1 JURISDICTIONAL STATEMENT

2 This is an appeal from an Order Denying Petition for Writ of Habeas 3 Corpus filed in case DC-CV-20-69 in the Fourth Judicial District Court of 4 the State of Nevada in and for the County of Elko on April 27, 2021. AA p.
5 290. There was a subsequent Motion for Reconsideration filed, but this too 6 was denied by a written order filed May 24, 2021. AA p. 319. Thereafter, a 7 Notice of Appeal was filed on May 27, 2021 in the district court. AA p.
8 323.

9 Appeals to the Supreme Court from Petitions for Writ of Habeas 10 Corpus are permitted by NRS 34.575. Based upon the above filing dates this 11 appeal appears timely and therefore this court has jurisdiction.

12 STATEMENT OF ISSUES

- 13 I. Whether the district court's order denying Whitaker's Petition for 14 Writ of Habeas Corpus pursuant to NRS 34.810(1)(a) was 15 appropriate in light of a recent Nevada Supreme Court decision.
- 16 II. Whether the district court's order denying Whitaker's Petition for 17 Writ of Habeas Corpus without conducting an evidentiary hearing 18 was proper; finding that the original Petition for Writ of Habeas 19 Corpus did not contain sufficient specific factual allegations that if 20 true would entitle Whitaker to relief and were not belied by the 1 record. Hargrove v. State, 100 Nev. 498, 503 (1984) citing Grondin

2 v. State, 97 Nev. 454, 456 (1981).

3 III. Whether, after reviewing the entirety of the record available, the 4 district court erred in finding that (1) defense counsel for Whitaker 5 was not ineffective, or fell below an objective standard of 6 reasonableness, or (2) that whatever errors he did make did not 7 prejudice Whitaker in that the result at sentencing would not have 8 been different.

9 STATEMENT OF THE CASE

10 Appellant Tennille Rae Whitaker was convicted of 4 counts of Sexual 11 Conduct Between School Employee or Volunteer and a Pupil, Category C 12 felonies as defined by NRS 204.540, by way of a Judgment of Conviction 13 filed October 5, 2018. AA p. 219. Whitaker was sentenced by the 14 Honorable Nancy Porter to serve 24 – 60 months on each count, 15 consecutively, and was not granted probation. Id. At all stages of the 16 proceedings through the Judgment of Conviction she was represented by 17 Byron Bergeron. Id. Whitaker was originally charged with 12 counts of the 18 same crime but by way of a plea agreement she pled no contest to only 4 19 counts. AA p. 6. Whitaker filed a direct appeal after sentencing. AA p.
20 225. On appeal she was represented by Karla Butko, her current counsel, in 1 Nevada Supreme Court Case 77294 wherein the judgment was affirmed in 2 an order filed November 21, 2019 and the Remittitur was filed on February 3 12, 2020. RA p. 1-4. Thereafter the Petition for Writ of Habeas Corpus was 4 filed on July 28, 2020. AA p. 258. The petition was denied by a written 5 order without an evidentiary hearing and while a Motion for Reconsideration 6 was filed, it was subsequently denied. AA p. 290, 302, 319.

7 STATEMENT OF THE FACTS

8 On April 30, 2018 Whitaker entered no contest pleas to the 4 counts
9 referenced above. AA p. 118. Sentencing was set for October 4, 2018. AA 10 p. 134. Prior to sentencing defense counsel filed with the court the 11 psychosexual evaluation conducted by Mr. Ing. AA p. 19. The evaluation is 12 a 14 page document that covers Whitaker's history and present situation, her 13 sexual history and present sexual orientation, a general assessment, a DSM-5 14 diagnostic impression, recommendations for treatment, risk of 15 dangerousness to the community assessment, and amenability to treatment 16 and a prognosis for said treatment. Id. At the outset of the report Mr. Ing 17 indicates that he has served as the treatment provider for Whitaker since July 18 5, 2017 which included "...13 one-hour sessions, 7 ninety-minute sessions, 19 and one two hour session..." and her husband has attended some of these 20 sessions with Whitaker. AA p. 20.

1 Prior to sentencing defense counsel also acquired 14 letters in support 2 for Whitaker and provided those to the court. AA p. 60-76, 89-91. One of 3 those letters is of particular note as it was written by Whitaker's husband.
4 AA p. 62-63. The Presentence Investigation Report was prepared, and as 5 received by the Division, letters from purported victims were also submitted 6 to the Division which were in turn forwarded to the court by the Division.
7 AA p. 77-88, 92-101. The division of parole and probation forwarded the 8 "petition" to the court, it is not file stamped and should be attached to the 9 PSI. Id.

10 The District Attorney's Office, upon receipt of letters from victims 11 also forwarded them to the court and those are contained in the appendix.
12 AA p.102-112. The District Attorney's office did NOT send the "petition" 13 letter to the court as claimed by Whitaker in her opening brief. AA p. 77-84.
14 The 3 letters that the State forwarded were from 2 family members of 15 victims and a school board member, allowing the court to decide whether the 16 school was a victim. AA p. 102-112. The late filing referenced at the time 17 of sentencing that the State made on October 1, 2018 was a letter from the 18 sister of a victim and was not the "petition." AA p. 109-112, 154-156. The 19 State had received the letter from the sister on the 1st of October and filed it 20 on the 1st, there was nothing nefarious about the filing. Id. All of the 1 submissions by the State were via filings of 'Notices of Victim Impact' to 2 the court and counsel. AA p. 102-112. There was no ex parte 3 communication with the court as alleged by Whitaker in her opening brief.

4 At the sentencing hearing all parties were in receipt of the PSI report.
5 AA p. 138-139. Both sides were asked regarding errors or omission in the 6 report and defense counsel went on for some time regarding perceived errors 7 or omissions. AA p. 139-157. During much of the defense counsel's 8 argument about errors he argued about the word "pupil" or "student aide" 9 used throughout the PSI and it was during that interchange with the court 10 that the court asked if he had looked up the legislative history and defense 11 counsel stated, in answer to that pointed question, "No. And there may be a 12 lot I didn't do." AA p. 142. The school at issue is referenced as the Wells 13 Combined School on multiple occasions. AA p. 150, 165-166, 182.

14 During the sentencing argument defense counsel never once states 15 that he is unprepared to go forward or had suffered an accident. AA p. 157-16 180. Defense counsel argued that he told Whitaker that she ought to go to 17 trial. AA p. 159, 177. During his lengthy argument defense counsel asks for 18 a break to review his notes. AA p. 160-161. Defense counsel did argue that 19 the young men victims had initiated the contact with Whitaker. AA p. 168.
20 Defense counsel did make argument about the "petition" and told the court

1 that it was improper and that, in so many words, he was not okay with the 2 “petition.” AA p. 174-175. The court responded by stating that the 3 “petition” was “...not influencing me...” Id. Defense counsel did address 4 the issue of the victim who had committed suicide and that it was 20 months 5 later. AA p. 167-168.

6 There is nothing in the record that reflects that the sentencing hearing 7 was anything other than a well-attended hearing with spectators who were 8 respectful to the courthouse rules; there were no outbursts in the transcript 9 and no record of anyone being removed, singled out specifically or 10 contentious. AA p. 134-218. The State did not violate the plea agreement as 11 alleged by Whitaker in her brief. The State argued for exactly what was 12 allowed under the agreement. AA p. 6-13, 188. The State arguing that 13 defense counsel was not ineffective and thereby requesting that the judgment 14 of conviction be affirmed and the subsequent petition for writ of habeas 15 corpus be denied, which solidifies the sentence of 8-20 that Whitaker 16 received, is not a violation of the plea agreement. Id. The plea agreement 17 states nowhere that the State must during any and all subsequent appeals or 18 the like continue to argue for the 4-12 years maximum but rather clearly 19 states that the agreement applies at sentencing only. Id. at 7.

1 In the original Petition for Writ of Habeas Corpus there is not a single 2 citation to the record. AA p. 261-273. Further, there are no accompanying 3 affidavits from would be witnesses and in particular not one from Whitaker.
4 AA p. 273-274. The Petition alleges 7 areas that should have been covered 5 more thoroughly at sentencing and with proper preparation of Whitaker and 6 are as follows:

- 7 1- Whether Petitioner had deliberately initiated any of the 8 relationships with the young men.
- 9 2- Whether Petitioner actually had mental health problems and if so, 10 what they were.
- 11 3- Whether Petitioner refused treatment for her mental health 12 problems.
- 13 4- Whether the young man Petitioner had sexual relations with who 14 committed suicide around 2 years later did so as a result of his 15 relationship with Petitioner.
- 16 5- Whether a significant number of residents in the community of 17 Wells, Nevada feared and opposed Petitioner receiving lenient 18 treatment and returning to the community.

1 6- Whether the male victims left their residences in and around Wells 2 because of their humiliation at having engaged in sexual behaviors 3 with Defendant.

4 7- Whether a victim impact statement can properly include the 5 public's point of view about sentencing.

6 AA p. 263.

7 The district court in its order denying the writ addressed each of the 8 concerns raised in the writ. AA p. 290.

9 Lastly, the State questions the inclusion within the appellant's 10 appendix of pages 233-257, they are not a part of the record as far as the 11 State can tell, bearing no district court stamp and are not even referenced in 12 the opening brief.

13 SUMMARY OF ARGUMENT

14 1) Pursuant to Gonzales v. State, 137 Nev., Adv. Op. 40 (2021) the 15 district court should not have denied the petition for writ of habeas 16 corpus relying on NRS 34.810(1)(a).

17 2) The district court did not err in denying Whitaker an evidentiary 18 hearing since her claims were bare or naked allegations 19 unsupported by any references to the record or any affidavits or 20 new evidence. Vaillancourt v. Warden, 90 Nev. 431, 432 (1974).

1 As her claims are based upon criticizing the way in which the 2 defense counsel at sentencing presented the argument there is no 3 factual dispute and an evidentiary hearing was unnecessary.
4 Furthermore, any facts that may have appeared to be in dispute 5 were repelled by the record even if the information was not 6 portrayed in such a way as writ counsel might have done it.

7 3) The district court did not err in denying the petition for writ of 8 habeas corpus after reviewing the record, in particular the 9 sentencing transcript, the psi and other documents that were before 10 the sentencing court and then determining that defense counsel did 11 not provide ineffective assistance of counsel at sentencing and 12 furthermore, even if he had presented the sentencing argument as 13 suggested the result would not have been different.

14 ARGUMENT

15 I. With regards to the first issue the State concedes that pursuant to the 16 recent Nevada Supreme Court case Gonzales v. State, 137 Nev. Adv. Op. 40
17 (2021), NRS 34.810(1)(a) is not a bar to the Petition for Writ of Habeas 18 Corpus and thus the writ should not have been denied on that basis.

19 II. "A defendant seeking post-conviction relief is not entitled to an 20 evidentiary hearing on factual allegations belied or repelled by the record."

1 Hargrove v. State, 100 Nev. 498, 503 (1984) citing Grondin v. State, 97 2 Nev. 454 (1981). “A claim is ‘belied’ when it is contradicted or proven to 3 be false by the record as it existed at the time the claim was made.” Mann 4 v. State, 118 Nev. 351, 354 (2002). The original Petition for Writ of Habeas 5 Corpus did not contain sufficient specific factual allegations that if true 6 would entitle Whitaker to relief and the claims that were made, were belied 7 by the record. Hargrove at 503 citing Grondin at 456.

8 In this case Whitaker is claiming that her defense counsel was 9 ineffective because he did not present the argument or sentencing evidence 10 as she would have liked him to do. However, each of the topics that she 11 complains about was addressed in some form or another the sentencing 12 presentation. Using hindsight as one’s guide is both unfair to the attorney of 13 record, but also not the law in determining an ineffective assistance of 14 counsel (IAC) claim.

15 In deciding IAC claims, “Judicial scrutiny of counsel's performance 16 must be highly deferential,” and “counsel is strongly presumed to have 17 rendered adequate assistance and made all significant decisions in the 18 exercise of reasonable professional judgment.” Strickland v. Washington, 19 466 U.S. 668, 689-690 (1984). As that court explained:

20 ///

1 A fair assessment of attorney performance requires that every 2 effort be made to eliminate the distorting effects of hindsight, to 3 reconstruct the circumstances of counsel's challenged conduct, 4 and to evaluate the conduct from counsel's perspective at the 5 time. Because of the difficulties inherent in making the 6 evaluation, a court must indulge a strong presumption that 7 counsel's conduct falls within the wide range of reasonable professional assistance; that is, the defendant must overcome the presumption that, under the circumstances, the challenged action might be considered sound trial strategy. There are countless ways to provide effective assistance in any given case. Even the best criminal defense attorneys would not defend a particular client in the same way.

8 Id. This is precisely the concern with this case. Whitaker now claims that 9 sentencing arguments should have been done differently even though 10 defense counsel did address each area that she now claims he should have.
11 This is unfair to defense counsel.

12 For example, Whitaker claims that defense counsel was ineffective 13 for not going further into detail regarding the young man who committed 14 suicide and what was the cause. AA p. 263. What defense counsel did do, 15 was very respectfully approach the issue, note that it occurred 20 months 16 later and argue it more cautiously. AA p. 167-168. This strategy cannot be 17 said to be ineffective and Strickland allows for differing strategies to exist.
18 Strickland at 693. Attacking a victim, a defenseless one in particular, carries 19 with it the concern that the court might take a harder stance against a 20 defendant. It is highly likely that had defense counsel chosen this tack, and

1 she had received the same sentence, Whitaker would then be arguing that 2 defense counsel should have utilized the soft shoe approach instead. The 3 truth of the matter is that both could be deemed sound strategies.

4 Other examples include that defense counsel did argue that the young 5 men victims had initiated the contact with Whitaker. AA p. 168. Defense 6 counsel did make argument about the "petition" and told the court that it 7 was improper and that, in so many words, he was not okay with the petition.
8 AA p. 174-175. The court responded by telling everyone that the "petition" 9 was "...not influencing me..." Id. It was not ineffective assistance of 10 counsel to take the sentencing judge at her word, that she would not 11 consider anything that was not a statutory victim impact statement.

12 Whitaker did have the opportunity to address the sentencing court.
13 AA p. 180-181. There is no evidence that she was bridled or restricted in 14 any way from exercising her right. She chose brevity and sincerity in her 15 remarks. Id. Whitaker now asks for another shot where she would like to 16 speak much longer about a myriad of topics. None of this rises to the level 17 of ineffective assistance of counsel or warrants an evidentiary hearing.

18 Whitaker was able to produce all manner of evidence regarding her 19 mental health via the evaluation by Mr. Ing who by all accounts appears to 20 be very qualified to render the opinions he did. AA p. 19-39. Whitaker

1 avers that defense counsel should have obtained an updated report for 2 sentencing since it occurred months later, but Whitaker did not bother to get 3 an updated report to attach it to the Petition to indicate to the court what it 4 might say that would have been so invaluable for the court to consider at 5 sentencing. This is yet another example of the bald assertions contained 6 within the petition that was rightly denied an evidentiary hearing as 7 Whitaker made no effort to put forth any evidence or affidavits. Mr. Ing's 8 report was a comprehensive analysis and it is hard to imagine what he might 9 have said differently in any supplemental and Whitaker doesn't bother to 10 enlighten the court in her petition as to what he might have said.

11 Defense counsel presented 14 letters in support of Whitaker to include 12 members of her community which addresses the issue of whether a 13 "significant number of residents... opposed Petitioner receiving lenient 14 treatment." AA p. 60-76, 89-91, 263. Noted above, defense counsel did 15 express his disapproval of the "petition" and obtained the court's 'nod' that 16 they would not consider such information. AA p. 167-168, 174-175. The 17 State made no argument in behalf of the "petition" recognizing it as 18 improper and did not provide it to the court. This also addresses the, 19 "whether a victim impact statement can properly include the public's point 20 of view..." and clearly it is not allowed by the statute. NRS 176.015. The 1 court disregarded it and attributed no weight to it.

2 To say that the court should have been asked to be recused from the 3 case because of the "petition" goes too far. Courts routinely decipher what 4 is and is not admissible and are able to sift through the evidence provided 5 and disregard that which ought to be disregarded and consider that which 6 ought to be admitted.

7 "The general rule of law is that what a judge learns in his 8 official capacity does not result in 9 disqualification." Goldman, 104 Nev. at 653, 764 P.2d at 1301.
10 In other words, the party asserting the challenge must show that 11 the judge learned prejudicial information from an extrajudicial 12 source. See id.

13 However, an opinion formed by a judge on the basis of facts 14 introduced or events occurring in the course of the current 15 proceedings, or of prior proceedings, constitutes a basis for a bias 16 or partiality motion where the opinion displays "a deep-seated 17 favoritism or antagonism that would make fair judgment 18 impossible." See Liteky v. United States, 510 U.S. 540, 114 S.
19 Ct. 1147, 1157, [48] 127 L. Ed. 2d 474 (1994)."

20 Kirksey v. State, 112 Nev. 980, 1007, 923 P.2d 1102, 1119 (1996).

Clearly, the sentencing judge learned of the petition through the current proceedings and discerned that they were not appropriate. There is no basis for recusal based on the above and failure of defense counsel to request recusal based on the above case law is not ineffective assistance of counsel.
What is more, even if the "petition" reached the judge in a manner deemed outside of the proceedings, the judge manifested no deep-seated favoritism

1 or antagonism due to it. Defense counsel was not ineffective for failing to 2 object to the judge remaining on the case for sentencing.

3 Defense counsel called witnesses, two of whom spoke of her marriage
4 and that Whitaker was working through it with her husband. AA p. 195, 5 199. Again, Whitaker states that defense counsel didn't bring up this fact, 6 but in fact he did through these witnesses. Furthermore, Whitaker seems to 7 have forgotten that one of the 14 letters in support of her was written by her 8 husband. AA p. 62-63. It is stunning in the face of this letter which was 9 provided to the court by defense counsel that Whitaker can claim in her 10 brief, "Perhaps the most devastating failure by trial counsel was his failure 11 to demonstrate to the Court that Ms. Whitaker's husband stood by her..." 12 Appellant's Opening Brief p. 21. As far as her claim that he was willing to 13 move her from the Wells area...that isn't in the letter. AA p. 62-63.

14 The substance of Whitaker's petition is nothing more than a request 15 that since her first sentencing hearing strategy did not go her way she would 16 like another shot in front of the judge with hopes that if she presents herself 17 differently that perhaps the sentence might be different. She is having 18 buyer's remorse about the strategy employed at sentencing, nothing more.
19 They are baseless claims belied by the record and an evidentiary hearing 20 was not necessary. The district court did not err in denying the writ without 1 an evidentiary hearing.

2 III. Finally, the district court did not err after reviewing the petition with 3 no citations to the record, the answer put forth by the State, and the record 4 before the court, and finding that Whitaker had not met her burden for the 5 petition to be granted. Whitaker's defense counsel's performance did not 6 fall below an objective standard of reasonableness. Strickland, at 687-688.
7 With the presumption afforded defense counsel, the reviewing district court 8 had to be deferential in its analysis. Id. at 689-690. Defense counsel chose 9 a strategy at sentencing and used an expert, testifying witnesses, letters in 10 support of the defendant, oral argument, and remarks by the defendant to 11 carry out that strategy. The sentencing district court found the crime 12 outweighed the strategy, nothing more. Whitaker is where she is by her own 13 actions, not because of anything her defense counsel did. The district court 14 addressed her and stated:

15 "I'm sorry for your family, your children, your parents.
16 You are their only child. But you did this to these people, to your 17 family, and to the victims, nobody else. You have hurt other 18 peoples' children, not just your own. You are not the victim 19 here. These four boys are the victims here, and their families."
20 AA p. 214.

19 The record is clear and Whitaker's petition only seeks to readdress at 20 an evidentiary hearing her sentencing arguments with a different spin. The 1 district court was not required to grant Whitaker an evidentiary hearing 2 under these circumstances. Whitaker's petition therefore must be read to 3 argue that based on the record it was plain on its face that defense counsel 4 was ineffective and that she was therefore prejudiced. The district court did 5 such a review and did not find that defense counsel was ill prepared and the 6 sentencing strategy to be so poorly conceived as to be ineffective or 7 prejudicial. The district court disagreed with Whitaker's assessment of 8 defense counsel for the same reasons that it did not grant the evidentiary 9 hearing above and this court should so affirm that decision.

CONCLUSION

While the district court should not have denied the petition based upon NRS 34.810(1)(a), the petition was properly refused an evidentiary hearing and after a review of the record the petition was appropriately denied as defense counsel was not ineffective and Whitaker was not prejudiced. As a whole, the appeal should be denied and the decision of the district court should be affirmed.
