Because the initial show-up identification was unnecessarily suggestive and there is no indicia of reliability in Mr. Munoz's identification of Mr. Harvey. Thus, Mr. Harvey requests that the initial identification and all subsequent identifications be suppressed, or alternatively requests an evidentiary hearing before the court.

THE UNDERSIGNED MAKES THE FOLLOWING DECLARATIONS SUBJECT TO THE PENALTY FOR PERJURY AND SAYS: That I am a peace officer with the Las Vegas Metropolitan Police Department, Clark County, Nevada, being so employed for a period of 6 YEARS 11 MONTHS.

That I learned the following facts and circumstances which lead me to believe that the above named subject committed (or was committing) the offense(s) of ROBBERY WDW at the location of 4640 W SAHARA, and that the offense(s) occurred at approximately 1621 hours on the 30 day of MARCH, 2016, in the:

County of Clark

X City of Las Vegas

DETAILS FOR PROBABLE CAUSE:

On 03-30-16, at approximately 1635 hours, I Officer R. Nelson P# 14002 working as marked patrol unit 3U56 was dispatched to TJ Maxx located at 4640 W Sahara reference a Robbery. Details stated that a male threatened a worker with a knife and left with merchandise.

Upon arrival I made contact with Julian Munoz who works in Loss Prevention for TJ Maxx. Munoz stated that he observed a black male adult wearing a blue dress shirt, blue blazer, and shorts in the children's department who was later identified at Alfred Harvey Harvey began selecting multiple items very rapidly with no regard to price or size. Harvey then entered the Men's department where Munoz observed him conceal two wallets among multiple other items inside his blazer. Harvey then entered the fragrance department where he selected face cream and multiple other items before exiting the store and passing all points of sale. Munoz approached Harvey and identified himself as Loss Prevention for TJ Maxx. Munoz asked for the unpaid items back and Harvey handed him two wallets. Munoz then asked Harvey to step back inside the store and Harvey refused. Munoz asked again because he did not want to conduct business in front of Harvey's children. At this time Harvey pulled out a knife with a black handle and a blade approximately 4 inches long. Harvey held the knife over his head in a threatening manner and stated to Munoz " we're not doing this today". Munoz immediately felt threatened and feared for his life so he backed off and watched Harvey from a distance:

Munoz could still see items concealed Harvey's blazer and observed him getting in the drivers seet of a UHaul van bearing AZ tag AG55084. The van drove west through the parking lot and north on Decatur. At this time LVMPD air unit spotted the van bearing AZ tag AG55084 turn eastbound Charleston from Decatur then southhound on Vista where Patrol Officer T. Humphreys P#14084 located the van at 1312 Vista and took Harvey into custody. At 1716 hours a Show-Up was conducted and Munoz identified Harvey 100 percent being the male who stole from the store and threatened him with the knife.

Wherefore, Declarant prays that a finding be made by a magistrate that probable cause exists to hold said person for preliminary hearing (if charges are a felony or gross misdemeanor) or for trial (if charges are misdemeanor).

When Officer Humphreys took Harvey into custody, Harvey was in possession of a silver wallet which contained two counterfeit $100 bills along with a paper with multiple credit card numbers along with pin numbers to those credit cards. During inventory of the Uhaul van due to it being towed Officer Resberg P# 10007 located multiple credit cards with multiple persons names inside the drivers side door. Officer Resberg also located a wallet, face mask lotion, women's lotion and perfume all with TJ Maxx tags on them in the front of the van stuffed in between the drivers seat and console. All TJ Maxx items were impounded as evidence and the credit cards, counterfeit money and paper containing credit card numbers and pins were given to Detective Heindel P#5606 with Fraud and Forgery for further follow up. Based on the above facts and circumstances of Harvey stealing items from the TJ Maxx, producing a knife and raising it over his head in a threatening manner when confronted by Munoz causing Munoz to feel threatened and fear for his life, Harvey was placed under arrest for Robbery with a deadly weapon and transported to CCDC where he was booked.

POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

On April 1, 2016, the State filed a Criminal Complaint against Alfred Harvey (hereinafter "Defendant") charging him with Robbery with use of a Deadly Weapon. On April 18, 2016, the preliminary hearing was held in justice court. At the conclusion, the justice court held Defendant to answer the above charges in district court.

On April 20, 2016, Defendant was arraigned in District Court on the above count. Defendant subsequently pled not guilty, and his jury trial is currently scheduled for November 7, 2016.

STATEMENT OF THE FACTS

On March 30, 2016, Julian Munoz, working as loss prevention for T.J. MAXX, observed Defendant, via closed circuit television, select items from the store and place them in his coat and pants. Preliminary Hearing Transcript, 4/18/16, pg. 5-6, 9. Munoz then watched Defendant as he left the store without paying for these items. Id. at 6. Munoz then contacted Defendant outside the store and asked him for the items back. Id. at 6-7. Defendant handed back some, but not all of the items. Id. at 7. Munoz then asked Defendant to return to the store with him, and in response, Defendant pulled out a knife and raised it over head, and told Munoz they were not going to do this today. Id. at 8. Seeing the knife, Munoz backed away and Defendant left in a white U-Haul van. Id. at 8-9. Munoz then contacted the police. Id. at 13. Munoz subsequently identified Defendant during a show-up. Id. at 15.

ARGUMENT

I. THE COURT SHOULD DENY DEFENDANT'S MOTION TO SUPPRESS

Defendant's instant Motion to Suppress argues that this Court should suppress the show-up identification because it is unnecessarily suggestive and unreliable. However, based on the totality of the circumstances, the show-up identification in this case was not unnecessarily suggestive, and further, Munoz's identification is reliable.

Generally, "the weight and credibility of identification testimony is solely within the province of the jury." Jones v. State, 95 Nev. 613, 617, 600 P.2d 247, 250 (1979). However, to suppress a pretrial out-of-court identification, the defendant must show that: (1) the identification procedure is unnecessarily suggestive, and (2) if so, the identification is unreliable despite the unnecessarily suggestive procedure. Wright v. State, 106 Nev. 647, 650, 799 P.2d 548, 550 (1990) (lineup); Gehrke v State, 96 Nev. 581, 584, 613 P.2d 1028, 1029-30 (1980) (showup); see Cunningham v. State, 113 Nev. 897, 944 P.2d 261 (1997) (photographic lineup); Stovall v. Denno, 388 U.S. 293 (1967). The court will make this determination based on the totality of the circumstances surrounding the identification. Jones v. State, 95 Nev. 613, 617, 600 P.2d 247, 250 (1979).

A. THE SHOW-UP IDENTIFICATION AND PROCEDURE IN THIS CASE WERE NOT UNNECESSARILY SUGGESTIVE

Defendant claims that the show-up procedure and identification were suggestive. Mtn 5-7. However, based on the totality of the circumstances, the show up identification and procedure in this case were not unnecessarily suggestive.

An on-the-scene-of-arrest show-up identification is inherently suggestive, but nevertheless, the Supreme Court has found such show-ups constitutional. Biggers 409 U.S. at 198, 93 S.Ct. 375, 34 L.Ed.2d 401. Show-up identifications are not objectionable unless the "procedure was so impermissibly suggestive as to give rise to a very substantial likelihood of irreparable misidentification." United States v. Kessler, 692 F.2d 584, 585 (9th Cir.1982) (citation omitted). However, "[s]hort of that, it is for the jury to weigh the evidence and assess the credibility of the eyewitnesses." Gehrke, 96 Nev. at 584, 613 P.2d at 1029.

Properly conducted show-up identifications are a "salutory" police practice permitting eyewitnesses to identify a perpetrator while the incident is fresh on their minds. Kessler, 692 F.2d at 585. Courts have discussed the importance and necessity of show-up identifications because not only are the identifications more reliable because the memory is fresher, but also, "prompt identifications serve to exonerate innocent people more expediously." Jones v. State, 95 Nev. 613, 617, 600 P.2d 247, 250 (1979). Additionally, this type of identification procedure quickly informs police officers whether a potentially dangerous suspect is still at large. Banks v. State, 94 Nev. 90, 95, 575 P.2d 592, 595 (1978).

Even though show-up identifications are considered inherently suggestive, show-ups are not unnecessarily suggestive when they are supported by the above policy considerations. In Banks, the victim of a robbery identified the defendant during a show-up soon after the defendant was arrested. 94 Nev. at 95, 575 P.2d at 595. The Court held that the show-up was not unnecessarily suggestive because the victim was the only one who could have possibly exonerated the defendant, as she was the only person who interacted with him and his co-conspirators. Id. at 95, 575 P.2d at 595-96. Additionally, the Court recognized how important it is for police officers to determine as quickly as possible whether a robbery suspect was properly apprehended or was still at large. Id. at 95-96, 575 P.2d at 596. Based on this, the Court concluded that the show-up identification was not unnecessarily suggestive. Id.

Here, the show-up conducted was not unnecessarily suggestive. Defendant claims that there was no reason why the police officers needed to do a show-up identification. Mtn. 7. Specifically, Defendant argues that "there were no exigent circumstances" that existed to justify the show up. Id. While the Court has consistently held that showups, by their very nature, are suggestive, the present issue revolves around whether the show up conducted in this case was unnecessarily suggestive. It was not unnecessarily suggestive because, as in Banks, it was necessary to potentially exonerate the Defendant if he was mistakenly apprehended, and further, to enable police officers to determine whether a potentially armed robbery suspect was still at large. Additionally, the show-up was necessary because Mr. Munoz's ability to identify the Defendant would logically be better because his mind was fresher - the robbery took place at approximately 4:35 pm and then show-up was conducted at approximately 5:18 pm on March 30, 2016. See State's Exhibit 1. Thus, the show up was conducted within the hour from when the crime occurred. Therefore, the showup identification was not unnecessarily suggestive and was necessary to support the above policy considerations.

B. EVEN IF THE COURT FINDS THAT THE IDENTIFICATION PROCEDURE WAS UNNECESSARILY SUGGESTIVE, MUNOZ'S IDENTIFICATION IS RELIABLE

Defendant claims that the show up procedure and identification were unreliable. Mtn 5-6. However, based on the totality of the circumstances, the show-up identification in this case is reliable.

The Court enumerated a list of factors to consider when determining whether an identification was reliable. Gehrke, 96 Nev. at 584, 613 P.2d at 1029. These factors include: (1) "the witness' opportunity to view the criminal at the time of the crime," (2) "the witness' degree of attention," (3) "the accuracy of his prior description of the criminal," (4) "the level of certainty demonstrated at the confrontation," and (5) "the time between the crime and the confrontation." Id. (citing Neil v. Biggers, 409 U.S. 188, 199-200, 93 S.Ct. 375, 382 (1972)). In applying these factors to the facts in Gehrke, the Court held that the showup identification was reliable because each witness had an opportunity to see the defendant's face during the crime while they were being held at gun point, their description of the defendant was consistent with what the defendant looked like, the witnesses both testified that there was no doubt that the detendant was the one who robbed them, and the confrontation took place within an hour of the crime. 96 Nev. at 584, 613 P.2d at 1030.

Similarly, in Wright, the Court was particularly persuaded that a photographic lineup identification was reliable because the victims "had an opportunity to observe their attacker at close range." Id. Similarly, the Ninth Circuit concluded that an identification was reliable when the witnesses had viewed the suspect for approximately 30 seconds during the robbery and described him to police soon after the incident. United States v. Gregory, 891 F.2d 732, 734-35 (9th Cir. 1989); see also Gehrke, 96 Nev. at 584, 613 P.2d at 1030 (finding that an important factor existed to support reliability because the witnesses "had an opportunity to clearly see the robber's face during the holdup").

Here, when considering the totality of the circumstances and the factors enumerated in Gehrke, Munoz's identification is reliable.

1. Munoz had ample opportunity to view Defendant at time of the robbery

Munoz observed Defendant while the Defendant was inside T.J. Maxx and also interacted with the Defendant outside the store, giving him ample time to view the Defendant. Specifically, Munoz testified that he first observed Defendant in T.J. Maxx via closed circuit TV. Defense Ex. 6, pg. 6, 9. He observed Defendant proceeding through the store concealing various items into his coat and pockets, approximating that the Defendant was in the store for 15 to 20 minutes. Id. at 6, 10. Munoz actually described in detail how Defendant was acting while in the store causing Munoz to pay attention to him: "[Defendant] walked in and he quickly started selecting merchandise, kind of at random, and was putting stuff - - picking all that stuff up and putting stuff down, it was just suspicious." Id. at 9-10. Then, after observing him move throughout the store, Munoz approached Defendant once he had exited. Id. at 7. Munoz asked him for the merchandise back, and at first, Defendant indicated that he did not know what Munoz was talking about. Id. Then, when Munoz explained that he needed the items in his pocket back, Defendant returned some of the items he had stolen. Id. Munoz then asked Defendant to come back into the store, and Defendant pulled out the knife and told Munoz they were not doing that today. Id. at 7-8. Munoz then observed Defendant get in a U-Haul van and leave the area. Id. at 8. Thus, even more so than in Gehrke and Gregory, Munoz had ample opportunity to observe Defendant, his face, and clothing, along with interact with him before, during, and after the robbery.

2. Munoz paid particular attention to Defendant throughout the robbery

As discussed above, Munoz particularly paid attention to Defendant because Munoz was watching him steal items from the store. Id. at 6, 10. Munoz then had a face to face discussion with Defendant, which included Defendant threatening Munoz with a knife. Id. at 7-8. As such, Munoz had reason to pay particular attention to Defendant before, during, and after the robbery.

3. Munoz's description of the Defendant is consistent with the Defendant

Munoz's description of the suspect was consistent with Defendant. Munoz described him as wearing a blazer jacket and shorts, along with a hat. While there is no indication in the current record whether a hat was found, the Defendant was apprehended wearing a blazer and shorts. State's Exhibit 2. Additionally, Munoz described the suspect as a black male adult, which is consistent with the Defendant. Defense Ex. D. Thus, Munoz's general description of the suspect and his clothing are consistent Defendant and the clothing he was wearing at the time he was apprehended.

4. Munoz demonstrated a high level of certainty at the time of the confrontation

At the time of confrontation, Munoz indicated that he was 100% sure that Defendant was the suspect who robbed T.J. Maxx. Defense Ex. E.

5. The confrontation occurred within an hour of the robbery

Munoz called 911 to report the robbery at 4:35 pm. (SEE CAD). At 5:18 pm, Munoz identified Defendant in the showup. (SEE CAD). Thus, the showup identification was conducted less than an hour after Munoz was robbed by Defendant.

Based on the above factors, it is clear that Munoz's show-up identification of Defendant is reliable.

II. THIS COURT SHOULD NOT BAR ALL SUBSEQUENT IN-COURT IDENTIFICATIONS OF DEFENDANT

Defendant requests that any future in-court identification be suppressed. Mtn. 8. However, this Court should deny Defendant's request as he fails to make the appropriate showing to justify barring in-court identifications in all future court proceedings.

For this Court to suppress or exclude an in-court identification, the Nevada Supreme Court has stated that the pretrial identification procedures must have been "so unnecessarily suggestive and conducive to irreparable mistaken identification" as to be a denial of due process of law. Carmichel v. State 86 Nev. 205, 206, 467 P.2d 108, 109 (1970) (quoting Stovall v. Denno, 388 U.S. 293, 302, 87 S.Ct. 1967, 1972 (1967); Simmons v. United States, 390 U.S. 377, 88 S.Ct. 967 (1968); McCray v. State, 85 Nev. 597, 460 P.2d 160 (1969)).

28 Id. at 286.

In U.S. v. Sambrano, 505 F.2d 284, 286 (1974), the persons accused complained that the pretrial identification procedures used against them were impermissibly suggestive. There, the victims were shown photographs including the two defendants, and identified the first defendant but not the second. Afterwards, a lineup was conducted with the defendants included. One victim chose the first defendant, stating that her identification may be based on being shown the same photograph previously. The other victim chose the first defendant and did not qualify her answer. Neither victim chose the second defendant. At a pretrial hearing, the victims both identified the first defendant, and the second defendant, whom neither had previously identified, but whose photos they had seen in two different procedures. The Court stated that "we do not believe that the suggestion, if any, was so great as to create a substantial likelihood of misidentification." The Court pointed out that:

As recently pointed out by the Supreme Court, a mere suggestion that the accused committed the crime does not constitute a due process violation. Rather, in order to make out a constitutional violation, the suggestion must be so 'unnecessary' or 'impermissible' as to create a 'substantial likelihood of irreparable misidentification' based on the 'totality of the circumstances.' Neil v. Biggers, 409 U.S. 188, 93 S.Ct. 375, 34 L.Ed.2d 401 (1972); Baker v. Hocker, 496 F.2d 615 (9th Cir. 1974).

Id. at 286. The Court found no problem with admitting the in-court identification. The Court explained its holding as follows:

Viewing all the facts and circumstances of this case, we do not believe that the suggestion, if any, was so great as to create a substantial likelihood of misidentification. The identifying witnesses had the opportunity to observe the robbers for approximately four minutes while the robbery was taking place. During the trial, they again had the opportunity to observe the appellants' appearance and mannerisms and, based on these subsequent observations, positively concluded that these two were the perpetrators of the robbery. Moreover, additional evidence was introduced at trial establishing that Padilla was one of the robbers. For example, testimony placed both Padilla and Sambrano in the getaway car just prior and immediately after the robbery of the credit union.

"The reliability of properly admitted eyewitness identification, like the credibility of the other parts of the prosecution's case is a matter for the jury." Foster v. California, 394 U.S. 440 (fn. 2), 89 S.Ct. 1127 (1969). "The danger that use of (a pretrial identification technique) may result in convictions based on misidentification may be substantially lessened by a course of cross-examination at trial which exposes to the jury the method's potential for error." Simmons, 390 U.S. at 384, 88 S.Ct. at 971.

Here, Defendant has failed to show that the above discussed show-up identification was "so unnecessarily suggestive and conducive to irreparable mistaken identification," such that he would be denied due process. Carmichel, 86 Nev. at 206, 467 P.2d at 109. As noted above, Munoz's identification of Defendant in the show-up is not unnecessarily suggestive, and is certainly reliable. Even if this Court disagreed and suppressed the lineup, Defendant still fails to satisfy the burden necessary to prevent the State from future in-court identifications. Further, this is not the only piece of evidence tying Defendant to this crime. Defendant is captured on surveillance stealing items from T.J. Maxx. The surveillance clearly shows Defendant selecting items and concealing them on his person. Thus, similar to Sambrano, additional evidence exists to tie Defendant to this crime. As such, this Court should not bar the State from any future in-court identifications of Defendant.

Narrative

On 03-30-16, at approximately 1635 hours, I Officer R. Nelson P# 14002 working as marked patrol unit 3U58 was dispatched to TJ Maxx located at 4640 W Sahara reference a Robbery. Details stated that a male threatened a worker with a knife and left with merchandise.

Upon arrival I made contact with Julian Munoz who works in Loss Prevention for TJ Marx. Munoz stated that he observed a black maje adult wearing a blue dress shirt, blue blazer, and shorts in the children's department who was later identified at Alfred Hervey. Harvey began selecting multiple items very rapidly with no regard to price or size. Harvey then entered the Men's department where Munoz observed him conceal two wallets among multiple other items inside his blazer. Harvey then entered the fragrance department where he selected face cream and multiple other items before exiting the store and passing all points of sale. Munoz approached Harvey and Identified himself as Loss Prevention for TJ Maxx. Munoz asked for the unpeld items back and Harvey handed him two wallets. Munoz then asked Harvey to step back inside the store and Harvey refused. Munoz asked again because he did not want to conduct business in front of Harvey's Printed 3/30/2016 8:26 PM Page 1 of 10 children. At this time Harvey pulled out a knife with a black handle and a blade approximately 4 inches long. Harvey held the knife over his head in a threatening manner and stated to Munoz " we're not doing this today". Munoz immediately felt threatened and feared for his life so he backed off and watched Harvey from a distance.

Munoz could still see items conceated Harvey's blazer and observed him getting in the drivers seat of a Uhaul van bearing AZ tag AG55084. The van drove west through the parking lot and north on Decatur. At this time LVMPD air unit spotted the van bearing AZ tag AG55084 turn eastbound Charleston from Decatur then southbound on Visita where Patrol Officer T. Humphreys P#14084 located the van at 1312 Visita and took Harvey into outlody. At 1715 hours a Show-Up was conducted and Munoz Identified Harvey 100 percent being the male who stole from the store and threatened him with the knife.

When Officer Humphreys took Harvey into custody, Harvey was in possession of a silver wallet which contained two counterfeit $100 bills along with a paper with multiple credit card numbers along with pin numbers to those credit cards. During inventory of the Uhaul van due to it being towed Officer Resberg P# 10007 located multiple credit cards with multiple persons names inside the drivers side door. Officer Resberg also located a wallet, face mask totion, women's lotion and perfume all with TJ Maxx lags on them in the front of the van stuffed in between the drivers seat and console. All TJ Maxx items were impounded as evidence and the credit cards, counterfelt money and paper containing credit card numbers and pins were given to Detective Heindel P#5808 with Fraud and Forgery for further followup.

Based on the above facts and circumstances of Harvey stealing items from the TJ Maxx, producing a knife and raising it over his head in a threatening manner when confronted by Munoz causing Munoz to feel threatened and fear for his life, Harvey was placed under arrest for Robbery with a deadly weapon and transported to CCDC where he was booked.

POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

On April 1, 2016, the State filed a Criminal Complaint against Alfred Harvey (hereinafter "Defendant") charging him with Robbery with use of a Deadly Weapon. On April 18, 2016, the preliminary hearing was held in justice court. At the conclusion, the justice court held Defendant to answer the above charges in district court.

On April 20, 2016, Defendant was arraigned in District Court on the above count. Defendant subsequently pled not guilty, and his jury trial is currently scheduled for November 7, 2016.

STATEMENT OF THE FACTS

On March 30, 2016, Julian Munoz, working as loss prevention for T.J. MAXX, observed Defendant, via closed circuit television, select items from the store and place them in his coat and pants. Preliminary Hearing Transcript, 4/18/16, pg. 5-6, 9. Munoz then watched Defendant as he left the store without paying for these items. Id. at 6. Munoz then contacted Defendant outside the store and asked him for the items back. Id. at 6-7. Defendant handed back some, but not all of the items. Id. at 7. Munoz then asked Defendant to return to the store with him, and in response, Defendant pulled out a knife and raised it over head, and told Munoz they were not going to do this today. Id. at 8. Seeing the knife, Munoz backed away and Defendant left in a white U-Haul van. Id. at 8-9. Munoz then contacted the police. Id. at 13. Munoz subsequently identified Defendant during a show-up. Id. at 15.

ARGUMENT

Defendant claims that he is entitled to dismissal of the case due to the failure of the police to collect alleged video or photographic evidence from unnamed security officers. Because Defendant cannot show that the evidence was material, or that the failure to collect it was the result of bad faith, he is not entitled to dismissal. Moreover, because he cannot show that the failure to collect the evidence was due to gross negligence, he is not entitled to any presumptions or jury instructions.

A. Destruction of Evidence Versus Failure to Gather Evidence.

The Nevada Supreme Court has characterized the distinction between instances in which the police fail to preserve evidence versus fail to gather evidence as a question of whether the police or the State ever had possession and control over the evidence. See Johnson v. State, 117 Nev. 153, 167, 17 P.3d 1008, 1017 (2001). In the instant case, Defendant never alleges that the State was in possession of the alleged photographs or video. Accordingly, the proper standard is a failure to collect evidence. Id.

B. Rule for Failure to Gather Evidence.

"In a criminal investigation, police officers generally have no duty to collect all potential evidence." Randolph v. State, 117 Nev. 970, 987, 36 P.3d 424, 435 (2001). However, this rule is not absolute, and in certain instances, a failure to collect evidence may warrant sanctions. Id.; see also Daniels v. State, 114 Nev. 261, 956 P.2d 111 (1998). Before a defendant is entitled to any sanction against the State, he must progress through a two-step process. First, the defendant must show that the evidence was material, that is, that there is a reasonable probability that the result of the proceedings would be different if the evidence were available. Daniels, 114 Nev. at 267, 956 P.2d at 115. If the evidence is found to be "material" then the court must "determine whether the failure to gather evidence was the result of mere negligence, gross negligence, or a bad faith attempt to prejudice the defendant's case." Id. Significantly, in situations involving mere negligence, "no sanctions are imposed, but the defendant can still examine the prosecution's witnesses about the investigative deficiencies." Id. (citation omitted). If the court finds gross negligence, "the defense is entitled to a presumption that the evidence would have been unfavorable to the State." Id. (citation omitted). "In cases of bad faith . . . dismissal of the charges may be an available remedy based upon an evaluation of the case as a whole." Id.

1. Defendants' Claims Fail the First Prong of the Daniels Test.

The test enunciated in Daniels provided that in cases where the defense is claiming that the State failed to gather evidence, the defense has the burden of establishing that the evidence was "material." Id. Thus, it is the burden of the defense to illustrate to a reasonable probability that, had the evidence been available to the defense, the result of the proceeding would have been different." Id. Importantly, the Nevada Supreme Court has clearly held that mere speculation that a particular piece of evidence might have been exculpatory is insufficient.

For instance, in Daniels, after a jury convicted Daniels of first degree murder, Daniels raised a claim regarding the detective's failure to draw his blood upon arrest. According to Daniels, had the State gathered this evidence, it would have revealed that he had ingested PCP prior to the crime and bolstered his defense that he lacked capacity to specifically intend the murder he committed. Id. at 266, 956 P.2d at 114. The Nevada Supreme Court rejected Daniels's claim that the blood evidence was "material." Instead the court concluded that "whether the blood evidence would likely have prevented Daniels' conviction is pure speculation." Id. at 268, 956 P.2d at 115.

The Nevada Supreme Court similarly rejected another defendant's speculative claim that that ungathered evidence was exculpatory in Steese v. State, 114 Nev. 479, 960 P.2d 321 (1998). In Steese, the defendant murdered the victim in a residential trailer and then stole the victim's truck. After the police processed both the trailer and the truck for evidence, they released both to the victim's family. The victim's sister later found a pair of blood-soaked jeans inside the trailer and disposed of them without telling the police. The victim's brother found a gold chain inside the victim's truck, notified police, and the police never collected the item. Id. at 491, 960 P.2d at 320. On appeal, Steese claimed that the police committed prejudicial misconduct by failing to preserve material evidence. Id. at 419, 960 P.2d at 329. Essentially, Steese claimed that testing on these two items of evidence could have exculpated him.

After noting that the correct legal analysis regarding the failure of the police to impound the bloody jeans from the crime scene and the victim's chain from the truck was an analysis regarding a failure to gather evidence as explained in Daniels, the Nevada Supreme Court specifically applied the two-pronged test to Steese's claims. The court explained, that [w]hile Steese alleges in his brief that testing of the blood on the jeans may have exculpated him, he has failed to point to any facts in the record which support this. We conclude that Steese's naked speculation is insufficient to show that a different result was likely at trial had the police located this evidence. Therefore, we conclude that this evidence was not constitutionally material.

Id. at 491–92, 960 P.2d at 329.

The court reached the same conclusion regarding the gold chain from the truck. It explained that Steese made an identical argument with regard to the gold chain. Steese claimed that the gold chain possibly contained human hair and bodily fluids that could be subject to DNA testing. Concluding that this speculation failed to satisfy the first prong of the Daniels test which relied on a decision issued by the New Mexico Supreme Court in State v. Ware, 118 N.M. 319, 881 P.2d 679 (1994), the Nevada Supreme Court stated, "we conclude that the materiality requirement of Ware is simply not met by Steese's naked speculation." Id. at 492, 960 P.2d at 330.

In Randolph, the Nevada Supreme Court again rejected a defendant's speculative claims about the materiality of evidence that was not gathered by the police. In Randolph, both Randolph and his co-defendant, Garner, were charged with multiple crimes including murder with use of a deadly weapon for the shooting murder of Shelly Lokken while she worked as a graveyard shift bartender. A witness who saw both Randolph and Garner return to a trailer after the murder saw Garner change out of his clothing. The clothing that Garner was wearing when he was arrested tested negative for blood. 117 Nev. 970 at 986, 36 P.3d at 435. When police arrested Garner, they noted that the trunk of his car contained a pile of clothing, but they did not look through it to see if it included the clothing originally worn by Garner as described by the witness. Id. On appeal, Randolph claimed that the State failed to gather "potentially exculpatory" evidence because if the police had found the clothing and if the Garner's clothing had tested positive for blood, it would have supported Randolph's claim that Garner was, in fact, the shooter. Randolph argued that he was entitled to a jury // instruction that the "ungathered evidenced was presumed to be unfavorable to the State." Id. at 987, 36 P.3d at 435.

The Nevada Supreme Court concluded that Randolph failed to satisfy the first prong of the Daniels test. The court explained

Randolph has not shown that the ungathered evidence was material. If testing of Garner's clothing or shoes had revealed the victim's blood, it is possible that Randolph might not have received the death sentence. However, Randolph has not demonstrated a reasonable probability that such testing would have revealed any blood. He offers no evidence to corroborate his allegation that Garner was the shooter. The possibility that Garner's clothing and shoes would have been favorable to his case remains mere speculation.

Id. at 987, 36 P.3d at 435.

Applying the foregoing analysis to the instant case, it is abundantly clear that Defendant fails to satisfy the first prong of the Daniels test. Defendant claims that the alleged evidence is "undeniably material," claiming that

Surely there can be no doubt that the videotape evidence of the alleged incident would have proven beyond a reasonable doubt whether [Defendant] committed the offense; whether or not the actions constitute robbery and whether or not there was a weapon present. Additionally photographs could also prove beyond a reasonable doubt whether [Defendant] was the actual perpetrator. It is also possible that photographs could depict the presence of a knife or weapon if it existed and the demeanor of the individual.

Motion at 4-5. Defendant's claims demonstrate the lack of merit of his motion.

First, the State would note that there is no actual evidence that any videos other than the security video from inside TJ Maxx ever existed. Further, Defendant has already indicated that he is in possession of such video. At issue are photographs that, to the State's understanding, were taken of the U-Haul vehicle, and were deleted by the security officer taking them, that same day. There is no evidence that the photographs taken by the security officer actually depict the robbery itself. It is the State's understanding that the photographs were not of the robbery, and simply showed the U-Haul in which Defendant fled the scene. The sole support for Defendant's claims come from his "belief that the [security] officer(s) took video surveillance and/or photographs of the alleged perpetrator on the day in question." Motion at 3. This is insufficient.

Not only does Defendant fail to demonstrate that the alleged evidence depicts what he claims it does, he provides nothing more than pure speculation that the evidence was material. Defendant provides no evidentiary basis from which to support his conclusions, or allow this Court to find that it was exculpatory. See Boggs v. State, 95 Nev. 911, 913, 604 P.2d 107, 108 (1979) ("It is not sufficient that the showing disclose merely a hoped-for conclusion from examination of the destroyed evidence...").

Indeed, the testimony of the victim, along with the arrest reports attached to Defendant's motion, demonstrate that Defendant was captured on surveillance video inside the TJ Maxx store, along with two children. Defendant is observed by the victim stealing varied items from the store. When Defendant leaves the store without paying, the victim confronts him. When asked to return to the store to avoid confronting the Defendant in front of his kids, Defendant instead drew a knife from his pocket. The victim was able to provide a clear and consistent description of the knife, describing hearing a clicking sound as the blade snapped into place, and providing color and size descriptions. Further, the victim watched as Defendant fled the scene in a U-Haul vehicle. That vehicle was tracked by a Las Vegas Metropolitan Police Department air-unit. When Defendant was arrested, a show-up was performed, and he was positively identified by the victim. Moreover, an inventory of the U-Haul vehicle revealed several items matching those stolen from the TJ Maxx store. Given that Defendant was seen getting into the U-Haul vehicle, which was then tracked by the air unit, and Defendant taken into custody shortly thereafter, Defendant cannot show how additional pictures of him getting into the U-Haul and driving away would be exculpatory. Moreover, such pictures would not bear on the issues Defendant raises in his motion, such as the presence of a knife or the Defendant's or victim's demeanor. Defendant merely speculates that the alleged video or photographs would be exculpatory. Id. Thus, Defendant fails to satisfy the first prong of the Daniels test.

2. Defendant Rodriguez Fails The Second Prong of the Daniels Test.

Although unnecessary to discuss given that Defendant's claim does not meet the first prong of the test required in failure to gather evidence cases, the State also notes that Defendant would also not be entitled to any of the "remedies" discussed in Daniels because he does not satisfy the second prong of the test as well. As previously discussed, the second inquiry in failure to gather evidence situations is whether the failure to gather evidence was the product of negligence, gross negligence, or bad faith. See Daniels, 114 Nev. at 267, 956 P.2d at 115. If the failure to gather was the product of negligence, no sanctions are imposed. If the failure to gather evidence amounts to gross negligence, then the defense is entitled to a presumption that the evidence would have been unfavorable to the State. If the failure to gather was done in bad faith, dismissal is "an available remedy based upon an evaluation of the case as a whole." Id.

After being convicted of first degree murder with use of a deadly weapon and other charges, Daniels alleged that the police failed to gather his blood. According to Daniels, had his blood been collected, he could have demonstrate that he lacked the specific intent to commit murder because he had ingested and was under the influence of PCP at the time of the crime. After concluding that Daniels had not satisfied the first part of the prescribed analysis in failure to gather evidence cases, the Nevada Supreme Court also noted that "Daniels also failed to establish that the State's failure to gather blood evidence was caused by negligence, gross negligence, or bad faith." Id. at 268, 956 P.2d at 116. The court reasoned that although the detective had been aware that witnesses had described Daniels's behavior as strange, he also knew that the nurse who performed Daniels's initial medical screening did not notice any signs that Daniels was under the influence of a controlled substance and that Daniels had told her that he had not taken any drugs. The detective also explained that prior to his tape-recorded interview of Daniels, Daniels had admitted to smoking marijuana the previous day, but denied recent drug use. Id. Therefore the court found that "a reasonable jury could not find that the detective was negligent, grossly negligent or acted in bad faith by deferring to the nurse's professional judgment and Daniels' own assertion that he was not intoxicated." Id.

Similarly, in Steese, 114 Nev. 479, 960 P.2d 231, after finding that Steese failed to establish the first requirement of the failure to gather evidence inquiry, the Nevada Supreme Court determined that he also failed to show gross negligence or bad faith. The court explained how at least two police officers did not find the bloody jeans when they searched the residential trailer. In fact, the victim's family did not discover the jeans until they had the trailer professionally cleaned. At that point, the family did not notify the police of the existence of the jeans. The Nevada Supreme Court concluded that "[t]his merely suggests that the police failed to search every dark corner of the trailer for evidence; it does not imply they acted in bad faith or with gross negligence." Id. at 492 n.3, 960 P.2d at 329 n.3.

The Nevada Supreme Court conducted the same analysis in Randolph, 117 Nev. 970, 36 P.3d 424. Once again, after finding that Randolph had not met the first prong of the failure to gather evidence test in complaining that the police did not attempt to gather Garner's clothing and shoes, the Nevada Supreme Court found that Randolph did not show that the failure to gather the evidence was the product of gross negligence or bad faith. The court explained:

Even assuming the evidence was material, the failure to collect it was at worst negligent. First, Randolph has not shown that police could have collected the brown shirt and pants. He simply assumes that a search of the trailer or the clothing in the trunk of Garner's car would have uncovered them. Second, Randolph has not shown that the potential evidentiary significance of Garner's shoes, which were available to police, was so obvious that it was gross negligence not to impound and test them.

Id. at 987-88, 36 P.3d at 435.

Here, Defendant has not shown that the police ever knew about the alleged photographs or video. Defendant has not alleged that the security officer, or officers, informed the police of the video or photographs. Defendant cannot provide any indication as to when the photographs or video were deleted. It is hard to imagine that the police would act with gross negligence, much less in bad faith, if the alleged evidence were deleted by the security officer or officers before the police learned of its existence and had the opportunity to collect it.

Defendant's attempt to describe the officers' actions as bad faith fails utterly. Defendant states that Metro officers are trained to impound evidence, and that because the evidence here was not impounded, the court should disregard the facts of the case and simply assume bad faith. Motion at 6. This is not the law. To dismiss this case, Defendant must show that the officers purposefully failed to collect the video in order to prejudice the defendant's case. State v. Ware, 118 N.M. 319, 881 P.2d 679 (1994). There is simply no evidence supporting this bellicose allegation, as evidenced by the defendant's failure to support his position with any fact or law.

Additionally, the defendant has not established that the officers were grossly negligent either. Daniels, 114 Nev. at 267, 956 P.2d at 115 ("When gross negligence is involved, the defense is entitled to a presumption that the evidence would have been unfavorable to the State."). Gross negligence exists when the potentially exculpatory value of the uncollected evidence is patently obvious, and the police nonetheless do not collect it. See Randolph v. State, 117 Nev. 970, 988, 36 P.3d 424, 435 (2001) (finding no gross negligence when the defendant "has not shown that the potential evidentiary significance of [the pieces of evidence], which were available to police, was so obvious that it was gross negligence not to impound and test them."). Here, it is the State's understanding that the photographs were deleted at some time on the day of the robbery. However, there is no evidence that the officers were ever aware of the existence of the evidence. Defendant cannot even speculate as to when the evidence was destroyed, and thus cannot contend that it occurred after a time where the officers could have recovered it. Defendant has simply failed to show any negligence on the part of the officers. Thus he is not entitled to relief. Id.

However, should this Court require additional information to compensate for the lack of detail set forth in the Motion, the proper remedy is not granting the Motion, but setting an evidentiary hearing. If this Court chooses, a hearing could be held for the limited purpose of

1	determining what pictures were taken by the security officer, what they depicted, and the
2	circumstances under which they were deleted. Although Defendant has failed to bear his
3	burden in demonstrating the materiality of the evidence or the bad faith/gross negligence by
4	the officers, an evidentiary hearing would be essential before granting this Motion.
5	CONCLUSION
6	Based on the foregoing, the State respectfully asks the Court to deny the instant motion.

MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES STATEMENT OF RELEVANT FACTS

Mr. Harvey, the Defendant in the instant case is charged by way of Information with one count of Robbery with use of a Deadly Weapon, to wit a knife. Mr. Harvey has entered a plea of not guilty and this case is currently set for trial on November 7, 2016.

The Honorable Judge Saragosa held a preliminary hearing on April 18, 2016. At the preliminary hearing, the State called one witness, Mr. Julian Munoz: Mr. Munoz testified that on March 30, 2016, he came into contact with Mr. Harvey outside a TJ Maxx store. [Preliminary Hearing Transcript, (April 18, 2016) (attached hereto as Exhibit A) "PHT" pp. 5, 7]. Mr. Munoz stated that he saw Mr. Harvey take items from the store without paying on CCTV (closed circuit television). PHT pp. 6-7, 9. When Mr. Munoz confronted Mr. Harvey outside, he states that Mr. Harvey pulled a knife out of his left pocket and held it over his head. PHT p. 8. Based upon the testimony, it appears that this was a short encounter. See generally PHT. Mr. Munoz further Officer Nelson was dispreched to the TJ Maxx at approximately 1635 hours. See Declaration of Arrest (Exhibit B). Mr. Munoz described the suspect as being a Black male, wearing a hat, blue dress shirt, black blazer and dark shorts. See Voluntary Statement (Exhibit C). Mr. Munoz failed to mention any descriptors for weight, height, or eye color. He did not include any information about unique marks like piercings or tattoos. Additionally, Mr. Munoz failed to mention anything regarding the individual's skin tone or hair descriptors.

Officers conducted show-up identification with security officer Munoz at approximately 1715. See Declaration of Arrest. During the show-up identification, Mr. Harvey was handcuffed and surrounded by two police officers. PHT pp. 15-16. Mr. Munoz remained in rear of a patrol car during the show-up identification. Id. Mr. Munoz was approximately 30-40 feet from Mr. Harvey during the show-up. PHT p. 16. There were not any other suspects presented in this show-up identification. See generally PHT. Mr. Munoz wrote that he was 100% sure the identification was correct, writing that he recognized tattoos on the defendant's neck. See Show-Up Witness Instructions (Exhibit D).

Mr. Harvey has entered a plea of not guilty and this case is currently set for trial on November 7, 2016.

LEGAL ARGUMENT

A defendant is presumed innocent until proven guilty. Coffin v. United States, 156 U.S. 432, 453, 39 L. Ed. 481, 15 S. Ct. 394 (1895). The presumption of innocence is a basic component of a fair trial, Estelle v. Williams, 425 U.S. 501, 503, 96 S.Ct. 1691, 48 L.Ed.2d 126 (1976), and a defendant cannot be compelled to stand trial in prison attire because it undermines that presumption, see id. at 504–05. Villa v. State, 373 P.3d 970 (Nev. 2011). The Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments prohibit the use of visible physical restraints on a defendant, "absent a frial court determination... that they are justified by a state interest specific to a particular trial." Deck v. Missouri, 544 U.S. 622, 629, 125 S. Ct. 2007, 2012 (2005). The guilt or innocence of the defendant is a question to be determined by the jury, free from any improper influence of any kind or character whatever. State v. Ah Chuey, 14 Nev. 79, 89 (1879).

In the instant case, Mr. Harvey is requesting to cover his facial tattoos to ensure that he receives a fair trial. Often, members of society pre-judge someone from their tattoos and this affects the ability of the defendant to have a fair trial free of bias and/or prejudice. See for example, David Ferrera, Neo-Nazi gets makeover to hid tattoos from jury, Las Vegas Review Journal July 24, 2016, http://www.reviewjournal.com/crime/homicides/neo-nazi-gets-makeover-hide-tattoos-jury. Here, Mr. Harvey's facial tattoos are analogous to visible shackles and restraints on his body. They can give the false appearance that simply because he has face tattoos that he is a "bad guy, a criminal or guilty of this offense." None of these labels are fair or based in logical reasoning. Significantly, the witness here does not identify Mr. Harvey by his face tattoos so there is no colorable argument that granting this motion affects the State's ability to proceed with their case. Thus, Mr. Harvey humbly requests that this Court grant his request to cover his facial tattoos.

CONCLUSION Based on the foregoing, Mr. Harvey prays that this Court grant the instant motion. .2 4: DATED this 24th day of October, 2016. PHILIP J. KOHN CLARK COUNTY PUBLIC DEFENDER By: /s/ Jasmin Spells JASMIN D. SPELLS, #11635 Deputy Public Defender [3 -25

THE UNDERSIGNED MAKES THE FOLLOWING DECLARATIONS SUBJECT TO THE PENALTY FOR PERJURY AND SAYS: That I am a peace officer with the Las Vegas Metropolitan Police Department, Clark County, Nevada, being so employed for a period of 6 YEARS 11 MONTHS.

That I learned the following facts and circumstances which lead me to believe that the above named subject committed (or was committing) the offense(s) of ROBBERY WDW at the location of 4640 W SAHARA, and that the offense(s) occurred at approximately 1821 hours on the 30 day of MARCH, 2016, in the:

County of Clark

X City of Las Vegas

DETAILS FOR PROBABLE CAUSE:

On 03-30-16, at approximately 1635 hours, I Officer R. Nelson P# 14002 working as marked patrol unit 3U56 was dispatched to TJ Maxx located at 4640 W Sahara reference a Robbery. Details stated that a male threatened a worker with a knife and left with merchandise.

Upon arrival I made contact with Julian Munoz who works in Loss Prevention for TJ Maxx. Munoz stated that he observed a black male adult wearing a blue dress shirt, blue blazer, and shorts in the children's department who was later identified at Alfred Harvoy. Harvey began selecting multiple items very rapidly with no regard to price or size. Harvey then entered the Men's department where Munoz observed him conceal two wallets among multiple other items inside his blazer. Harvey then entered the fragrance department where he selected face cream and multiple other items before exiting the store and passing all points of sale. Munoz approached Harvey and identified himself as Loss Prevention for TJ Maxx. Munoz asked for the unpaid items back and Harvey handed him two wallets. Munoz then asked Harvey to step back inside the store and Harvey refused. Munoz asked again because he did not want to conduct business in front of Harvey's children. At this time Harvey pulled out a knife with a black handle and a blade approximately 4 inches long. Harvey held the knife over his head in a threatening manner and stated to Munoz "we're not doing this today". Munoz immediately felt threatened and feared for his life so he backed off and watched Harvey from a distance:

Munoz could still see items concealed Harvey's blazer and observed him getting in the drivers seat of a UHaul van bearing AZ tag AG55084. The van drove west through the parking lot and north on Decatur. At this time LVMPD air unit spotted the van bearing AZ tag AG55084 turn eastbound Charleston from Decatur then southbound on Vista where Patrol Officer T. Humphreys P#14084 located the van at 1312 Vista and took Harvey into custody. At 1715 hours a Show-Up was conducted and Munoz identified Harvey 100 percent being the male who stole from the store and threatened him with the knife.

When Officer Humphreys took Harvey into custody, Harvey was in possession of a silver wallet which contained two counterfelt $100 bills along with a paper with multiple credit card numbers along with pin numbers to those credit cards. During inventory of the Uhaul van due to it being towed Officer Resberg P# 10007 located multiple credit cards with multiple persons names inside the drivers side door. Officer Resberg also located a wallet, face mask lotion, women's lotion and perfume all with TJ Maxx tags on them in the front of the van stuffed in between the drivers seat and console. All TJ Maxx items were impounded as evidence and the credit cards, counterfelt money and paper containing credit card numbers and pins were given to Detective Heindel P#5606 with Fraud and Forgery for further follow up.

Based on the above facts and circumstances of Harvey stealing items from the TJ Maxx, producing a knife and raising it over his head in a threatening manner when confronted by Munoz causing Munoz to feel threatened and fear for his life;

Harvey was placed under arrest for Robbery with a deadly weapon and transported to CCDC where he was booked.

POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

On April 1, 2016, the State filed a Criminal Complaint against Alfred Harvey (hereinafter "Defendant") charging him with Robbery with use of a Deadly Weapon. On April 18, 2016, the preliminary hearing was held in justice court. At the conclusion, the justice court held Defendant to answer the above charges in district court.

On April 20, 2016, Defendant was arraigned in District Court on the above count. Defendant subsequently pled not guilty, and his jury trial is currently scheduled for November 7, 2016.

On October 25, 2016, Defendant filed the instant Motion to cover his Face Tattoos. The State responds as follows.

STATEMENT OF THE FACTS

On March 30, 2016, Julian Munoz, working as loss prevention for T.J. MAXX, observed Defendant, via closed circuit television, select items from the store and place them in his coat and pants. Preliminary Hearing Transcript, 4/18/16, pg. 5-6, 9. Munoz then watched Defendant as he left the store without paying for these items. Id. at 6. Munoz then contacted Defendant outside the store and asked him for the items back. Id. at 6-7. Defendant handed back some, but not all of the items. Id. at 7. Munoz then asked Defendant to return to the store with him, and in response, Defendant pulled out a knife and raised it over head, and told Munoz they were not going to do this today. Id. at 8. Seeing the knife, Munoz backed away and Defendant left in a white U-Haul van. Id. at 8-9. Munoz then contacted the police. Id. at 13. Munoz subsequently identified Defendant during a show-up. Id. at 15.

ARGUMENT

I. THE COURT SHOULD DENY DEFENDANT'S MOTION BECAUSE THEY DO NOT CONSTITUTE A DEPRIVATION OF THE RIGHT TO A FAIR TRIAL

Defendant fails to provide any legal authority to support his request to cover his facial tattoos. Further, relevant case law from other jurisdictions supports the State's position that Defendant's Motion should be denied.

A defendant's tattoos do not constitute a deprivation of his right to a fair trial. People v. Minter, 37 N.E.3d 238, 262-263 (Ill. App. Ct. 2015). In Minter, the Appellate Court of Illinois dealt with a tattoo issue. Id. In fact, in that case the defendant also filed a pretrial motion requesting that the defendant be allowed to apply make up to cover tattoos on his face in an armed robbery case. Id. at 248. The trial court rejected the pre-trial motion and the subsequent motions during trial about tattoos. Id. On appeal, the Defendant argued that the trial court's rulings regarding his tattoos deprived him of a fair trial because they created the possibility that the jury would view him negatively because of his tattoos. Id. at 262. In rejecting Defendant's claim, the court stated:

Turning to the substance of defendant's argument, neither defendant nor the State cites to any relevant Illinois precedent on this issue. We have not uncovered any, either. However, other jurisdictions have dealt with this issue. We look to those decisions to inform our analysis.

In Jackson v. United States, 945 A.2d 621, 623 (D.C. 2008), the defendant claimed that the trial court erred in denying his motion to permit him to use cover-up makeup to conceal a teardrop tattoo on his face. Defendant argued that the tattoo amounted to other-crimes evidence because "'[i]n some circles, the presence of a teardrop tattoo means that the person wearing it has killed somebody." Id. On appeal, the District of Columbia Court of Appeals rejected the contention that the tattoo amounted to other-crimes evidence, finding that the meaning of the tattoo was open to interpretation and did not definitively signal criminal behavior. Id. at 626. Though it acknowledged the possibility that jurors would interpret the tattoo negatively, the court found that the trial court did not abuse its discretion in denying the defendant's motion because the defendant was not prejudiced. Id. The court also noted that two of the State's witnesses relied upon the tattoo in identifying the defendant. Id. at 627.

In State v. Ross, 2012-0109, p. 9 (La. Ct. App. 4/17/13); 115 So. 3d 616, the trial court granted the State's motion in limine to prevent the defendant from covering the teardrop tattoos on his face with makeup. The court found that the defendant's tattoos were relevant to establish his identity because one of the State's witnesses identified him by the tattoos. Id. at 12-13. The court also found that the jury's being able to see the tattoos did not prejudice the defendant because no testimony was elicited regarding their meaning. Id.

Finally, in State v. Ortiz, 2013 UT App 100, ¶ 1, 300 P.3d 786, the Court of Appeals of Utah rejected the defendant's argument that he should have been permitted to cover his facial tattoos because they were irrelevant and unfairly prejudicial. The court rejected the fundamental premise of the defendant's argument: that his facial tattoos were even evidence that could be considered irrelevant or prejudicial. Id. ¶ 2. According to the court, the tattoos were simply part of the defendant's general appearance and were not subject to the limits of the rules of evidence. Id. The court noted that neither the State nor any of the witnesses referred to the tattoos during his trial. Id. ¶ 4. None of the witnesses identified the defendant via his tattoos. Id. ¶ 4 n.2. The court also noted that tattoos are not inherently prejudicial in the same way as prison clothing or handcuffs. Id.

We can draw several principles from these cases that apply to this case. Like the teardrop tattoos at issue in each of these cases, defendant's tattoos were never given a negative meaning. To the contrary, defendant attached innocuous meanings to each of his tattoos in his testimony. The State introduced no gang evidence to rebut this testimony and made no argument that defendant's tattoos should be negatively interpreted. As the court in Ortiz stated, tattoos do not carry the same inherently prejudicial effect as prison clothing or handcuffs. While defendant's tattoos did not serve a relevant purpose like identification, they were simply a part of his general appearance until he elected to explain their meaning. Until that point, defendant's tattoos did not even constitute evidence that would be required to meet the standard of relevancy.

We also reject defendant's contention that the trial court's ruling compelled him to exercise his right to testify and waive his right to remain silent. Defendant elected to explain the meaning of his tattoos to the jury, fearing that the jury would draw negative inferences from them. However, the mere fact that defendant sought to avoid the prejudicial effect of his appearance does not render his waiver of his right to silence involuntary. Cf. People v. Poe, 16 Ill. App. 3d 805, 805-07, 306 N.E.2d 900 (1974) (proper admission of other-crimes evidence did not compel defendant to testify to dispel prejudicial effect of that evidence); People v. Tillman, 116 Ill. App. 2d 24, 32, 253 N.E.2d 873 (1969) (defendant was not compelled to testify to explain why he fled after State introduced evidence of flight). As the trial court noted, defendant chose to get the tattoos; no one compelled him to. Likewise, no one compelled him to explain their meaning in court.

Defendant cannot show that allowing the jury to see his unaltered physical appearance was reversible error. Defendant chose to tattoo his own face and then chose to explain the meaning of those tattoos to the jury. The State presented no evidence to give a negative meaning that would have necessitated such explanation. We conclude that the trial court did not commit error in precluding defendant from covering his facial tattoos with makeup.

Id. at 262-263.

While the Nevada Supreme Court has not addressed the above issues, the rationale from other jurisdictions provides helpful guidance to this Court. Additionally, the Nevada Supreme Court has held that the showing of a defendant's tattoos does not violate the defendant's self-incriminating rights. Jacobs v. State, 91 Nev. 155, 158, 532 P.2d 1034, 1036 (1975).

Here, the Court should deny Defendant's Motion because his facial tattoos do not violate his right to a fair trial. Defendant specifically claims that he will not receive a fair trial because he may be judged based on his tattoos. Mtn. 4. Defendant further compares his tattoos to "visible shackles and restraints on his body." Id. However, these arguments are without merit. Defendant's tattoos are merely part of his general appearance and the State does not plan to elicit any negative testimony regarding the meaning of any of Defendant's tattoos. Ross. 115 So.3d at 12-13; Ortiz, 300 P.3d at 787-88. Further, Defendant relies on the Las Vegas Review Journal article where the Honorable Judge Scotti allowed the defendant to cover his tattoos to ensure he got a fair trial. However, this same defendant's request was denied by the Honorable Judge Leavitt:

"I'm just not convinced you tried hard enough to pick a jury," said District Judge Michelie Leavitt, who is overseeing the murder case. "They could be impacted; they just have to be fair and impartial, regardless of the fact that they don't like the tattoos or they impact them in a negative way. They should be able to set it aside. And it's just outrageous if a juror can't do that."

See David Ferrera, Jury should see neo-Nazi tattoos in Las Vegas murder trial, judge rules, Las Vegas Review Journal (Oct. 20, 2016, 11:12 p.m.) http://www.reviewjournal.com/crime/homicides/jury-should-see-neo-nazi-tattoos-las-vegas-murder-trial-judge-rules. Thus, Defendant's right to a fair trial will not be effected if his tattoos are visible because the jurors will not be qualified to sit on the jury if they cannot be fair and impartial based on Defendant's tattoos.

Additionally, despite Defendant's contention that his tattoos are not relevant to the case, Defendant's tattoos are relevant to the identification of Defendant. At the show-up, Munoz indicated: "Yes, I am 100% sure that's him. I recognize his face and tattoos on his neck." Defense Ex. D (emphasis added). Moreover, the T.J. Maxx surveillance video shows Defendant moving through the store, selecting and concealing items. Since the video zooms in on Defendant's face, his tattoos are clearly visible on the surveillance video as well.

1	Therefore, Defendant's tattoos should not be covered because they are a basis for the
2	identification in this case. Jackson , 945 A.2d at 627; Ross , 115 So.3d at 12-13.
3	Further, while Defendant compares his tattoos to "visible shackles and restraints on his
4	body," this comparison is belied by the fact that, as noted in Minter, he chose to tattoo his face
5	and neck area. Thus, these tattoos are in no way as inherently prejudicial as prison clothing
6	or handcuffs. Minter, 37 N.E.3d at 263; Ortiz, 300 P.3d at 787-88. As such, Defendant fails
7	to demonstrate that he will be prejudiced based on his tattoos.

MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

STATEMENT OF RELEVANT FACTS

Mr. Harvey is charged by way of Information with one count of Robbery with use of a Deadly Weapon. Per the arrest report, security officer Munoz saw Mr. Harvey conceal two wallets and face cream on his person. See Arrest Report (Exhibit A). Per the report, Mr. Harvey passed all points of sale and Mr. Munoz confronted him. Id. Security officer Munoz asked Mr. Harvey to step back inside the store so that business was not conducted in front of Harvey's kids. Id.

Subsequently, Mr. Harvey was arrested. Id. His person and car were searched. Id. Located in a silver wallet officers found two counterfeit $100 bills and multiple credit card numbers with pins. Id. During an inventory of the U-Haul, officers also noticed multiple credit cards with multiple names on them inside the driver's door. Id.

Mr. Harvey has entered a not guilty plea to the crime as charged and is currently scheduled to begin trial on November 21, 2016.

ARGUMENT

This Court Should Exclude the Evidence Listed Above Because It Is (1) Irrelevant; (2) Impermissible Bad Act Evidence and (3) More Prejudicial Than Probative.

Evidence must be relevant to the case at bar to be admissible. Burton v. State, 84 Nev. 191, 194; 437 P.2d 861, 863 (1968). Relevant evidence is any evidence having any tendency to make the existence of any fact that is of consequence to the determination of the action more or less probable than it would be without the evidence. Nev. Rev. Stat. § 48.015(1). Furthermore, an individual's similar past behavior, whether good or bad, is not admissible to show that individual engaged in, or is predisposed to engage in a particular course of conduct. See Nev. Rev. Stat. § 48.0456(1). Moreover, a presumption of inadmissibility attaches to all prior bad act evidence. Ledbetter v. State, 122 Nev. 252, 260. 129 P.3d 671, 677, (2006) (quoting Rosky v. State, 121 Nev. 184, 195, 111 P.3d, 690, 697 (2005)). Additionally, even relevant evidence is inadmissible if its probative value is "substantially outweighed by the danger of unfair prejudice, of confusion of the issues or of misleading the jury. Nev. Rev. Stat. § 48.035.

Committing a crime with the assistance of a child is codified in Nev. Rev. Stat. § 193.162. This statute allows for a consecutive enhancement ranging from 1-20 years to be applied to any category A or B felony, Id. A child is defined as anyone under the age of eighteen. Id. This statute is similar to the deadly weapon and gang enhancement statutes.

Here, there is video surveillance from the retail store. The defense is not requesting that any of the video surveillance be redacted to exclude pictures of children while shopping in the store. The defense would request that any video surveillance of Mr. Harvey outside the store with his children be redacted as much as it practical and possible. In this case, the fact that Mr. Harvey had his children with him is an uncharged bad act. It is not relevant to the crime in question. It is also not res gestae and the State has failed to file a motion arguing such and requesting this Court allow said evidence.

Mr. Harvey is not charged with committing any crime with the assistance of a child. The mere fact that his children were present does not tend to prove any material element of the crime charged: robbery. Thus this fact is not relevant. Similarly the State has not charged any fraud or forgery related crimes in the instant case. Thus, any reference to counterfeit bills or personal identifying credit card information is not relevant to the robbery allegations here.

The testimony the defendant seeks to preclude in this motion is irrelevant and impermissible. It only seeks to illicit information about uncharged acts that Mr. Harvey is currently not on trial for. This testimony is not only irrelevant, but it is also more prejudicial than probative. This type of evidence seeks to bias the jury against Mr. Harvey and amounts to nothing more than prejudicial and/or propensity evidence. None of this evidence is necessary or relevant to the conduct charged in the Information. Not only is this evidence prejudicial, it is a waste of judicial economy, time and resources. Accordingly, the above listed testimony must be precluded.

CONCLUSION

Based on the foregoing, Mr. Harvey respectfully requests that this Honorable Court issue an order granting the prayers of the instant Motion in Limine.

DATED this 8th day of November, 2016.

CIRCUMSTANCES OF ARREST:

On 03-30-16, at approximately 1635 hours, I Officer R. Nelson P# 14002 working as marked patrol unit 3056 was dispatched to TJ Maxx located at 4640 W Sahara reference a Robbery. Details stated that a male threatened a worker with a knife and left with merchandise.

Upon arrival! made contact with Julian Munoz who works in Loss Prevention for TJ Maxx. Munoz stated that he observed a black male adult wearing a blue dress shirt, blue blazer, and shorts in the children's department who was later identified at Aifred Harvey. Harvey began selecting multiple items very rapidly with no regard to price or size. Harvey then entered the Men's department where Munoz observed him conceal two wallets among multiple other items inside his blazer. Harvey then entered the fragrance department where he selected face cream and multiple other items before exiting the store and passing all points of sale. Munoz approached Harvey and identified himself as Loss Prevention for TJ Maxx. Munoz asked for the unpaid items back and Harvey handed him two wallets. Munoz then asked Harvey to step back inside the store and Harvey refused. Munoz asked again because he did not want to conduct business in front of Harvey's children. At this time Harvey pulled out a knife with a black handle and a blade approximately 4 Inches long. Harvey held the knife over his head in a threatening manner and stated to Munoz "we're not doing this today". Munoz immediately felt threatened and feared for his life so he backed off and watched Harvey from a distance.

Munoz could still see items concealed Harvey's blazer and observed him getting in the drivers seat of a Uhaul van bearing AZ tag AG55084. The van drove west through the parking lot and north on Decatur. At this time LVMPD air unit spotted the van bearing AZ tag AG55084 turn eastbound Charleston from Decatur then southbound on Vista where Patrol Officer T. Humphreys P#14084 located the van at 1312 Vista and took Harvey into custody. At 1715 hours a Show-Up was conducted and Munoz identified Harvey 100 percent being the male who stole from the store and threatened him with the knife.

When Officer Humphreys took Harvey into custody, Harvey was in possession of a silver wallet which contained two counterfelt $100 bills along with a paper with multiple credit card numbers along with pln numbers to those credit cards. During inventory of the Uhaul van due to it being towed Officer Resberg P# 10007 located multiple credit cards with multiple persons names inside the drivers side door. Officer Resberg also located a wallet, face mask lotion, women's lotion and perfume all with TJ Maxx tags on them in the front of the van stuffed in between the drivers seat and console. All TJ Maxx items were impounded as evidence and the credit cards, counterfelt money and paper containing credit card numbers and pins were given to Detective Heindel P#5606 with Fraud and Forgery for further follow up.

Based on the above facts and circumstances of Harvey stealing items from the TJ Maxx, producing a knife and raising it over his head in a threatening manner when confronted by Munoz causing Munoz to feel threatened and fear for his life, Harvey was placed under arrest for Robbery with a deadly weapon and transported to CCDC where he was booked.

You are here to determine whether the defendant is not guilty or guilty from the evidence in the case. You are not called upon to return a verdict as to the guilt of any other person. So, if the evidence in the case convinces you beyond a reasonable doubt of the guilt of the Defendant, you should so find, even though you may believe one or more persons are also guilty.

In deciding the facts of this case you may have to decide which witnesses to believe and which witnesses not to believe. You may believe everything a witness says, only part of it or none of it.

In considering the weight or value of the testimony of any witness you may consider the appearance, attitude and behavior of the witness when testifying and a number of other things including:

- 1. The witnesses ability to see or hear or know of the things the witness testifies;
- 2. The quality of the witness's memory;
- 3. The inclination of the witness to speak truthfully;
- 4. Whether or not the witness has any interest in the outcome of the case or any motive, bias or prejudice;
- 5. Whether the witness is contradicted by anything the witness said or wrote before trial; and
- 6. How reasonable is the witness's testimony when considered with other evidence which you believe.

In deciding whether or not to believe a witness, keep in mind people sometimes forget things. You need to consider whether a contradiction is an innocent lapse of memory or an intentional falsehood, and that may depend on whether it has to do with an important fact or with only a small detail.

The weight or value of evidence does not necessarily depend on the number of witnesses testifying for one side. You must consider all the evidence and you may decide the testimony of a smaller number of witnesses on one side has more weight or value than that presented by the larger number of witnesses on the other side.

It is a constitutional right of a defendant in a criminal trial that he may not be compelled to testify. Thus, the decision as to whether he should testify is left to the defendant on the advice and counsel of his attorney. You must not draw any inference of guilt from the fact that he does not testify, nor should this fact be discussed by you or enter into your deliberations in any way.

The flight, or absence of flight, of a person immediately after the alleged commission of a crime is not in itself sufficient to establish guilt or lack of guilt; it is however, a circumstance which may be considered in reaching your verdict. The weight which should be placed on this circumstance is left entirely to the jury.

create an apprehension of danger and induce a man to part with his property for the safety of his person, it is robbery. It is not necessary to prove actual fear, as the law will presume it in such case.

In order to constitute robbery, the taking must be accomplished either by force or intimidation, this element being the gist and distinguishing characteristic of the offense; but there circumstances of terror, such threatening word or gesture as in common experience is likely to

It is unnecessary to prove both violence and intimidation. If the fact be attended with

need not be force and intimidation, either being sufficient without the other.

Every person charged with the commission of a crime shall be presumed innocent unless the contrary is proved by competent evidence beyond a reasonable doubt.

The burden is on the State to prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant committed an unlawful taking of personal property "specifically, miscellaneous clothing items" from the person of another, or in his presence, against his will, by means of force or violence or fear of injury, immediate or future, to his person or property and that such force was used to:

- (1) Obtain or retain possession of the property,
- (2) To prevent or overcome resistance to the taking of the property, or
- (3) To facilitate escape with the property, you must find the defendant not guilty of Robbery.

If you are not convinced beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant used a deadly weapon in the commission of an unlawful taking of personal property "specifically, miscellaneous clothing items" from the person of another, or in his presence, against his will, by means of force or violence or fear of injury, immediate or future, to his person or property and that such force was used to:

- (1) Obtain or retain possession of the property,
- (2) To prevent or overcome resistance to the taking of the property, or
- (3) To facilitate escape with the property, you must find the defendant not guilty of Robbery with use of a Deadly Weapon.

Petit larceny is the intentional stealing, taking, carrying away or driving away personal goods with a value of less than $650, with the specific intent to permanently deprive the owner of said property.

When a person is accused of committing a particular crime and at the same time and by the same conduct may have committed another offense of lesser grade or degree, the latter is with respect to the former, a lesser included offense.

If you are not convinced beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant is guilty of the offense charged, he may, however be found guilty of any lesser included offense, if the evidence is sufficient to establish guilty beyond a reasonable doubt of the lesser included offense.

The offense of Robbery necessarily includes the lesser offense of petit larceny. You are instructed that if you are not convinced beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant is guilty of Robbery, you may find the defendant guilty of Robbery, if you so find beyond a reasonable doubt.

You are instructed that you may only mark one box on the verdict form.

Human memory is not foolproof. Research has revealed that human memory is not like a video recording that a witness need only replay to remember what happened. Memory is far more complex. The process of remembering consists of three stages: acquisition – the perception of the original event; retention – the period of time that passes between the event and the eventual recollection of a piece of information; and retrieval –the stage during which a person recalls stored information. At each of these stages, memory can be affected by a variety of factors.

If the evidence permits two reasonable interpretations, one of which points to the Defendant's guilt and the other to the Defendant being not guilty, you must adopt the interpretation that points to the Defendant being not guilty, and reject that interpretation that points to his guilt.

If, on the other hand, one interpretation of this evidence appears to you to be reasonable and the other interpretation to be unreasonable, you must accept the reasonable interpretation and reject the unreasonable.

Before you may rely on circumstantial evidence to conclude that fact necessary to find the defendant guilty has been proved, you must be convinced that the State has proved each fact essential to that conclusion beyond a reasonable doubt.

Also before you may rely on circumstantial evidence to find the defendant guilty, you must be convinced that the only reasonable conclusion supported by the circumstantial evidence is that the defendant is guilty. If you can draw two or more reasonable conclusions from the circumstantial evidence and one of those reasonable conclusions points to innocence and another to guilt, you must accept the one that points to innocence. However, when considering circumstantial evidence, you must accept only reasonable conclusions and reject any that are unreasonable.

- 15 IT. BECAUSE I WAS ON --- I WAS ON HIS RIGHT SIDE, HE PULLED IT
- 16 FROM HIS LEFT SIDE. I HEARD THE SNAP AND THEN HE CAME UP WITH
- 17 IT OVER HIS HEAD, HE SAID, WE'RE NOT DOING THIS RIGHT TODAY,
- 18 AND AT THAT POINT I BACKED OFF.
- 19 Q HE HAD THE KNIFE OVER HIS HEAD FACING YOU?
- 20 A YEAH.
- 21 Q AND AT THAT POINT YOU BACKED OFF, AND WHAT -- WHAT
- 22 DID THE DEFENDANT DO?
- A HE WALKED OUT TOWARDS HIS CAR.
- 24 Q DID YOU SEE WHAT KIND OF CAR HE LEFT IN?

I. LEGAL ARGUMENT

The State must provide to the defense all exculpatory evidence in its actual or constructive possession prior to trial. Failure to do so results in a violation of the Due Process Clauses of the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments of the United States Constitution. The rule applies regardless of how the State has chosen to structure its overall discovery process. Brady v. Maryland, 373 U.S. 83, 83 S.Ct. 1194, 10 L.Ed.2d 215 (1963); Kyles v. Whitley, 514 U.S. 419, 115 S.Ct. 1555, 131 L.Ed.2d 490 (1995); Strickler v. Greene, 527 U.S. 263, 119 S.Ct. 1936, 144 L.Ed.2d 286 (1999). Hereinafter this type of exculpatory evidence will be referred to as "Brady material."

Brady material is that evidence which is 1) material, 2) relevant to guilt or punishment, 3) favorable to the accused, 4) and within the actual or constructive possession of anyone acting on behalf of the State. Brady, supra.

1. Materiality

When the defense makes a specific request for Brady material and the State does not provide such material, the Nevada Supreme Court has held that there are grounds for reversal of a conviction "if there exists a reasonable possibility that the claimed evidence would have affected the judgment of the trier of fact." Roberts v. State, 110 Nev. 1121, 881 P.2d 1, 5 (1994) See, also, Jimenez v. State, 112 Nev. 610, 619, 918 P.2d 687, 692 (1996), and State v. Bennett, 119 Nev. 589, 81 P.3d 1, 8 (2003).

Even if a specific request has not been made, reversal is also warranted "if there exists a reasonable probability that, had the evidence been disclosed, the result of the proceeding would have been different." Bagley, 473 U.S. at 682, 685; Pennsylvania v. Ritchie, 480 U.S. 39, 57 (1986). A 'reasonable probability' is a probability sufficient to undermine confidence in the outcome. Bagley, 473 U.S. at 678, 685; Ritchie, 480 U.S. at 57." Roberts, supra, 110 Nev. At 1129.

Therefore, absent a specific request for Brady material, anything that might have created a probability that the confidence of the verdict was undermined is considered material. Where a specific request is made, however, anything that creates a reasonable possibility that the evidence might have affected the fact-finder's judgment is material.

2. Relevancy to Guilt or Punishment

Brady material applies not only to evidence which might affect the defendant's guilt, but also includes evidence which could serve to mitigate a defendant's sentence if convicted. Jimenez v. State, 112 Nev. 610, 918 P.2d 687 (1996). An example of this kind of evidence might be where the victim of a robbery who identified the defendant as one of two people who robbed him, also indicated that he tried to keep the co-defendant from injuring him. Although the identification would actually go to establishing the defendant's guilt, it would also be Brady material because it might serve to mitigate the defendant's sentence because of his effort to aid the victim. Essentially, anything which could convince the court to impose something less than a maximum sentence, or rebut alleged aggravating circumstances would be relevant to punishment.

3. Favorability to the Accused

The Nevada Supreme Court has spoken directly to what is considered "favorable to the accused" and therefore proper Brady material. In Mazzan v. Warden, 116 Nev. 48, 67, 993 P.2d 25, 37 (2000) the court stated:

Due process does not require simply the disclosure of "exculpatory" evidence. Evidence also must be disclosed if it provides grounds for the defense to attack the reliability, thoroughness, and good faith of the police investigation, to impeach the credibility of the state's witnesses, or to bolster the defense case against prosecutorial attacks. Furthermore, "discovery in a criminal case is not limited to investigative leads or reports that are admissible in evidence." Evidence "need not have been independently admissible to have been material."

(citations omitted). Therefore, Brady material under this standard, would include, but not be limited to, the following examples: forensic testing which was ordered, but not done, or which was completed but did not inculpate the defendant; criminal records or other evidence concerning crimes; investigative leads or ordinarily appropriate investigation which were not followed-up on or completed by law enforcement; and, of course, anything which is inconsistent with any prior or present statements of a State's witness, including the failure to previously make a statement which is later made or testified to. Of course, traditionally exculpatory evidence such as that which could show that someone else committed the charged crime or that no crime occurred would also be included as Brady material.

4. Within the Actual or Constructive Possession of Any State Actor.

State's witnesses which might show their bias (e.g., civil litigation), or otherwise impeach their credibility; evidence that the alleged victim has been the alleged victim of an unusual number of

Based on prior experience, it is anticipated that the prosecution may assert that it has an "open file" policy and that the requested material is not available in its file. This argument is unavailing. In Strickler v. Green, supra, 527 U.S. at 283, 119 S.Ct. 1949, the United States Supreme Court explicitly held that a prosecutor's open file policy does not in any way substitute for or diminish the State's obligation to turn over Brady material. The Nevada Supreme Court is in accord. "It is a violation of due process for the prosecutor to withhold exculpatory evidence, and his motive for doing so is immaterial." Jimenez v. State, 112 Nev. 610, 618, 918 P.2d 687, 692 (1996). Furthermore, "even if the detectives withheld their reports without the prosecutor's knowledge, 'the state attorney is charged with constructive knowledge and possession of evidence withheld by other state agents, such as law enforcement officers." Id., 112 Nev. at 620 (citation omitted). Defendant would submit that other state agents such as probation and parole officers, welfare workers, jail personnel, and similar agents of the State are also included in those from whom the prosecution must seek out Brady material.

In Kyles v. Whitley, supra, the United States Supreme Court made it clear that the prosecutor has an affirmative obligation to obtain Brady material and provide it to the defense, even if the prosecutor is initially unaware of its existence. In so finding, the Supreme Court noted that "[t]he prosecution's affirmative duty to disclose evidence favorable to a defendant can trace its origins to early 20th century strictures against misrepresentation and is of course most prominently associated with this Court's decision in Brady v. Maryland. . ." Id. 514 U.S. at 432. The Kyles Court also made it clear that this obligation exists even where the defense does not make a request for such evidence. Id.

The Kyles Court additionally made the following observations when finding the State had breached its duty to Kyles and discussing the prosecutor's obligations:

This in turn means that the individual prosecutor has a duty to learn of any favorable evidence known to the others acting on the government's behalf in the case, including the police. But whether the prosecutor succeeds or fails in meeting this obligation (whether, that is, a failure to disclose is in good faith or bad faith, the prosecution's responsibility for failing to disclose known, favorable evidence rising to a material level of importance is inescapable.

The State of Louisiana would prefer an even more lenient rule. It pleads That some of the favorable evidence in issue here was not disclosed even to the prosecutor until after trial, and it suggested below that it should not be held accountable under Bagley and Brady for evidence known only to police investigators and not to the prosecutor. To accommodate the State in this manner would, however, amount to a serious change of course from the Brady line of cases. In the State's favor it may be said that no one doubts that police investigators sometimes fail to inform a prosecutor of all they know. But neither is there any serious doubt that "procedures and regulations can be established to carry [the prosecutor's] burden and to insure communication of all relevant information on each case to every lawyer who deals with it." Since then, the prosecutor has the means to discharge the government's Brady responsibility if he will, any argument for excusing a prosecutor from disclosing what he does not happen to know about boils down to a plea to substitute the police for the prosecutor, and even for the courts themselves, as the final arbiter's of the government's obligation to ensure fair trials.

Kyles, supra, 514 U.S. at 437,438 (citations and footnotes omitted, emphasis added).

There can be little question, therefore, that despite its "open file policy," the prosecution has an affirmative duty to seek out the previously discussed Brady material, regardless of whether such material is in the hands of the prosecutor or in the hands of some other entity acting on behalf of the State.

Simply put, prosecutors are obligated to provide Defendant with far more than their "open ile." Disclosure of discovery materials cannot be limited or restricted to materials in the possession of the District Attorney's Office. The duty of disclosure includes materials in the possession of all state agents connected with the prosecution, including police and other investigative agencies. Kyles v. Whitley, 115 S.Ct. 1555, 1568 (1995); Giglio v. United States, 465 U.S. 150, 154 (1963); United States v. Osorio, 929 F.2d 753, 760-62 (1st Cir. 1991); United States v. Butler, 567 F.2d 885, 889, 891 (9th Cir. 1978). This duty is imposed by ethical principles as well as constitutional ones. See American Bar Association, Standards for Criminal Justice, Discovery and Procedure Before Trial, Standard 11-2.1(d), 11-2.2(c), 11-2.4 (2d ed. 1980); id., The Prosecution Function, Standard 2-3.11(c). Moreover, the State may not lawfully withhold inculpatory materials and information from Defendant simply because it does not intend to present the material or information during its case in chief. State v. Harrington, 9 Nev. 91, 94 (1873); People v. Carter, 312 P.2d 665, 675 (Cal. 1957); People v. Bunyard, 756 P.2d 795, 809 (Cal. 1988); NRS 175.141.

II. DEFENDANT'S SPECIFIC REQUESTS FOR BRADY MATERIAL

Accordingly, Defendant hereby requests this Court enter an order compelling the State to exercise due diligence in searching for and disclosing to him and his attorneys any materials and/or information in the State's possession, including materials in the possession of the Las Vegas Metropolitan Police Department, and other state agencies or agents, concerning the following:

- 1. Information concerning any expectation¹ of any benefit of any kind to be received, or already received, by any witness presented by the State.²
- 2. That the State engage in due diligence in order to adequately comply with NRS 50.095 and disclosure of felony convictions within the last 10 years, including but not limited to any material and/or information in the State's possession which relates to specific instances of misconduct ¹The law is clear that it is the witness own anticipation of reward, not the intent of the prosecutor, which gives rise to the necessity of disclosure. Moore v. Kemp, 809 F.2d 702, 726, 729-30 (11th Cir.), cert. denied, 481 U.S. 1054 (1987); Duggan v. State, 778 S.W.2d 465, 468 (Tex. Crim. App. 1989).

of any State witness from which it could be inferred that the person is untruthful and which may be or may lead to admissible evidence.³

- 3. Any material and/or information in the State's possession from which it could be inferred that any person whom the State calls as a witness at trial has a reputation for untruthfulness or for shifting his own guilt upon other persons which would either be admissible or aid in the discovery of evidence which would be admissible.
- 4. Any materials and/or information of any nature whatsoever, tangible or intangible, recorded or unrecorded, in the State's possession, custody, or control or the existence of which is either known or through the exercise of due diligence may become known to the State, which would tend to exculpate Defendant of the State's charges, might mitigate the punishment should he be convicted, or would be or may lead to information which would tend to impeach or affect the credibility of a witness anticipated to be presented by the State.⁴
- 5. Any written minutes or records of testimony, summaries of the substance of any oral statements, or any materials and/or information whatsoever relating to any alleged accomplice who either testified or otherwise made statements or created information which would be exculpatory as to Defendant.
- 6. Any information concerning an arrest of any other individual for the charged crime⁵ and any information suggesting a possible suspect other than the defendant.⁶
- 7. Disclosure of any and all statements in the instant case made by any State witness that the State anticipates calling, or by the Defendant, including any inconsistent statements of any named witnesses.

POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

On April 1, 2016, the State filed a Criminal Complaint against Alfred Harvey (hereinafter "Defendant") charging him with Robbery with Use of a Deadly Weapon. The preliminary hearing was conducted and at the conclusion, the justice court held Defendant to answer these charges in district court. Subsequently, on April 19, 2016, the State filed an Information charging Defendant with the above charges. Defendant pled not guilty, and his jury trial is scheduled for June 20, 2016.

On May 10, 2016, Defendant filed the instant motion to compel discovery. The State responds as follows.

STATEMENT OF THE FACTS

On March 30, 2016, Defendant stole items from TJ Maxx. When loss prevention agent Julian Munoz stopped Defendant and requested the items back, Defendant pulled a knife out and held it over his head in a threatening manner. Defendant then fled from the scene.

ARGUMENT

I. GENERAL LAW RELATED TO DISCOVERY

A. THE COURT CAN ONLY COMPEL "DISCOVERY" UNDER THE NEVADA REVISED STATUTES

Under Common Law, a defendant has no right of discovery. State v. Wallace, 399 P.2d 909, 97 Ariz. 296 (1965). This, of course, can be superseded by statutory enactment and that is the case in Nevada. Regarding the law of discovery in the State of Nevada, NRS 174.235, et. seq. controls. The Nevada Supreme Court has held that even an accused's statement is not constitutionally compelled through pre-trial discovery. Mears v. State, 83 Nev. 3, 7, 422 P.2d 230, 232 (1967), Thompson v. State, 93 Nev. 342, 565 P.2d 1011 (1977).

In Franklin v. Eighth Judicial District Court, 85 Nev. 401, 402, 455 P.2d 919, 919 (1969), the Nevada Supreme Court held that the lower court erred in granting defendant's Motion to Discovery, inspect and copy statements of all persons to be called by the prosecution as witnesses at trial, because NRS 174.245 does not authorize discovery of statements made by State witnesses or perspective State witnesses to agents of the State. Nor does the defendant enjoy a constitutional right to discover them. With regard to the discovery statutes previously alluded to, the Court stated that:

"Those provisions (NRS 174.235-174.295) represent the legislative intent with respect to the scope of allowable pre-trial discovery and are not lightly to be disregarded."

Id. at 402-03, 455 P.2d at 919. From the aforementioned, it is clear that Nevada's discovery statutes are to be strictly construed and adhered to since no Common Law right of discovery existed. It should, therefore, also be clear that the defendant's motion, so far as it exceeds the requirements of NRS 174.235, et. seq., must be denied.

NRS 174.235 outlines what discovery is to be provided by the State of Nevada. It includes:

- 1. Except as otherwise provided in NRS 174.233 to 174.295, inclusive, at the request of a defendant, the prosecuting attorney shall permit the defendant to inspect and to copy or photograph any:
- (a) Written or recorded statements or confessions made by the defendant, or any written or recorded statements made by a witness the prosecuting attorney intends to call during the case in chief of the State, or copies thereof, within the possession, custody or control of the State, the existence of which is known, or by the exercise of due diligence may become known, to the prosecuting attorney;
- (b) Results or reports of physical or mental examinations, scientific tests or scientific experiments made in connection with the particular case, or copies thereof, within the possession, custody or control of the State, the existence of which is known, or by the exercise of due diligence may become known, to the prosecuting attorney; and
- (c) Books, papers, documents, tangible objects, or copies thereof, which the prosecuting attorney intends to introduce during the case in chief of the State and which are within the possession, custody or control of the State, the existence of which is known, or by the exercise of due diligence may become known, to the prosecuting attorney.

The statute makes clear the defense is not entitled to any internal report, document or memorandum prepared by the State in connection with the investigation or prosecution of the case. NRS 174.235(2)(a). Nor is the defense entitled to any report or document that is privileged.

The State has an obligation to disclose exculpatory evidence pursuant to Brady v. Maryland, 373 U.S. 83, 83 S. Ct. 1194 (1963). Giglio v. United States, 405 U.S. 150, 92 S. Ct. 763 (1972), requires that certain impeaching material be disclosed as well. The rule of Brady v. Maryland, 373 U.S. 83 (1963), which requires the State to disclose to the defendant exculpatory evidence, is founded on the constitutional requirement of a fair trial. However, Brady is not a rule of discovery. As the Supreme Court held in Weatherford v. Bursy, 429 U.S. 545, 559, 97 S. Ct. 837, 846 (1977):

There is no general constitutional right to discovery in a criminal case, and Brady did not create one... 'the Due Process Clause has little to say regarding the amount of discovery which the parties must be afforded....' Wardius v. Oregon, 412 U.S. 470, 474, 93 S. Ct. 2208, 2212, 37 L.Ed.2d 82 (1973).

In addition, Brady does not require the State to conduct trial preparation and investigation on behalf of the defense. The obligation is to produce exculpatory information which the defense would not be able to obtain itself through an ordinary exercise of diligence.

While defense attorneys routinely claim they need to be provided the information in order to conduct the investigation to determine if there is any exculpatory information, that is simply not the law. In the Ninth Circuit, the obligation for the prosecution to examine information is triggered by a defense request with no requirement that the defense make a showing that the information is likely to contain helpful information. United States v. Henthorn, 931 F.2d 29, 31 (9th Cir. 1990) (holding that the "government is incorrect in its assertion it is the defendant's burden to make an initial showing of materiality," rather the "obligation to examine the files arises by virtue of making a demand for their production"): United States v. Santiago, 46 F.3d 885, 895 (9th Cir. 1995) ("[u]nder Henthorn, the government has a duty, upon defendant's request for production, to inspect for material information the personnel records of federal law enforcement officers who will testify at trial, regardless of whether the defense has made a showing of materiality") accord Sonner v. State, 112 Nev. 1328, 930 P.2d 707 (1996)(requiring materiality before a review of a police officer's personnel file.).

B. THE STATE MAKES THE DETERMINATION AT ITS OWN PERIL IF IT WILL DISCLOSE THE INFORMATION, NOT THE DEFENSE OR THE COURT

This, of course, does not mean that files are produced for the defense. Henthorn explains that following that examination, "the files need not be furnished to the defendant or the court unless they contain information that is or may be material to the defendant's case."

Id. Thus, the only time disclosure is required is if the State finds information that qualifies as Brady material. If the prosecutor is unsure, the information should be provided to the court for review. As the court explained:

We stated that the government must 'disclose information favorable to the defense that meets the appropriate standard of materiality If the prosecution is uncertain about the materiality of information within its possession, it may submit the information to the trial court for an in camera inspection and evaluation. . . .' As we noted in Cadet, the government has a duty to examine personnel files upon a defendant's request for their production.

Id. at 30-31 (internal citation omitted). Despite this procedure, Defendant's routinely request the Court to order production of information to them, or to the Court. It is not the Court's responsibility under the Constitution. It is the prosecution's responsibility.

Moreover, Brady and its progeny are remedies post trial for the prosecution's failure to perform its responsibility. Brady does not support the defense's request to conduct an investigation independent of the prosecution, or to ensure the prosecution completes its duty.

III. TIMING OF DISCLOSURES

A. TRUE BRADY MATERIAL

Traditionally, Brady material is information which indicates that Defendant did not commit the crime, or his sentence should be less based upon culpability. The State's duty under Brady is ongoing. When reviewing cases on appeal, however, courts rule on allegations

Brady disclosures based on the facts surrounding the disclosure and if the alleged Brady information was used in the trial. The Ninth Circuit has recognized that "Brady does not necessarily require that the prosecution turn over exculpatory material before trial. To escape the Brady sanction, disclosure 'must be made at a time when [the] disclosure would be of value to the accused.'" United States v. Gordon, 844 F.2d 1397, 1403 (9th Cir. 1988). With this precedent, the Ninth Circuit has typically found no prejudice when alleged Brady information was disclosed at some point before trial. Notwithstanding, whenever the State is in possession of true Brady material, it is the practice of the undersigned to immediately turn over such information.

B. IMPEACHMENT MATERIAL

From Brady, the Court, through a line of cases related to the credibility of testifying witnesses, established rules and requirements for impeachment material, or Giglio material. The right to impeach witnesses is based on the Confrontation Clause of the constitution. The United States Supreme Court has held that the Confrontation Clause is not "a constitutionally compelled right of pretrial discovery." Pennsylvania v. Ritchie, 480 U.S. 39, 52, 107 S. Ct. 989, 999 (1987). Instead, the right to confrontation is a trial right, "designed to prevent improper restrictions on the types of questions that defense counsel may ask during cross-examination." It "does not include the power to require the pretrial disclosure of any and all information that might be useful in contradicting unfavorable testimony." It guarantees the opportunity for effective cross-examination, "not cross-examination that is effective in whatever way, and to whatever extent the defense might wish." Id. at 53, 107 S. Ct. 999, citting Delaware v. Fensterer, 474 U.S. 15, 20, 106 S. Ct. 292, 294 (1985).

Almost universally, courts have held that there is no Giglio obligation if the witness does not testify. See United States v. Green, 178 F.3d 1099, 1109 (10th Cir. 1999) (holding that Giglio did not apply when the government "did not ever call" its confidential informant as a witness); United States v. Mullins, 22 F.3d 1365, 1372 (6th Cir. 1994) (finding "no authority that the government must disclose promises of immunity made to individuals the government does not have testify at trial," and holding that a grant of immunity could not be "'favorable to the accused' as impeachment evidence because the government did not call [the witness] and, thus, there was no one to impeach"); see also United States v. Pena, 949 F.2d 751, 758-59 (5th Cir. 1991) (impeachment evidence regarding a non-testifying witness is an insufficient basis upon which to grant a new trial); United States v. Storey, 956 F. Supp. 934, 942 (D. Kan. 1997) (holding that while impeachment evidence falls within the Brady rule, "[s]uch evidence as it pertains to an informant, however is only discoverable if the informant testifies"); Kowalczyk v. United States, 936 F. Supp. 1127, 1149 (E.D.N.Y. 1996) (holding that "[t]he Government was not obligated to produce the Janis arrest record, assuming the prosecution was in possession of such information, as Janis was not a witness at trial"); United States v. Hill, 799 F. Supp. 86, 90 (D. Kan. 1992), (denying defense request for any information which could be used to impeach non-witnesses); United States v. Villareal, 752 F. Supp. 851, 853 (N.D. III. 1991) (holding that "[a]s for statements by government witnesses that qualify as impeachment materials, the government is under no obligation to disclose this information before trial," and that "the government is under no obligation at any time to provide impeachment evidence for non-witnesses"); United States v. Coggs, 752 F. Supp. 848, 849, (N.D. Ill. 1990) (holding that the government is not required to produce impeachment evidence impacting non-witnesses, reasoning that "[r]equiring that the government provide impeachment evidence for non-witnesses will not further the interest sought to be served by Giglio-allowing for a meaningful determination of witness credibility"). Finally, evidence of impeachment of a witness need not be disclosed until the witness testifies. United States v. Rinn, 586 F.2d 113 (9th Cir. 1978) ("[S]ince information concerning "favors or deals" merely goes to the credibility of the witness, it need not be disclosed prior to the witness testifying."). Thus, unless the witness is going to testify, there is no basis to disclose any impeachment material. ///

¹ The exception to this rule is where the witness will not testify, but the witness' hearsay statement will be admitted, then the witness' credibility may be in issue. See United States v. Jackson, 345 F.3d 59, 70-71 (2nd Cir. 2003).

IV. THE STATE'S RESPONSES TO DEFENDANT'S REQUESTS IN THE INSTANT MATTER

1. Information concerning any expectation of any benefit of any kind to be received, or already received, by any witness presented by the State

Pursuant to Brady v. Maryland, 373 U.S. 83 (1963), the State is obligated to disclose to the defendant "evidence favorable to an accused...where the evidence is material either to guilt or to punishment, irrespective of the good faith or bad faith of the prosecution." 373 U.S. at 87. This includes any evidence that would indicate that a witness is biased in favor of the prosecution because of promises, rewards or inducements made to the witness by the State or its investigative agents, whether explicit or implicit. See Giglio v. United States, 405 U.S. 150 (1972) (holding that an Assistant United States Attorney's promise to a witness that he would not be prosecuted if he testified for the prosecution is relevant to the witness's credibility and should have been disclosed to the defendant); United States v. Bagley, 473 U.S. 667, 683-84 (1985) (wherein the Court used the terms "promises of reward" and "inducements" to refer to a prosecutor's disclosure obligation under Giglio); Jimenez v. State, 112 Nev. 610, 622, 918 P.2d 687, 695 (1996) ("'it is equally clear that facts which imply an agreement would also bear on [a witness's] credibility and would have to be disclosed." (quoting United States v. Shaffer, 789 F.2d 682, 688 (9th Cir. 1986)).

Further, NRS 50.225(1)(a) entitles witnesses "attending the courts of this State in any criminal case... in obedience to a subpoena... [t]o be paid a fee of $25 for each day's attendance, including Sundays and holidays." Witnesses are also entitled to "mileage reimbursement," NRS 50.225(1)(b) and a per diem allowance, NRS 50.225(2). Additionally, witnesses residing outside the jurisdiction of the Court are "entitled to reimbursement for the actual and necessary expenses for going to and returning from the place where the court is held." NRS 50.225(3). The State is not aware of any compensation outside of the statutory witness fees in this case.

2. That the State engage in due diligence in order to adequately comply with NRS 50.095 and disclosure of felony conviction within the last 10 years, including but not limited to any material and/or information in the State's possession which relates to specific instances of misconduct of any State witness from which it could be inferred that the person is untruthful and which may be or may lead to admissible evidence

This is not a specific request. The State acknowledges that under NRS 50.095, evidence that a witness has been convicted of a crime (if it is punishable by more than one year) is admissible to impeach the credibility of that witness. Evidence of the conviction may be admissible if a period of ten years has not passed from the date of release of the witness from confinement or the expiration of the period of his parole, probation or sentence, whichever is the later date. See NRS 50.095(1)(2). Nonetheless, that statute does not make admissible a witness' prior arrests that did not result in a conviction or an arrest and conviction of a crime that is merely a misdemeanor, or their juvenile record.

Nevada case law and NRS 50.085(3) also permit questioning of a witness in relation to arrests/convictions for crimes not amounting to felonies which bear on the honesty or truthfulness of a witness. See Butler v. State, 120 Nev. 879, 890-91, 102 P.3d 71 (2004)("This court has held that NRS 50.085(3) permits impeaching a witness on cross-examination with questions about specific acts as long as the impeachment pertains to truthfulness or untruthfulness...[but] if the witness denies a specific act on cross-examination, the State may not introduce extrinsic evidence to the contrary.") However, no statute or case law in the jurisdiction permits unlimited questioning of a witness in regard to his/her criminal background beyond that permitted by NRS 50.095 and 50.085(3). Furthermore, records pertaining to juveniles are sealed and not discoverable.

In light of the above-cited legal authority, in the event that the State learns that one of its testifying witnesses has a felony conviction or an arrest/conviction for a crime bearing on honesty or truthfulness, such evidence will be disclosed. The State objects to Defendant's requests for information which extends beyond the ambit of the State's burden as outlined by case law and statute. Should the State learn of any criminal proceeding that may bear on bias, interest and motive, that fact will also be disclosed.

3. Any material and/or information in the State's possession from which it could be inferred that any person whom the State calls as a witness at trial has a reputation for untruthfulness or for shifting his own guilt upon other persons which would either be admissible or aid in the discovery of evidence which would be admissible

Same response as Section 2.

4. Any materials and/or information of any nature whatsoever, tangible or intangible, recorded or unrecorded, in the State's possession, custody or control or the existence of which is either known or through the exercise of due diligence may become known to the State, which would tend to exculpate Defendant of the State's charges, might mitigate the punishment should he be convicted, or would be or may lead to information which would tend to impeach or affect the credibility of a witness anticipated to be presented by the State

The State objects to this request as being vague, overbroad, and compound. Additionally, portions of the request fall outside the scope of the State's obligations under NRS 174.235, as well as Brady v. Maryland, 373 U.S. 83 (1963) and Giglio v. United States, 405 U.S. 150 (1972). To the extent that the request and its multiple subparts fall within the State's obligations under 174.235, Brady and Giglio, they are not specific requests.

NRS 174.235 provides:

- 1. Except as otherwise provided in NRS 174.233 to 174.295, inclusive, at the request of a defendant, the prosecuting attorney shall permit the defendant to inspect and to copy or photograph any:
- (a) Written or recorded statements or confessions made by the defendant, or any written or recorded statements made by a witness the prosecuting attorney intends to call during the case in chief of the State, or copies thereof, within the possession, custody or control of the State, the existence of which is known, or by the exercise of due diligence may become known, to the prosecuting attorney;
- (b) Results or reports of physical or mental examinations, scientific tests or scientific experiments made in connection with the particular case, or copies thereof, within the possession, custody or control of the State, the existence of which is known, or by the exercise of due diligence may become known, to the prosecuting attorney; and
- (c) Books, papers, documents, tangible objects, or copies thereof, which the prosecuting attorney intends to introduce during the case in chief of the State and which are within the possession, custody or control of the State, the existence of which is known, or by the exercise of due diligence may become known, to the prosecuting attorney.
- 2. The defendant is not entitled, pursuant to the provisions of this section, to the discovery or inspection of:

- (a) An internal report, document or memorandum that is prepared by or on behalf of the prosecuting attorney in connection with the investigation or prosecution of the case.
- (b) A statement, report, book, paper, document, tangible object or any other type of item or information that is privileged or protected from disclosure or inspection pursuant to the Constitution or laws of this state or the Constitution of the United States.
- 3. The provisions of this section are not intended to affect any obligation placed upon the prosecuting attorney by the Constitution of this state or the Constitution of the United States to disclose exculpatory evidence to the defendant.

(Emphasis added).

Brady places upon the State an obligation to produce exculpatory evidence. Giglio requires that the State disclose certain impeaching material as well.

In other words, even in the absence of a motion the State is obligated to turn over the information requested that falls within the State's obligations under 174.235, Brady and Giglio. For example, non-exculpatory oral statements are not covered by the statutes or Brady and its progeny. Defendant has made many requests within the instant request without providing any indication that the defense has performed any investigation or discovered that the material actually exists and the State has failed to turn it over. The State asks that this request be clarified by the defense to address what specific discovery Defendant believes he is missing. In the absence of such a clarification the State asks that the request be denied as it fails to state a specific request.

5. Any written minutes or records of testimony, summaries of the substance of any oral statements, or any materials and/or information whatsoever relating to any alleged accomplice who either testified or otherwise made statements or created information which would be exculpatory as to Defendant

Same as response to Section 4.

6. Any information concerning an arrest of any other individual for the charged crime and any information suggesting a possible suspect other than the Defendant

This is not a specific request. The State is not aware of any such information. If the defense has additional information regarding specific items the State possesses and refuses to turn over, the State requests that the defense provide these details to the State.

Disclosure of any and all statements in the instant case made by any State witness that the State anticipates calling, or by the Defendant, including any inconsistent statements of any named witnesses.

While the State usually voluntarily provides all written or recorded statements of witnesses, except those protected as confidential, the State's decision to over include discovery does not expand the nature of those items subject to mandatory disclosure by court order based upon statutory or constitutional authority. The State objects to this request as being vague, overbroad, and compound. Additionally, portions of the request fall outside the scope of the State's obligations under NRS 174.235, as well as Brady v. Maryland, 373 U.S. 83 (1963) and Giglio v. United States, 405 U.S. 150 (1972). To the extent that the request and its multiple subparts fall within the State's obligations under 174,235, Brady and Giglio, they are not specific requests.

NRS 174.235 provides:

- 1. Except as otherwise provided in NRS 174.233 to 174.295, inclusive, at the request of a defendant, the prosecuting attorney shall permit the defendant to inspect and to copy or photograph any:
- (a) Written or recorded statements or confessions made by the defendant, or any written or recorded statements made by a witness the prosecuting attorney intends to call during the case in chief of the State, or copies thereof, within the possession, custody or control of the State, the existence of which is known, or by the exercise of due diligence may become known, to the prosecuting attorney:
- (b) Results or reports of physical or mental examinations, scientific tests or scientific experiments made in connection with the particular case, or copies thereof, within the possession, custody or control of the State, the existence of which is known, or by the exercise of due diligence may become known, to the prosecuting attorney; and
- (c) Books, papers, documents, tangible objects, or copies thereof, which the prosecuting attorney intends to introduce during the case in chief of the State and which are within the possession, custody or control of the State, the existence of which is known, or by the exercise of due diligence may become known, to the prosecuting attorney.
- 2. The defendant is not entitled, pursuant to the provisions of this section, to the discovery or inspection of:
- (a) An internal report, document or memorandum that is prepared by or on behalf of the prosecuting attorney in connection with the investigation or prosecution of the case.

(b) A statement, report, book, paper, document, tangible object or any other type of item or information that is privileged or protected from disclosure or inspection pursuant to the Constitution or laws of this state or the Constitution of the United States.

3. The provisions of this section are not intended to affect any obligation placed upon the prosecuting attorney by the Constitution of this state or the Constitution of the United States to disclose exculpatory evidence to the defendant.

(Emphasis added).

Brady places upon the State an obligation to produce exculpatory evidence. Giglio requires that the State disclose certain impeaching material as well.

In other words, even in the absence of a motion the State is obligated to turn over the information requested that falls within the State's obligations under 174.235, Brady and Giglio. Defendant has made many sub-requests within the instant request without providing any indication that the defense has performed any investigation or discovered that the material actually exists and the State has failed to turn it over. The State asks that this request be clarified by the defense to address what specific discovery Defendant believes he is missing. In the absence of such a clarification the State asks that the request be denied as it fails to state a specific request.

Giglio, governs what impeachment the State must provide. The State asks the Court to hold it to that constitutional standard. Defendant's request is worded in an overbroad manner to encompass immaterial statements about which the State has no knowledge.

Defendant's instant request has no bounds and no limits as to materiality nor whether or not the witness will testify. The State will comply with NRS 174.235 and has provided "any written or recorded statements made by a witness the prosecuting attorney intends to call during the case in chief of the State, or copies thereof, within the possession, custody or control of the State, the existence of which is known, or by the exercise of due diligence may become known, to the prosecuting attorney." Further, Brady does not impose upon the State an obligation "to disclose evidence which is available to the defendant from other sources, including diligent investigation by the defense." Steese v. State, 114 Nev. 479, 495, 960 P.2d 321, 331 (1998). The defense is capable of conducting its own pretrial conferences with witnesses, where the defense can inquire as to any change to the witnesses' expected testimony that differs from the statements given to police. This request should be denied.

8. Any and all other materials required to be disclosed by the United States and Nevada Constitutions and the Nevada Revised Statutes.

This is not a specific request. The defense does not need a court order for the State to comply with its discovery obligation – the State is already held to this standard and there are sanctions in place for non-compliance. This request is overbroad, unnecessary, and certainly not "specific."

9. Any and all 911 or 311 calls, CAD and Event Search reports related to the subject incident.

The State has no objection to this request. The State has subpoenaed these documents and will provide them to defense counsel once they are received.

10. Any and all police reports generated related to the subject incident.

The State has no objection to this request. The State has subpoenaed these documents and will provide them to defense counsel once they are received.

11. Any and all radio traffic with MPD dispatch and/or car-to-car radio traffic and/or police car video surveillance related to the subject incident.

The State is not in possession of the requested information, and there has been no showing by the defense of the materiality of this information. Moreover, LVMPD does not have "police car video surveillance" to the State's knowledge. If the defense would like the requested information, they should subpoen the records themselves.

12. Any and all photographs taken related to this incident.

Defense requests all photographs taken in this case. To obtain these, the defense needs to issue a subpoena to the Las Vegas Metropolitan Police Department and the Clark County Medical Examiners Office. The State is not obligated to obtain these items for the defense. Pursuant to NRS 174.235(1)(c), the State is only obligated to provide to the defense, those photographs which it will seek to admit during its case in chief. Because this request exceeds the requirements of NRS 174.235, the State objects.

13. Any and all requests and/or results of physical or biological evidence.

Defendant's request is overbroad. NRS 174.235 (1) (b) provides for discovery of scientific data. It requires the State to allow the defense to inspect and copy results of physical or mental examinations, scientific experiments made in conjunction with the case in the custody or control of the State or which could become known to the State by an exercise in due diligence. The State asks the Court to adhere to the statute and order the State to comply with the law as provided by statute rather than Defendant's overbroad request.

14. Any and all video surveillance from TJ Maxx on March 30, 2016 concerning this incident.

The State has no objection to this request. The State has subpoenaed the surveillance and will provide them to defense counsel once it is received.

15. Names and last known address of any and all percipient witnesses known to the State or to law enforcement. This includes the names of any juvenile witnesses in the instant case.

The State objects to this request. NRS 174.234 provides the law regarding notice of witnesses. It provides that both sides must disclose witness names and addresses they intend to call in their case-in-chief not less than 5 judicial days before trial. See NRS 174.234 (1) (a) (2). The State intends to comply with NRS 174.234. The State is under no obligation to provide any information regarding witnesses, even percipient witnesses, that it has no intention of calling at trial.

CONCLUSION

Pursuant to NRS 174.234 and NRS 174.245, the State specifically requests that the defense honor their reciprocal discovery obligations and provide contact information for any witnesses they intend to call, as well as copies of any and all discovery they intend to utilize and/or intend to admit in the defense of Defendant. The State further requests that the defense provide access to of those portions of the defense file that are related to the defense of Defendant for copying and inspection consistent with NRS 174.245.

MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITES

STATEMENT OF RELEVANT FACTS

Mr. Harvey, the Defendant in the instant case is charged by way of Information with one count of Robbery with use of a Deadly Weapon, to wit a knife. The Honorable Judge Saragosa held a preliminary hearing on April 18, 2016. At the preliminary hearing, the State called one witness, Mr. Julian Munoz.

Mr. Munoz testified that on March 30, 2016, he came into contact with Mr. Harvey outside a TJ Maxx store. [Preliminary Hearing Transcript, (April 18, 2016) (attached hereto as Exhibit A) "PHT" pp. 5, 7]. Mr. Munoz stated that he saw Mr. Harvey take items from the store without paying. PHT pp. 6-7. When Mr. Munoz confronted Mr. Harvey outside, he states that Mr. Harvey pulled a knife out of his left pocket and held it over his head. PHT p. 8. Mr. Munoz further testified that Mr. Harvey left the store in a white U-haul van. Id.

Per the police report, officers were given plate information for said U-haul truck. See Declaration of Arrest, attached hereto as Exhibit B. A LVMPD air unit located this van and conducted a stop. Id. Mr. Harvey was taken into custody. Id. Officers conducted an inventory search of the van. Id. There is no reference to a knife or any weapons being found or impounded. See both B: Declaration of Arrest and Exhibit C: Impound Report (attached hereto).

In investigating the instant case, the Defense reached out to the security officers at TJ Maxx. It is the defense's belief that the officer(s) took video surveillance and/or photographs of the alleged perpetrator on the day in question. The officers involved in this case did impound store video surveillance from TJ Maxx but did not impound any photographs or video from the security officer(s)'s phone. See Exhibit C. Upon inquiring with the State, the defense was informed that no additional videos exist. Upon information and belief, the defense contends that these photographs and/or video have been deleted and are no longer available.

Mr. Harvey has entered a plea of not guilty and this case is currently set for trial on November 7, 2016.

LEGAL ARGUMENT

THE OFFICERS FAILED TO COLLECT MATERIAL EVIDENCE IN THIS CASE.

The Nevada Supreme Court has adopted a two-part test for analyzing the failure to gather evidence. "The first part requires that the defense show that the evidence was 'material' meaning that there is a reasonable probability that, had the evidence been available to the defense, the result of the proceedings would have been different." Daniels v. State, 114 Nev. 261, 267, 956 P.2d 111, 115 (1998). The second part of the test applies if the evidence is material. "[T]hen the court must determine whether the failure to gather evidence was the result of mere negligence, gross negligence, or a bad faith attempt to prejudice the defendant's case." Id.

A. The Evidence Is Clearly Material.

Robbery requires that one's actions be forceful, violent or place a person in fear of injury. Any evidence that would tend to show the existence or non-existence of this required element is material to the case. Moreover, Mr. Harvey is charged with Robbery with a Deadly Weapon, to wit a knife. Thus, any evidence having the ability to show the presence or absence of a knife or any other weapon is fundamentally material.

In Daniels, the Las Vegas Metropolitan Police Department and University Medical Center were accused of failing to collect blood evidence, which may or may not have proved that Daniels was under the influence of PCP during a robbery/murder. After adopting the two-prong test described above, the Court proceeded to find that whether or not the blood evidence could have prevented Daniels' conviction was pure speculation. Daniels was arrested 6 hours after the alleged ingestion of PCP and Daniels' expert testified that PCP can only be detected in the blood for a "few" hours. If the blood evidence did indicate the presence of PCP, it would be mere speculation that Daniels had ingested it before the shooting.

By contrast, the issues in this case are: (1) Whether Mr. Harvey is the individual who committed the alleged offense, (2) If Mr. Harvey is the actual perpetrator, whether Mr. Harvey used any force, violence, or fear of injury to the security officer(s) and (3) if numbers 2 and 3 are met, whether Mr. Harvey had a weapon. Surely there can be no doubt that videotape evidence of the alleged incident would have proven beyond doubt whether Mr. Harvey committed the offense;

Additionally, photographs could also prove beyond a reasonable doubt whether Mr. Harvey was the actual perpetrator. It is also possible that photographs could depict the presence of a knife or weapon if it existed and the demeanor of the individual. It is clear that having the video and/or photograph evidence at trial could lead to a different result than not having it. Therefore, both the video and photographs at issue are undeniably material to this case.

B. Defendant's Remedy: The Failure to Collect the Videotape and/or whether or not the actions constitute robbery and whether or not there was a weapon present.

B. Defendant's Remedy: The Failure to Collect the Videotape and/or Photographs Was Done in Bad Faith, or At a Minimum Gross Negligence.

"When mere negligence is involved, no sanctions are imposed, but the defendant can still examine the prosecution's witnesses about the investigative deficiencies." Daniels, 114 Nev. at 267; citing State v. Ware, 881 P.2d 679, 685-86 (N.M. 1994); United States v. Bagley, 473 U.S. 667 (1985). "When gross negligence is involved, the defense is entitled to a presumption that the evidence would have been unfavorable to the State. Id. In cases of bad faith, we conclude that dismissal of the charges may be an available remedy based upon an evaluation of the case as a whole." Id.

Bad faith is generally characterized by an intentional act, including an intentional failure to meet an obligation or duty. Gross negligence is a lower standard than bad faith. When an officer acts "directly contrary to standard police investigatory procedure", the Court may find the officers actions to be grossly negligent and "instruct the jury that it can infer that the material evidence not gathered from the crime scene would be unfavorable to the State. State v. Ware, 881 P.2d 679, 685-86 (N.M. 1994) citing State v. McGill, 324 N.W. 2d 378, 379 (Minn. 1982). The Nevada Supreme Court has consistently distinguished the concepts of ordinary or gross negligence from the concepts of willful or wanton misconduct. Davies v. Butler, 95 Nev. 763, 771 (1979). "Gross negligence is manifestly a smaller amount of watchfulness and circumspection than the circumstances require of a prudent man. But it falls short of being such reckless disregard of probable consequences as is equivalent to a willful and intentional wrong." Id. quoting Hart v.

¹ This motion discusses the video and/or photos taken by the security officer's on a cell phone. It is the defense's contention that these recordings and/or photographs were taken outside of the store and would show more than the TJ Maxx video surveillance would, as the store video surveillance does not show any of the alleged confrontation.

Kline, 61 Nev. 96, 101, 116 P.2d 672, 674 (1941). "Ordinary and gross negligence differ in degree of inattention, while both differ in kind from willful and intentional conduct which is or ought to be known to have a tendency to injury." Id.

It is customary/ standard practice for officers to impound evidence that is material to the case or has some evidentiary value. In the instant case, it is the Defendant's contention that the security officers took video and/or photographs of the perpetrator on the date in question. The officers in the instant case did not impound any data from the security officer's phones. See Exhibit C. The officers did, however impound video surveillance from TJ Maxx. The video surveillance illustrates what happened inside of the store, whereas video and/or photographs would have depicted what happened outside of the store. The allegation is that the alleged robbery occurred outside the TJ Maxx store.

The police report is void of any indication that the officers reviewed the photos and/or video on the security officer's phone. It is clear, that these photos and/or video were not impounded. The photographs and video are both exculpatory to the defense. There was never a weapon found on Mr. Harvey's person or in the U-Haul vehicle that officers inventoried. The video would show that there was no knife involved. Photographs could potentially show the absence of a weapon. The photographs also have obvious evidentiary value given the error rate in mis-identifications. Furthermore, the photographs would also show the demeanor of each party involved. Here, the officers were careless in preserving this key piece of evidence. The defense contends that this deliberate failure not only meets the requirements of gross negligence, but actually amounts to bad faith.

The officers here were not novice officer(s), but were duly trained; one of the officers having approximately 7 years experience on the date of this offense. Moreover, the fact that the officers impounded the TJ Maxx surveillance indicates that they were trained in impound evidence with evidentiary value. The failure this material evidence amounts to more than simple negligence. Therefore, if this Court rejects the argument that this case should be dismissed for bad faith, then the Court should find that gross negligence has occurred and grant the Defense a curative jury instruction.

CONCLUSION

For the reasons stated above, the defense requests that this Court dismiss the charges against Mr. Harvey, or in the alternative, allow the Defense a curative jury instruction. Mr. Harvey understands that the case may necessitate an evidentiary hearing to determine what data the security officer(s) took with their phone and the knowledge of the police officers involved. Thus, in the alternative, Mr. Harvey humbly requests that this Court hold an evidentiary hearing to make such factual determinations.

LEGAL ARGUMENT

THE OFFICERS FAILED TO COLLECT MATERIAL EVIDENCE IN THIS CASE.

The Nevada Supreme Court has adopted a two-part test for analyzing the failure to gather evidence. "The first part requires that the defense show that the evidence was 'material' meaning that there is a reasonable probability that, had the evidence been available to the defense, the result of the proceedings would have been different." Daniels v. State, 114 Nev. 261, 267, 956 P.2d 111, 115 (1998). The second part of the test applies if the evidence is material. "[T]hen the court must determine whether the failure to gather evidence was the result of mere negligence, gross negligence, or a bad faith attempt to prejudice the defendant's case." Id.

A. The Evidence Is Clearly Material.

Robbery requires that one's actions be forceful, violent or place a person in fear of injury. Any evidence that would tend to show the existence or non-existence of this required element is material to the case. Moreover, Mr. Harvey is charged with Robbery with a Deadly Weapon, to wit a knife. Thus, any evidence having the ability to show the presence or absence of a knife or any other weapon is fundamentally material.

In Daniels, the Las Vegas Metropolitan Police Department and University Medical Center were accused of failing to collect blood evidence, which may or may not have proved that Daniels was under the influence of PCP during a robbery/murder. After adopting the two-prong test described above, the Court proceeded to find that whether or not the blood evidence could have prevented Daniels' conviction was pure speculation. Daniels was arrested 6 hours after the alleged ingestion of PCP and Daniels' expert testified that PCP can only be detected in the blood for a "few" hours. If the blood evidence did indicate the presence of PCP, it would be mere speculation that Daniels had ingested it before the shooting.

By contrast, the issues in this case are: (1) Whether Mr. Harvey is the individual who committed the alleged offense, (2) If Mr. Harvey is the actual perpetrator, whether Mr. Harvey used any force, violence, or fear of injury to the security officer(s) and (3) if numbers 2 and 3 are met, whether Mr. Harvey had a weapon. Surely there can be no doubt that videotape evidence of the alleged incident would have proven beyond doubt whether Mr. Harvey committed the offense.

whether or not the actions constitute robbery and whether or not there was a weapon present. Additionally, photographs could also prove beyond a reasonable doubt whether Mr. Harvey was the actual perpetrator. It is also possible that photographs could depict the presence of a knife or weapon if it existed and the demeanor of the individual. It is clear that having the video and/or photograph evidence at trial could lead to a different result than not having it. Therefore, both the video and photographs at issue are undeniably material to this case.

B. Defendant's Remedy: The Failure to Collect the Videotape and/or Photographs Was Done in Bad Faith, or At a Minimum Gross Negligence.

"When mere negligence is involved, no sanctions are imposed, but the defendant can still examine the prosecution's witnesses about the investigative deficiencies." Daniels, 114 Nev. at 267; citing State v. Ware, 881 P.2d 679, 685-86 (N.M. 1994); United States v. Bagley, 473 U.S. 667 (1985). "When gross negligence is involved, the defense is entitled to a presumption that the evidence would have been unfavorable to the State. Id. In cases of bad faith, we conclude that dismissal of the charges may be an available remedy based upon an evaluation of the case as a whole." Id.

Bad faith is generally characterized by an intentional act, including an intentional failure to meet an obligation or duty. Gross negligence is a lower standard than bad faith. When an officer acts "directly contrary to standard police investigatory procedure", the Court may find the officers actions to be grossly negligent and "instruct the jury that it can infer that the material evidence not gathered from the crime scene would be unfavorable to the State. State v. Ware, 881 P.2d 679, 685-86 (N.M. 1994) citing State v. McGill, 324 N.W. 2d 378, 379 (Minn, 1982). The Nevada Supreme Court has consistently distinguished the concepts of ordinary or gross negligence from the concepts of willful or wanton misconduct. Davies v. Butler, 95 Nev. 763, 771 (1979). "Gross negligence is manifestly a smaller amount of watchfulness and circumspection than the circumstances require of a prudent man. But it falls short of being such reckless disregard of probable consequences as is equivalent to a willful and intentional wrong." 1d. quoting Hart v.

This motion discusses the video and/or photos taken by the security officer's on a cell phone, it is the defense's contention that these recordings and/or photographs were taken outside of the store and would show more than the TJ Maxx video surveillance would, as the store video surveillance does not show any of the alleged confrontation.

 Kline, 61 Nev. 96, 101, 116 P.2d 672, 674 (1941). "Ordinary and gross negligence differ in degree of inattention, while both differ in kind from willful and intentional conduct which is or ought to be known to have a tendency to injury." Id.

It is customary/ standard practice for officers to impound evidence that is material to the case or has some evidentiary value. In the instant case, it is the Defendant's contention that the security officers took video and/or photographs of the perpetrator on the date in question. The officers in the instant case did not impound any data from the security officer's phones. See Exhibit C. The officers did, however impound video surveillance from TJ Maxx. The video surveillance illustrates what happened inside of the store, whereas video and/or photographs would have depicted what happened outside of the store. The allegation is that the alleged robbery occurred outside the TJ Maxx store.

The police report is void of any indication that the officers reviewed the photos and/or video on the security officer's phone. It is clear, that these photos and/or video were not impounded. The photographs and video are both exculpatory to the defense. There was never a weapon found on Mr. Harvey's person or in the U-Haul vehicle that officers inventoried. The indeo would show that there was no knife involved. Photographs could potentially show the absence of a weapon. The photographs also have obvious evidentiary value given the error rate in mis-identifications. Furthermore, the photographs would also show the demeanor of each party involved. Here, the officers were careless in preserving this key piece of evidence. The defense contends that this deliberate failure not only meets the requirements of gross negligence, but actually amounts to bad faith.

The officers here were not novice officer(s), but were duly trained; one of the officers having approximately 7 years experience on the date of this offense. Moreover, the fact that the officers impounded the TJ Maxx surveillance indicates that they were trained in impound evidence with evidentiary value. The failure this material evidence amounts to more than simple negligence. Therefore, if this Court rejects the argument that this case should be dismissed for bad faith, then the Court should find that gross negligence has occurred and grant the Defense a curative jury instruction.

CONCLUSION

For the reasons stated above, the defense requests that this Court dismiss the charges against Mr. Harvey, or in the alternative, allow the Defense a curative jury instruction. Mr. Harvey understands that the case may necessitate an evidentiary hearing to determine what data the security officer(s) took with their phone and the knowledge of the police officers involved. Thus, in the alternative, Mr. Harvey humbly requests that this Court hold an evidentiary hearing to make such factual determinations.

was conducted and Munoz identified Harvey 100 percent being the male who stole from the store and threatened him with the knife.

When Officer Humphreys took Harvey into custody, Harvey was in possession of a silver wallet which contained two counterfeit $100 bills along with a paper with multiple credit card numbers along with pin numbers to those credit cards. During inventory of the Uhaul van due to it being towed Officer Resberg P# 10007 located multiple credit cards with multiple persons names inside the drivers side door. Officer Resberg also located a wallet, face mask lotion, women's lotion and perfume all with TJ Maxx tags on them in the front of the van stuffed in between the drivers seat and console. All TJ Maxx Items were impounded as evidence and the credit cards, counterfeit money and paper containing credit card numbers and pins were given to Detective Heindel P#5606 with Fraud and Forgery for further follow up.

Based on the above facts and circumstances of Hervey stealing items from the TJ Maxx, producing a knife and raising it over his head in a threatening manner when confronted by Munoz causing Munoz to feel threatened and fear for his life,

Harvey was placed under arrest for Robbery with a deadly weapon and transported to CCDC where he was booked.

MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES STATEMENT OF RELEVANT FACTS

Mr. Harvey, the Defendant in the instant case is charged by way of Information with one count of Robbery with use of a Deadly Weapon, to wit a knife. The Honorable Judge Saragosa held a preliminary hearing on April 18, 2016. At the preliminary hearing, the State called one witness, Mr. Julian Munoz,

Mr. Munoz testified that on March 30, 2016, he came into contact with Mr. Harvey outside a TJ Maxx store. [Preliminary Hearing Transcript, (April 18, 2016) (attached hereto as Exhibit A) "PHT" pp. 5, 7]. Mr. Munoz stated that he saw Mr. Harvey take items from the store without paying on CCTV (closed circuit television). PHT pp. 6-7. 9. When Mr. Munoz confronted Mr. Harvey outside, he states that Mr. Harvey pulled a knife out of his left pocket and held it over his head. PHT p. 8. Based upon the testimony, it appears that this was a short encounter. See generally PHT Mr. Munoz further testified that Mr. Harvey left the store in a white U-Haul van. Id.

Per the police report, officers were given plate information for said U-Haul truck. See Declaration of Arrest, (attached hereto as Exhibit B). A LVMPD air unit located this van and conducted a stop. Id. Mr. Harvey was taken into custody. Id. Officers conducted an inventory search of the van. Id. There is no reference to a knife or any weapons being found or impounded. See both B: Declaration of Arrest and Exhibit C: Impound Report (attached hereto).

Officer Nelson was dispatched to the TI Maxx at approximately 1635 hours. See Declaration of Arrest. Mr. Munoz described the suspect as being a Black male, wearing a hat, blue dress shirt, black blazer and dark shorts. See Voluntary Statement (attached hereto as Exhibit D). Mr. Munoz failed to mention any descriptors for weight, height, or eye color. He did not include any information about unique marks like piercings or tattoos. Additionally, Mr. Munoz failed to mention anything regarding the individual's skin tone or hair descriptors. The police report is void of any indication that Mr. Harvey was wearing these clothes upon coming into contact with officers. Mr. Munoz Show-Up Witness Instructions statement is also devoid of this information. See Show-Up Witness Instructions, (attached hereto as Exhibit E).

Officers conducted show-up identification with security officer Munoz at approximately 1715. See Declaration of Arrest. During the show-up identification, Mr. Harvey was handcuffed and surrounded by two police officers. PHT pp. 15-16. Mr. Munoz remained in rear of a patrol car during the show-up identification. Id. Mr. Munoz was approximately 30-40 feet from Mr. Harvey during the show-up. PHT p. 16. There were not any other suspects presented in this show-up identification. See generally PHT. Although Mr. Munoz was given a document titled Show-Up Witness Instructions, he was not given the document before he made a positive identification. PHT pp. 17, 19. Mr. Munoz wrote that he was 100% sure the identification was correct. See Show-Up Witness Instructions. Approximately forty minutes passed from when officers were initially dispatched to the show-up identification taking place. See Declaration of Arrest.

Subsequently, Mr. Munoz identified Mr. Harvey at a preliminary hearing heard by the Honorable Judge Saragosa. Mr. Munoz had an opportunity to view Mr. Harvey in the courtroom. Upon information and belief Mr. Munoz specifically saw Mr. Harvey standing up in the jury box as his name was called and he walked over to counsel table. PHT pp. 4, 14. Mr. Harvey was handcuffed and dressed in jail clothing. PHT p. 5.

Mr. Harvey has entered a plea of not guilty and this case is currently set for trial on November 7, 2016.

I. MR. HARVEY'S DUE PROCESS RIGHT UNDER THE FIFTH AND FOURTEENTH AMENDMENTS TO THE UNITED STATES CONSTITUTION AND ARTICLE ONE SECTION EIGHTEEN OF THE NEVADA CONSTITUTION WERE VIOLATED BY THE SUGGESTIVE IDENTIFICATION PROCEDURE.

Erroneous eyewitness identifications are the third leading cause of wrongful convictions following only false testimony and the influence of community outrage. H. Bedau & M. Radelet, Miscarriages of Justice in Potentially Capital Cases, 40 STAN. L. REV. 21, 57-61 (1987) (of all the innocent people convicted, 55 percent of the cases were caused by witness error; 16 percent involved good faith eyewitness identification). See State v. Henderson, 208 N.J. 208 (2011) (discusses various studies regarding misidentifications).

A pretrial identification is a critical stage of the prosecutorial process and must comport with the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments to the U.S. Constitution, which guarantee the right to due process. Mason v. Braithwaite, 432 U.S. 98,113 (1977) (acknowledging that due process requires basic fairness in this area); Stovall v. Denno, 388 U.S. 293, 301 (1967) (recognizing that procedure that is unnecessarily suggestive and conducive to irreparable mistaken identification runs afoul of due process). Citing these decisions, the Nevada Supreme Court held that an identification denies a defendant due process if, when considering the totality of circumstances, the identification is 1) unnecessarily suggestive and 2) conducive to irreparable mistaken identification. Jones v. State, 95 Nev. 613, 617; 600 P.2de 247, 250 (1978); see also Gherke v. State, 96 Nev. 581,584; 613 P.2d 1029 (1980) citing Stovall v. Denno, 388 U.S. at 301-02.

A pretrial identification that is unnecessarily suggestive may be admitted only if the identification evidence is reliable. Gehrke, 96 Nev. at 584. When determining reliability, a court should weigh the following factors against the effect of the suggestive procedures:

(1) the witness' opportunity to view the criminal act at the time of the crime;

(2) the witness' degree of attention;

- (3) the accuracy of the prior description of the criminal,
- (4) the level of certainty demonstrated at the confrontation; and
- (5) the time between the crime and the confrontation.

Gehrke, 96 Nev. at 584, citing Neil v. Biggers, 409 U.S. 188 (1972).

In the instant case, the Gehrke factors are in our favor. Here, according to the testimony on file, it appears that the interaction between Mr. Munoz and Mr. Harvey was very brief. Thus, Defense would argue that Mr. Munoz did not have an adequate opportunity to view the suspect, because any viewing while the individual was in the store was done through closed circuit television. Here, Mr. Munoz did not illustrate a strong degree of attention. Mr. Munoz indicated that he saw a Black male adult wearing a hat, a blue dress shirt, a black blazer and shorts. Outside of a clothing description, there was no information to indicate what the individual looked like. Clothing descriptors do not explain what a person looks like. Because the police report is devoid of what Mr. Harvey was wearing upon coming into contact with officers, factor 3 cannot be considered. Although Mr. Munoz indicated 100% certainty, it does not change the fact that it was a show-up identification which is inherently suggestive, Moreover, Mr. Munoz was 30-40 feet away during the identification and seated in the rear of a car, arguably with a view that was partially obstructed. Here there was approximately a 40 min time gap between when dispatch was called and the show-up identification took place. An evidentiary hearing is needed to flesh out this time line more.

II. SHOW-UP IDENTIFICATIONS ARE INHERENTLY SUGGESTIVE AND PREJUDICIAL.

A show-up "is inherently suggestive because it is apparent that law enforcement officials believe they have caught the offender." Taylor v. State, 132 Nev. Adv. Op. 27, 371 P.3d 1036, 1044 (2016), reh'g denied (June 10, 2016), reconsideration en banc denied (July 14, 2016) citing

Jones v. State, 95 Nev. 613, 617, 600 P.2d 247, 250 (1979). When exigent circumstances are 1 present, the court has ruled that there may be a need for a prompt identification. See Gehrke, 96 2 Nev. at 584 n. 2, 613 P.2d at 1030 n. 2. Examples of exigencies sufficient to justify a show-up 3 include: (1) ensuring fresher memory, Jones, 95 Nev. at 617, 600 P.2d at 250; (2) exonerating 4 5 innocent people by making prompt identifications, Id.; and (3) ensuring that those committing 6 serious or dangerous felonies are swiftly apprehended, Banks v. State, 94 Nev. 90, 95, 575 P.2d 7 592, 595 (1978). Even in exigent circumstances, the show-up identification must be reliable. 8: Taylor v. State, 132 Nev. Adv. Op. 27, 371 P.3d 1036, 1044 (2016), reh'g denied (June 10, 2016), Q. reconsideration en banc denied (July 14, 2016) citing Jones, 95 Nev. at 617, 600 P.2d at 250. 10 Where exigencies such as these are absent, however, show-ups are not justified. See Gehrke, 96 11 12 Nev. at 584, 613 P.2d at 1030. Taylor v. State, 132 Nev. Adv. Op. 27, 371 P.3d 1036, 1044 (2016), 13. reh'g denied (June 10, 2016), reconsideration en banc denied (July 14, 2016). 14 Arguably here, there were no exigent circumstances and thus a show-up identification was not 15 justified. Even though the allegations include a weapon, there was never any indication that the 16 weapon was used in an actual attempt to harm anyone. Additionally, the weapon at issue has been 17 described as a pocket knife. Here, a show-up identification was not warranted. Even if the court 18 19 finds that there were exigent circumstances, the show-up identification is not reliable and is highly 20 prejudicial. 21 $/\!/\!/$ 22 23 Ш 24 25 111

III. THE COURT MUST SUPPRESS THE PRETRIAL IDENTIFICATION AND ANY SUBSEQUENT IDENTIFICATION BECAUSE IT IS NOT RELIABLE.

Additionally, any in-court identification of the defendant in this matter should be suppressed. In-court identifications, which follow a violative pretrial identification, need to be shown to be reliable separate from the improper pretrial identification. U.S. v. Wade, 388 U.S. 218 (1966). See also, Simmons v. U.S., 390 U.S. 377 (1968) for the proposition that identification procedures that are so suggestive that they give rise to a substantial likelihood of misidentification violative a defendant's due process rights. There is a concern that when the witness identifies the person at trial it is because of the earlier suggestive pretrial identification, rather than on the witness's observations at the time of the alleged crime. The danger is that the identification in court may be only a confirmation of the earlier identification, rather than a product of independent recollection from the time of the alleged defense. U.S. v. Robertson, 19 F.3d 1318 (10th Cir., 1994).

Without some proof that the in-court identification is based on observations made prior to the pretrial identification, the in-court identification must be suppressed. It seems highly unlikely that any in-court identification would be independent from the show-up identification.

Furthermore, here the witness had an opportunity to view Mr. Harvey in the courtroom in the jury box prior to the preliminary hearing stage. It is not difficult to point out the only person in handcuffs seated at counsel table during a hearing. Moreover, a defendant stands upon his name being called in the courtroom, giving the witness another opportunity to view the named defense in the case. Witnesses understand which case they are there to testify for. Thus, here Mr. Munoz would have had and arguably did have the opportunity to view Mr. Harvey multiples during the morning of the hearing, prior to the on record identification. Therefore, the initial identification, the preliminary hearing identification, and any identification at trial must be suppressed.
