Subject: Payment to Internet Archives via Pay Pal

Mia,

I have an email into Internet Archives to confirm the payment amount that I will forward you. Once they respond I will let you know so that you can make payment. The below are the instructions from the website concerning payment:

Our standard fee is $250 per request, plus $20 for each extended URL therein, excepting URLs that contain downloadable/printable files. Any such URLs (for example, .pdf, .doc, or .zip files) instead cost $30 per extended URL. The Internet Archive does not automatically notarize the affidavit. If you would like your affidavit notarized there is an additional $100 fee.

We can only accept payment by check, which should be payable to the Internet Archive, or by means of PayPal (please send payment to info@archive.org via paypal.com, DO NOT SEND PAYMENT VIA OUR DONATION PAGE). If using PayPal, it is important to include a note with the transaction indicating that payment is for an "affidavit request". Please note that you must pay us up front; we will not begin working on your request until payment in full is received as well as all of the paper and digital request. Both are needed to have us start on your request. This policy is necessary because a number of requestors have not paid the Internet Archive after receiving our responses. The Internet Archive's mailing/shipping address is:

Internet Archive
300 Funston Avenue
San Francisco, CA 94118

When you submit payment, please make sure that the Internet Archive can readily identify the request to which your payment relates. For example, if you send a check, include a copy of your request in the envelope with the check. If you send payment via PayPal, email info@archive.org immediately after sending payment letting the Internet Archive know that you just sent payment and identifying your request.

Sincerely,

Craig D. Friedel
