I.

LAW AND ARGUMENT

The State ignores N.R.Cr.P. Rule 11 which requires the late filing party to seek permission of the district court before the date the brief is due.

Writs of habeas corpus can be civil or criminal and is unclear when it becomes civil as opposed to criminal. See, Mazzan v. State, 109 Nev. 1067, 1070, 863 P.2d 1035, 1036 (1993) (“[H]abeas corpus is a proceeding which should be characterized as neither civil nor criminal for all purposes.”) Id., (cites omitted.) Najera believed proceedings related to a habeas corpus proceeding such as a motion to strike the State’s untimely filing of its answer to the habeas petition are characterized as civil in nature. Since the State did not object to Najera’s application of EDCR Rule 2.25, apparently the State was of the same belief that the motion was civil in nature. Clearly, if the State believed the EDCR Rule 2.25 did not apply to Najera’s Motion to Strike, it would have raised that concern with the lower court. Most importantly, the district court itself did not disagree with the use of EDCR 2.25.

If this Court finds that proceedings related to writs of habeas corpus are criminal and not civil, then the newly enacted Nevada Rules of Criminal

2 Procedure control. Extensions of time are controlled by N.R.Cr.P. 11(1), which 3 states:

4
5 Rule 11. Extending or Shortening Time

6 1. When an act must be done at or within a specified time, the court may 7 extend or shorten the time period by its own discretion, or by oral or 8 written motion for good cause. A request to extend *must be made before the time period would have originally expired.

9 (Boldness and italics added.)

10
11 It is uncontroverted that the State violated N.R.Cr.P. Rule 11(1). The 12 State never requested an extension, either orally or written, at any time. The 13 district court never required the State to comply with N.R.Cr.P. Rule 11(1). The 14 sole basis for the district court's¹ denial of Najera's Motion to Strike the State's 15 untimely Answer was the lack of prejudice. N.R.Cr.P. Rule 11 is not dependent 16 on prejudice or the lack thereof.

17
19 The State violated Rule 11 – its Return was due September 20, 2021 but 20 was filed November 3, 2021 after the State's deadline had passed. The State

25 1. Judge Thompson was sitting for Judge Eller and he made it clear that his 26 decision was what Judge Eller instructed him on how to rule on Najera's Motion
27 to Strike. Judge Thompson stated, "Well, I can tell you that it's Judge Eller's 28 position and which I'm going to adopt that excusable neglect in filing the motion late if there's no prejudice to the Defendants would justify her filing those late, so I'm going to deny the motion to strike." PA 77, ls. 8-11.

1
2 never sought permission to file its brief late required by Rule 11. There is 3 nothing discretionary in Rule 11’s specific language: “A request to extend must 4 be made before the time period would have originally expired.” Id.

6 Here, the State never even filed a request to extend the time period. It was 7 required by N.R.Cr.P. Rule 11 to do so and this request would have had to be
8 made before the State’s deadline of September 20, 2021 to file its Return. No
9 request to extend the time period was made and the State, without any authority
10 to do so, filed its Return 44 days after it was due on November 3, 2021. Since 11 the State violated N.R.Cr.P. Rule 11(1), the State’s 44-day late filing cannot be 12 condoned and his request for relief in this Court must be granted.

13
15 CONCLUSION

16
17 The State’s return was 44 days late and the State never requested to extend 18 the deadline to file its Return before its deadline of September 20, 2021. The 19 State’s abject failure to comply with N.R.Cr.P. Rule 11(1) warrants this Court’s
20 granting Najera’s Petition.²

27 2. EDCR 2.25, EDCR Rule 3.50 (superseded by Nevada Rules of Criminal 28 Procedure – March 25, 2021), and N.R.Cr.P. Rule 11(1) are substantially similar requirements for extensions of time.
