to me, chrishisgen

Dear Christy,

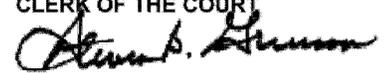

First understand that I have to honour your Mom's medical wishes. She is an adult.

She had a spot on her forehead. She assumed that it was psoriasis, when it was not. A speciality psoriasis UV lamp aggravated the spot. After it erupted with a burn, she stopped the UV lamp treatment. From August to last week, I allowed her to treat it her way, topically, with burn ointment, and triple antibiotic ointments. Saturday night when a third set of maggots began crawling out of the wound, I called a neighbor for help. Tony and I talked her into an ER visit for real treatment. I think that we have saved her life.

I will keep you up to date each day.
