I. INTEREST OF THE AMICUS CURIAE

The Progressive Leadership Alliance of Nevada (“PLAN”) was founded in 1994 to advocate for, among other things, economic justice for low-wage workers in Nevada. PLAN played an instrumental role in the passage of the Minimum Wage Amendment ultimately at issue in this writ petition, in 2004 and 2006. PLAN members have also regularly testified before the Nevada State Legislature on matters concerning the minimum wage, on behalf of minimum wage workers and the economically-disadvantaged. PLAN is keenly aware of the remedial, pro-employee intent of the Minimum Wage Amendment, and recognizes that rulings regarding the Amendment potentially affect tens—hundreds—of thousands of minimum wage workers in Nevada.

II. ARGUMENT

Amicus will address two arguments put forward by Petitioner Western Cab Company (“Petitioner,” or “Western Cab”), that Nev. Const. art. XV, sec. 16 (the “Minimum Wage Amendment,” or the “Amendment”) is preempted by ERISA or, apparently in the alternative, that the Minimum Wage Amendment is void for vagueness based upon the Due Process Clause of the United States Constitution. Neither of these hail-mary theories has any merit whatsoever.

A. The Minimum Wage Amendment Is Not Preempted By ERISA

Petitioner does not appear to understand ERISA or ERISA preemption.

1 More to the point, Petitioner fails to grasp—or willfully misrepresents—the nature
2 of the Amendment itself. In combination, these misconstructions sink any 3 argument regarding ERISA preemption.

5 “[The] question of whether a federal law preempts state law is one of 6 congressional intent, and that Congress’ purpose is the ‘ultimate touchstone.’”
7 Brandner v. UNUM Life Ins. Co. of America, 152 F. Supp. 2d 1219, 1223 (D. Nev.
8 2001). In its rush to seize upon the ERISA language that Section 514(a) “preempts
9 all state laws that ‘relate to’ any employee benefit plan,” however, Petitioner
10 makes a gargantuan leap of legal logic and misses the import of that section 11 entirely, as well as its lengthy history of interpretation by courts—including this 12 Court. Only a modest research effort reveals that “ERISA was passed by Congress 13 in 1974 to safeguard employees from the abuse and mismanagement of funds that 14 had been accumulated to finance various types of employee benefits.”
15 Massachusetts v. Morash, 490 U.S. 107, 112 (1989). “In enacting ERISA, 16 Congress’ primary concern was with the mismanagement of funds accumulated to 17 finance employee benefits and the failure to pay employee benefits from 18 accumulated funds.” Id. ERISA is, primarily, a pension-and-benefits protection 19 statute, and its primary concern is not with health insurance made available by an 20 employer through a private third-party insurer under state law—that is an area left, 21 appropriately, to the states—but with self-funded or self-insured benefits plans that 22
23
24
25
26
27

1 may include health benefits, so that those promised benefits are administered and 2 paid out to qualified employees in a uniform manner overseen by federal courts.

4 As this Court has stated, “We cannot believe that [ERISA] regulates bare 5 purchases of health insurance where, as here, the purchasing employer neither 6 directly nor indirectly owns, controls, administers or assumes responsibility for the 7 policy or its benefits.” See Turnbow v. Pacific Mutual Life Ins. Co., 104 Nev. 676, 8 678, 765 P.2d 1160, 1161 (1988), citing Taggart Corp. v. Life and Health Benefits
9 Administration, 617 F.2d 1208, 1211 (5th Cir. 1980).

10
12 Petitioner reads the basic application of ERISA preemption far too broadly.
13 This Court has stated, in the ERISA context, that “absent a clear and manifest 14 intent of Congress, there is a presumption that federal laws do not preempt the 15 application of state or local laws regulating matters that fall within the traditional 16 police powers of the state, including health and safety matters.” Cervantes v.
17 Health Plan of Nevada, Inc., 263 P.3d 261, 265 (Nev. 2011). While the text of 18 ERISA states that it “preempts all state laws that ‘relate to’ any employee benefit 19 plan,” such “sweeping ‘relate[d] to’ language cannot be read with uncritical
20 literalism,” and that “United States Supreme Court noted that if the statute’s 21 ‘relate[d] to’ language is taken to extend to the furthest reaches imaginable, 22 Congress’s words of limitation would hold no meaning.” Id.

24
25
26 ///
27

1 As this Court stated in Mack,

2 State laws that ‘relate to any employee benefit plan’ are 3 preempted by ERISA. In the context of ERISA, “[t]he words
4 ‘relate to’ must be interpreted broadly to effectuate Congress’
5 purpose of ‘establish[ing] pension plan regulation as 6 exclusively a federal concern. While there is no concrete rule to determine whether a state law is preempted by ERISA, the United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit provided some guidance in Aetna Life Ins. Co. v. Borges, 869 F.2d 142
(2d Cir.1989), when it stated that

7 [W]e find that laws that have been ruled preempted are 8 those that provide an alternative cause of action to employees
9 to collect benefits protected by ERISA, refer specifically to 10 ERISA plans and apply solely to them, or interfere with the 11 calculation of benefits owed to an employee. Those that have not been preempted are laws of general application—often traditional exercises of state power or regulatory authority—whose effect on ERISA plans is incidental.

12 Mack v. Estate of Mack, 125 Nev. 80, 98, 206 P.3d 98, 110 (2009) (certain internal 13 quotations omitted, and emphasis added). The Minimum Wage Amendment does 14 not “provide an alternative cause of action to employees to collect benefits 15 protected by ERISA, refer specifically to ERISA plans and apply solely to them, or 16 interfere with the calculation of benefits owed to an employee.” Further, there is no
17 pension plan at issue in the Amendment, or in the case below from which this writ
18 petition arises. There is no ERISA conflict, and no ERISA preemption.
19

21 Furthermore, if more were needed, Petitioner’s ERISA preemption argument 22 is derailed utterly by the simple fact that paying less than $8.25 per hour to 23 employees, and providing health insurance in order to do so, is entirely optional
24 under the Minimum Wage Amendment. No one forces Petitioner or any other 25 Nevada employer to submit themselves to the Nevada statutory regime governing 26
27

1 health insurance in this context. They choose to submit themselves to the 2 Amendment’s requirements, in their desire to pay the lower-tier wage.

4 ERISA is in place to avoid “bind[ing] ERISA plan administrators to a 5 particular choice of rules” per state law, in derogation of federal regulation. See
6 Egelhoff v. Egelhoff ex rel. Breiner, 532 U.S. 141, 147, 121 S.Ct. 1322, 1327
7 (2001). But where a statutory “scheme does not force employers to provide any 8 particular employee benefits or plans, to alter their existing plans, or even to 9 provide ERISA plans or employee benefits at all,” ERISA can have no preemptive
10 effect on the state law in question. See WSB Elec., Inc. v. Curry, 88 F.3d 788, 793
11 (9th Cir.1996). See also Keystone Chapter, Associated Builders & Contractors, 12 Inc. v. Foley, 37 F.3d 945, 960 (3d Cir.1994)(“Where a legal requirement may be 13 easily satisfied through means unconnected to ERISA plans, and only relates to 14 ERISA plans at the election of the employer, it affects employee benefit plans in 15 too tenuous, remote, or peripheral a manner to warrant a finding that the law
16 ‘relates to’ the plan.”) (emphasis added). Here, not only does the Minimum Wage
17 Amendment in this context operate “at the election of the employer,” there is no
18 record available—or substantiated claim by Petitioner—that we are even talking 19 about ERISA plans in the first instance.

20
21 Even the Hawaii case which Petitioner cites does not support its preemption 22 position. In Standard Oil Co. v. Agsalud, 633 F.2d 760 (9th Cir.1980), the Court of 23
25
26
27

1 Appeals found preemption of a statute “because it required employers to have 2 health plans, and it dictated the specific benefits employers were to provide in 3 those plans.” See Golden Gate Restaurant Association v. City and County of San 4 Francisco, 546 F.3d 639, 655 (9th Cir.2008). And the benefits plan at issue in 5 Agsalud was a “self-funded health care plan, governed by ERISA.” Agsalud, 633
6 F.3d at 763. In contrast, the Minimum Wage Amendment does not require any 7 employer to have or offer any to have any plan at all; it requires plans if the 8 employer wishes to pay a lower minimum hourly wage.

9 “[N]othing in the language of ERISA suggests that Congress sought to 10 displace general health care regulations.” Cervantes, 263 P.3d at 266. Nevada 11 employers subject themselves to Nevada law regarding health insurance when they 12 attempt to qualify to pay less than $8.25 per hour to their employees. there is, quite 13 literally, not a single scenario in which Nevada’s Minimum Wage Amendment is 14 in danger of being preempted by ERISA.

15
16
17
18
19
20 B. The Minimum Wage Amendment Is Not Void For Vagueness

21 The entirety of Petitioner’s due process argument is that the term “health 22 benefits” in the Minimum Wage Amendment is impermissibly vague, and 23 therefore the Amendment itself is void. Petitioner misses both the actual practical 24 ramifications of its own argument—that only the lower-tier wage would be 25 invalidated if its argument is correct—and the clear direction of the text of the 26
27

1 Amendment itself. The Amendment, as to health benefits, is neither vague nor does 2 it demand anyone guess regarding its requirements.

4 The Minimum Wage Amendment states expressly,

5 Each employer shall pay a wage to each employee of not less than the 6 hourly rates set forth in this section. The rate shall be five dollars and 7 fifteen cents ($5.15) per hour worked, if the employer provides health benefits as described herein, or six dollars and fifteen cents ($6.15) per hour if the employer does not provide such benefits.

8 Nev. Const. art. XV, sec. 16(A)(emphasis added).

9 The very next sentence of the constitutional provision states,

10 Offering health benefits within the meaning of this section shall 11 consist of making health insurance available to the employee for the 12 employee and the employee's dependents at a total cost to the employee for premiums of not more than 10 percent of the employee's gross taxable income from the employer.

13 Id. In other words, the "health benefits" required in order for an employer to pay an 14 employee below the upper-tier minimum hourly wage under the state constitution 15 must, as described therein, be 1) health insurance; 2) made available to the 16 employee and the employee's dependents; and 3) may not cost the employee more 17 than 10% of the employees gross taxable income from the employer. "health 18 benefits," therefore, are described in detail. No one can fail to understand that 19 health insurance (especially health insurance provided by an employer) is itself the 20 subject of precise definition and regulation in both state and federal law. The 21 Amendment demands that employers who want to pay less in wages must comply 22 with the common requirements facing any employer who wants to provide health 23 insurance to its employees: N.R.S. 608.1555– 608.1576; N.R.S. Chapter 689A; and 24
25
26
27

1 N.R.S. Chapter 689B. This is not terribly difficult to understand, and certainly does
2 not rise to the level of feigned confusion Petitioner acts out in its brief.

4 Affecting ignorance is not the same as detecting impermissible and 5 unconstitutional vagueness. In answer to Petitioner's absurd rhetorical questions, 6 no, setting out anti-bacterial soap or an aspirin is not the same as providing the 7 lawful, comprehensive health insurance mandated by constitutional and statutory 8 law, for purposes of withholding a dollar in wages for every hour an employee 9 works.
10

11 III. CONCLUSION

12
13 For the foregoing reasons, amicus supports Real Party in Interests' 14 arguments, and urges this Court to deny the present writ petition.
