Response to NRAP 27(e) Certificate

Petitioners (collectively, “United”) have failed to meet the timeliness requirement of NRAP 27(e). The trial subpoenas at issue were served September 9. United waited to file the motion to quash (the subject of its writ petition) until October 4. The district court denied the motion on October 6. 5 Pet. App. 234–247. During that hearing, United asked the district court if it would entertain an oral motion to stay. Id. at 200:15–201:3. The district court instructed United to file its stay motion in writing. Id. Although this case is set for trial on October 25, United waited nine more days, until October 15, to file its stay motion in the district court.¹ Stay App. 1–16. United strategically waited until the last possible moment to bring its motions to stay, knowing full well that granting any form of stay effectively secures the object of United’s writ petition, which is to deny the Health Care Providers’ opportunity to call the witnesses-at-issue during their case-in-chief.

Although United suggests that it was waiting for the district court to issue a written motion denying the motion to quash, see United’s NRAP 27(e) Certificate at iii, United was well aware of its ability to immediately seek a stay in the district court and before this court. Quinn v. Eighth Jud. Dist. Ct., Supreme Court Case No. 74519, Petition for Writ of Prohibition, filed Nov. 21, 2017, fn. 3 (“The district court has not yet entered a [written] order on its ruling compelling the attorney depositions; however, Ms. Sinatra’s counsel has submitted a written order to the district court.”). For this reason alone, United’s motions should be summarily denied. See NRAP 27(e)(1).

Introduction

United’s motions are nothing more than a trial tactic. United is objecting to the Health Care Providers having the opportunity to call these key witnesses—all of whom United controls—in plaintiffs’ case-in-chief. See Pet at 3 n.5 (“Defendants are not arguing that they have no control or influence over the Out Of State Witnesses”); 2 Pet. App. 171–75. Instead, United wants the jury to first hear those witnesses during the defense case-in-chief. This is not serious or irreparable harm to United. If this court grants either of United’s requested stays, the court will also necessarily be granting the ultimate relief United requests in its writ petition: preventing the Health Care Providers from opening the trial with a live cross-examination of United’s witnesses.

United cannot meet any of the factors considered for granting a stay. See NRAP 8(c); Hansen v. Eighth Jud. Dist. Ct, 116 Nev. 650, 6 P.3d 982 (2000). First, to the extent the object of the petition and stay is to save the witnesses the trouble of coming to trial, that will happen anyway because United intends to call them during its case-in-chief. Second, United has not even bothered to argue that United (the relevant party under NRAP 8(c)(2)), as opposed to the witnesses, will suffer any harm or inconvenience if the stay is not granted. Third, the Health Care Providers will be harmed by a stay, because they will have been prevented from controlling the presentation of their own case. And fourth, the district court acted within its considerable discretion resolving factual disputes against United when it denied United’s motion to quash. This court should deny stay relief.

Procedural History

NRCP 16.1 requires parties to disclose witnesses with knowledge of the litigation, including their addresses, and to update those disclosures as needed. NRCP 16.1(a)(1)(A)(i). These disclosures enable the opposing party to seek discovery from witnesses, including addresses for issuance of subpoenas. All ten witnesses-at-issue have been United employees during the litigation (and so United presumably knows their addresses), United instead directed them to be contacted care of United’s own Nevada lawyers. 2 Pet. App. 100–03, 124–33. When the Health Care Providers contacted United’s lawyers about accepting deposition subpoenas for these witnesses, United’s counsel indicated they believed subpoenas were only required for witnesses not affiliated with a party. 2 Pet. App. 113–20.

The at-issue witnesses, some of whom served as corporate representatives under NRCP 30(b)(6), gave evasive and incomplete testimony regarding key issues in this litigation. See 2 Pet. App. 94; 6 Pet. App. 336–361. Through 17 separate NRCP 16.1 disclosures, United represented these witnesses could be found care of its Nevada counsel. United, in its writ petition, concedes it has control over these witnesses.

Yet on the eve of trial—and after the Health Care Providers served subpoenas care of the attorneys, as indicated in United’s disclosures—United reversed course. It updated its disclosures to remove the indication that the witnesses could be reached through its counsel and indicated for the first time that four of the witnesses were no longer United employees. 2 Pet. App. 145–66. United’s revised disclosures also provided the witnesses’ home addresses for the first time. NRCP 16.1; Pet. App. 147–50. United’s pretrial disclosures made pursuant to NRCP 16.1(a)(1)(F)(3) indicate these witnesses will be trial witnesses for United.

Argument

This court evaluates four factors when deciding whether to issue a stay:

- (1) Whether the object of the writ petition will be defeated if the stay is denied;
- (2) Whether petitioner will suffer irreparable or serious injury if the stay is denied;
- (3) Whether real party in interest will suffer irreparable or serious injury if the stay is granted; and
- (4) Whether petitioner is likely to prevail on the merits in the appeal or writ petition.

NRAP 8(c); Hansen, 116 Nev. at 657. None of these factors weighs in favor of granting a stay.

A. The stay will not prevent the witnesses from having to travel to Nevada because United intends to call them in its own case-in-chief.

United claims to seek to protect the subpoenaed witnesses from the trouble of having to travel to Nevada to testify. However, United itself plans to call some or all of these witnesses in trial itself. How do we know this?

- United identified all the witnesses on its trial disclosures as witnesses United would likely or may call. See 2 Pet. App. 169–75.
- While the Health Care Providers confronted United with this fact before the district court, United has never denied that it intends to call these witnesses during its own case. See 3 Stay App. 42:22–43:3.
- United suggested that it might have placed the witnesses on its trial disclosures to preserve the option to call the witnesses via deposition, but this claim is belied by the fact that United failed to provide deposition designations for any of the ten subpoenaed witnesses. See 3 Pet. App. 198:5–17; 2 RPA 1–51 (deposition designations served October 4, 2021 including none of the subpoenaed witnesses at issue). Because United has failed to provide deposition designations in its disclosures, if it presents these witnesses—as it has told the Health Care Providers and the court that it intends to do—it must call them live.
- None of the witnesses has intervened or requested relief on their own behalf. Only United has requested relief from these subpoenas.

Because United plans to call some or all of these witnesses in its own case, a stay will not protect the witnesses from any burden or inconvenience. This factor weighs against granting a stay.

B. United does not even bother to allege or argue that it will suffer irreparable or serious injury if the stay is denied.

Although the proper second factor is “whether appellant/petitioner will suffer irreparable or serious injury if the stay is denied,” United is the petitioner here, not the witnesses. See NRAP 8(c) (emphasis added); Hansen, 116 Nev. at 657. United claims no injury. United only claims that the witnesses may suffer inconvenience if the stay were denied. Inconvenience is not irreparable injury. Id.

It is telling that the witnesses have not sought relief from the subpoenas or the order denying the motion to quash, although they could have done so. See Quinn v. Eighth Jud. Dist. Court, 134 Nev. 25, 410 P.3d 984 (2018) (petition brought by non-party witnesses). Make no mistake, these motions are not intended to protect the witnesses from any harm or inconvenience. They are to enable United to exploit its own misdirection and control the Health Care Providers' presentation of their case-in-chief. This factor weighs against granting a stay.

C. The Health Care Providers will suffer irreparable harm if the stay is denied.

The subpoenaed witnesses, including at least one witness who testified as United's representative under NRCP 30(b)(6), are central to the Health Care Providers' case-in-chief. Pet. App. at 94; id. at 336–46. Yet many of them were evasive in depositions. See 2 Pet. App. 94; 6 App. 336–361. Not only is calling witnesses via deposition notoriously less engaging and less effective than calling them live, but without the ability to bring these witnesses during its case-in-chief, the Health Care Providers will be limited to an incomplete record. This is particularly unfair because—as the district court explicitly found in its order denying United's motion to quash, 5 Pet. App. 200:4–10—the Health Care Providers relied on United's disclosures and representations to understand that these witnesses would be available through United's counsel. This factor weighs against granting a stay.

D. United is not likely to prevail on the merits because the district court properly found that United should not be rewarded for its misconduct.

Under NRCP 16.1, United was required to disclose “the name and, if known, the address and telephone number of each individual likely to have information discoverable under Rule 26(b)” NRCP 16.1(a)(1)(A). United also had an ongoing duty to “timely supplement to correct the discourse or response to include information thereafter acquired” if United learned its disclosure was incomplete or incorrect.” NRCP 26(e)(1). This court has recognized the importance of complying with these rules, observing that they “aid in the efficient and fair administration of justice.” See Mays v. Eighth Judicial District Court, 105 Nev. 60, 62, 768 P.2d 877, 878 (1989) (issuing writ of mandamus when district court improperly waived compliance with NRCP 16.1).

The district court found that the Health Care Providers relied on these representations of United’s pretrial disclosures that such witnesses were available in Nevada, care of its Counsel. 3 Pet. App. 200:4–10. If the Health Care Providers had known that United would change its position regarding accepting subpoenas, they could have sought other relief. The district court determined that United could not seek relief from a situation of its own making.¹ See also NRS 50.115(1) (district court exerts reasonable control over the mode and order of presenting witnesses).

¹ United’s actions in leading the Health Care Providers to believe its attorneys would accept subpoenas for these witnesses distinguish this case from the Consolidated Generator-Nevada case. See Consolidated Generator-Nevada, Inc. v. Cummins Engine Co., 114 Nev. 1304, 971 P.2d 1251 (1998). The court’s one-

Importantly, United, not the witnesses, is the party seeking relief here. And because United's actions misled the Health Care Providers to their detriment, the principles of equitable estoppel militate against United being rewarded for its actions. "Equitable estoppel functions to prevent the assertion of legal rights that in equity and good conscience should not be available due to a party's conduct." In re Harrison Living Trust, 121 Nev. 217, 223, 112 P.3d 1058, 1061–62 (2005) (quoting Topaz Mutual Co. v. Marsh, 108 Nev. 845, 853, 839 P.2d 606, 611 (1992)). The elements of equitable estoppel are:

1. The party to be estopped must be apprised of the true facts;
2. The party must intend that its conduct shall be acted upon, or must so act that the party asserting estoppel has the right to believe it was so intended;
3. The party asserting the estoppel must be ignorant of the true state of facts; and
4. He must have relied to his detriment on the conduct of the party to be estopped.

Id. All of those factors are met here. The district court acted well within its discretion to refuse United's request.

This court's decision in Quinn does not compel a different result. Quinn sentence analysis on the issue did not address either of those circumstances. Id. at 1312.

involved deposition subpoenas issued to non-party witnesses who resided in California. Quinn, 134 Nev. at 26–27. The party seeking discovery, Kimmarie Sinatra, first caused the subpoenas to be issued in California, and the witnesses moved to quash them in that state. The California court exercised jurisdiction and granted the motion to quash. Id. at 27. Sinatra then filed a motion to compel the depositions in a Nevada court, and the Nevada court granted the motion. Id. at 27–28. On petition for writ of mandamus, this court decried the exercise by a Nevada court of jurisdiction when a California court had already done so and ruled on the merits. Id. at 31. As part of that analysis, this court noted that NRCP 45(b)(2) restricts the service of subpoenas only within the state of Nevada. Id. at 29.

Critically, however, Quinn addressed deposition subpoenas, not trial subpoenas. That is important, because the language this court relied on in Quinn expressly states that it is “[s]ubject to the provisions of Rule 45(c)(3)(A)(ii).” NRCP 45(b)(2). But NRCP 45(c)(3)(A)(ii), the 100-mile rule, explicitly carves trial subpoenas out from its reach, demonstrating the Nevada Legislature’s intent to make subpoenas more readily available for trial than for deposition. NRCP 45(c)(3)(A)(ii) (a subpoena must be quashed if it requires a person to travel more than 100 miles from the place where the person resides, is employed, or transacts business in person, “unless the person is commanded to attend trial within Nevada”).

Moreover, these subpoenas were served in Nevada, and as discussed above, the district court correctly determined that United should not be granted relief from the situation it created with its own actions. Unlike in Quinn, there is no case of competing jurisdiction. And also unlike in Quinn, here the witnesses are under control by a corporate party, who after all, can only speak through its employees. See NRS 51.03. Moreover, there is every indication that United—who admits that it controls these witnesses, Pet. at 3 n.5—plans to call them to testify in its own case. The district court’s decision was correct. This factor, too, weighs against a stay.

Conclusion

United has fallen fall short of establishing the need for this court’s intervention in a trial that is set to begin in less than a week. Because United cannot meet any of the factors that govern this court’s issuance of a stay, the Health Care Providers respectfully request that the court deny United’s motions.
