it yes or no.

14
15
             THE WITNESS: I can't answer it yes or no.

             MS. BRADY: Objection. It's a confusing
