STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This is a worker's compensation case. Prior to the subject claim, in 2005, claimant Respondent JARED SPANGLER (hereinafter "Respondent") filed a claim for workers' compensation benefits alleging that he had a hearing loss that was job incurred. This claim was denied as there was evidence that Respondent had hearing loss prior to his employment. Petitioner did not contest this denial.

In the instant claim, on February 9, 2016, Respondent filed a second claim alleging that his non-industrial hearing loss was made worse over time by his employment. This claim was denied. Respondent appealed.

On July 20, 2017, the Appeals Officer affirmed claim denial given that there was no conclusive evidence that his hearing loss was related to his employment. Respondent filed the instant Petition for Judicial Review contesting this July 20, 2017 Decision.

On June 18, 2018, the District Court reversed the Appeals Officer, finding that the Appeals Officer failed to consider NRS 616C.175(1), that the Appeals Officer interpreted the term "accident" too narrowly, and that the Appeals Officer incorrectly placed the entire burden on Petitioner to prove that the claim was compensable.

II.

SUMMARY OF THE ARGUMENT

Respondent argued to the District Court that the aggravation over time of his non-industrial condition should be compensable. However, as will be explained below, the Nevada workers' compensation system does not allow for such a claim. The Appeals Officer's Decision was proper.

Further, the District Court did indeed interpret the term "accident" too broadly, requesting that the Appeals Officer consider each instance of a loud noise to Respondent as a separate accident. Though it may be true that each instance of a loud noise could have potentially been considered an "accident," that is all that they would have been: individual accidents which were self contained. In other words, Respondent could indeed have filed separate claims for each loud noise, but this interpretation has two ramifications: (1) they would each be separate claims and could not be then considered as some sort of cumulative "accident;" and (2) if such an expansive definition of "accident" is used, the fact that the Respondent did not file claims for each loud noise would be a concession that each of those loud noises could not be considered as industrial injury. The District Court erred and sent legally erroneous instructions to the Appeals Officer to interpret on remand. The Appeals Officer's Decision and Order was proper and the District Court should be reversed.

STATEMENT OF THE ISSUES FOR REVIEW

1. WHETHER THE APPEALS OFFICER PROPERLY AFFIRMED THE DENIAL OF THIS CLAIM?
2. WHETHER THE DISTRICT COURT IMPROPERLY CONSTRUED THE STATUTORY TERM "ACCIDENT" TOO BRIADLY AND THEREFORE SENT LEGALLY ERRONEOUS INSTRUCTIONS TO THE APPEALS OFFICER TO INTERPRET?

IV.

FACTS NECESSARY TO UNDERSTAND ISSUE PRESENTED

On February 9, 2016, the claimant Respondent, JARED SPANGLER (hereinafter referred to as "Respondent"), alleges that he had hearing loss and ringing in the ears which he attributes to job related exposure to loud noises. The Respondent was seen by Dr. Blake at Anderson Audiology where hearing loss was noted. The Respondent appears to have failed to have reveal his earlier 2005 denied hearing loss claim or that the Respondent apparently has been working a desk job for the last 5-6 years. Further, Respondent also failed to reveal that Employer modified his position after 2005 to avoid loud noises. (Appellants' Appendix p. 35)(hereinafter "APP p. __")

The Employer's Report of Industrial Injury or Occupational Disease notes a nearly one month delay in reporting the hearing loss. (APP p. 36)

1 The Employer's First Notice of Injury or Occupational Disease notes that the
2 Respondent alleges exposure to excessive loud noises and that he has had tinnitus
3 for several years. (APP p. 37)

5 The Respondent has previously filed a hearing loss claim in November of 6 2005. On February 22, 2006, Dr. Manthei noted that the Respondent's family had 7 a positive history of hearing loss. He noted that MRI testing revealed that the 8 Respondent had revealed "a contrast enhancement of the left internal auditory
9 canal suggesting extrinsic compression from a neoplastic process of the brain." It
10 was concluded that the Respondent's symptomatology was most likely due to a 11 nonindustrial component, and that the Respondent's hearing loss should not be 12 considered to be industrial in nature. A claim denial determination for the 13 November 1, 2005, hearing loss claim was issued on March 7, 2006. (APP pp. 38-
14 55) Respondent did not contest this claim denial.
15

18 Hearing testing has been performed throughout the Respondent's
19 employment with the City of Henderson. (APP pp. 56-68)
20

21 As a result of hearing testing in October of 2015, on February 9, 2016, the 22 Respondent was seen by Dr. Blake at Anderson Audiology. A hearing loss was 23 found which was deemed to be suggestive of loss due to noise exposure. Again, it 24 must be noted that there is no indication that Respondent informed Dr. Blake that 25 he had been working a desk job for 5-6 years prior to this exam and prior to that 26

1 had a modified job to avoid loud noises. Furthermore, it does not appear that Dr.
2 Blake had access to Respondent's entire file. (APP pp. 69-72)

4 A medical release was signed by the Respondent on February 9, 2016. (APP
5 p. 73)

6 On March 2, 2016, the Respondent was seen by Dr. Theobald who noted
7 that, prior to his employment Respondent had hearing loss in both ears, but that his 8 left was worse than his right, prior to employment with Employer. It was noted 9 that "there is a high likelihood that there is an underlying condition that may be 10 contributing to Mr. Spangler's hearing loss in his left ear" and that the Respondent
11 has a "possible tumor located in the area of the left cochlear nerve." Job noise
12 exposure was also a potential cause of the hearing loss. It was recommended that 13 the Respondent be seen by a neuro-otologist to assess the potential likelihood of 14 left sided cochlear pathology. (APP pp. 74-76)

15
16 On March 15, 2016, a claim denial determination was issued. However, it
17 was noted that bills related to Dr. Theobald's evaluation would be paid. (APP p.
18 77)

20 On March 28, 2016, the Respondent appealed the claim denial
21 determination. (APP p. 78) This appeal was transferred directly to the Appeals
22 Officer. (APP p. 79)

1 On July 20, 2017, the Appeals Officer affirmed claim denial given that there
2 was no conclusive evidence that his hearing loss was related to his employment.
3 (APP pp. 3-11) Respondent filed the instant Petition seeking review of the Appeals
4 Officer's July 20, 2017 Decision and Order.

6 On June 18, 2018, The District Court reversed the Appeals Officer, finding
7 that the Appeals Officer failed to consider NRS 616C.175(1), that the Appeals
8 Officer interpreted the term "accident" too narrowly, and that the Appeals Officer
9 incorrectly placed the entire burden on Respondent to prove that the claim was 10 compensable. (APP pp. 197-200)

13 Appellants filed an Appeal with the Nevada Supreme Court to contest the 14 District Court's June 18, 2018 Decision. (APP pp. 208-219) Appellants also sought
15 a stay of that Decision pending this appeal, which the District Court granted. (APP 16 pp. 255-256)

20 JURISDICTION

21 Respondent timely appealed this Petition for Judicial Review of the Appeals
22 Officer's Decision dated July 20, 2017. NRS 233B.130. Said Petition was timely 23 filed with the District Court on August 14, 2017. On June 19, 2018, the Notice of 24 Entry of Order of the District Court's Decision and Order remanding the Appeals
25 Officer's Decision was filed. Appellants timely and properly filed an appeal of that 26
27

1 Decision and Order with this Honorable Court on July 7, 2018. See NRS
2 233B.150; NRAP Rule 3; NRAP Rule 4. This Court has jurisdiction over the 3 instant appeal.

5 A. ROUTING STATEMENT

6 Under NRAP 17(b)(10), this case would be presumptively assigned to the 7 Court of Appeals as it concerns a Petition for Judicial Review of an administrative 8 agency's final decision.

10 B. STANDARD OF REVIEW

11 Judicial review of a final decision of an agency is governed by NRS
12 233B.135.

14 NRS 233B.135 Judicial review: Manner of 15 conducting; burden of; standard for review.

16 1. Judicial review of a final decision of an agency must 17 be:

- 18 (a) Conducted by the court without a jury; and 19 (b) Confined to the record.

20 In cases concerning alleged irregularities in procedure
21 before an agency that are not shown in the record, the 22 court may receive evidence concerning the irregularities.

23 2. The final decision of the agency shall be deemed 24 reasonable and lawful until reversed or set aside in whole
25 or in part by the court. The burden of proof is on the 26 party attacking or resisting the decision to show that the 27 final decision is invalid pursuant to subsection 3.

28 3. The court shall not substitute its judgment for that of the agency as to the weight of evidence on a question of fact. The court may remand or affirm the final decision or

1 set it aside in whole or in part if substantial rights of the 2 Respondent have been prejudiced because the final
3 decision of the agency is:

4 (a) In violation of constitutional or statutory
5 provisions;

6 (b) In excess of the statutory authority of the 7 agency;

8 (c) Made upon unlawful procedure;

9 (d) Affected by other error of law;

10 (e) Clearly erroneous in view of the reliable, probative
11 and substantial evidence on the whole record; or

12 (f) Arbitrary or capricious or characterized by abuse of 13 discretion.

14 The standard of review is whether there is substantial evidence to support
15 the underlying decision. The reviewing court should limit its review of 16 administrative decisions to determine if they are based upon substantial evidence.
17 North Las Vegas v. Public Service Comm'n., 83 Nev. 278, 291, 429 P.2d 66
18 (1967); McCracken v. Fancy, 98 Nev. 30, 639 P.2d 552 (1982). Substantial 19 evidence is that quantity and quality of evidence which a reasonable man would 20 accept as adequate to support a conclusion. See, Maxwell v. SIIS, 109 Nev. 327,
21 331, 849 P.2d 267, 270 (1993); and Horne v. SIIS, 113 Nev. 532, 537, 936 P.2d 22 839 (1997).

23 When reviewing administrative court decisions, this Court has held that, on 24 factual determinations, the findings and ultimate decisions of an appeals officer are 25 not to be disturbed unless they are clearly erroneous or otherwise amount to an 26 abuse of discretion. Nevada Industrial Comm'n. v. Reese, 93 Nev. 115, 560 P.2d
27

1 1352 (1977). An administrative determination regarding a question of fact will not
2 be set aside unless it is against the manifest weight of the evidence. Nevada Indus.
4 Comm'n. v. Hildebrand, 100 Nev. 47, 51, 675 P.2d 401 (1984).

5 C. THIS COURT CAN SET ASIDE A CLEARLY ERRONEOUS
6 DECISION THAT CONSTITUTES AN ERROR OF LAW OR IS NOT
7 SUPPORTED BY SUBSTANTIAL EVIDENCE.

8 This Court may set aside, in whole or in part, a final decision of an 9 administrative agency where substantial rights of the Appellants have been 10 prejudiced because the final decision is in violation of statutory provisions,
11 affected by other error of law, clearly erroneous in view of the reliable, probative
12 and substantial evidence on the whole record, or arbitrary, capricious or 13 characterized by abuse of discretion. NRS 233B.135(3).
14

16 1. This Court Can Set Aside a Decision That is Based on 17 Incorrect Conclusions of Law and is Free to Address Purely 18 Legal Questions Without Deference to the Appeals Officer's Decision.

19 This Court has acknowledged and applied these statutory principles holding,
20 for example, that a reviewing court may set aside an agency decision if the 21 decision was based upon an incorrect conclusion of law or otherwise affected by an 22 error of law. State Indus. Ins. Sys. v. Giles, 110 Nev. 216, 871 P.2d 920 (1994);
23 Jessop v. State Indus. Ins. Sys., 107 Nev. 888, 822 P.2d 116 (1991); see, also, NRS
24 233B.135(3)(d). Further, this Court has stated that appellate review on questions
25 of law is de novo, and that the reviewing court is free to address purely legal 26

1 questions without deference to the agency's decision. Giles, supra; Mirage v.
2 State, Dep't of Admin., 110 Nev. 257, 871 P.2d 317 (1994); American Int'l
3 Vacations v. MacBride, 99 Nev. 324, 326, 661 P.2d 1301, 1302 (1983); see, also,
4 State Dep't of Motor Vehicles v. Torres, 105 Nev. 558, 560, 799 P.2d 959, 960-
5 961 (1989). (Emphasis added.)

8 2. This Court Can Set Aside a Decision That is Not Supported
9 by Substantial Evidence.

10 In determining whether an administrative decision is supported by 11 substantial evidence, the methodology for this Court is also well-defined. First, for 12 each issue appealed, the pertinent rule of law is identified. Thereafter, the 13 evidence on appeal is reviewed to determine whether the agency's decision on 14 each issue is supported by substantial factual evidence. State Dep't of Motor 15 Vehicles v. Torres, supra. If the decision of the administrative agency on the 16 appealed issue is supported by substantial factual evidence, this Court must affirm
17 the decision of the agency as to that issue. On the other hand, a decision by an 18 administrative agency that lacks support in the form of substantial evidence is 19 arbitrary or capricious and, thus, an abuse of discretion that warrants reversal.
20 NRS 233B.135(3); Titanium Metals Corp. v. Clark County, 99 Nev. 397, 399, 663
21 P.2d 355, 357 (1983).
22

26 Substantial evidence has been defined as that quantity and quality of 27 evidence which a reasonable man could accept as adequate to support a conclusion.

1 State Emp't Sec. Dep't v. Hilton Hotels Corp., 102 Nev. 606, 608 at n.1, 729 P.2d
2 497 (1986). Additionally, substantial evidence is not to be considered in isolation
3 from opposing evidence, but evidence that survives whatever in the record fairly
4 detracts from its weight. Universal Camera Corp. v. NLRB, 340 U.S. 474, 477,
5 488 (1951); Container Stevedoring Co. v. Director, OWCP, 935 F.2d 1544, 1546
6 (9th Cir. 1991). This latter point is clearly the significance of the requirement in 7 NRS 233B.135(3)(e) which states that the reviewing court consider the whole
8 record.
10

12 Furthermore, a decision that is affected by error of law cannot be found to be 13 supported by substantial evidence. A decision that lacks support in the form of 14 substantial evidence is arbitrary or capricious and, thus, an abuse of discretion that 15 warrants reversal. Titanium Metals, supra.
16

17 NRS 616A.010(2) and (4) are clear that Nevada no longer has liberal 18 construction. Issues must be decided on their merits, and not according to the 19 common law principle that requires statutes governing workers' compensation to 20 be liberally construed. That means workers' compensation statutes must not be 21 interpreted or construed broadly or liberally in favor of any party.
22

24 In this case, the Appeals Officer's decision is not supported by substantial 25 evidence. Further, as District Court affirmed the Appeals Officer's Decision, the 26

1 errors of the Appeals Officer are also the errors of the District Court. This
2 Honorable Court retains review of the instant Petition for Judicial Review.

4 VI.

5 LEGAL ARGUMENT

6 A. STANDARD AT THE APPEALS OFFICER LEVEL

8 It was the Respondent, not Appellants, who had the burden of proving 9 entitlement to any benefits under any accepted industrial insurance claim by a 10 preponderance of all the evidence. State Industrial Insurance System v. Hicks, 100
11 Nev. 567, 688 P.2d 324 (1984); Johnson v. State ex rel. Wyoming Worker's
12 Compensation Div., 798 P.2d 323 (1990); Hagler v. Micron Technology, Inc., 118
13 Idaho 596, 798 P.2d 55 (1990).

16 In attempting to prove his or her case, the Respondent has the burden of 17 going beyond speculation and conjecture. That means that the Respondent must 18 establish all facets of the claim by a preponderance of all the evidence. To prevail, 19 a Respondent must present and prove more evidence than an amount which would 20 make his case and his opponent's "evenly balanced." Maxwell v. SIIS, Id.; SIIS v.
21 Khweiss, 108 Nev. 123, 825 P.2d 218 (1992); SIIS v. Kelly, 99 Nev. 774, 671 P.2d

1 NRS 616A.010(2) makes it clear that:

2 A claim for compensation filed pursuant to the provisions
3 of chapters 616A to 616D, inclusive, or chapter 617 of 4 NRS must be decided on its merit and not according to 5 the principle of common law that requires statutes
6 governing workers' compensation to be liberally construed because they are remedial in nature.

7 B. THE DENIAL OF THIS CLAIM WAS LEGAL AND PROPER

8 Here, Respondent argued to the District Court that he has a non-occupational 9 hearing loss that was exacerbated over time by his employment. However,
10 workers' compensation does not recognize such a claim. To provide context for 11 this analysis, there are essentially two types of claims that can be made under the 12 Nevada workers' compensation system: acute injury claims which are governed by 13 NRS 616C; and occupational disease claims which are governed by NRS 617.
14

15 Acute injury claims arise when an employee is able to establish "by a 16 preponderance of the evidence that the employee's injury arose out of and in the 17 course of his or her employment." NRS 616C.150. To sustain that burden, the 18 employee must prove a statutory "accident" and "injury." NRS 616A.030 defines 19 an accident as ". . . an unexpected or unforeseen event happening suddenly and 20 violently, with or without human fault, and producing at the time objective
21 symptoms of an injury." Furthermore, NRS 616A.265 defines an injury as ". . . a 22 sudden and tangible happening of a traumatic nature, producing an immediate or 23 prompt result which is established by medical evidence . . ."
24
25
26
27

1 Occupational disease claims on the other hand have no requirement to 2 establish an "accident" or "injury." Instead, making out a claim for an occupational
3 disease is governed by NRS 617.440 as follows:

5 NRS 617.440 Requirements for occupational 6 disease to be deemed to arise out of and in course of 7 employment; applicability.

8 1. An occupational disease defined in this chapter
9 shall be deemed to arise out of and in the course of the 10 employment if:

11 (a) There is a direct causal connection between the 12 conditions under which the work is performed and the 13 occupational disease;

14 (b) It can be seen to have followed as a natural incident
15 of the work as a result of the exposure occasioned by the 16 nature of the employment;

17 (c) It can be fairly traced to the employment as the 18 proximate cause; and

19 (d) It does not come from a hazard to which workers
20 would have been equally exposed outside of the 21 employment.

22 2. The disease must be incidental to the character of 23 the business and not independent of the relation of the 24 employer and employee.

25 3. The disease need not have been foreseen or 26 expected, but after its contraction must appear to have 27 had its origin in a risk connected with the employment, and to have flowed from that source as a natural consequence.

4. In cases of disability resulting from radium poisoning or exposure to radioactive properties or substances, or to roentgen rays (X rays) or ionizing radiation, the poisoning or illness resulting in disability must have been contracted in the State of Nevada.

5. The requirements set forth in this section do not apply to claims filed pursuant to NRS 617.453, 617.455, 617.457, 617.485 or 617.487.

1 Here, Respondent is not alleging that he has either an acute injury claim or 2 an occupational disease claim. Rather, Respondent argued that he has a non-
3 occupational disease that was made worse over time by his employment. Because 4 an acute injury is not being alleged, the provisions of NRS 616C do not come into
5 play. If anything, this matter would be governed exclusively by NRS 617. Therein
6 lies the problem with Respondent's argument.

9 Respondent argued that this claim should have been analyzed under NRS
10 616C.175(1) which allows a claimant the mechanism to prove that an acute injury
11 has aggravated a non-industrial condition. That statute provides in pertinent part as 12 follows:
13

14 1. The resulting condition of an employee who:

15 (a) Has a preexisting condition from a cause or 16 origin that did not arise out of or in the course of the 17 employee's current or past employment; and

18 (b) Subsequently sustains an injury by accident
19 arising out of and in the course of his or her employment
20 which aggravates, precipitates or accelerates the 21 preexisting condition,

22 Ê shall be deemed to be an injury by accident that is 23 compensable pursuant to the provisions of chapters 616A
24 to 616D, inclusive, of NRS, unless the insurer can prove 25 by a preponderance of the evidence that the subsequent 26 injury is not a substantial contributing cause of the 27 resulting condition.

28 (emphasis added)

29 As the highlighted portions of the above statute make clear, NRS
30 616C.175(1) only applies to acute injuries. Chapter 617 is even explicitly carved

1 out of the statute. It would have been very simple for the statute above to reach
2 from chapter 616A to 617. Yet it does not. This is the main problem with
4 Petitioners argument; there is no mechanism which would allow a claim for a non-
5 occupational disease which has gotten worse over time, allegedly due to work
6 conditions. Even if the medical evidence supported such a scenario, which the
8 Appeals Officer concluded that it did not, Respondent's argument that the Appeals
9 Officer committed legal error for failing to consider NRS 616.175 is demonstrably
10 incorrect.

11
12 Without the benefit of NRS 616C.175, Respondent cannot prove an acute
13 injury and is left trying to prove that he has an occupational disease under NRS
14 617. As the Appeals Officer properly found, Respondent fails in carrying that 15 burden.
16

17 To begin with, Respondent is making a claim for hearing loss. As noted 18 above, Respondent's prior claim for hearing loss was denied. Respondent failed to 19 contest that claim denial. Based on that failure to appeal, it was conclusively
20 proven that Respondent's hearing loss was not work related. That claim denial
21 stands and Respondent is barred from making any new claims for the same 22 condition. (See Reno Sparks Convention Visitors Authority v. Jackson, 112 Nev.
23 62, 910 P.2d 267 (1996))
24
25
26
27

1 The fact that Respondent is now arguing that the same non-occupational
2 hearing loss is now worse is of no consequence. The hearing loss is non-industrial.
3 It does not matter how bad it gets, it will always be non-industrial per the 2005
4 determination.

6 Indeed, NRS 617.440 requires a “direct causal connection between the 7 conditions under which the work is performed and the occupational disease.” The 8 alleged occupational disease in this case is hearing loss. However, Respondent is 9 not alleging that his job caused his hearing loss; Respondent is alleging that his job
10 made his non-industrial hearing loss worse. This type of situation is not covered by 11 NRS 617.440.

14 Even if Respondent could somehow make a showing that the worsening of a
15 non-industrial condition over time could be deemed compensable under Nevada
16 industrial insurance, Respondent would not be able to carry his burden before the 17 Appeals Officer and certainly cannot carry his burden before this Court. At the 18 Appeals Officer level, Respondent needed to prove by a preponderance of the 19 evidence that his claimed condition was work related. The only evidence which 20 was presented to the Appeals Officer were the reports of Dr. Blake and Dr.
21 Theobald.
22
23
24

25 Though Dr. Blake “checks the box” on the C-4 form that she believed 26 Respondent’s hearing loss was industrial, her reporting is flawed as it is obviously 27

1 incomplete. She did not have Respondent's whole file and apparently did not know
2 about Respondent's actual work situation given that Employer modified his
3 position after the 2005 claim so that Respondent would not be exposed to loud
4 noises and that he had been working a primarily desk job for the last several years.

6 As for Dr. Theobold, his reporting is inconclusive as he explains that 7 Respondent's hearing loss could be either from his employment or from some 8 underlying neurological condition. Put simply, there was not enough evidence to 9 prove to the Appeals Officer by a preponderance that Respondent's non-
10 occupational hearing loss was worsened over time by his employment.
11

13 However, the standard at this Court on questions of fact is whether the 14 Appeals Officer's decision was afflicted by clear error. There is no clear error here.
15 Though Appellants will concede that there is support for both sides on the question
16 of whether Respondent's non-industrial occupational disease was worsened over 17 time by his job, that question is not for this Court to decide. This Court must 18 decide whether the Appeals Officer could have come to the conclusion that she 19 did. (Hilton Hotels Corp., Id.) Even if this Court would have decided this case
20 differently, as a court of appeal, this Court is simply not permitted to substitute its 21 judgment for the administrative officer that ultimately decided this case. (NRS
22 233B.135(3); Titanium Metals Corp., Id.)
23
24
25
26
27

1 In summation, Respondent's entire argument rests on establishing an
2 exacerbation claim under NRS 616C.175. However, that statute only applies to 3 acute exacerbations of non-industrial conditions. Petitioner is alleging an 4 exacerbation over time to a non-industrial condition which is simply not 5 contemplated by NRS 616C.175 or any other statutory mechanism which 6 Appellants are aware of. Without a legal framework to establish a claim,
7 Respondent's arguments must fail. The Appeals Officer's Decision was legally
8 proper and supported by substantial evidence. The District Court should be 9 reversed and the Appeals Officer affirmed.

13 C. THE DISTRICT COURT MADE SEVERAL IMPROPER LEGAL 14 CONCLUSIONS

15 To be clear, this case is about a claimant who has a pre-existing, non-16 industrial hearing loss which all parties agree is not compensable. However,
17 Respondent is alleging that his employment, over time, caused his pre-existing 18 hearing loss to worsen. Administrator denied this claim as the state of Nevada does 19 not recognize a claim that a pre-existing non-industrial condition was worsened
20 over time by industrial causes. Further, Respondent failed to establish that any one 21 specific noise caused his hearing loss, especially considering that he has been 22 working a desk job for 5-6 years prior to filing his claim. Without an allegation 23 that his hearing loss was caused by a specific event, there is simply no way to 24
26
27

1 render Respondent's claim compensable. The Appeals Officer recognized this
2 when she affirmed claim denial.

4 However, the District Court reversed the Appeals Officer and remanded for 5 an analysis of NRS 616C.175(1) with an expanded definition of "accident" to 6 include the consideration that each loud noise which causes damage to the hearing
7 as a separate accident. However, this holding does not match up with the relief that 8 Respondent is asking for and does not provide Respondent with a mechanism to 9 prove that his cumulative alleged hearing loss is industrial. Indeed, Respondent has 10 not alleged any one single event that caused his hearing loss. He has alleged that 11 over time his hearing has worsened.
12

14 Considering the District Court's instructions, even if Respondent could 15 create a timeline of all the loud noises from the time of his hire through the time
16 that he filed the claim (notwithstanding the fact that he did attempt to file a claim 17 in 2005, was denied, and never contested the denial), if after each noise occurred a
18 potential claim arose, Petitioner waived any right to have such claims considered 19 as industrial by not filing a claim. Per NRS 616C.015, injured employees must 20 provide written notice of an injury within seven (7) days. Per NRS 616C.020, 21 injured employees must file a claim within ninety (90) days after an accident. If 22 written notice is not timely provided and a claim is not timely filed, the injured
23
25
26
27

1 employee is foreclosed from claiming the injury/accident under industrial
2 insurance.

4 The Nevada Supreme Court, in Barrick Goldstrike Mine v. Peterson, 116
5 Nev. 541, 2 P.3d 850 (2000), held that mandatory compliance with both NRS
6 616C.015 and NRS 616C.020 is a prerequisite for a compensable industrial 7 insurance claim. This Court specifically held:

9 After a careful review of NRS Chapter 616C, we 10 conclude that the legislature established a comprehensive 11 statutory scheme for workers' compensation claims that 12 begins with a two-step process. First, under NRS
13 616C.015, an injured employee must provide written 14 notice of a work related injury to the employer within
15 seven days of the injury. Second, under NRS
16 616C.020(1), the employee must file a claim for 17 compensation for the injury within ninety days of the 18 accident. In accordance with NRS 616C.015(1) and NRS
19 616C.020(1), NRS 616C.025(1) expressly provides that 20 an injured employee is barred from receiving 21 compensation if the employee fails to file a notice of 22 injury or fails to file a claim for compensation. Id., at
23 545. (emphasis added)

24 Therefore, even if the parties were to conduct the analysis requested by the 25 District Court, every time a loud noise occurred and allegedly caused a hearing
26 loss, Respondent conceded that such alleged hearing loss was non-industrial by 27 failing to file a claim. Appeal rights cannot be regenerated. (See Reno Sparks 28 Convention Visitors Auth. v. Jackson, 112 Nev. 62, 910 P.2d 267, (1996)). In other words, Respondent could not make out a claim for all of the cumulative hearing

1 loss which occurred prior to the most recent loud noise. He would only be able to
2 claim the loss from the singular loud noise. And again, that is not even what 3 Respondent is asking for. He is asking for this claim to be accepted for his 4 cumulative hearing loss, not the hearing loss from a specific accident.

6 As was conceded by Respondent in his briefing to the District Court, this 7 case simply does not fit into the acute accident constructs of NRS 616C. It was 8 error for the District Court to remand for further consideration of this case under 9 NRS 616C. The District Court should be reversed and the Appeals Officer 10 affirmed.

VII.

CONCLUSION

Based upon the foregoing, Appellants requests that this Court reverse the District Court, affirm the Appeals Officer, and hold that this claim was properly denied.

Dated this 12 day of March, 2019.
