1 17. Plaintiff, SANDRA CAMACHO, was diagnosed on or about March of 2018 with 2 laryngeal cancer, which was caused by smoking L&M brand cigarettes, Marlboro brand cigarettes, and 3 Basic brand cigarettes, to which she was addicted and smoked continuously from approximately 1964 4 until 2017.

18. At all times material, L&M cigarettes were designed, manufactured, and sold by 6 Defendant, Liggett. 7

19. At all times material, Marlboro and Basic cigarettes were designed, manufactured, and 8 9 sold by Defendant, Philip Morris USA, Inc.

10 Plaintiff, SANDRA CAMACHO, purchased and smoked L&M, Marlboro, and Basic 20. 11 cigarettes from the SILVERADO'S in sufficient quantities to be a substantial contributing cause of her 12 laryngeal cancer. 13

21. Plaintiff, SANDRA CAMACHO, purchased and smoked L&M, Marlboro, and Basic 14 cigarettes from the SMOKES & VAPORS in sufficient quantities to be a substantial contributing cause 15 of her laryngeal cancer. 16

17 22. At all times material, Defendants purposefully and intentionally designed cigarettes to 18 be highly addictive. They added ingredients such as ammonia and diammonium-phosphate to "free-19 base" nicotine and manipulated levels of nicotine and pH in smoke to make cigarettes more addictive, 20 better tasting, and easier to inhale. They also deliberately manipulated and/or added compounds in 21 cigarettes such as arsenic, polonium-210, tar, methane, methanol, carbon monoxide, nitrosamines, 22 butane, formaldehyde, tar, carcinogens, and other deadly and poisonous compounds to cigarettes. 23

24 Astonishingly, for over half a century, Defendants concealed the addictive and deadly 23. 25 nature of cigarettes from Plaintiff, the government, and the American public by making knowingly 26 false and misleading statements and by engaging in an over two-hundred and fifty-billion-dollar conspiracy. 28

37. As a result of these articles and mounting public awareness regarding the link between cigarette smoking and lung cancer, Defendants grew fearful their customers would stop smoking, which would in turn bankrupt their companies.

38. Thus, in order to maximize profits, Defendants decided to intentionally ban together to form a conspiracy which, for over half a century, was devoted to creating and spreading doubt regarding a disingenuous "open debate" about whether cigarettes were or were not harmful.

39. This conspiracy was formed in December of 1953 at the Plaza Hotel in New York City. Paul Hahn, president of American Tobacco, sent telegrams to presidents of the seven largest tobacco companies and one tobacco growers' organization, inviting them to meet at the Plaza Hotel.

40. Executives from every cigarette company, except for Liggett, met at the Plaza Hotel on December 14, 1953. The executives discussed the following topics: (i) the negative publicity from the recent articles in the media, (ii) the need to hire a public relations firm, Hill & Knowlton, and (iii) the major threat to their corporations' economic future.

41. In an internal planning memorandum Hill & Knowlton assessed their cigarette clients' problems in the following manner:

"There is only one problem -- confidence, and how to establish it; public assurance, and how to create it -- in a perhaps long interim when scientific doubts must remain. And, most important, how to free millions of Americans from the guilty fear that is going to arise deep in their biological depths -- regardless of any pooh-poohing logic -- every time they light a cigarette. No resort to mere logic ever cured panic yet, whether on Madison Avenue, Main Street, or in a psychologist's office. And no mere recitation of arguments pro, or ignoring of arguments con, or careful balancing of the two together, is going to deal with such fear now. That, gentlemen, is the nature of the unexampled challenge to this office."

42. On December 28, 1953, Defendants again met at the Plaza Hotel where they knowingly and purposefully agreed to form a fake "research committee," called the Tobacco Industry Research Committee ("TIRC") (later renamed the Council for Tobacco Research ("CTR")). Paul Hahn, president of American Tobacco, was elected the temporary chairman of TIRC.

43. TIRC's public mission statement was to supposedly aid and assist with so-called "independent" research into cigarette use and health.

44. The formation and purpose of TIRC was announced on January 4, 1954, in a full-page advertisement called "A Frank Statement to Cigarette Smokers" published in 448 newspapers throughout the United States.

45. The Frank Statement was signed by the following domestic cigarette and tobacco product manufacturers, including Defendants herein, organizations of leaf tobacco growers, and tobacco warehouse associations that made up TIRC: American Tobacco by Paul Hahn, President; B&W by Timothy Hartnett, President; Lorillard by Herbert Kent, Chairman; Defendant, Philip Morris by O. Parker McComas, President; Defendant, R.J Reynolds by Edward A. Darr, President; Benson & Hedges by Joseph Cullman, Jr., President; Bright Belt Warehouse Association by F.S. Royster, President; Burley Auction Warehouse Association by Albert Clay, President; Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association by John Jones, President; Larus & Brother Company, Inc. by W.T. Reed, Jr., President; Maryland Tobacco Growers Association by Samuel Linton, General Manager; Stephano Brothers, Inc. by C.S. Stephano, Director of Research; Tobacco Associates, Inc. by J.B. Hutson, President; and United States Tobacco by J. Whitney Peterson, President.

46. In their Frank Statement to Cigarette Smokers, Defendants knowingly and intentionally mislead Plaintiff, the public, and the American government when they disingenuously promised to "safeguard" the health of smokers, support allegedly "disinterested" research into smoking and health, and reveal to the public the results of their purported "objective" research.

47. For the next five decades, TIRC/CTR worked diligently, and quite successfully, to rebuff the public's concern about the dangers of cigarettes. Defendants, through TIRC/CTR, invented the false and misleading notion that there was an "open question" regarding cigarette smoking and health. They appeared on television and radio to broadcast this message.

48. TIRC/CTR hired fake scientists and spokespeople to attack genuine, legitimate scientific studies. Virtually none of the so-called "research" funded by TIRC/CTR centered on the immediate questions relating to carcinogenesis and tobacco. Rather than addressing the compounds and carcinogens in cigarette smoke and their hazardous effect on the human body, TIRC/CTR instead directed its resources to alternative theories of the origins of cancer, centering on genetic factors and environmental risks.

49. The major initiative of TIRC/CTR, through their Scientific Advisory Board (SAB), was to, "create the appearance of [Defendants] devoting substantial resources to the problem without the risk of funding further 'contrary evidence.'"

50. TIRC/CTR's efforts worked brilliantly and cigarette consumption rapidly increased.

51. In 1964 there was another dip in the consumption of cigarettes because the United States Surgeon General reported, "cigarette smoking is causally related to lung cancer in men . . . the data for women, though less extensive, points in the same direction."

52. The cigarette industry's public response, through TIRC, to the 1964 Surgeon General Report was to falsely assure the public that (i) cigarettes were not injurious to health, (ii) the industry would cooperate with the Surgeon General, (iii) more research was needed, and (iv) if there were any bad elements discovered in cigarettes, the cigarette manufacturers would remove those elements. As a result, cigarette consumption again began to rise.

53. Despite Defendant's public response, internally they were fully aware of the magnitude and depth of lies and deception they were promulgating. They knew and understood they were making fake, misleading promises that would never come to fruition. Their own internal records reveal that they knew, even back in 1964, that cigarettes were not only hazardous, but deadly:

"Cigarettes have certain unattractive side effects . . . they cause lung cancer" (Concealed Document 1963).

"Carcinogens are found in practically every class of compounds in smoke" (Concealed Document 1961).

"The amount of evidence accumulated to indict cigarette smoke as a health hazard is overwhelming. The evidence challenging such indictment is scant" (Concealed Document 1962).

54. Furthermore, not only did Defendants know and appreciate the dangers of cigarettes, but they were also intentionally manipulating ingredients, such as nicotine, in cigarettes to make them more addictive. Their documents reveal they knew the following:

"Our industry is based upon design, manufacture and sale of attractive dosage forms of nicotine" (Concealed Document 1972).

"We can regulate, fairly precisely, the nicotine ... to almost any desired level management might require" (Concealed Document 1963).

"Cigarette[s] that do not deliver nicotine cannot satisfy the habituated smoker and would almost certainly fail" (Concealed Document 1966).

"Nicotine is addictive . . . We are then, in the business of selling nicotine, an addictive drug" (Concealed Document 1963).

1 2	"We have deliberately played down the role of nicotine" (Concealed Document 1972).
3 4	"Very few consumers are aware of the effects of nicotine, i.e., it's addictive nature and that nicotine is a poison" (Concealed Document 1978).
5 6	"Determine minimum nicotine required to keep normal smoker 'hooked.'" (Concealed Document 1965).
7	"The thing we sell most is nicotine" (Concealed Document 1980).
8 9	"Without the nicotine, the cigarette market would collapse, and Defendants' would all lose their jobs and their consulting fees " (Concealed Document 1977).
10	55. Defendants deliberately added chemicals such as urea, ammonia, diammonium-
11	phosphate, tar, nitrosamines, arsenal, polonium-210, formaldehyde, and other carcinogens to 12 13 14	cigarettes. They "free-based" nicotine in cigarettes and manipulated levels of pH in smoke to make cigarettes more addictive and easier to inhale.
	56. Defendant's sole priority was to make as much money as quickly as possible, with no
15 16 17	concern about the safety and well-being of their customers.
1 7	57. In 1966, the United States Government mandated that a "Caution" Label be placed on
18	packs of cigarettes stating, "Cigarette Smoking May be Hazardous to Your Health."
19	58. The cigarette industry responded to the "Caution" label by continuing their massive
20 21	public relations campaign, continuing to spread doubt and confusion, and continuing to deceive the
22	public.
23	59. Throughout this period Defendants also introduced "filtered" cigarettes - cigarettes
24	falsely marketed, advertised, and promoted as "less tar" and "less nicotine."
25	60. However, internally, in Defendants' previously concealed, hidden documents,
26	discussions regarding the true nature of filtered cigarettes was revealed – filters were just as harmful,
27	dangerous, and hazardous as unfiltered cigarettes; In fact, they were more dangerous. In a previously secret document from 1976, Ernie Pepples from Brown & Williamson states, "the smoker of a filter cigarette was getting as much or more nicotine and tar as he would have gotten from a regular cigarette." 61. Throughout the 1960s, 1970s, 1980s and 1990s, the cigarette industry, including Defendants herein, spent two-hundred and fifty-billion-dollars in marketing efforts to promote the sale of cigarettes. 62. The cigarette industry spent more money on marketing and advertising cigarettes in one day than the public health community spent in one year. Cigarette smoking was glamorized – celebrities smoked, athletes smoked, doctors 63. smoked, politicians smoked - everyone smoked cigarettes. 64. As early as the 1920s, and continuing today, cigarette manufacturers, including Defendants herein, were also intentionally targeting children. Their documents reveal: "School days are here. And that means BIG TOBACCO BUSINESS for somebody . . . line up the most popular students" (Concealed Document 1927). "SUMMER SCHOOL IS STARTING ... lining up these students ... as consumers" (Concealed Document 1928). "Today's teenager is tomorrow's potential regular customer" (Concealed Document 1981). "The 14-24 age group . . . represent tomorrow' cigarette business" (Concealed Document 1974). 65. Cigarette manufacturers, including Defendants herein, also targeted and prayed upon minority populations in an effort to increase their market share and ultimately their profits. Cigarettes were the number one most heavily advertised product on television until the 66. United States Government banned television advertisements in 1972.

67. When cigarettes advertising was banned on television Defendants turned to marketing in stadiums, sponsoring sporting events such as the Winston Cup and Marlboro 500, sponsoring concerts, utilizing print advertisements in magazines, adding product placement in movies, and more.

68. Meanwhile, internally Defendants were praising themselves for accomplishing this "brilliantly conceived" conspiracy which deceived SANDRA CAMACHO, millions of Americans, the government, and the public health community.

> "for nearly 20 years, this industry has employed a single strategy to defend itself . . . brilliantly conceived and executed . . . a holding strategy . . . creating doubt about the health charge without actually denying it" (Concealed Document 1972).

69. In 1985, four rotating warning labels were placed on packs of cigarettes which warned, for the first time, that smoking causes lung cancer, heart disease, emphysema, and may complicate pregnancy.

70. The cigarette industry, including Defendants herein, opposed these warning labels and throughout the 1980s, despite the warning labels being placed on their cigarettes, spoke publicly through their representatives in the Tobacco Institute (TI) that it was allegedly still unknown whether smoking cigarettes caused cancer or was addictive because, apparently, "more research was needed."

71. In 1988 the United States Surgeon General reported that cigarettes and other forms of tobacco were addicting, and nicotine is the drug in tobacco that causes addiction. In fact, in his report, the Surgeon General compared tobacco addiction to heroine and cocaine.

In response, the cigarette industry, including Defendants herein, issued a press release 72. knowingly and disingenuously stating, "Claims that cigarettes are addictive is irresponsible and scare tactics."

73. Defendants continued to publicly deny the addictive nature and health hazards of smoking cigarettes until the year 2000, after litigation was brought against them by the Attorneys Generals of multiple States and their previously concealed documents were made public.

74. In 1994 CEOs from the seven largest cigarette companies, including Defendants herein, testified under oath before the United States Congress that it was their opinion that it had not been proven that cigarettes were addictive, caused disease, or caused one single person to die.

Despite their own intensive research and (millions of) internal documents describing 75. the dangers and addictive qualities of cigarettes, Defendants' negligently, willfully, maliciously, and intentionally made false and misleading statements to Congress, the public, and Plaintiff, SANDRA CAMACHO.

76. Even after Defendants knowingly lied during these Congressional hearings, Defendants continued, and still are continuing to, perpetuate their conspiracy.

77. For example, in 1997 Liggett announced that they would voluntarily place a warning label on their cigarette packages, in addition to the labels mandated by the United States government, that smoking is addictive. Defendant, Philip Morris, immediately filed a restraining order against Liggett to prevent them from adding this warning label. Then, in 1998 Liggett sold its three major cigarette brands, L&N, Lark, and Chesterfield, to Philip Morris who immediately removed the "smoking was addictive" warning label from these products.

78. Furthermore from 2000 through 2010, Defendants continued to mislead the public by marketing and promoting "light" and "ultra-light" cigarettes despite knowing internally that such cigarettes were just as dangerous and addictive as "regular" cigarettes.

79. In 2010 after Defendants were required, by the United States government, to remove the misleading "light" and "ultra-light" labels from their cigarettes, they instead added "onserts" to their packages of cigarettes explaining that, for example, "Your Marlboro Lights pack is changing. But your cigarette stays the same. In the future, ask for 'Marlboro in the gold pack."

80. Additionally, as recently as 2018, Defendants have continued to oppose proposed FDA regulations which would reduce or eliminate the levels of nicotine in cigarettes.

81. As recently as 2019, Defendants do not admit or acknowledge that nicotine in their cigarette smoke "is" addictive.

82. As recently as 2019, Defendants do not admit or acknowledge that nicotine addiction can cause diseases.

83. As recently as 2019, Defendants continue to make false or misleading statements that filtered cigarettes, lights, ultra-lights and low tar are less hazardous than conventional full favored cigarettes.

84. Finally, Defendants have continued to target and prey upon children, teenagers, minorities, and other segment populations, all in the name of money.

85. Defendants, despite being rivals and competitors, locked arms and banned together to purposefully and internationally engage in an over 65-year conspiracy to deceive the public regarding the addictive nature and health hazards of cigarette smoking.

86. This sophisticated conspiracy involved hundreds of billions of dollars spent on marketing efforts, massive deception including lying under oath before Congress and other governmental entities, forming fake organizations with fake scientists and fake research, and creating a "brilliantly conceived" public relations campaign designed to create and sustain doubt and confusion regarding a – made up – cigarette controversy.

87. This conspiracy is memorialized through Defendants' own documents authored by their own executives and scientists, including over fourteen million previously concealed records.

95. As a direct and proximate and/or legal result of Defendants' aforementioned negligence, SANDRA CAMACHO was severely injured when she was exposed to Defendants' cigarettes. Each exposure to Defendants' cigarettes caused SANDRA CAMACHO to become addicted to cigarettes and to inhale smoke which caused her to develop laryngeal cancer, in addition to other related physical conditions which resulted in and directly caused her to suffer severe bodily injuries. Each exposure to such products was harmful and caused or contributed substantially to SANDRA CAMACHO's aforementioned injuries.

98. Defendants, prior to selling and/or distributing the cigarettes to which SANDRA CAMACHO was exposed, knew or should have known that exposure to cigarette smoke was harmful and caused injuries including, but not limited to, lung cancer, pharyngeal cancer, laryngeal cancer, emphysema, COPD, heart disease, other forms of cancer, and/or result in death.

to realize that their cigarettes could cause an unreasonable risk of bodily harm to others and involved a high probability that substantial harm would result. Specifically, Defendants had reason to know facts that their cigarettes caused diseases including but not limited to lung cancer, COPD, emphysema, heart disease, pharyngeal cancer, laryngeal cancer, oral cavity cancer.

111. Defendants knew there were ways to minimize the disease and destruction their product, cigarettes, caused through alternative safer designs of cigarettes including but not limited to nicotine free or reduced nicotine cigarettes.

9 112. Defendants willfully, purposefully, and knowingly did not make safer cigarettes and in 10 fact manipulated the compounds in cigarettes to make them more addictive, deadly, and dangerous.

113. Defendants and their co-conspirators also purposefully and knowingly manipulated the public including SANDRA CAMACHO by marketing and promoting their filter, "light" and "low-tar" cigarettes as safer, despite knowing these cigarettes are in fact more dangerous.

114. Defendants' actions in creating, manufacturing, and selling cigarettes despite having knowledge that these actions created an unreasonable risk of bodily harm and involved a high probability that substantial harm would result, was an extreme departure from the ordinary duty of care owed and constitutes gross negligence.

115. SANDRA CAMACHO'S aforementioned injuries arose out of and were connected to and incidental to the way Defendants' designed, manufactured, marketed, distributed, and/or sold its products.

WEINBERG WHEELER HUDGINS GUNN & DIAL

Defendant ASM Nationwide Corporation d/b/a Silverado Smokes & Cigars ("Silverado"), by and through its counsel of record, hereby submits this Motion for Partial Summary Judgment on Plaintiffs' Punitive Damages Claim.

MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

I. INTRODUCTION

6 Plaintiffs' Amended Complaint asserts a cause of action for strict products liability against 7 Silverado for the mere sale of cigarettes. See Am. Compl. ¶¶ 222–38. For their strict products 8 liability claim, Plaintiffs seek punitive damages. See id. ¶ 236. This Court should grant partial 9 summary judgment on Plaintiffs' punitive damages claim because Plaintiffs have no evidence that 10 establishes that Silverado is guilty of oppression, fraud, or malice pursuant to NRS 42.005. Further, Plaintiffs' claim for punitive damages is preempted by federal law. And, even if the 11 12 punitive damages claim were not preempted (and it is), the claim would fail because the only underlying claim against Silverado (strict products liability) fails as a matter of law. Because there 13 14 is no genuine dispute as to any material fact, summary judgment should be entered in Silverado's 15 favor.

II. STATEMENT OF UNDISPUTED MATERIAL FACTS

The following facts are undisputed for the purposes of this Motion: (1) Mrs. Camacho purchased cigarettes from Silverado, starting in the 1990s, see Dep. of Sandra Camacho at 182:03– 11, 185:06–09 (Dec. 7, 2021) (Ex. A); (2) Silverado is licensed in the State of Nevada to sell cigarettes, see NRS 370.33, 370.567; and (3) cigarettes were and are a legal product, and were and are sold in packages containing federally-mandated warning labels at the relevant times.

22 III. LEGAL STANDARD

The Court "shall grant summary judgment if the movant shows that there is no genuine dispute as to any material fact and the movant is entitled to judgment as a matter of law." Nev. R. Civ. P. 56. Summary judgment is appropriate "when the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories, admissions, and affidavits, if any, that are properly before the court demonstrate that no genuine issue of material fact exists, and the moving party is entitled to judgment as a /// matter of law." Wood v. Safeway, Inc., 121 Nev. 724, 731, 121 P.3d 1026, 1030 (2005).¹ "[I]f 1 2 the nonmoving party will bear the burden of persuasion at trial, the party moving for summary 3 judgment may satisfy the burden of production by either (1) submitting evidence that negates an 4 essential element of the nonmoving party's claim, or (2) 'pointing out . . . that there is an absence 5 of evidence to support the nonmoving party's case." Cuzze v. Univ. & Cmty. Coll. Sys. of Nev., 6 123 Nev. 598, 602–03. 172 P.3d 131, 134 (2007) (quoting Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 7 331 (1986)). "In such instances, in order to defeat summary judgment, the nonmoving party must 8 transcend the pleadings and, by affidavit or other admissible evidence, introduce specific facts that 9 show a genuine issue of material fact." Id. at 603.

10 IV. ARGUMENT

Silverado is entitled to summary judgment on Plaintiffs' punitive damages claim because Plaintiffs cannot establish that Silverado is guilty of fraud, malice, or oppression under NRS 42.005, and because their punitive damages claim is preempted. Plaintiffs' punitive damages claim also fails because the sole underlying claim against Silverado (strict products liability) fails as a matter of law.²

A. There is No Evidence that Silverado Engaged in Fraud, Malice, or Oppression Through its Sole Alleged Conduct: the Sale of Cigarettes.

Plaintiffs seek punitive damages pursuant to NRS 42.005. See Am. Compl. ¶ 236. On the 18 issue of punitive damages, the standard for recovery is more stringent because of Plaintiffs' burden 19 to prove punitive damages by clear and convincing evidence. The "clear and convincing 20 evidence" standard "must produce 'satisfactory' proof that is 'so strong and cogent as to satisfy 21 the mind and conscience of a common man, and so to convince him that he would venture to act 22 upon that conviction in matters of the highest concern and importance to his own interest." Ricks 23 v. Dabney, 124 Nev. 74, 79, 177 P.3d 1060, 1063 (2008) (quoting In re Drakulich, 111 Nev. 1156, 24 1566, 908 P.2d 709, 714 (1995)). It "requires a finding of high probability." Shade Foods, Inc. 25

^{28 &}lt;sup>2</sup> Silverado incorporates by reference the arguments articulated in its contemporaneously-filed Motion for Partial Summary Judgment on Plaintiffs' Strict Liability Claims.

v. Innovative Prods. Sales & Marketing, Inc., 93 Cal. Rptr. 2d 364, 394 (2000) (quoting In re 1 Angelia P., 171 Cal. Rptr. 637, 643 (1981)). The evidence must be "so clear as to leave no 2 3 substantial doubt" and "sufficiently strong to command the unhesitating assent of every reasonable mind." Id. at 394 (quoting In re Angelia P., 171 Cal. Rptr. at 643). When faced with a 4 5 claim for punitive damages, a trial court must first make a threshold showing that the plaintiff has sufficient evidence to meet the higher "clear and convincing evidence" standard, before it submits 6 7 the question for a jury's consideration. Countrywide Home Loans, Inc. v. Thitchener, 124 Nev. 8 725, 740, 192 P.3d 243, 253 (2008).

9 Moreover, Silverado is a corporate defendant, and corporations can only operate through 10 their employees. A corporation therefore may only be liable for punitive damages based on its 11 employee's conduct if:

(a)	The employer had advance knowledge that the employee was unfit for the purposes of the employment and employed the employee with a conscious disregard of the rights or safety of others;
(b)	The employer expressly authorized or ratified the wrongful act of the employee for which the damages are awarded; or

(c) The employer is personally guilty of oppression, fraud or malice, express or implied.

17 See NRS 42.007(1).

A corporation is not liable for punitive damages "unless the elements of paragraph (a), (b) or (c) are met by an officer, director or managing agent of the corporation who was expressly authorized to direct or ratify the employee's conduct on behalf of the corporation." See NRS 42.007(1)(c). The Nevada Supreme Court has confirmed the application of NRS 42.007 to punitive damages claims against a corporation by stating that "NRS 42.007 ensures that employers are subject to punitive damages only for their own culpable conduct and not for the misconduct of lower level employees." Thitchener, 124 Nev. at 746, 192 P.3d at 257.

To prevail on a claim for punitive damages, NRS 42.005 requires a plaintiff to prove "by clear and convincing evidence that the defendant has been guilty of oppression, fraud, or malice . . ." Fraud is defined as "an intentional misrepresentation, deception or concealment of a material fact known to the person with the intent to deprive another person of his or her rights or

property or to otherwise injure another person." NRS 42.001(2). Malice is "conduct which is intended to injure a person or despicable conduct which is engaged in with a conscious disregard of the rights or safety of others." NRS 41.001(3). And oppression is defined as "despicable conduct that subjects a person to cruel and unjust hardship with conscious disregard of the person." NRS 42.001(4). A party "acts with conscious disregard when it knows of the probable harmful consequences of a wrongful act and willfully and deliberately fails to act to avoid those consequences." Kinder Morgan Energy Partners, L.P. v. Claytor, 130 Nev. 1205, 1205 (2014).

Plaintiffs have not asserted a fraud claim against Silverado. Rather, the sole claim brought against Silverado is strict products liability for allegedly selling/distributing a defective and unreasonably dangerous product: cigarettes. See Am. Compl. ¶¶ 222–38. Therefore, Plaintiffs cannot seek punitive damages against Silverado for fraudulent conduct when they have not even alleged it.

13 Plaintiffs, likewise, have no evidence that Silverado is guilty of conduct that constitutes 14 "malice" or "oppression" to support their claim for punitive damages against Silverado. As an initial matter, Plaintiffs have not made any allegation sufficient to satisfy the requirements of NRS 15 42.007(1)(a), (b), or (c). NRS 42.007 is not a guideline or suggestion—it is a directive by the 16 17 Nevada Legislature that corporations cannot be held liable for punitive damages if the alleged 18 punitive conduct was committed by employees without authority to direct and set company policy. 19 See Thitchener, 124 Nev. at 747, 192 P.3d at 258. This alone is fatal to Plaintiffs' punitive damages 20 claim against Silverado.

Even so, Silverado vehemently denies that any of its employees, in any capacity, ever acted with oppression or malice such that punitive damages could even be considered, had Plaintiffs' properly pled the claim. There is no evidence—or even allegation—of any such employee or any such state of mind. But even clearer is the absence of any suggestion that a director, officer or managing agent of Silverado ever did so, or ever ratified any such conduct.³

 ³ Discovery has proceeded in this case for months, and is now complete. Over the entirety of the case, Plaintiffs have failed to adduce evidence in any form that a corporate agent of Silverado acted with oppression or malice. In particular, Plaintiffs have not even identified a managing agent with the 1 Nevada law is clear: For a corporation to be liable for punitive damages, the alleged punitive conduct must have been committed by or ratified by a high-level corporate agent. Here, 2 3 there is no evidence that any officer, director or managing agent of Silverado acted with conscious 4 disregard of any known risk, and similarly never ratified any such conduct, and under NRS 42.007. 5 Rather, Silverado (i) lawfully sold a legal product to Mrs. Camacho, (ii) bearing a warning label, (iii) that was sold at a time (i.e., 1990s to 2017) where the ordinary consumer was well aware of 6 7 the dangers of smoking. Indeed, Silverado is (and has been) licensed to sell cigarettes by the State 8 of Nevada. See NRS 370.033, 370.567. The sale of a legal product bearing a warning label, that 9 is not unreasonably dangerous, by a retailer licensed to sell it cannot be a basis for punitive 10 damages, without more, because there is nothing "wrongful" or "punishable" about lawfully selling a legal, non-defective product. And that is all Plaintiffs have alleged Silverado has done. 11 12 See Claytor, 130 Nev. at 1205. Because Plaintiffs have no evidence that Silverado engaged in 13 fraudulent, malicious, or oppressive conduct through its lawful sale of the cigarettes at issue during the relevant timeframes, Plaintiffs' punitive damages claim against Silverado fails as a matter of 14 15 law. Summary judgment is therefore appropriate on Plaintiffs' punitive damages claim.

B. Plaintiffs' Punitive Damages Claim Against Silverado is Preempted.

17 As a second and independent basis for granting summary judgment, by seeking to punish 18 Silverado for the mere sale of a legal product, Plaintiffs are unlawfully attempting to prevent 19 Silverado (and other retailers) from selling cigarettes. Claims that essentially seek to outlaw or 20 ban the sale of cigarettes—or claims that would have that effect—are federally preempted because 21 they conflict with clear congressional policy against "the removal of tobacco products from the 22 market." FDA v. Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp., 529 U.S. 120, 137–38 (2000); see also 23 Geier v. Am. Honda Motor Co., 529 U.S. 861, 873-74 (2000); see also Trial Tr. at 2264:08-12, 24 Garcia v. R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., No. 2007-045267 (Fla. 11th Cir. Ct. May 18, 2021) (the 25 court recognizing that "cigarettes can be sold. They are FDA approved.") (Ex. B).

authority to set Silverado policy—much less that any managing agent consciously ratified the malicious conduct of any employee.

1 In fact, in applying the Supreme Court's FDA decision, Florida's Fourth District Court of 2 Appeal held that conflict preemption barred claims for the continued manufacture of cigarettes 3 because a cause of action imposing liability for nothing more than the manufacture and sale of 4 cigarettes is "contrary to Congress's intent to protect commerce and not to ban tobacco products." 5 Liggett Grp., Inc. v. Davis, 973 So. 2d 467, 472–73 (Fla. 4th DCA 2007), rev. granted on other grounds, 978 So. 2d 160 (Fla. 2008), rev. dismissed, 997 So. 2d 400 (Fla. 2008). Because 6 7 Plaintiffs' punitive damages claim is premised entirely on Silverado's lawful sale of cigarettes, 8 that claim fails as a matter of law under conflict preemption because it would improperly seek to 9 impose liability against and punish Silverado for nothing more than the sale of cigarettes.

C. Plaintiffs' Strict Liability Claim Against Silverado Fails.

Plaintiffs cannot seek punitive damages against Silverado because their underlying claim for strict liability fails. As laid out in greater detail in Defendants' Motion for Partial Summary Judgment on Plaintiffs' Strict Liability Claims, Plaintiffs must not only prove that the product is defective but must also prove that the "defective product[] is 'more dangerous than would be contemplated by the ordinary user having the ordinary knowledge available in the community." Ford Motor Co. v. Trejo, 133 Nev. 520, 521, 402 P.3d 649, 650 (2017) (quoting Ginnis v. Mapes Hotel Corp., 86 Nev. 408, 413, 470 P.2d 135, 138 (1970)).

Yet Plaintiffs cannot point to any evidence regarding consumer expectations about the dangers of smoking from 1990 to 2017. Moreover, the uncontroverted evidence clearly shows that by 1990 the ordinary consumer knew that cigarette smoking can cause throat cancer and is addictive. Because Plaintiffs' strict liability claim fails as a matter of law, their derivative punitive damages claim predicated on strict liability necessarily fails as well.

WEINBERG WHEELER HUDGINS GUNN & DIAL 1 Defendant PHILIP MORRIS USA INC. ("PM USA"), by and through its counsel of record, 2 WEINBERG, WHEELER, HUDGINS, GUNN & DIAL, LLC, and SHOOK, HARDY & BACON L.L.P., 3 hereby submits this Motion for Partial Summary Judgment on Plaintiffs' Negligence Claim.¹

I. INTRODUCTION

To prove negligence, Plaintiffs must prove that PM USA's conduct—i.e., a design defect 6 7 or failure to warn-caused Mrs. Camacho's alleged injury, laryngeal cancer. Plaintiffs cannot 8 establish that essential element of their claim for multiple reasons. First, they have no evidence 9 that the cigarettes made by PM USA that Mrs. Camacho smoked from 1990-2017 were defective 10 because Plaintiffs have no evidence that they were more dangerous than contemplated by the ordinary user during that time frame. Second, Plaintiffs' design-defect theory that all cigarettes 11 12 are inherently dangerous is precluded by federal conflict preemption and the Restatement (Second) 13 of Torts § 402A. None of Plaintiffs' experts provided evidence that Mrs. Camacho developed laryngeal cancer because of any defective design in PM USA's cigarettes.² Rather, Plaintiffs' 14 experts claim that all cigarettes are inherently defective, which is insufficient to support their 15 claims. Finally, Plaintiffs' failure-to-warn theory is expressly preempted by federal law because 16 17 Mrs. Camacho did not start smoking PM USA cigarettes until the 1990s, decades after Congress 18 preempted any claims for failure to warn post-July1, 1969. Courts across the country have granted 19 summary judgment on these claims in smoking and health cases with similar lack of evidence.³ 20 This Court should do likewise because Plaintiffs cannot prove the essential elements of their 21 negligence claim.

¹ The arguments raised herein apply equally to Plaintiffs' strict liability claim against PM USA because 24 "there is no practical difference in Plaintiffs' negligence and strict liability claims in this case. Therefore, the negligence claims are subsumed in the strict liability claims." Carter v. Ethicon, Inc., No. 2:20-CV-25 1232-KJD-VCF, 2021 WL 1226531, at *4 (D. Nev. Mar. 31, 2021). Should the Court grant summary judgment in PM USA's favor on one or more grounds raised herein, summary judgment on the same 26 grounds would be warranted as to Plaintiffs' strict liability claim. Id. at *3, *4.

²⁷ 2 Indeed, none of Plaintiffs' experts are qualified to opine on cigarette design (other than from a historical perspective, at most).

II. UNDISPUTED FACTS

Plaintiffs claim that smoking cigarettes manufactured by PM USA caused Mrs.
 Camacho to develop laryngeal cancer. (See, e.g., Am. Compl. ¶¶ 17, 19, 20, 21.)

4 2. Mrs. Camacho seeks compensatory damages for medical expenses, loss of 5 enjoyment of life, and physical and mental pain and suffering. (Id. ¶¶ 99-102, 117-21, 138-41, 6 139-42, 230-33.) Mr. Camacho seeks compensatory damages for loss of consortium. (Id.)

7 3. Plaintiffs claim that PM USA was negligent for designing, engineering, 8 manufacturing, distributing, marketing, and selling defective cigarettes, which they contend
9 caused Mrs. Camacho's laryngeal cancer. (Id. ¶ 92.)

4. Plaintiffs also allege that PM USA was negligent because it failed to properly warn
Mrs. Camacho about the health risks and addictive nature of smoking. (Id. ¶ 93.)

12 5. Mrs. Camacho testified that she started smoking L&M cigarettes (a Liggett brand 13 cigarette) in 1964. Sandra Camacho Dep. at 145-46 (Nov. 3, 2021) ("Sandra Camacho Dep. Vol.
14 2") (Ex. A).⁴

WEINBERG WHEELER HUDGINS GUNN & DIAL

A. PM USA Is Entitled to Summary Judgment Because Plaintiffs Have No Evidence the PM USA Cigarettes that Mrs. Camacho Smoked Were Defective.

19 Plaintiffs have no evidence of a defect in Mrs. Camacho's cigarettes and therefore their 20 negligence claim based on a design defect theory fails. Under a design defect theory, a product is 21 defective when it "failed to perform in the manner reasonably to be expected in light of its nature 22 and intended function and was more dangerous than would be contemplated by the ordinary user 23 having the ordinary knowledge available in the community." Ford Motor Co. v. Trejo, 133 Nev. 520, 523, 402 P.3d 649, 652 (2017). As explained in Defendants' Motion for Partial Summary 24 25 Judgment on Plaintiffs' Strict Liability Claims, which is incorporated herein, Plaintiffs have no 26 evidence to prove that the PM USA cigarettes Mrs. Camacho smoked were more dangerous than 27

would be contemplated by the ordinary user having the ordinary knowledge available in the community during the relevant time frame. As such, Plaintiffs cannot prove a required element of their claim.

B. PM USA Is Entitled to Summary Judgment Because Plaintiffs Have No Evidence that Any Design Feature Was a Legal Cause of Mrs. Camacho's Cancer.

6 "Negligence, is not actionable unless, without the intervention of an intervening cause, it
7 proximately causes the harm for which complaint was made. An intervening cause means not a 8 concurrent and contributing cause but a superseding cause which is itself the natural and logical 9 cause of the harm." Thomas v. Bokelman, 86 Nev. 10, 13, 462 P.2d 1020, 1022 (1970). Plaintiffs
10 do not have sufficient evidence to show that any design features of the PM USA brand cigarettes 11 that Mrs. Camacho smoked proximately caused her laryngeal cancer.

1. Federal law bars Plaintiffs' design defect theories because they would result in a de facto ban on cigarettes.

Implied conflict preemption precludes state-law tort claims that stand as an obstacle to "the accomplishment and execution of important . . . federal objectives." Geier v. Am. Honda Motor Co., 529 U.S. 861, 881 (2000) (citations and internal quotation marks omitted). The policy implicated here is Congress's decision to foreclose the removal of tobacco products from the market. See FDA v. Brown & Williamson, 529 U.S. 120, 137-38 (2000). A de facto ban on cigarettes is directly contrary to congressional policy—expressly recognized by the United States Supreme Court—against "the removal of tobacco products from the market":

Congress . . . has foreclosed the removal of tobacco products from the market. A provision of the United States Code currently in force states that '[t]he marketing of tobacco constitutes one of the greatest basic industries of the United States with ramifying activities which directly affect interstate and foreign commerce at every point, and stable conditions therein are necessary to the general welfare.' More importantly, Congress has directly addressed the problem of tobacco and health through legislation on six occasions since 1965. When Congress enacted these statutes, the adverse health consequences of tobacco use were well known, as were nicotine's pharmacological effects. Nonetheless, Congress stopped well short of ordering a ban.

FDA v. Brown & Williamson, 529 U.S. at 137-38 (emphasis added and internal citations omitted).

Congress's clear intent to keep cigarettes on the market despite their potential adverse health effects implicitly preempts and precludes Plaintiffs' design-defect theories. See Geier, 529 U.S. at 873-74.

4 Courts throughout the country have recognized that claims similar to Plaintiffs'—which 5 would effectively ban the manufacture and sale of cigarettes containing nicotine—are subject to 6 conflict preemption. In Pooshs v. Phillip Morris USA, Inc., 904 F. Supp. 2d 1009 (N.D. Cal. 7 2012), the court granted summary judgment on the plaintiff's strict liability and negligent design 8 claims because there was "no evidence that the design of defendants' cigarettes—as opposed to 9 plaintiff's smoking of cigarettes—was a substantial factor in causing [the smoker's] lung cancer." 10 Id. at 1025. The court rejected the plaintiff's inhalability and nicotine content defect theories because they were implicitly preempted by congressional policy. Despite noting the "general 11 12 agreement that it is the nicotine that causes smokers to become addicted," the Pooshs court found that nicotine could not constitute a defect as a matter of law because "nicotine is normally present 13 14 in tobacco" and therefore was an inherent characteristic of cigarettes rather than a defect. Id. It likewise rejected the plaintiff's theory that cigarettes are defectively designed because the smoke 15 from cigarettes is intended to be inhalable as "untenable" because "inhalable smoke is an inherent 16 17 feature of cigarettes." Id. The court concluded:

Taken to its logical conclusion, the argument that cigarettes are defectively designed because they deliver nicotine through the inhalation of smoke, if adopted, would mean that the only remedy for this alleged design defect would be a ban on the manufacture and sale of any cigarettes containing nicotine. However, the Supreme Court noted . . . 'Congress . . . has foreclosed the removal of tobacco products from the market [,]' notwithstanding the general acceptance of the adverse health consequences of using tobacco. See Food & Drug Admin. v. Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp., 529 U.S. 120, 137-138, 120 S. Ct. 1291, 146 L. Ed. 2d 121 (2000).

24 Id. at 1025–1026 (emphasis added).

Likewise, in Liggett Group, Inc. v. Davis, the Florida Fourth District Court of Appeal applied FDA v. Brown & Williamson in ruling that conflict preemption barred a claim that the defendant was negligent in "continuing to manufacture" cigarettes because a state cause of action imposing liability for nothing more than the manufacture and sale of cigarettes is "contrary to

19

Congress's intent to protect commerce and not to ban tobacco products." 973 So. 2d 467, 472– 473 (Fla. 4th DCA 2007), rev. granted on other grounds, 978 So. 2d 160 (Fla. 2008), rev. dismissed, 997 So. 2d 400 (Fla. 2008).

The same logic applies here. Plaintiffs' design-defect theory would impose liability for nothing more than manufacturing and selling cigarettes. Such a liability theory is implicitly preempted by clear Congressional policy. The Court should therefore grant summary judgment on Plaintiffs' negligent design claims.

Plaintiffs Have Failed to Identify Any Specific Design Defect that Caused Mrs. Camacho's Cancer and Instead Point to Characteristics Inherent in All Cigarettes.⁶

Plaintiffs have disclosed three witnesses who purport to have design defect opinions—Dr.
Kyriakoudes, Dr. Prochaska and Dr. Proctor.⁷ (See Pl.'s Expert Witness Disclosure (Feb. 10, 2022).) None of these experts testified that Mrs. Camacho would have avoided her laryngeal cancer if she smoked cigarettes without any specific defect—as opposed to the risks inherent in smoking.⁸ Thus, even if Mrs. Camacho had smoked only cigarettes without the specific features that Plaintiffs claim made some cigarettes defective, Mrs. Camacho still would have faced the risk of developing cancer.

Plaintiffs have no evidence to show that any design defect in Mrs. Camacho's PM USA brand cigarettes—as opposed to smoking of cigarettes in general—was a proximate cause of her laryngeal cancer.⁹ On the contrary, Plaintiffs' experts opine that all conventional cigarettes,

²⁰

 ⁶ Although plaintiffs need not always identify a specific defect to prevail in a strict liability case, see Reed v. Arthrex, Inc., 2017 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 168247, *6-7 (D. Nev. Oct. 11, 2017), they must do so here where the product at issue is a cigarette. Without identifying some defect other than the inherent risks associated with smoking cigarettes, Plaintiffs' claims are preempted by federal law.

 ⁷ PM USA notes that Dr. Kyriakoudes, Dr. Proctor, and Dr. Prochaska are not qualified to opine on cigarette design, nor are their opinions on cigarette design reliable. PM USA will file motions to exclude these opinions by the June 17, 2022 deadline.

⁸ Moreover, Plaintiffs cannot argue that Mrs. Camacho would have avoided addiction in the absence of any particular defect in PM USA brand cigarettes. Mrs. Camacho claims that she was hopelessly addicted to cigarettes after her first cigarette, decades before she ever smoked a PM USA brand cigarette. Sandra Camacho Dep. Vol. 3 at 195-96.

Nor do Plaintiffs have admissible evidence to show that use of additives increase health risks or addictiveness of smoking. In fact, Dr. Proctor recently stated, "It's not the additives that make a cigarette harmful." Proctor Dep. at 27–28,</sup> In re Santa Fe Natural Tobacco Co. Marketing & Sales Practices and irrespective of any specific design features, are addictive and cause cancer. See, e.g., Proctor Jordan Trial Tr. at 2086:16-19; Kyriakoudes Martin Trial Tr. at 1426:4-8; Kaplan Dr. Prochaska

 Dep. at 96:24-97:1. Thus, at most, Plaintiffs' evidence suggests that smoking in general caused Mrs. Camacho's laryngeal cancer, as opposed to any of the specific design aspects of the PM USA cigarettes Mrs. Camacho smoked. That is wholly insufficient to create a genuine dispute of material fact on causation.

7 Courts across the country have consistently rejected such theories— a car is not an 8 alternative safer design for a motorcycle, nor grape juice an alternative safer design for wine. See 9 also Kimball v. R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., No. C03-664JLR, 2006 WL 1148506, at *3 (W.D. 10 Wash. Apr. 26, 2006) ("For example, a plaintiff injured in a motorcycle accident cannot argue that if the manufacturer had installed four wheels on the motorcycle, it would have been safer. 'Two-11 12 wheeledness' is an essential characteristic of a motorcycle."); City of Phila. v. Lead Indus. Ass'n, 13 No. 90-7064, 1992 WL 98482, at *3 (E.D. Pa. Apr. 23, 1992) (holding that the presence of lead in lead pigment could not constitute a defect, and stating: "This is akin to alleging a design defect in 14 15 champagne by arguing that the manufacturer should have made sparkling cider instead. The challenge is to the product itself, not to its specific design."). 16

17 Nor can Plaintiffs rely on their allegations that PM USA could have manufactured its cigarettes using an unspecified "alternative" or "less dangerous design." (Am. Compl. at ¶¶ 92(0) 18 19 (alleging PM USA failed "to develop and utilize alternative designs, manufacturing methods, 20 and/or materials to reduce and/or eliminate harmful materials from cigarettes"), 111 (alleging 21 "Defendant knew there were ways to minimize the disease and destruction of their product, 22 cigarettes, caused through alternative safer designs of cigarettes including but not limited to 23 nicotine free or reduced nicotine cigarettes")). Plaintiffs have no evidence to prove those vague 24 and unsupported allegations. They are nothing more than untested theories, and in any case there 25 is no evidence that Mrs. Camacho would have avoided her cancer had she smoked such theoretical

^{Products Liability Litig., No. 1:16-MD-02695-JB-LF (D.N.M. July 31, 2019) (Ex. H); see also id. at 85 ("The additives are relatively unimportant in terms of the overall toxicity... and harm potential of a cigarette.").}

1 cigarettes.

2 Instead, the warnings on cigarette packages shield PM USA from liability based on a safer 3 alternative design because Plaintiffs have no evidence that a commercially feasible change would 4 have allowed Mrs. Camacho to avoid her injuries. "[W]arnings should shield manufacturers from 5 liability unless the defect could have been avoided by a commercially feasible change in design that was available at the time the manufacturer placed the product in the stream of commerce." 6 7 Robinson v. G.G.C., Inc., 107 Nev. 135, 140, 808 P.2d 522, 524-25 (1991). Plaintiffs have no 8 evidence of a commercial feasible change in design that could override the protection provided by 9 the warning label. Indeed, Plaintiffs have no evidence of a "safer alternative design" that Mrs. 10 Camacho would have smoked and would thereby have avoided her injuries, let alone a 11 commercially feasible design that would have been accepted by consumers more generally. 12 Without that evidence, Plaintiffs cannot rely on some unspecified alternative design to prove that Mrs. Camacho's cigarettes were defective. 13

14 In Pooshs, the court granted summary judgment on the plaintiff's negligent design claims because there was "no evidence that the design of defendants' cigarettes—as opposed to plaintiff's 15 smoking of cigarettes—was a substantial factor in causing her lung cancer." 904 F. Supp. 2d 1025. 16 17 The court noted that the plaintiff had merely pointed to evidence indicating "that plaintiff smoked 18 cigarettes manufactured by the defendants, and that she developed lung cancer." Id. It therefore 19 concluded that the plaintiff could not meet her burden of establishing proximate causation, stating: 20 While cigarettes may be considered generally harmful in the sense that smoking cigarettes can contribute to the development of various 21 diseases, including lung cancer, plaintiff has not met her burden of showing, through admissible evidence, that it was the particular 22 design of defendants' cigarettes that caused her lung cancer.

23 Id. (emphasis added).

Similarly, the court in Whiteley found that the plaintiff's negligent design claim failed where her expert witnesses testified that the defendants had manipulated nicotine levels and failed to remove some harmful elements, but never testified that there was a "'reasonable medical probability' that the alleged negligent design[s] of those cigarette products was a substantial factor contributing to the dose of carcinogens Whiteley inhaled or ingested, and hence to her risk of

17

developing lung cancer." 11 Cal Rptr. at 862-63. Specifically, the "[p]laintiff's expert witnesses did not attempt to quantify the likelihood that the asserted design defects of cigarettes, as distinguished from smoking cigarettes in general, contributed to [the smoker] developing lung cancer." Id. at 863.

5 As in Pooshs and Whiteley, Plaintiffs here have failed to demonstrate any causal link 6 between the design elements in cigarettes that Mrs. Camacho smoked and Mrs. Camacho's 7 injuries. Furthermore, Plaintiffs' design-based claims fail for the additional reason that they have 8 not shown that, had PM USA not offered the cigarettes Mrs. Camacho smoked, she would have 9 smoked less or quit smoking altogether and avoided her injuries. See Whiteley, 11 Cal Rptr. at 10 863-64 (plaintiff's negligent design claim failed because she did not introduce evidence "from 11 which the jury could assume that, were the suggested design changes made, Whiteley would have 12 smoked the safer cigarettes, smoked less, or quit smoking altogether"); see also, e.g., White v. R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., 109 F. Supp. 2d 424, 433-34 (D. Md. 2000); Cipollone v. Liggett Grp., 13 14 Inc., 683 F. Supp. 1487, 1493-95 (D.N.J. 1988). Accordingly, Plaintiffs lack sufficient evidence 15 to create a genuine dispute of material fact as to any of their defect theories, which entitles PM USA to summary judgment on Plaintiffs' negligence claims. 16

3. Section 402A of the Restatement (Second) of Torts forecloses Plaintiffs' design defect theories because Cigarettes are Not Defective.

19 Section 402A of the Restatement (Second) of Torts, which Nevada follows,¹⁰ demands the 20 same conclusion. Comment i provides that many common consumer products, including tobacco, 21 are not unreasonably dangerous, and therefore not defective, simply because they cause harm: 22 i. Unreasonably dangerous. Many products cannot possibly be made entirely safe for all consumption, and any food or drugs 23 necessarily involves some risk of harm, if only from overconsumption. Ordinary sugar is a deadly poison to diabetics . . . 24 That is not what is meant by "unreasonably dangerous" in this Section. . . . Good whiskey is not unreasonably dangerous merely 25 because it will make some people drunk, and is especially dangerous to alcoholics; but bad whiskey, containing a dangerous amount of 26 fusel oil, is unreasonably dangerous. Good tobacco is not unreasonably dangerous merely because the effects of smoking 27 may be harmful; but tobacco containing something like marijuana may be unreasonably dangerous. Good butter is not unreasonably dangerous merely because, if such be the case, it deposits cholesterol in the arteries and leads to heart attacks; but bad butter, contaminated with poisonous fish oil, is unreasonably dangerous.

²⁸ ¹⁰ Ford Motor Co. v. Trejo, 133 Nev. 520, 525, 402 P.3d 649, 653 (2017).

4 RESTATEMENT (SECOND) OF TORTS § 402A, Cmt. i (emphasis added). Under Comment i, 5 products like sugar, alcohol, tobacco, and butter are not defective unless they are "contaminated." 6 A design defect theory based on the inherent dangerous characteristics of cigarettes is 7 therefore insufficient to support a negligent design claim. In other words, to prove their negligent 8 design claims, Plaintiffs must have evidence of a product defect-other than the inherent 9 dangerous characteristics of all cigarettes-that proximately caused Mrs. Camacho's laryngeal 10 cancer. Additionally, because Plaintiffs' design-defect allegations necessarily implicate scientific 11 or technical issues such as the biological impact of certain product characteristics, they must 12 establish the existence of the defect and proximate causation through expert testimony. See Grover C. Dils Med. Ctr. v. Menditto, 121 Nev. 278, 287-88, 112 P.3d 1093, 1100 (2005) ("[G]enerally, 13 14 [b]ecause an injury is a subjective condition, an expert opinion is required to establish a causal connection between the incident or injury and disability." (quoting Truck Ins. Exch. v. CNA, 2001 15 S.D. 46, ¶ 14, 624 N.W.2d 705, 709)). Plaintiff cannot do so here. 16

C. Plaintiffs' Failure to Warn Theory Likewise Fails.

To the extent Plaintiffs predicate their negligence claim on allegations that PM USA failed to warn Mrs. Camacho about certain health risks of smoking, see Am. Compl. at ¶¶ 93, that theory also fails under federal law and Nevada law.

21 Plaintiffs' negligence claim based on an alleged failure-to-warn fails under Nevada law because there is no "special relationship" between PM USA and Mrs. Camacho. Under Nevada 22 23 law, a plaintiff may recover under a failure-to-warn theory of negligence "only where there is a 24 special relationship between the parties and the danger is foreseeable." Wiley v. Redd, 110 Nev. 25 1310, 1316, 885 P.2d 592, 596 (1994). However, numerous appellate courts have found that no 26 "special relationship" (e.g., fiduciary, confidential, or otherwise) exists between a cigarette 27 manufacturer (like PM USA) and a consumer (like Mrs. Camacho) as a matter of law. See, e.g., 28 Prentice v. R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., SC20-291, 2022 WL 805951, at *6 (Fla. Mar. 17, 2022)

(holding that a plaintiff in a smoking-and-health case must prove detrimental reliance on a 1 2 defendant's false statement and not reliance on "silence," in part, because tobacco companies have 3 no "free standing disclosure obligation" including a "confidential or fiduciary relationship" to a 4 plaintiff); Burton v. R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., 397 F.3d 906, 911–12 (10th Cir. 2005) (holding 5 that "a buyer/seller relationship does not create a fiduciary duty" and "we do not believe that Kansas would extend ... fraudulent concealment claims against a manufacturer of cigarettes"); 6 7 Jeter v. Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp., 113 F. App'x 465, 469 (3rd Cir. 2004) (stating that 8 "no fiduciary relationship or confidential relationship exists between a manufacturer of cigarettes 9 and consumers of cigarettes, which gives rise to a duty to speak or disclose information"). This 10 smoking-and-health case is no exception, as the record contains no factual justification for 11 concluding otherwise here.

12 But even if there were a special relationship between PM USA and Mrs. Camacho, PM USA is still entitled to summary judgment on Plaintiffs' negligence claim predicated on a failure 13 to warn theory because there is no evidence that any failure to warn harmed Mrs. Camacho. "In 14 Nevada, it is well-established law that in strict product liability failure-to-warn cases, the plaintiff 15 bears the burden of production and must prove, among other elements, that the inadequate warning 16 17 caused his injuries." Rivera v. Philip Morris, Inc., 125 Nev. 185, 187, 209 P.3d 271, 273 (2009). 18 A plaintiff likewise has a burden to prove that a defendant's breach of duty (i.e., failure to warn) 19 was the proximate cause of his or her injury. Perez v. Las Vegas Med. Ctr., 107 Nev. 1, 4, 805 20 P.2d 589, 590–91 (1991). In other words, Plaintiffs must prove that but for PM USA's failure to 21 warn Mrs. Camacho of a danger of smoking cigarettes, she would not have suffered harm.

Moreover, because any claim that PM USA failed to warn Mrs. Camacho about the health risks of smoking after July 1, 1969 is expressly preempted by the Federal Cigarette Labeling and Advertising Act, see 15 U.S.C. §§ 1331, et. seq., Plaintiffs must show that a failure to warn by PM USA before July 1, 1969 caused Mrs. Camacho's injuries. Plaintiffs cannot do so here since it is undisputed that Mrs. Camacho did not smoke a cigarette manufactured by PM USA until 1990 decades after July 1, 1969. As a matter of law, any alleged failure to warm by PM USA could not have harmed Mrs. Camacho, and Plaintiffs' claim is necessarily federally preempted. In other words, absent evidence that Mrs. Camacho actually used PM USA's product (i.e., cigarettes) 1 2 before July 1, 1969, Plaintiffs' failure to warn theory fails for lack of a nexus between PM USA's 3 product and Mrs. Camacho's alleged harm. See Allison v. Merck & Co., 878 P. 2d 948, 952 (1994) 4 (a plaintiff may only recover against the manufacturer of the product that caused the alleged injury 5 in a product liability lawsuit); Moretti v. Wyeth, Inc., No. 2:08-CV-00396-JCMGWF, 2009 WL 749532, at *3-4 (D. Nev. Mar. 20, 2009) ("[a]mong manufacturers of products, liability rests only 6 7 with the manufacturer of the product that actually caused the alleged injury because that 8 manufacturer profited from sales of the product and controlled its safety.") (citing Allison, 878 9 P.2d at 952); see also Baymiller v. Ranbaxy Pharms., Inc., 894 F. Supp. 2d 1302, 1309-11 (D. 10 Nev. 2012) (relying on Moretti and granting summary judgment in defendant's favor on plaintiff's fraud and negligent misrepresentation claims because plaintiff "did not purchase or ingest a Glaxo 11 product.").11 12

Accordingly, PM USA is entitled to summary judgment on Plaintiffs' negligence claim to the extent it is based on any failure to warn.

- ¹¹ Even if Plaintiffs' failure to warn theory were not federally preempted, it would substantively fail for want of causation as the undisputed record evidence makes clear that warnings had been on every pack of cigarettes Mrs. Camacho bought and smoked for 24 years as of 1990 (when she smoked her first PM USA brand cigarette) and PM USA publicly admitted in 2000 that cigarettes are addictive and cause cancer and other diseases. Yet, Mrs. Camacho chose to smoke anyway in the face of these warnings.

1	CONCLUSION
2	Because Plaintiffs cannot prove the essential elements of their negligence claims against
3	PM USA, this Court should grant summary judgment and enter judgment in favor of PM USA on
4	those claims.

 were kind of strong for me. I don't know. Maybe I was weak or something. But I noticed when Laura smoked them, like I said, I used to mooch off of her. Then I started. Then again, she put the stop to that. It didn't last very long. Q. Do you know when you and Mrs. Camacho switched from Marlboro to Basic? A. Probably in the middle of 2000 sometime. Because we were going by the not being able to get L&M and then the prices on the Marlboro. Yeah, they didn't last too long. We went right to Basics. It was cheaper, and everybody sold them. Q. How many cigarettes per day were you smoking when you used Marlboro? A. Marlboros? Well, if I had a pack in home here, probably about five a day. But if we went to the casino, kiss that pack goodbye. The excitement of the noises and machines and playing, you know, you get carried away. And then when the pack was gone, I couldn't believe that I went through a pack of smokes. I knew I'd better chill and be careful with all the smoking. But I just kept doing it. Q. Did you enjoy smoking when you were at the casino? 	 lighter for some reason, and I did increase it. I can't walk, like, to get the mail. Just my legs, from the sciatica. Q. But do you have any smoking-related illnesses? A. Not that I know of. I'm not aware of any. Thank God. I don't know. It could change by tomorrow. Q. How many cigarettes a day were you smoking while using Basic? A. Probably about five a day or something like that. Q. When you would smoke Marlboro Lights, did the amount that you smoked in a day change? A. Yeah. The Lights were easier to smoke, so I did increase my smoking. Yeah, that I knew right away. I didn't even want to use Basics. But like I said, again, I couldn't afford it. They were 	 A. I didn't really enjoy it. I got up and I had a cigarette. I don't know if it was a habit, if I enjoyed it or not. I got up and I smoked, and I smoked and started feeling good in the morning with my coffee. The next morning I'd repeat the same thing. But I don't know if I enjoyed it. I can't say that I did, and I can't say that I didn't. I kept smoking. BY MS. KENYON: Q. Did you enjoy sitting there with your wife, having your coffee and having your cigarette in the morning? MS. WALD: Form. Asked and answered. You can answer. Do you know when Mrs. Camacho became a regular daily smoker? A. I don't know. Q. Do you recall any of the brands of cigarettes that Mrs. Camacho smoked over the years? A. No. The only one that came to mind was L&M, and I have no idea if she stayed with it or not. But that came to mind. Q. Do you have a specific memory of seeing Mrs. Camacho smoking an L&M cigarette? A. Maybe that's why I'm thinking L&M. I can't remember seeing it. A. I don't know, but I'm thinking a pack a day. Q. And what makes you think that Mrs. Camacho smoked a pack of cigarettes a day? A. I cannot even tell you that. Maybe when we visited, she seemed to light up enough to smoke a pack a day. I don't remember why I would think that. Q. At any point did you specifically count the number of cigarettes Mrs. Camacho smoked per day? A. No, I did not count them. Q. Defendant Liggett Group LLC ("Liggett"), by and through its undersigned counsel of record, files this motion for partial summary judgment on Plaintiffs' claims for negligence and strict liability.¹ This motion is made and based on the pleadings, evidence, and papers on file here, the following memorandum of points and authorities, and any oral argument allowed at the time of hearing this matter.

I. MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

7 The Court should grant summary judgment in Liggett's favor on Plaintiffs' claims for 8 negligence and strict products liability because there is no genuine dispute of material fact, and 9 Liggett is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. Sandra Camacho ("Mrs. Camacho") started smoking Liggett's L&M cigarettes in 1964, and continued smoking them until 1990, when she 10 switched to another cigarette brand. Plaintiffs' negligence and strict liability claims proceed under 11 12 two theories: 1) Liggett's failure to warn Mrs. Camacho about certain health risks of smoking, and 13 2) design defect claims, i.e., allegations that Liggett's cigarettes failed to perform in the manner 14 reasonably to be expected in light of their nature and intended function. Both claims fail.

Plaintiffs' post-1969 warning claims are preempted by federal law. Plaintiffs' warning claims arising before July 1, 1969 also fail because there is no evidence that Mrs. Camacho would not have started smoking or would have quit between 1964 and July 1, 1969 but for Liggett's failure to provide additional warnings. Moreover, any warning claims after July 1, 1969 fail because they are preempted by the Federal Cigarette Labeling and Advertising Act, 15 U.S.C. §§ 1331, et. seq. ("FCLAA").

Plaintiffs' design claims fail because the mere manufacture of cigarettes—commonly known to be an inherently dangerous consumer product—does not constitute a defect. Plaintiffs must instead prove that Liggett made design choices in connection with its L&M brand that increased the danger of cigarettes beyond the expectations of the ordinary consumer and that such increased danger was a legal cause of Mrs. Camacho's laryngeal cancer. Here, Plaintiffs have no 26 evidence of either element. Plaintiffs cannot show that Liggett did something to L&M cigarettes that rendered them more dangerous than any other cigarette, beyond the common knowledge of the ordinary consumer, i.e. that cigarettes can cause cancer and death. Nor can Plaintiffs show that but for Liggett's design choices, Mrs. Camacho would have avoided her laryngeal cancer. Plaintiffs' experts concede that all combustible cigarettes are addictive and can cause laryngeal cancer—regardless of any design features.

 ¹ In addition to the Liggett specific arguments made herein, Liggett give notice to the parties and the court of its adoption of and joinder in Philip Morris' Motion for Partial Summary Judgment on Plaintiffs' Negligence Claims and Motion for Partial Summary Judgment on Plaintiffs' Strict Liability Claims filed May 25, 2022.

Based on the undisputed material facts in this case, the Court should enter summary judgment in favor of Liggett on Plaintiffs' claims for negligence and strict liability.

II. STATEMENT OF UNDISPUTED MATERIAL FACTS²

 Plaintiffs brought this action seeking damages for injuries that Mrs. Camacho allegedly suffered from smoking cigarettes manufactured by Liggett and Philip Morris USA Inc. ("PM USA"), asserting claims for negligence and strict product liability. Am. Compl., Claims I, II and III.

The 1964 Surgeon General Report found that "cigarette smoking is causally related to lung cancer. . ." and "linked cigarette smoking to health." See, e.g., Am. Compl. ¶¶ 51, 155(d), 212(k).

3. The Surgeon General's Committee issued its Report in January 1964. See Deposition of Judith J. Prochaska, April 6, 2022 (Ex. A, "Prochaska Dep.") at 108.) Mrs. Camacho turned 18 on April 28, 1964. (Plaintiff's Answers to Interrogatories dated December 6, 2020, attached hereto as Ex. B).

4. Mrs. Camacho started smoking after the issuance of the 1964 Surgeon General's Report. (Ex. C, Sandra Camacho Dep. at 145-46) (Mrs. Camacho smoked her first cigarette when she was 18 years old and that first cigarette was a L&M (a Liggett brand cigarette).³

5. Starting on January 1, 1966, a congressionally mandated health warning label appeared on every cigarette package sold in the United States. (Pub. L. No. 89-92, § 4, 79 Stat.

Strictly for the purposes of this motion, Liggett sets forth the relevant facts as viewed in the light most favorable to Plaintiffs.

All volumes of Sandra Camacho's deposition are attached to Philip Morris' Motions for Partial Summary Judgment on Plaintiff's Claims for Negligence and Strict Liability.
 Accordingly, Liggett attaches here only those excerpts cited herein as Ex. C.

1 282, 283 (1965)).

6. Mrs. Camacho began smoking—not because of any statement or representation she heard from a Defendant—but because (1) her girlfriend offered her a cigarette and (2) she accepted and smoked it because she wanted to look "cool." (Ex. C, Sandra Camacho Dep. at 240-41) ("Q. Do you recall seeing any advertisements for L&M cigarettes? A. I smoked L&M because a girlfriend gave it to me."); Id. at 194-95 ("Q. Did you enjoy socializing and smoking with your girlfriends? A.
My first cig I did because it was the cool thing to do then.").)

8 7. Mrs. Camacho smoked a filtered cigarette because she believed they would be 9 "safer" than unfiltered cigarettes because she would get less nicotine, but this was a personal belief.
10 (Id. at 149-51).

8. Mrs. Camacho continued to smoke L&M because "they weren't strong and they weren't light." (Ex. A, Prochaska Dep. at 199-200).

9. Mrs. Camacho further continued smoking L&M because that is what she was familiar with. (Ex. C, Sandra Camacho Dep. at 300 ("Q. And you continued to smoke L&M because it was what you were familiar with, right? A. Yes.").)

16 10. Every cigarette Mrs. Camacho smoked after 1966 came from a pack bearing a health 17 warning. (Ex. A, Prochaska Dep. at 110).

Mrs. Camacho smoked L&M cigarettes from approximately 1964 to 1990. (Ex. C, Sandra Camacho Dep. at 158-59). She smoked L&M until she moved to Las Vegas. (Id. at 300).
 Mrs. Camacho smoked Marlboro Red (a PM USA brand cigarette) from 21 approximately 1990 to 2000. (Ex. C, Sandra Camacho Dep. at 333).

13. Mrs. Camacho smoked Basic (a PM USA brand cigarette) from approximately 2000 to 2017. (Ex. C, Sandra Camacho Dep. 333-34).

Mrs. Camacho did not recall ever reading, hearing or seeing a specific statement about smoking and health from Liggett Group. (Ex. C, Sandra Camacho Dep. at 287).

26 15. Mrs. Camacho never purchased a brand of cigarettes because of an advertisement.
27 (Id. at 237).

16. Mrs. Camacho's risk of developing cancer would have been that of a non-smoker had she quit smoking in 1990 (when she switched to a non-Liggett brand of cigarettes). (See Ex.

 G, April 27, 2022 Deposition of John C. Ruckdeschel ("Ruckdeschel Dep.") at 188 ("Q. If she had quit smoking in 2003, 15 years before her cancer diagnosis, her risk would have gone back to almost that of a never smoker, right? A. I think so, yes.").

In 1997, Liggett admitted that smoking causes disease and is addictive and placed a warning label on its cigarette packs, cigarette cartons and point of sale materials stating "Smoking is Addictive"). See October 19, 2019 Deposition of Robert Proctor at 345-46, Principe v. Philip Morris USA Inc., et al., Case No. 13-25772 (Fla. 11th Cir. Ct.) (Ex. D, Proctor Dep.).

9 18. Plaintiffs disclosed three purported expert witnesses to offer opinions about 10 cigarette design: Drs. Robert Proctor (a historian), Louis Kyriakoudes (a historian), and Judith 11 Prochaska (a psychiatrist). (Pls.' Expert Witness Disclosure (Feb. 10, 2022)).

12 19. None of these witnesses is qualified to testify about cigarette design in terms of 13 specific design features that were a but-for cause or a substantial factor in causing Mrs. Camacho's 14 cancer. See Defendants' expert motions to be filed on June 17, 2022. All these expert witnesses 15 have previously testified that there is no way to make a cigarette safe for its intended use: smoking.

IV. ARGUMENT

A. LIGGETT IS ENTITLED TO SUMMARY JUDGMENT ON PLAINTIFFS' FAILURE TO WARN CLAIMS

1. Plaintiffs' Post-1969 Failure to Warn Claims Are Preempted by Federal Law

As an initial matter, any claim that Liggett failed to warn Mrs. Camacho about the health 5 risks of smoking after July 1, 1969 is expressly preempted by the FCLAA. See Medtronic, Inc. v. 6 Lohr, 518 U.S. 470, 489 n.9 (1996) (finding that Congress deemed the warnings in the Labeling 7 Act "both necessary and sufficient"); Cipollone v. Liggett Grp., Inc., 505 U.S. 504, 542 (1992) 8 (holding that any state-tort-law theory based on the supposition that federally mandated cigarette 9 labeling was insufficient after July 1, 1969 is preempted under the Labeling Act, which preempts 10 claims that post-1969 cigarette packaging, advertising, or promotion "should have included 11 additional, or more clearly stated, warnings."); accord Altria Grp., Inc. v. Good, 555 U.S. 70, 76-12 87 (2008) (approving Cipollone analysis).⁵ 13

2. Plaintiffs' Pre-1969 Failure to Warn Claims Fail as a Matter of Law Because There was No Special Relationship Between Liggett and Mrs. Camacho Giving Rise to A Duty to Disclose

16 Plaintiffs' negligence and strict liability claims based on an alleged failure-to-warn fails 17 under Nevada law because there is no "special relationship" between Liggett and Mrs. Camacho. 18 Under Nevada law, a plaintiff may recover under a failure-to-warn theory "only where there is a 19 special relationship between the parties and the danger is foreseeable." Wiley v. Redd, 110 Nev. 20 1310, 1316, 885 P.2d 592, 596 (1994); Bahrampour v. Sierra Nevada Corp., 502 P.3d 185 (Nev. 21 App. 2022) (unpublished disposition) (citing Wiley and affirming district court's dismissal of the 22 plaintiff's negligent failure to warn claim because the plaintiff failed "to allege any sort of special 23 relationship" between himself and SNC). Significantly, numerous appellate courts have found that 24 no "special relationship" (e.g., fiduciary, confidential, or otherwise) exists between a cigarette 25 manufacturer (like Liggett) and a consumer (like Mrs. Camacho) as a matter of law. See, e.g., 26

⁵ Plaintiffs concede that they may not maintain a failure to warn claim after July 1, 1969 and affirmatively assert that their only claims for failure to warn pre-date July 1, 1969. See Plaintiffs'

Opposition to Defendants' Philip Morris USA Inc., Liggett Group LLC, and ASM Nationwide Corporation d/b/a Silverado Smokes and Cigars' Motion to dismiss Plaintiff's Amended Complaint Under NRCP 12(b)(5) at 7, filed April 6, 2020.

Prentice v. R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., SC20-291, 2022 WL 805951, at *6 (Fla. Mar. 17, 2022) 1 2 (plaintiff in a smoking-and-health case must prove detrimental reliance on defendant's false 3 statement and not reliance on "silence," in part, because tobacco companies have no "free standing 4 disclosure obligation" including a "confidential or fiduciary relationship" to a plaintiff; Burton v. 5 R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., 397 F.3d 906, 911-12 (10th Cir. 2005) (holding that "a buyer/seller 6 relationship does not create a fiduciary duty" and "we do not believe that Kansas would extend . . . 7 fraudulent concealment claims against a manufacturer of cigarettes"); Jeter v. Brown & Williamson 8 Tobacco Corp., 113 F. App'x 465, 469 (3rd Cir. 2004) (stating that "no fiduciary relationship or 9 confidential relationship exists between a manufacturer of cigarettes and consumers of cigarettes, 10 which gives rise to a duty to speak or disclose information"). This smoking-and-health case is no exception, as the record contains no factual justification for concluding otherwise. 11

3. Plaintiffs' Failure to Warn Claims Fail Because There is No Evidence that Any Failure to Warn Harmed Mrs. Camacho

14 Even if there were a special relationship between Liggett and Mrs. Camacho, Liggett is still entitled to summary judgment on Plaintiffs' negligence and strict liability claims predicated on a 15 failure-to-warn theory because there is no evidence that any failure to warn harmed Mrs. Camacho. 16 17 "In Nevada, it is well-established law that in strict product liability failure-to-warn cases, the plaintiff bears the burden of production and must prove, among other elements, that the inadequate 18 19 warning caused his injuries." Rivera v. Philip Morris, Inc., 125 Nev. 185, 187, 209 P.3d 271, 273 (2009). A plaintiff likewise has a burden to prove that a defendant's breach of duty (i.e., failure to 20 warn) was the proximate cause of his or her injury. Perez v. Las Vegas Med. Ctr., 107 Nev. 1, 4, 21 22 805 P.2d 589, 590-91 (1991).

Accordingly, in that post-1969 failure to warn claims are preempted, Plaintiffs must show that a failure to warn by Liggett before July 1, 1969 caused Mrs. Camacho's injuries. In other words, Plaintiffs must prove that but for Liggett's failure to warn Mrs. Camacho of a danger of smoking cigarettes, she would not have suffered harm. To successfully prove their failure-to-warn claims, not only do Plaintiffs have the burden of establishing product defect and causation, but they must also show that the allegedly inadequate warning caused Mrs. Camacho's injuries. Rivera, 125

Nev. at 187, 209 P.3d at 273. To do so, Plaintiffs must establish that Liggett failed to provide an adequate warning "by demonstrating that a different warning would have altered the way the plaintiff used the product or would have 'prompted plaintiff to take precautions to avoid the injury." Rivera, 125 Nev. at 191, 209 P.3d at 275 (citations omitted). Plaintiffs cannot make that showing here.

Plaintiffs have no evidence to support the notion that any warning between 1964 and July 1, 1969 would have caused Mrs. Camacho to act differently and thereby avoid her injury. See Rivera, 125 Nev. at 187, 209 P.3d at 273 (2009). The undisputed facts confirm that Mrs. Camacho would not have changed her smoking behavior in response to anything Liggett might have said between 1964 and July 1, 1969.

11 Mrs. Camacho began smoking Liggett's filtered L&M cigarettes when she was 18 years old 12 because a girlfriend gave her that brand as her first cigarette. (Ex. C, Sandra Camacho Dep. at 145-13 46, 240-41). She smoked L&M because it was filtered and she personally believed a filtered 14 cigarette would be "safer" for her. (Id. at 149-51). When asked where she got that information 15 from, she responded: "I thought it." (Id. at 151.) She further conceded that when she smoked her first cigarette given to her by her girlfriend, it was actually that girlfriend who told her that L&M 16 17 cigarettes were "safe." (Id. at 298-99) ("Q. Do you know why your girlfriend chose to smoke L&M? 18 A. Yes. Q. And why was that? A. She said she thought they were safer – or safe. Q. Is it safe or 19 safer? A. Safe."); (Id. at 299) ("Q. But before you had that first cigarette, your girlfriend told you 20 that the L&M was safe; is that right? A. Yes.").

Significantly, Mrs. Camacho first started smoking after the issuance of the well-publicized 1964 Surgeon General's Report that linked smoking to health issues. She acknowledged that it was her choice to smoke the very first cigarette. (Id. at 306.) She continued to smoke L&M between 1964 and 1990 because she was familiar with that brand. (Id. at 300). Indeed, had Mrs. Camacho quit smoking in 1990 (when she switched to a non-Liggett brand of cigarettes) her risk of developing cancer would have been that of a non-smoker. (See Ex. G, Ruckdeschel Dep. at 188.

In 1966, the Congressionally mandated warnings stated, "Caution: Cigarette Smoking May Be Hazardous to Your Health." (Ex. A, Prochaska Dep. at 110). Between 1970 and 1985, the

1 Congressionally mandated warnings stated, "The Surgeon General has determined that cigarette smoking is dangerous to your health." (Id.). In 1985, the warnings changed to rotating warnings 2 3 that have continued to remain on cigarette packs today. (Id.). And in 1997, Liggett publicly 4 admitted that smoking causes disease and is addictive and put a voluntary warning on its packs 5 stating that "Smoking is Addictive." (Ex. D, Proctor Dep. at 345-46). Those actions received 6 widespread publicity and media coverage. (Id.). Mrs. Camacho continued smoking at each of these 7 milestones—thereby indicating that she did not care about the label on the cigarettes. She never 8 once tried to quit smoking before she moved to Nevada in 1990. (Ex. C, Sandra Camacho Dep. at 9 60, 319-20, 339).

Mrs. Camacho did not change her behavior when she was confronted with the numerous warnings, starting in 1966. Plaintiffs therefore cannot prove that Mrs. Camacho would have acted differently had she received different warnings of the risks of smoking in 1964. Even after Liggett expressly admitted that smoking causes certain diseases and is addictive and placed warning labels on its cigarette packs stating "Smoking is Addictive" in 1997, Mrs. Camacho continued smoking. See, e.g., Am. Compl., ¶ 17 ("Sandra Camacho . . . smoked continuously . . . until 2017.")

Because Plaintiffs cannot prove that any warning before July 1, 1969 would have prevented
Mrs. Camacho's injury in 2017, Plaintiffs' warning defect claims fail. See Rivera, 125 Nev. at 187, 209 P.3d at 273.

B. LIGGETT IS ENTITLED TO SUMMARY JUDGMENT ON PLAINTIFFS' DESIGN DEFECT CLAIMS

21 Plaintiffs' design defect claims also fail as a matter of law. For a design defect claim, 22 Plaintiffs must "prove that the product failed to perform 'in the manner reasonably to be expected 23 in the light of its nature and intended function." Ward v. Ford Motor Co., 99 Nev. 47, 48, 657 24 P.2d 95, 96 (1983) (citation omitted); see also Allison v. Merck & Co., 110 Nev. 762, 767, 878 P.2d 25 948, 952 (1994); Michaels v. Pentair Water Pool & Spa, 131 Nev. 804, 818, 357 P.3d 387, 397 26 (Nev. App. 2015). To that end, Plaintiffs must show that the product's design rendered it 27 "dangerous to an extent beyond that which would be contemplated by the ordinary consumer who 28 purchases it with the ordinary knowledge common to the community as to its characteristics." 117785376.1 - 9 -

1 Ward, 99 Nev. at 48, 657 P.2d at 96 (emphasis added). As discussed below, cigarettes are, by their 2 nature, inherently dangerous. But the inherent dangers of cigarettes do not make their design 3 defective. This is particularly true given these inherent dangers are common public knowledge. 4 Plaintiffs must therefore prove that a design choice by Liggett or design feature of Liggett's L&M 5 cigarettes between 1964 and 1990-something beyond the well-known inherent dangers of cigarettes—made L&M cigarettes more dangerous than the ordinary consumer would anticipate, 6 7 and that those design choices or features proximately caused Mrs. Camacho's injury. Because 8 Plaintiffs have no such evidence, summary judgment is warranted on Plaintiffs' design defect 9 claims.

1. That Combustible Cigarettes Are Inherently Dangerous Does Not Constitute a Design Defect.

Plaintiffs allege that smoking cigarettes is dangerous and can cause serious diseases. See, e.g., Am. Compl. ¶ 12, 17. While that is true, that does not make Liggett's cigarettes, an inherently dangerous product, defective under Nevada law.

14 Nevada courts have adopted the Restatement (Second) of Torts Section 402A in products 15 liability cases. See Schueler v. Ad Art, Inc., 136 Nev. 447, 455, 472 P.3d 686, 693 (Nev. App. 16 2020) (instructing that "when determining whether an item or instrumentality is a product that falls 17 within the scope of strict products liability, courts must apply section 402A of the Second 18 Restatement, including the public policy objectives of the doctrine as well as the relevant 19 precedents interpreting section 402A.") (emphasis added). Comment i to Section 402A addresses 20 inherently dangerous consumer products and provides specifically that "[g] ood tobacco is not 21 unreasonably dangerous merely because the effects of smoking may be harmful." Restatement 22 (Second) of Torts § 402A cmt. i (1965) (emphasis added);⁶ see also Batts v. Tow-Motor Forklift

The full text of comment i states:

Unreasonably dangerous. The rule stated in this Section applies only where the defective condition of the product makes it unreasonably dangerous to the user or consumer. Many products cannot possibly be made entirely safe for all consumption, and any food or drug necessarily involves some risk of harm, if only from over-consumption. Ordinary sugar is a deadly poison to diabetics, and castor oil found use under Mussolini as an instrument of torture. That is not what is meant by "unreasonably dangerous" in this Section. The article sold must be dangerous to an extent beyond that which would be contemplated by the ordinary consumer who purchases it, with the ordinary knowledge common to the community as to its characteristics. Good whiskey is not unreasonably dangerous to alcoholics; but bad

LEWIS ROCA 3993 Howard Hughes Parkway, Suite 600 Las Vegas, NV 89169 Co., 978 F.2d 1386, 1397 (5th Cir. 1992) (interpreting Comment i; "It follows that a product with an open and obvious defect is not 'dangerous to an extent beyond that which would be contemplated by an ordinary consumer,' and thus cannot be unreasonably dangerous."); cf. Parsons v. Colts Mfg. Co. LLC, 137 Nev. Adv. Op. 72 (2021) (quoting Cassisi v. Maytag Co., 396 So. 2d 1140, 1143 (Fla. 1st Dist. Ct. App. 981) ("[O]ne who is injured while using a perfectly made axe or knife would have no right to a strict liability action against the manufacturer because the product that injured him was not defective.").

8 Comment i clarifies that liability for design defect hinges on a finding that a product must 9 reach the consumer with something wrong beyond its inherent danger. For example, whiskey 10 may have deleterious effects on the liver and may be especially dangerous to an alcoholic with addiction; but "good whiskey is not unreasonably dangerous merely because it will make some 11 12 people drunk." Restatement (Second) of Torts § 402A cmt. i (1965). Likewise, good tobacco 13 carries inherent dangers that the ordinary consumer is aware of, but those inherent dangers do not 14 give rise to some defect that makes the product unreasonably dangerous. See e.g., Hon v. Stroh 15 Brewery Co., 835 F.2d 510, 516 (3d Cir. 1987) ("Comment i cites alcohol as an example where the 16 exception to liability applies only because the dangers of intoxication and alcoholism are within 17 the contemplation of the ordinary consumer."). Comment i recognizes that some consumer 18 products, including tobacco, carry inherent dangers even in a "good" state. Such dangers are not 19 defects in such a product with inherent known dangers and cannot create liability.

Indeed, "[t]he requirement that a defect be unreasonably dangerous was added to the section to foreclose the possibility that makers of products having the inherent potentiality for causing harm, such as drugs, whiskey, sugar, butter, etc., would become automatically responsible for all the harm that such things do in the world. Thus, only bad tobacco should be subject to the section 402 A standard." Liggett Grp., Inc. v. Davis, 973 So. 2d 467, 480 (Fla. 4th Dist. Ct. App. 2007) whiskey, containing a dangerous amount of fuel oil, is unreasonably dangerous. Good tobacco is not unreasonably dangerous merely because the effects of smoking may be harmful; but tobacco containing something like marijuana may be unreasonably dangerous. Good butter is not unreasonably dangerous merely because, if such be the case, it deposits cholesterol in the arteries and leads to heart attacks; but bad butter, contaminated with poisonous fish oil, is unreasonably dangerous. Restatement (Second) of Torts § 402A (1965).

(Gross, J. concurring). It is therefore clear that Plaintiffs have to prove more than just that cigarettes are dangerous. They must establish that something was wrong (or "bad") with the specific design chosen by the manufacturer—something beyond the inherent dangers of any cigarette.

5 Principles of conflict preemption also make clear that Plaintiffs must prove something 6 beyond the well-known fact that cigarettes are dangerous. Congress has demonstrated a federal 7 interest in the continued sale of tobacco products and has foreclosed a ban of [tobacco] products [from the market], choosing instead to create a distinct regulatory scheme focusing on the labeling and advertising of cigarettes and smokeless tobacco. Its express policy is to protect commerce and the national economy while informing consumers about any adverse health effects. Thus, [a] ban [on tobacco products] would plainly contradict congressional intent.

Food & Drug Admin. v. Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp., 529 U.S. 120, 121–22 (2000).

14 The Court in Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp. based this conclusion on a web of 15 "tobacco-specific legislation that Congress ha[d] enacted" in various federal statutes. Id., 529 U.S. 16 at 143. In enacting these federal statutes, "Congress has been aware of tobacco's health hazards 17 and its pharmacological effects." Id. at 127 (citation omitted). Congress demonstrated an interest 18 in the tobacco industry by regulating the labeling and advertising of tobacco products with full 19 knowledge of its effects on health. In doing so, it is clear that Congress intended for the sale of 20 tobacco products to remain legal, as the tobacco industry "constitutes one of the greatest basic 21 industries of the United States with ramifying activities which directly affect interstate and foreign 22 commerce at every point." Id. at 139 (citation omitted).

Given that Congress has intended for cigarettes to remain on the market despite their inherent dangers, there can be no state tort lawsuit that holds Liggett liable merely because cigarettes are inherently dangerous. Numerous courts around the country have therefore concluded that a tort claim "based on [the] mere continuing to manufacture cigarettes is barred by conflict preemption." Davis, 973 So. 2d at 472; Pooshs v. Philip Morris USA, Inc., 904 F. Supp. 2d 1009, 1025–26 (N.D. Cal. 2012) ("Congress . . . has foreclosed the removal of tobacco products from

Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp., 294 F. Supp. 2d 681, 685 (W.D. Pa. 2003) ("In 8 response to the health risks of cigarette smoking, Congress chose to regulate the sale of cigarettes 9 instead of completely banning them.") (citation omitted); Cruz Vargas v. R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., 218 F.Supp.2d 109, 118 (D.P.R. 2002) ("Congress has foreclosed the removal of tobacco 10 products from the market."); Insolia v. Philip Morris Inc., 128 F. Supp. 2d 1220, 1224-25 (W.D. 11 12 Wis. 2000) ("[A]llowing tort actions against cigarette manufacturers and sellers for the allegedly 13 negligent act of continuing to make and sell cigarettes would interfere with Congress's policy in favor of keeping cigarettes on the market."). 14

In sum, Plaintiffs must prove that Liggett did something or failed to do something *more*than manufacture or sell a product with known and inherent dangers. Any claim based on the inherent dangers of cigarettes runs afoul of the Restatement (Second), and principles of conflict preemption.

As such, Plaintiffs must instead prove that Liggett made a design choice or added a design feature that rendered the product more dangerous than it inherently would be and that those design choices created a defect that legally caused Mrs. Camacho to get laryngeal cancer.

2. Plaintiffs Cannot Prove That Any Design Choice Between 1964 and 1990 by Liggett Rendered its L&M Cigarettes Defective, Let Alone That Any Alleged Defect Was a But-For Cause of Mrs. Camacho's Injury.

Because the inherent dangers of cigarettes cannot constitute a product defect, Plaintiffs must show that Liggett made a design choice that rendered the L&M cigarettes Mrs. Camacho smoked between 1964 and 1990 "dangerous to an extent beyond that which would be contemplated by the ordinary consumer who purchases it with the ordinary knowledge common to the community as to 1 its characteristics." Ward, 99 Nev. at 48 657 P.2d at 96 (emphases added). See also Rest. (2d) 2 Torts § 402A cmt. i (1965). Plaintiffs must also prove that "the design defect in the product was a 3 substantial factor in causing [their] injury." Price v. Blaine Kern Artista, Inc., 111 Nev. 515, 520, 4 893 P.2d 367, 370 (1995). Thus, Plaintiffs must prove that: (1) Liggett's design choices rendered 5 its L&M cigarettes defective by failing to perform in a manner expected by the ordinary consumer 6 with ordinary common knowledge of its inherent dangers, and (2) but for the alleged defect in the 7 L&M cigarettes between 1964 and 1990, Mrs. Camacho would not have incurred her injuries. 8 Plaintiffs cannot meet this burden on either element.

i. Plaintiffs Cannot Establish that Liggett Made Design Choices that Increased the Risks Beyond What Could Be Reasonably Expected in Light of Their Nature and Intended Function.

Plaintiffs cannot dispute that the dangers of smoking cigarettes have been common 12 knowledge to Liggett's ordinary consumer since before Mrs. Camacho allegedly started smoking 13 cigarettes. Indeed, as Plaintiffs admit, the 1964 Surgeon General's Report "linked smoking and 14 health." See, e.g., Am. Compl. ¶ 155(d). And as one of Plaintiffs' experts, Dr. Proctor, testified, 15 the health risks of smoking, including the risk of contracting cancer, and the risk that smoking can 16 be addictive have long been a matter of common knowledge. See Trial Tr. at 2200-2228, Gentile 17 v. Philip Morris USA Inc., No. 50 2015 CA (Fla. 15th Cir. Ct. Oct. 4, 2017) (Ex. E) (Dr. Proctor 18 testifying regarding numerous public communications and warnings of the health risks of addictive 19 nature of cigarettes.) He is not alone in that conclusion. In fact, the United States Supreme Court 20 recognized that the health hazards of smoking and the effect of nicotine have been "well known" 21 for some time-since shortly after Mrs. Camacho chose to start smoking Liggett's brands of 22 cigarettes in 1964. (Ex. C, Sandra Camacho Dep. at 289) ("Q. You chose to smoke your first 23 cigarette? A. Yes. Q. You chose to smoke your second cigarette? A. Yes. Cool thing to do.") 24 As the Court explained, "Congress has directly addressed the problem of tobacco and health 25 through legislation on six occasions since 1965. When Congress enacted these statutes, the adverse 26 health consequences of tobacco use were well known, as were nicotine's pharmacological effects." 27 Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp., 529 U.S. at 137-38 (citations omitted) (emphases added). 28

Other courts have found that "there was . . . widespread public awareness of the health risks 1 2 associated with smoking" by 1969. Glassner v. R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., 223 F.3d 343 (6th Cir. 3 2000) (barring strict liability claims because the decedent began smoking in 1969) (emphasis 4 added). This is because, as other courts around the country have recognized, it has been common 5 knowledge that "cigarette smoking is not healthy" since at least 1964 when the Surgeon General issued his landmark report on this topic. See Guilbeault v. R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., 84 6 7 F.Supp.2d 263, 273 (D.R.I. 2000) ("[T]he Court is satisfied that it can take judicial notice of the 8 community's common knowledge of the general disease-related health risks associated with 9 smoking, including the risk of contracting cancer, as of 1964."); see also Soliman v. Philip Morris Inc., 311 F. 3d 966, 975 (9th Cir. 2002) ("[I]t has been a matter of common knowledge since at 10 least 1965 that cigarette smoking is not healthy" where smoker-plaintiff was "charged with the 11 12 obvious inferences he should have drawn about the consequences of his conduct"); Barker v. 13 Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp., 88 Cal. App. 4th 42, 51 (2001) ("[I]t has been a matter of 14 common knowledge since at least 1965 that cigarette smoking is not healthy.").

15 Given the wide-spread common knowledge of these dangers, the relevant inquiry is whether 16 Liggett made design choices that made their L&M brand more dangerous than they would 17 otherwise be and whether those design choices rendered those cigarettes unreasonably dangerous 18 under the consumer expectation test during the time Mrs. Camacho allegedly smoked them. Here, 19 Plaintiffs have no evidence that Liggett's design choices have increased the degree of 20 dangerousness beyond what was expected by the ordinary consumer. Thus, Plaintiffs cannot show 21 that anything about Liggett's design choices made their cigarettes more dangerous than these 22 expectations. The Court should therefore grant summary judgment in Liggett's favor on Plaintiffs' 23 defect claims.

ii. Plaintiffs Cannot Show That But For Liggett's Design Choices, Mrs. Camacho's Injuries Would Not Have Occurred.

Plaintiffs must also establish causation by showing that the alleged defect in the design of Liggett's cigarettes "was a substantial factor in causing [Mrs. Camacho's] injury." Price, 111 Nev.
at 520, 893 P.2d at 370. But Plaintiffs cannot establish that Liggett's design choices increased the risks inherent to smoking tobacco, much less that Mrs. Camacho would not have been injured if 1 2 not for that added delta of risk. In fact, the opposite is true: as Plaintiffs' experts have recognized, 3 "as long as you are combusting tobacco, there cannot be a safe cigarette."

4 Plaintiffs disclosed three purported expert witnesses to offer opinions about cigarette 5 design: Drs. Robert Proctor (a historian), Louis Kyriakoudes (a historian), and Judith Prochaska (a 6 psychiatrist). (Pls.' Expert Witness Disclosure (Feb. 10, 2022).) None of these witnesses is 7 qualified to testify about cigarette design in terms of specific design features that were a but-for 8 cause or a substantial factor in causing Mrs. Camacho's cancer. See Defendants' expert motions 9 to be filed on June 17, 2022. Further, none of these expert witnesses identified in their reports an alleged specific defect in any of the cigarettes Mrs. Camacho smoked beyond the inherent 10 characteristics of all cigarettes in the market. Significantly, each of these expert witnesses have 11 12 previously testified that there is no way to make a cigarette safe for its intended use: smoking. See 13 Defendant Philip Morris' Motion for Partial Summary Judgment on Plaintiffs' Negligence Claims, 14 ¶ 15.

15 None of Plaintiffs' expert witnesses can opine that a specific design defect in the L&M cigarettes Mrs. Camacho smoked was a proximate cause of her laryngeal cancer. Put differently, 16 17 Plaintiffs have no evidence that Mrs. Camacho would not have contracted cancer but for Liggett's 18 design choices. Plaintiffs' experts concede that all "conventional commercially successful tobacco-19 burning cigarettes containing nicotine" were "all equally as dangerous" and "all equally addictive." 20 November 30, 2021 Deposition of Louis Kyriakoudes at 178-79, Geist v. Philip Morris USA Inc., 21 et al., Case No. A-19-807653-C (District Court, Clark County, Nevada (Ex. F). So, even without 22 any design decisions made by Liggett, Mrs. Camacho would have contracted laryngeal cancer in 23 2017 or 2018. 24

I do not remember all of the names of magazines or newspapers my family or I have subscribed to over my lifetime, but I certainly have seen and read many magazines and newspapers. A few I remember are People, Enquire, Star, Chicago Sun-Times, and the Review Journal. I also recall seeing many cigarette advertisements over the years in some of the publications, including advertisements for Marlboro, L&M, and Basic cigarettes.
 The advertisements portrayed smoking as fun and cool and also portrayed filter cigarettes

I began smoking in approximately 1964 when I was approximately 18 years old. I smoked approximately 1 – 1.5 cigarettes per day until approximately 2017. I smoked L&Ms from approximately 1964-1990, Marlboro from approximately 1990 – mid-1990s, and Basic cigarettes from approximately 1990 through 2017. I smoked L&M, Marlboro, and Basic because I thought filtered cigarettes were better for me. I also smoked these brands because I saw advertisements for them that made it look glamorous and cool to smoke cigarettes.

And then in 2005 Philip Morris stopped advertising in magazines entirely, correct? 4 5 Right, again, unlike some of the other Α. 6 cigarette manufacturers. Philip Morris should 7 be praised for that. 8 Other cigarette manufacturers Q. đo 9 advertise in magazines. 10 Α. Yes. Philip Morris does 11 Q. 12 Α. That's correct 13 All right. So for the past 12 years Q. 14 there hasn't been an advertisement for a Philip 15 Morris branded cigarette in a magazine, on television and radio, on a billboard or a 16 sporting event; is that fair? 17 18 Not in the U.S. Α. 19 You talked about money the tobacco Q. 20 companies spent on advertising, correct? 21 Right, the 250 billion. Α. 22 I think you did some math, something Q. 23 about -- you made a joke about how big of a 24 number it is, right? 25 Well, I said it was 250 thousand Α.

I said, they know it's some mad 7 cheddar. 8 Mad cheddar? Q. 9 Α. Yeah. All right. 10 Q. 11 Since 2000 nearly 99 percent of the 12 money that Philip Morris spends on marketing is 13 actually spent on things like coupons, buybacks, two for ones, discounts and direct mail to adult 14 15 consumers, correct? 16 Exactly. Α. 17 All right. On direct examination you 18 talked about the Tobacco Institute, the Council 19 for Tobacco Research; is that correct? 20 Yes. Α. 21 And as of 1998 those organizations no Q. 22 longer existed. 23 Right, they were all barred as Α. 24 fraudulent. 25 MS. ARNOLD: Move to strike the last Page 178 of the brands that Mrs. Geist smoked? 1 2 That's correct. And in your preface to the А question earlier, we kind of excluded the alternative 3 designs, you know. So I'm forced to answer the question 4 5 that they all were dangerous. 6 There were no conventional commercially 0 7 successful tobacco-burning cigarettes that contained nicotine that were available on the market that were 8 9 proven to be less dangerous than any of the brands that Mrs. Geist smoked; right? 10 I agree from a historical perspective, yes. 11 А 12 Q And also no conventional commercially successful tobacco-burning cigarettes containing nicotine 13 14 that were available on the market that were less 15 addictive than the brands Mrs. Geist smoked; right? 16 As a historian, you know, I see them all А 17 equally addictive. A specialist in addiction may have 18 another view on that; for example, menthol cigarettes and 19 the like. But as a historical opinion, which is not a medical opinion, they all cause the injury of addiction. 20 Okay. And I can only ask you for your 21 Q 22 opinions. 23 In your opinion, there were no conventional commercially successful tobacco-burning cigarettes 24 25 containing nicotine that were available on the market

Page 179 that were proven to pose less risk for lung cancer or 1 2 COPD than any of the brands that Mrs. Geist smoked; 3 right? Again, in my view as a historian, I see them 4 А all equally as dangerous, including the diseases you 5 indicated in your question. 6 7 Since Mrs. Geist was not deposed and you never Q had an opportunity to talk to her or interview her, you 8 9 can't testify to the jury as to what specifically was in her head as it relates to what she thought about the 10 health risk of smoking; right? 11 I cannot get into her head, as you used that 12 Α metaphor. I can testify to what her husband testifies to 13 14 in terms of her knowledge and understanding as an 15 historical source because he's a direct witness, 16 firsthand witness, and I can place people like Miss Geist 17 in the historical context as I do in my Expert Report. 18 And when you're repeating what you saw from 0 19 Mr. Geist, you're repeating what he reports was the 20 information that Mrs. Geist told him, or that's what he claims; right? 21 22 А Yeah. That's what the text indicates, and then I put that in the broader historical context with other 23 supporting data to evaluate those statements that I think 24 are -- have a high level of truth value, if you will, or 25 have substantially decreased, right? 1 2 2008? Α. 3 Q. Yeah. 4 Yes. It wouldn't have gone Α. 5 to zero. But it would have been essentially less. 6 7 If she had guit smoking in Q. 8 2003, 15 years before her cancer 9 diagnosis, her risk would have gone back to almost that of a never smoker, right? 10 11 I think so, yes. Α. 12 And if she had quit smoking Q. 13 in 1998, which would have been 20 years 14 before her cancer diagnosis, her risk 15 would have been almost that of someone 16 who had never smoked, right? 17 Α.
