Upon Court's inquiry, the Defendant stated that he understood he was present to be sentenced after entering a plea of guilty. Upon Court's further inquiry, the Defendant confirmed that he had reviewed the Pre-Sentence Investigation Report (PSI) with counsel, and found no errors therein. The State argued for a term of imprisonment, noting that the Defendant had thousands of images in his Dropbox account, and the PSI did not accurately reflect that number. Additionally, the State advised that Defendant accessed 196 links over the course of two years. Furthermore, the State argued that, while the Defendant argued that his actions were due to an opiate addiction, it was the State's position that an addiction to opiates did not generally cause an individual to commit the offenses charged in the instant case.
