To mitigate the public health risks associated with the COVID-19 pandemic and the emergency declared by Governor Sisolak, the physical Nevada Supreme Court Law Library remains closed to the public. Despite the building's closure, the Law Library will continue to offer services through email (reference@nvcourts.nv.gov), phone (775-684-1640), and virtual chat (beginning Monday, August 3, 2020) via the law library's website (<https://nvcourts.gov/lawlibrary>). To ensure continuity of services, Library staff will regularly monitor and respond to emails and chat requests, and will return phone messages as promptly as possible. The Law Library will begin offering a curbside pickup service for books requested in advance starting the week of August 3, 2020. Requests that depend on accessing the Law Library's print collection may be accommodated through the curbside pickup service, procedures for which are set forth on the Law Library's website (<https://nvcourts.gov/lawlibrary/>). With the building closed to the public, all existing room reservations for Library conference rooms have been cancelled, and no new room reservations will be accepted. This order remains in effect until further notice.

It is so ORDERED.
